PASSAIC, N. J., Nov. 12.—As the result of a strike settlement between the United Textile Workers and the Passaic Worsted Spinning Company representatives of the strikers, headed by James Starr, Vice President of the textile workers, conferred today with Norman H. Midgley, general manager of the company, on the arrangements for the return to work on Monday morning of as many workers as can be taken on immediately.

While the settlement with this one mill gave hope to some that other mills would settle with the union, other persons in touch with the textile situation believed that the remaining mills would not follow the example of the Passaic Worsted, at least not for some time.

In a statement today Mr. Starr expressed the hope that the other mills would take this action as soon as possible.

Plan Federal Test of Evolution Law.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 12 (AP).—The Clarion Ledger said today that a test of the Mississippi anti-evolution law in Federal courts was contemplated by opponents of the bill. George W. Rappleyea of Dayton, Tenn., orginator of the Scopes trial, spent several days here studying the records of the Mississippi Legislature, the newspaper says. It adds that several prominent lawyers have been approached in behalf of the opponents, hut mentions no names.

Expel Erasmus Student, Transfer Another For "Bootlegging" Examination Queries

One boy was expelled and another transferred from Erasmus Hall High School yesterday as the result of an unequal struggle with the Faculty as to the ethical principles of bootlegging examination papers at a dollar a copy. The Faculty took the usual stand that such papers were to test knowledge rather than the criminal ingenuity called for in stealing them. The authorities did not give out names.

The examinations come in the middle of a term, as well as the middle of the football season. Early last week the examinations were printed, taken to the high school and stored in the basement until the time for their exposure to the student body at large. A few days later, and before the period set for the tests, copies of questions in French, history and Latin were taken, duplicated and offered for sale.

According to Dr. J. Herbert Low, the principal, one boy had access to the basement in the capacity of assistant janitor, and he is believed to have taken the original copies.

His confederate on the outside then had duplicates made, and acted as salesman. Dr. Low said last evening that in a confession one boy had told him only a dozen or so had been sold before the plot was discovered in ample time for new questions to be set. Asked who carried the intelligence to the Faculty, Dr. Low merely said, "One of the honorable students."

Dr. Low also said he would decide the action to be taken on those who purchased copies of the questions on individual merits. Those over sixteen are eligible for expulsion, and those under, for transfer. The general run of students was above cribbing in examinations, he thought, hut declared he would warn the boys against a recurrence of the incident.

SIX OF 16 CLEARED IN THE MORSE TRIAL

DISCHARGED BY THE JUDGE

Defendants, Once 24, Now Only 10—Defense Consents to Withdraw Summons to McAdoo.

Six defendants of the sixteen on trial in the Morse case before Judge Thomas D. Thacher and a jury in the Federal court here were discharged yesterday.

In the original indictment returned by the Grand Jury of April, 1922, twenty-four defendants were named. Death claimed James O'Brien. Ill health removed C. W. Morse and Glenbard S. Foster. A "nolle pros" was declared in the cases of Martin J. Gillen, Stuart G. Gibboney and William A. Barber. Nehemiah H. Campbell and Richard O. White have become Government witnesses. The dismissal of the indictment yesterday against James R. Nelson, Arthur W. Kohler, Lawrence N. Bremer, Manrice M. O. Purdy, Edward Lucas and James Gill brings the total of those now on trial down to ten.

The motion for the dismissal against the six defendants followed the presentation by Special Attorney General Fletcher Dobyns of a contract entered into hy five of those discharged and James O'Brien which was never carried out. The contract called for the sale of stock in the United States Ship Corporation, one of the Morse concerns. The Court ruled at a previous hearing that the activities of the United States Ship Corporation were beyond the scope of the indictment.

The Only Evidence.

When counsel objected to the admissibility of this document, Prosecutor Dobyns announced that it was the only evidence against these defendants. The motion for dismissal was then entered and granted.

Prosecutor Dobyns then told the Court that the defendant Gill had been indicted because he prepared literature to be used in connection with the promotion of stock sales in the Ship Corporation. A motion for the dismissal of the indictment against him was then granted.

Progress of the trial was halted while the six defendants with their lawyers left the court room. Mrs. Harry Morse and Mrs. Benjamin W. Morse, who have attended every session of the trial, joined in congratulating the defendants on their dismissal.

Those now on trial are Erwin A., Harry F. and Benjamin W. Morse, sons of Charles W. Morse; William H. Dennis, Rupert M. Much, George E. Wells, Milton Quimby, George M. Burditt, Mark L. Gilbert and Henry E. Boughton.

McAdoo Not to Appear.

It was announced that former Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo, who hed been subpoenaed by the defense last week, would not appear in court. The subpoena was served on Mr. McAdoo in California. A representative of the law firm of Chadbourne, Stanchfield & Levy visited the court yesterday and got the defense to withdraw the subpoena.

It was stipulated for the purposes of the trial that Mr. McAdoo was a participant in large coal shipments undertaken by Morse and was acquainted with the men involved in the contracts for the shipments. It was also conceded that Mr. McAdoo had testified extensively in the trial of some of the defendants on a similar indictment in Washington in 1923.

Nehemiah H. Campbell, former Treasurer of the United States Steamship Company, was the only witness at yesterday's session. Mr. Campbell had been on the stand for two days identifying financial documents, interpreting bookkeeping entries and describing the activities of the company with regard to stock deals. He continued to do that yesterday. The trial will be continued on Monday.

DR. OLDS RESIGNS AS AMHERST HEAD

BOARD WITHHOLDS ACTION

Former Dean, on the Faculty Since 1891, Succeeded Meiklejohn, Who Clashed With Trustees.

AMHERST, Mass., Nov. 12 (AP).—Dr. George Daniel Olds, President of Amherst College, who in thirty-six years of service had four times been called as acting head of the institution before his appointment as President in 1924, today made public his resignation.

Stating that he "thought it would be wise" to relinquish his duties as President, Dr. Olds told the annual meeting of the Alnmni Council that he had asked last month to be relieved of the office and had requested the trustees to look for a successor.

Edward T. Estey, Secretary of the corporation, said that no definite action had been taken on the resignation as yet and that no successor had been appointed. It was understood at the college that President Olds was willing to remain until a permanent appointment could be made.

Dr. Olds recently passed his seventy-third birthday and it caused no surprise that he asked to be relieved of his duties.

The fourth time that Dr. Olds was called upon to fill the breach in the college administration came after the enforced resignation of President Alexander Meiklejohn in June, 1923, at which time thirteen seniors refused to accept their degrees. Dr. Meiklejohn now is a professor at the University of Wisconsin, where he is applying some of his "liberal" ideas and the Socratic method of discussion which raised the storm at Amherst. The resignations of several of the Faculty followed his departure from Amherst.

Dr. Olds became the ninth President of Amherst. Born in Middleport, N. Y., in 1853, he was graduated from the University of Rochester in 1873. He taught mathematics at Rochester until 1891, when he became professor of the same subject at Amherst. He was Dean of the college from 1910 until the time of his appointment as President.

President Coolidge entered Amherst the year that Dr. Olds began teaching there and the two have remained close friends. John Coolidge, son of the President, is now a student at Amherst.

The Meiklejohn incident had caused a bitter controversy among Faculty, undergraduate and alumni groups. Dr. Olds was popular with most of these groups through his long connection with the college and he soon won full cooperation.

At the close of the business session of the Alumni Council today he outlined briefly the progress in the college affairs and then said:

"I came to feel that it would be wise for me to lay aside my duties as President. I thought that last Spring, hut I was convinced that I was too tired to come to that decision at that time. I thought it through during the past Summer, and my opinion was unchanged, so last month I asked to be relieved of my duties and requested the trustees to look for my successor."

The Alumni Council elected Edwin Duffey of Cortland, N. Y., as President of the council to succeed William B. Greenough of Providence, R. I. Discussion of the prohlems of expansion of enrolment occupied mnch of the time.

COLD HALTS LOS ANGELES.

LAKEHURST, N. J., Nov. 12 (AP).—The Los Angeles, which late this afternoon turned back at Washington from a contemplated trip to Norfolk, returned to the air station and was berthed in its hangar at 7 o'clock.

Flight Commander Charles E. Rosendahl explained that the return was caused by an imminent cold snap, which, it was feared, would freeze the water recovery system, and entail a loss of helium gas if a landing should be attempted tomorrow.

Valves which will enable the introduction of an anti-freezing solution into the system will be installed and the flight resumed on Nov. 17, the commander said.

PRIOR CONVICTIONS AGAINST LEOPOLD

Brought Out at Hearing on His Demand for Driving License, Despite a Killing.

LICENSE ONCE RESTORED

Brother of Victim of Recent Accident is Protesting—Facts Coming Out Under Technical Difficulties.

Three prior convictions for infractions of the Motor Vehicle law were admitted yesterday by counsel for James M. Leopold at the third hearing held hy officials of the Motor Vehicle Bureau into the fitness of that young man to have an automobile license. The protest against his continuing to operate a motor car comes from George A. Spiegelberg, a lawyer, whose brother, Frederick, was killed when Leopold's car, returning from a Harvard-Princeton football game, Nov. 7, 1925, left the road near Millhurst, five miles from Long Branch, N. J., and struck a tree.

Frederick Spiegelberg apparently died instantly from a fractured skull. Mrs. Spigelberg and her sister, Miss Ruth Hausman, were injured. Leopold was arrested on a technical charge of homicide, but later released, the Spigelberg family refusing to press the charge.

Since that time, George Spiegelberg, brother of the dead man, has been seeking to have young Leopold restrained from driving. Following the first hearing, Leopold's license, which had been suspended, was restored. The contention of the Motor Vehicle Bureau following the second hearing was that no new evidence had been presented. This brought such a protest from George Spiegelberg that Commissioner Harnett ordered the case reopened, to be heard by Deputy John P. Hennessey, who is a lawyer. Mr. Hennessey presided yesterday.

Objections by Counsel.

The admission of the previous convictions came only after a long battle between Assemblyman Julius S. Berg, counsel for Leopold, and George Spiegelberg, appearing as protestant. It followed the ruling hy Hennessey that in this instance the whole case had to be gone into by witnesses; that affidavits submitted at previous hearings would not suffice. This ruling means that the whole tale of the accident will have to he related on the witness stand by those who were in the car, including the wife of the dead man and her sister.

The hearing got under way only after repeated objections by Mr. Berg, who held, for one thing, that the case having once been decided, his client's rights were being put in jeopardy for the second time. His client's participation, he explained, was under protest. Then when Spiegelberg first brought up the matter of prior convictions, Berg contended they were inadmissible, as they all took place prior to 1924, when the motor vehicle law in this State was radically changed.

Trooper Tells of Assault.

As his first witness Spiegelberg put on the stand G. C. Paxton, now a policeman in Freehold, N. J., hut in 1924 a member of the New Jersey State Police. Between interruptions concerning the admissibility of some of his statements, and the exact degree to which laws of evidence applied, Paxton told of arresting Leopold at 1 o'clock in the morning of Aug. 11, 1924, at which time he said Leopold was cutting out of the line of traffic on a hill and exceeding what was then the New Jersey speed limit. He told Commissioner Hennessey that Leopold was abusive, that he tried to strike him, and at one point tried to kick him. Paxton added:

"Then I hit him—in the teeth—with my fist."

Paxton was stopped when he tried to say that Leopold was drunk and Mr. Spiegelberg hed great difficulty in getting into the record that he had been convicted in the lower court of being drunk and disorderly on that occasion. Commissioner Hennessey contended that he would have to be bound by the ruling of the Appellate Court, which had reversed the finding of drunkenness. Spiegelberg did his utmost to get the decision on appeal, which, he said, showed the reversal had been on technicalities, into the record, but failed. So there was nothing to show that Leopold actually was drunk.

In the course of the Paxton testimony, however, Berg made this statement:

"I concede that this man was arrested three or four times for infractions of the motor vehicle law in the last ten years."

Drunkenness Conviction Revised.

Spiegelberg took the extraordinary step of putting Leopold on the witness stand to get the evidence of alleged intoxication before the Commissioner. Mr. Hennessey ruled against Berg, who protested this could not be done, holding that as the case was not a criminal one, Spiegelberg was within his rights, but must be bound hy the witnesses' answers. When Spiegelberg asked his first question, whether Leopold had been arrested for speeding and fined $25, Berg objected on the ground the answer would incriminate the witness. Being overruled he said: "We concede that, then," and Leopold left the stand.

The charges Spiegelberg read were the arrest in New Jersey for reckless driving, being drunk and disorderly and using abusive language to an officer, which conviction, as Berg explained, was reversed hy the higher court; a conviction for speeding on Staten Island, April 10, 1923, for which a fine of $25 was paid, and an arrest for speeding in the Bronx in the same year, Aug. 28, 1923, for which a fine of $50 was paid.

Paxton's cross-examination by Berg brought out the statement of the blows exchanged. Paxton denied emphatically that he had used a blackjack or a billy. He denied he was "sore" at Leopold, even after the latter had tried to kick him. It was to Deputy Hennessey, however, that Paxton agreed that the offense for which he first sought to arrest Leopold was a "minor" infraction of the law. Mr. Hennessey also brought out that no charge of driving while intoxicated had heen lodged against Leopold. The former State Trooper explained that at that time it was necessary to have two disinterested witnesses and the word of a physician to support such a charge and he did not feel it possible to get thet array of evidence at that time of night.

When Companion Was Killed.

It chanced that, two years after Paxton hed arrested Leopold end after he had left the State Police and gone to the Freehold force, the policeman was sent out with the ambulance which was called when Leopold's car went into the ditch and Frederick Spiegelberg was killed. But Paxton did not know then it was Leopold's car. In answer to questions, he described fully what he saw:

"The car was in the ditch on the left side of the road; that is, the left side going in the direction in which the car had been traveling. The ditch is three or four feet deep and about five feet wide at the top. There were tire marks on the shoulder at the side of the road from about 125 yards from where the car lay up to the car. The car lay over on its left side in the ditch and had struck up against a tree."

He was asked whether he saw Frederick Spiegelberg's body and where it lay.

"It lay between the shoulder of the road on the left side and the centre, about seventy-five yards behind the car."

This testimony to the effect thet the car must have traveled seventy-five yards after Spiegelberg fell or was thrown out caused Mr. Berg to press the witness as to whether he did not mean feet instead of yards in both cases. Paxton insisted he meant yards.

Admissions Ruled Out.

George Spiegelberg called at his next witness Clarence Housman of the firm of A. A. Housman & Co., brokers, and former Mayor of Long Branch, father of Ruth Housman, who was injured in the wreck. He sought to have Mr. Housman testify to a conversation, some days after the arrest by Paxton in 1924, in which L. M. Berg as counsel for Leopold, sought advice as to how best to proceed with the appeal of the case resulting from the arrest. Such statements as were made as to Leopold's condition at the time of the arrest were made to him, Mr. Housman said, by Berg and not by Leopold, and Mr. Hennessey ruled them inadmissible. However, Mr. Housman is to testify again.

Having no further witnesses on hand, not having understood that the old affidavit of the widow of Frederick Spiegelberg was not to be used, George Spiegelberg made a formal motion that inasmuch as it was conceded there had been three prior convictions the Motor Vehicle Bureau, under the law, must revoke Leopold's license. Berg responded that the motion was untimely in any event and should have come at the end of the hearing, and then made the point that as a matter of law the three convictions must have been recorded within one year, and that, furthermore, the New York law, as amended in 1924, was not retroactive, hence convictions prior to that time could not be taken into cognizance. Deputy Commissioner Hennessey denied Spiegelberg's motion "at this time," giving him leave to renew it later.

Homicide Charge Not Pressed.

The hearing was adjourned until next Friday at 10 o'clock, with the understanding that witnesses would be on hand to tell of the accident. Mr. Spiegelberg inferred to Commissioner Hennessey that he would endeavor at the adjourned hearing to head off an attempt by Leopold's attorneys to utilize the fact that Frederick Spiegelberg's family had refused to press a homicide charge as indicating the accident was wholly unavoidable. The Coroner's report may be introduced to throw light on this point.

ARMED MEN ON GUARD IN ELECTRIC STRIKE

Sheriff's Emergency Force Is Called Out in Westchester—Linemen Form Unions.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Although there have been no reports of attempts of violence, Sheriff-elect Thomas V. Underhill of White Plains today, as a precautionary measure, detailed thirty-two heavily armed members of the Sheriff's emergency force to guard the power plants of the Westchester Lighting Company, the Northern Westchester Lighting Company and the Yonkers Light and Power Company, whose outside men are on strike.

The strikers want to unionize and the corporations oppose the plan. More linemen throughout Westchester County joined the strikers today. It was said that more than 100 employes of the Yonkers company, sixty linemen of the Port Chester hranch of the Westchester Lighting Company and 100 men at Mount Vernon and White Plains are on strike.

Members of the new-formed union said that police precautions were unnecessary, as they planned to settle their differences with the three companies in an orderly manner.

The Sheriff's force has heen posted at the power plants here and in Tarrytown, Elmsford, Mamaroneck and New Rochelle. In addition ten men in automobiles patrol the roads to watch the high-tension wires which carry the current to the consumers.

The strikers have made their headquarters here. In White Plains there has been formed Local 398 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Locals also have heen organized in Mount Vernon, Port Chester and Ossining. These take in men from every section of the county.

MRS. HILL REFILES ANSWER.

Again Denies All Allegations in Husband's Suit for Divorce.

LIVINGSTON, Mont., Nov. 12 (AP).—Mrs. Walter Hill, wife of the son of James J. Hill, has refiled her answer to the divorce complaint of her husband in District Court here. The answer was withdrawn when her demurrer to the complaint was overruled Tuesday.

The answer contains a summary denial of all of the allegations in her husband's complaint, except not to deny in total the charge that she had partaken of intoxicating liquor. The answer asserts this habit was formed after she became the wife of Mr. Hill and because of such relationship.

The answer then makes numerous charges against Mr. Hill and is virtually a repetition of her divorce complaint filed in St. Peul.

The court set Nov. 20 to hear a petition for temporary alimony and court costs.

DODD ACTS TO TEST THE BAUMES LAW

Asks Order to Compel Judge Taylor to Give Life Term to Fourth Offender.

COURT'S POWER AT STAKE

THREATENS HIS ATTORNEY.

His Last Theft Netted Only $40—Judge Barrett Calls Him a Menace to Society.

The administration of the Baumes law brought two unusual court scenes yesterday, one in the Bronx County Court and the other in the Brooklyn Supreme Court. The first one occurred when David Mershel, the original offender to be sentenced to life imprisonment from the Bronx under the Baumes law, fought savagely with detectives and court attendants and reviled his counsel, Assemblyman Julius S. Berg.

The second was of an entirely different nature. It was District Attorney Charles J. Dodd of Kings County applying for a peremptory mandamus order to compel Kings County Judge Franklin J. Taylor to resentence Harry Simmons, a negro, to life imprisonment as a fourth offender under the Baumes law. Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Lewis reserved decision on this application.

Mershel, who is 26 years old and lived at 139 Somers Street, Brooklyn, came before Bronx County Court Judge James M. Barrett to be sentenced for third degree burglary, as a fourth offender. The prisoner, with Joseph Myers of the same address, had looted the apartment of Mrs. Harriett Hayes at 3,443 Knox Place, the Bronx, on Sept. 25, and stolen jewelry worth $40.

Assemblyman Berg, his counsel, made several technical motions before sentence was pronounced. One of the motions, all of which were denied, was that the verdict be set aside because the jury was permitted to view the scene of the crime after the case was completed.

Seven Arrests and Four Convictions.

But while Mr. Berg was speaking, Judge Barrett repeatedly scanned Mershel's record. This showed seven arrests and four convictions, which were: May 29, 1919, grand larceny, Elmira Reformatory; grand larceny, April 21, 1921, Napanoch Reformatory; disorderly condnct, June 20, 1923, 60 days in the workhouse; burglary, Dec. 27, 1923, two years and nine months in Sing Sing.

"I am going to be brief," said Judge Barrett. "You were convicted by a jury and in my opinion it was a just and proper verdict. In your case the justification of the Baumes law is apparent. Your record shows you to be bad and a menace to society.

"I therefore sentence you to imprisonment for the rest of your natural life."

As detectives approached to lead him from the courtroom, Mershel fought them savagely and threatened to harm his counsel if he ever had an opportunity to do so. His struggles, although violent, were hopeless, and after a brief scuffle he was handcuffed and taken away.

Two keepers, several patrolmen and Deputy Sheriff John J. Dooley then took Mershel to the prison van. The keepers and Dooley entered the vehicle with their prisoner and under an escort of three motorcycle policemen drove with him to police headquarters, from where he was to begin his journey to Sing Sing.

Will Test Judges' Power.

Both District Attorney Dodd and Judge Taylor declared that the Brooklyn action was a friendly one to obtain a decision from the higher courts on the right of Judges under the Baumes law in imposing sentences.

The man whose future hangs in the balance in this action was sentenced by Judge Taylor on Oct. 4 to three years in Sing Sing. At the request of Assistant District Attorney Leo J. Healy of Kings County a plea of guilty to second degree grand larceny as a first offender was accepted.

Assistant District Attorney Harry Walsh, who represented Mr. Dodd yesterday, admitted that the District Attorney's office knew of Simmons's previous convictions when Mr. Healy consented to accept his plea as a first offender, hut contended that the acceptance did not make the man a first offender and that under the Baumes law Judge Taylor had no alternative hut to sentence Simmons to life imprisonment.

Double Jeopardy Involved.

"The mere sentencing of a prisoner listed as a fourth offender is a simple ministerial act," said Walsh. "The question has heen raised that this particular man was placed in double jeopardy. That is a point that can be raised only by the defendant. In this case Judge Taylor brings up the question without any motion from the defendant."

Judge Taylor in his answer said:

"The question involved is whether or not the Court has been deprived of its power to grant the District Attorney's motions for compromise pleas on previous offender indictments. If the Court still has that power then obviously it must keep faith with the arraignment and regard the judgment of conviction as final and binding, not only on the defendant but on the State as well."

Several attorneys present predicted that a decision making it mandatory for Judges to impose life sentences on all fourth offenders would cause some juries to acquit such offenders when charged with a minor felony. Simmons had misappropriated $116 after giving evidence of seeking to reform and his employer had offered to re-engage him if sentence were suspended.

Charge Against Migrant Dismissed.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 12.—A charge of possessing a dangerous weapon without permit, hrought yesterday against W. S. Migrant of Holland Avenue, here, by his wife Gertrude, was dismissed today by City Judge Stephen Holden when Mrs. Migrant failed to appear. Migrant's $25 bond was returned to him. Migrant, who is 64 years old, has been a handmaster for New York National Guard units in Brooklyn and Manhattan and a conductor of city park orchestras since 1897.

ODDS FAVOR TIGERS OVER YALE ELEVEN

Princeton Says Quotation of 10 to 7 Is Too Wide for Golden Anniversary Game.

BLUE CRIPPLED BUT READY

Followers Feel Sure Jones Will Spring Series of Surprises Once Battle Gets Started.

SLAGLE IN FINE CONDITION

Other Backs Also Keen for Fray, but Power of Linemen May Decide Issue—55,000 to See Contest.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12.—Yale and Princeton will play their annual football game tomorrow before 55,000 very unneutral spectators, most of whom were not even born when these two venerable universities started their gridiron series on Nov. 15, 1873.

It will be the fiftieth game between Tiger and Bulldog, and marks therefore the golden anniversary of the wedding of Princeton and Yale. So far there has been no talk of a divorce. Up to a late hour tonight neither university had broken off relations with the other. Several Princeton men met a group of Yale men in front of the Nassau Inn this evening and not a blow was struck, and the game probably will be played.

Despite the fact that they are picked to win by most of the experts, the Tigers do have a chance against Yale. The Elis, who were innocent bystanders in the late quarrel between Princeton and Harvard, were on the bad end of 10-7 odds tonight, but Tiger supporters refused to lay any wagers at those figures.

Princeton Wants Even Money.

The Princetonians are waiting for even money before risking the family jewels on tomorrow's outcome. They claim that any Big Three game is an even-money affair. Particularly do they aver that Princeton should not be the favorite. The mere mention of the fact that Princeton is the favorite is enough to make any Tiger student clutch his pocketbook wildly, clamp his hat down and start running in other directions.

The situation, then, is precisely like that prevailing in Boston a week ago. Princeton is the favorite, like Harvard a week ago, and Princeton blanches at the thought of it. Beating Harvard is one thing—beating Yale is another. The Tiger's condition tonight might be described as hopeful but not confident.

Princeton has a chance tomorrow to win the mythical championship of the Big Three. Inasmuch as the Big Three is also rather mythical at the current writing, the sentence might be rephrased to read "mythical championship of the mythical Big Three."

On the other hand, if Yale should be victorious the mythical title of the mythical trinity would have to be held in abeyance until next Saturday when the Elis tackle Harvard.

Tigers Covet the Title.

The only certainty is that Harvard will not win even the mythical championship. Even though the title is somewhat cloudy, Princeton covets it as it has coveted no other athletic honor in fifty years. If Princeton has to pass out of the late-lamented Big Three, it wants to pass out still the champion. There is nothing like having the last word in an argument.

The breakup of the historic trinity has not seemed to affect the attendance. Although the price of tomorrow's tickets is $5 apiece, not a customer was frightened away by the high cost of the entertainment. In fact, there was hardly a coveted pasteboard to be obtained in Princeton tonight. A report that one student had two extra tickets threw the whole town into an uproar this evening.

The Palmer Memorial Stadium will carry a capacity load tomorrow. Extra wooden seats have been erected at the open end of the horseshoe, but they are pathetically inadequate to handle the overflow of eager patrons.

Barring the Princeton undergrads themselves and a few football girls who arrived this afternoon, the town was almost sepulchral on the eve of battle. The only congestion occurred around the local hostelries, where the sole chance to obtain a room was to have been registered at birth by one's parents.

The big rush will come tomorrow when forty-three special trains will arrive over the Pennsylvania Railroad, bringing about 25,000 spectators to the scene. Most of the other 27,000 will come by auto. The motorist is advised to bring his lunch with him and eat it beneath the classic shades of Princeton, for the local restaurant facilities were never intended for anything bigger than the junior promenade.

Second Oldest Fixture.

While on the matter of statistics, it might be mentioned that the Yale-Princeton football series is the second oldest collegiate athletic event in this country. It goes clear back to 1873, and the only fixture more ancient is the Yale-Harvard crew race.

Both teams practiced in Palmer Stadium today, Princeton with its full war strength, Yale with several vital parts still missing. Outside of losing three wonderful back-field men, the Blue is in top-notch condition. Caldwell is certain not to play. Noble will be good for a few minutes at best, and there is no assurance that Kline will be here at all.

Kline was called to Du Bois, Pa., by the death of his mother. On the outside chance that he might reach Princeton by game time, the Yale coaches ordered his uniform brought along with the other luggage, and if Kline should tear in at the last moment everything will be waiting for him.

Princeton has worked itself into that frame of mind where it believes that both Kline and Noble will be on hand and that Caldwell also may be present to wreak heavy damage. In fact, the Tigers would not be surprised if Ted Coy should gallop on the field all ready to go.

There is very little betting on the game. On learning that Yale was asking 10 to 7, Princeton men retreated coyly. A few modest wagers were laid at those figures, but generally the Nassau students are waiting for even money.

In the now mythical Big Three there is a certain superstition attached to being favorite. Invariably the favorite is kicked around rather roughly by the underdog. Two years ago, it will be remembered, Princeton swept over Harvard something like 34-0 and was an odds-on favorite against Yale. This did not prevent the Elis from wiping up Palmer Field with the prostrate forms of the Tigers.

Feels Fear of Favorite.

The Princeton student body has been warned against the terrible fate of favorites. This raises the question why a group of loyal Tiger rooters does not bet on the other team, making the latter a favorite and, therefore, automatically assuring a Princeton victory.

Privately, Tad Jones thinks his team will win, and this feeling is shared by most Yale men. What is a feeling at New Haven is a suspicion at Princeton, where there is a sneaking fear that Yale will spring a surprise and rip through the touted Bengals.

On paper the Elis do not have a halfback like Jakie Slagle or a quarterback like Caulkins, nor ends like Lawler and Moeser, but if Yale can play tomorrow as it played against Dartmouth in mid-October it will not need a Slagle or a Caulkins. It will win by superior power and teamwork.

The Yale line seems to be the crux of the whole situation. Coach Jones has bolstered his forward wall at guard and tackle and hopes that his troubles are over in that sector. With Richards and Benton at the tackles, Sturhahn and Webster at the guards and Harvey at centre, Jones has a line of great possibilities. The Elis' whole scheme of attack and defense will rest on these five men.

Bill Roper, the head magician of the Princeton forces, will start with the same line-up that faced Harvard. Jake Slagle, his ace of aces, has had a quiet week, with not much work, and is in excellent health. Unless Jake should go on another geological expedition tomorrow, the chances are good for his starting against Yale.

Princeton Is Worried.

A week ago there was some doubt that Slagle would start. Tonight, however, the shoe is on the other foot. Princeton is debating intensely whether Noble or Kline, or both, will bound into the arena when the whistle blows at 2 P. M.

The Yale squad had a light and secret workout early this afternoon and then motored to the Stacy Trent Hotel in Trenton, where it will spend the night, coming back here tomorrow noon.

Princeton's workout also was confined to immediate friends and relatives, although the two universities have a non-scouting agreement.

Even though the Tigers should lose, they will retain their goal posts. It was recalled tonight that two or three years ago Princeton stole a march on its then Big Three rivals by erecting steel goal posts which were imbedded in reinforced concrete. So Yale, although it might want to uproot the uprights, will hardly be able to.

While the teams were practicing, the Yale and Princeton bands went into a huddle near by. They rehearsed their rôles in a joint ceremony in which tribute will be paid to the memory of Walter Camp, father of football. Tomorrow will be Walter Camp Day here. Perfect football weather is promised by the weather man, who said something tonight about fair and colder.

Yale and Princeton Elevens Have Met Reverses This Fall

Both Yale and Princeton have met defeat this season, the former three times and the Tigers only once. Princeton, off to a slow start, was tied at 7-all by Washington and Lee and then met defeat at the hands of the Navy, 27-13, in its third start and in the next game only shaded Lehigh by the margin of an extra point after touchdown. The Tigers, however, offset their poor showing by subduing Harvard in its opening Big Three game. Yale started the season auspiciously, winning the first three games, the third being registered over Dartmouth when the Green was considered one of the best elevens in the East. Brown, Army and Maryland, however, sent the Elis into scoreless defeats, spoiling what promised to be a successful season at New Haven. The season's records for the contending elevens follow:

PRINCETON.		YALE.

STUDENTS CHEER YALE ON WAY.

Squad Hailed as It Passes Through Streets of New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12.—Yale undergraduates gave their football eleven a ringing farewell this morning. The squad of fifty-five players and officials left the Y Club about 10 o'clock in motor buses and were accompanied to the railroad station by undergraduates and the university band. Cheering marked the procession through the main city streets. The players left in the special car attached to the 10:30 express for New York City.

No interviews were given by the coaches, but they expressed the belief in conversation that the physical condition of the eleven has improved greatly. Tad Jones said that the line-up would not be settled until tomorrow. A rushline and a back field position still uncertain.

YALE CUBS PLAY TODAY.

Will Stage Annual Football Battle Against Harvard Yearlings.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12.—The Yale and Harvard freshman football teams meet tomorow at 2 o'clock in the Bowl. A crowd of 8,000 is expected.

The probable line-up:

Tiger Cubs Meet Dartmouth Today.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12.—Red Owen, quarterback on the Princeton freshman football team, will return to the line-up in time to meet the Dartmouth Cubs here tomorrow.

TIGERS HAVE EDGE, IS CROWLEY'S VIEW

He Thinks Yale Is Not in as Good Physical Condition as Its Rival.

ALSO FAVORS NOTRE DAME

Believes Columbia Has Solution of Penn's Strategy and N. Y. U., Navy, Brown and Cornell Will Win.

By CHARLES F. CROWLEY,

Head Columbia Football Coach.

The football fan, looking for his entertainment today, hardly knows which road to take, so thickly is the program of the last full Saturday of play studded with high class attractions. With Army meeting Notre Dame at the Yankee Stadium, Yale facing Princeton, Harvard opposing Brown, Cornell taking Dartmouth, Columbia facing Pennsylvania and Colgate engaging Syracuse, the East has half a dozen games which are worthy of drawing capacity gatherings. In each instance the capacity is likely to be filled.

Because of the fact that the teams have been unbeaten, and because Notre Dame looms as the strongest eleven in the Middle West while Army has given evidence of being as strong as any in the East, the meeting between these two will have an important bearing on the selection of the championship team of the country, unofficial though that selection will be.

There is every likelihood that the gathering of 70,000 which saw Army defeat Notre Dame last year at the Yankee Stadium, the largest crowd that has attended a football game in New York, will be equaled this afternoon. These Army-Notre Dame games are always among the most colorful spectacles of the Fall and, with good weather prevailing, the West Point corps turning out to entertain with its manoeuvres, and two of the most powerful elevens in the country performing, the Stadium should be inundated with football fans.

Pack Palmer Stadium.

At Princeton another capacity crowd will pack Palmer Memorial Stadium to see the fiftieth holding of the Yale-Princeton classic. The fact that both teams have been beaten means nothing to the loyal followers of the Blue and the Orange and Black. Yale, handicapped all season by disheartening injuries, has forgotten about past defeats and is going into the battle with the determination to wipe out the sting of last year's set-back by the Tigers, while Princeton at full strength and bolstered by its victory over Harvard, is equally determined to wind up its season in the same brilliant fashion as last season.

Harvard, weakened somewhat by its stiff battle with Princeton last week, faces an undefeated Brown team that is in prime physical condition and ready to put the same team on the field that triumphed over Yale and Dartmouth on successive Saturdays. It is understood that Horween will not hold anything in reserve for the Yale game but will send his strongest line-up available against McLaughry's all-conquering eleven.

While Army is going through its crucial test against Notre Dame, Navy also will face a strenuous afternoon against Georgetown. Much has been said about the lines of both teams and the indications are that there will not be much scoring unless either team is successful with the forward pass. It may be said that Army and Navy will be rooting for each other today, for should both come through, their meeting at Chicago will take on the significance of a national championship.

Columbia faces Pennsylvania in good shape and encouraged by its success in the Cornell game. While I am not making any predictions about the outcome, I think we will make it interesting for our opponents. Coach Young has his team in fine shape and we know what kind of a scrap we are in for.

Dobie's Men Are Ready.

Cornell and Dartmouth always show at their best against each other and while Dartmouth's passes have been too much for the Ithacans during the last two years, I think Dobie's eleven will make a strong bid for victory. The Cornell Crescent should be filled to the last seat this afternoon.

The classic between Colgate and Syracuse is one of the hardest fought of the season. Victory for either team in this game compensates for any losses, and the indications are today that a great struggle will be furnished.

Other games in the East which will attract large followings will bring together N. Y. U. and Davis and Elkins at Ohio Field, Fordham and C. C. N. Y. at Fordham Field, Boston College and Haskell Indians, W. and J. and Pitt, Amherst and Williams in the deciding game of the Little Three championship, and Rutgers and Lehigh.

In the West the game that may decide the Western Conference championship will be played between Michigan and Ohio State, the former defeated only by Navy and the Buckeyes by no one. Michigan, nevertheless, is the slight favorite. Northwestern, with much the more impressive record of the two, will have no easy time with Chicago, which usually defeats Northwestern, but does not look quite good enough to do it this time.

Nebraska will have its hands full with the Kansas Aggies and on the Pacific Coast Stanford is none too confident in facing the University of Washington. Alabama should not be pressed to win from Florida in the South, where the hard-fought games will be between Tennessee and Vanderbilt, Sewanee and Tulane and Marquette and Alabama Poly, the first named team being favored in each instance.

Analysis of the Games.

YALE-PRINCETON—Because Princeton is in better physical condition and has the more brilliant ball carriers, I look for the Tiger to win. However, should Kline be at fullback and Noble and Caldwell at the halves, it may be a different story. From the reports out of New Haven there does not seem to be much likelihood that any of these three will play.

The Yale line today will be at full strength and probably will make its strongest showing of the season, but the Princeton forwards surprised with the excellence of their play against Harvard, and, remembering how they rose to the occasion against Yale last year, I look for them to hold their own today, in spite of the fact that McMillan is not at centre. The presence of Slagle and Caulkins in the Princeton back field should be the deciding factor.

ARMY-NOTRE DAME—When you have two teams with such impressive records behind them as have these two, and so apparently evenly matched, it is futile to predict the winner. The breaks of the game usually are the deciding factor in a case of this kind and because I think that Rockne teams are just a little bit more alert and resourceful and quicker to take advantage of any slip than most elevens I am inclined to lean toward Notre Dame.

The facts are these: Army has the same team that beat Notre Dame 27 to 0 last year, improved by further seasoning and clearly more powerful in the back field. In Wilson, Captain Jones has one of the most brilliant ball carriers in the game, and, supported by Harding, Trapnell, Murrell, Cagle and Hewitt, all high-class performers, Wilson will be even more dangerous than he was last year, when he stood out conspicuously.

From end to end the Army line looks as good as any in the East, every man a veteran with the exception of Harbold, who has had experience and has given a fine account of himself to date. For sheer power there is probably no team that excels in the Cadets in either the line or back field. In addition, Army is playing smart, intelligent football and it has played Notre Dame enough to know something of the kind of defense it must put up to check Rockne's attack.

I do not look for much ground to be gained through either line. What gains there are probably will be made largely on sweep plays and through the air. Notre Dame has shown more ability with the pass than Army, and this ability may prove the winning factor. Notre Dame's greater wealth of reserves may also tell the story.

NAVY-GEORGETOWN—Two stalwart lines will come to grips in this game. When Navy checked Michigan it showed that it has one of the most formidable forward walls in the country. But Georgetown, with the mammoth Connaughton at tackle and the giant Waite at end, also has great strength up front.

Navy showed a remarkably good defense against the forward pass against Michigan, and also the ability to use this weapon successfully. The Middies also have the better reinforcements, and while not so much power in the back field, in Goudge, Caldwell and Hannegan and Hamilton they have a quartet of fast, elusive ball carriers who have the knack of slipping loose. I favor Navy by a small margin.

Brown Has Edge.

HARVARD-BROWN—Brown probably will encounter stiffer opposition from Harvard than it met with from either Yale or Dartmouth, but, with the team in perfect condition and rested after its easy game with Norwich, it should be prepared to throw its full power against the Crimson. Harvard has not recovered entirely from the effects of the Princeton game, and I doubt if it can quite equal Brown on either the attack or the defense. I look for a close, bitterly fought game and Brown to win by a touchdown.

COLUMBIA-PENN—Both teams will be at full strength, although Paul Scull is said to be suffering from a slight injury. Penn State showed that a good line can check the Penn offense, and I am encouraged enough after the performance of my men against Cornell's attack to believe that they will be able to break up Coach Young's hidden ball plays.

With Scull back and each man playing his regular position behind the line, our attack should work more smoothly than it did against William and Mary and with less fumbling. Scull's drop-kicking is a factor that will have to be reckoned with and also Rogers's brilliant running, but I have confidence that my men will do their part in checking both.

CORNELL-DARTMOUTH—Inability to break up Dartmouth's passes has cost Cornell dearly for the last two years. Dartmouth's air attack has not succeeded so well this year without Tully and Sage on the receiving end, and Cornell has not so much to fear in this respect as in 1924 and 1925. Dartmouth has the more brilliant ball carriers, but the Cornell line, from tackle to tackle, is stronger, and Dartmouth has not so much advantage on the ends as it has had. If Cornell stops the Green's passes the Ithacans are likely to win.

COLGATE-SYRACUSE—These two teams always point for each other and records for the rest of the season mean little. But Syracuse, handicapped by losses, does not look quite strong enough for Colgate, which is a powerful team in spite of its two defeats. I favor the Maroon.

N. Y. U. Must Be Careful.

N. Y. U.-DAVIS AND ELKINS—The Violet should win this game comfortably, but it cannot afford to be overconfident. Davis and Elkins has a habit of putting out strong teams for its size. N. Y. U. has too much power on the attack and its line is not likely to yield any ground.

FORDHAM-C. C. N. Y.—Coach Gargan's team, inspired by its success in holding Holy Cross to a tie, should show to its best advantage today. C. C. N. Y. has a better team than usual, but it does not look quite good enough to cope with the Maroon.

PITT-W. AND J.—This game is a toss-up. Pitt, encouraged by its victory over West Virginia, seems to have a trifle the edge, although Amos and Cook of W. and J. are two hard men to stop.

RUTGERS-LEHIGH—Lehigh hasn't won a game this season and has been handicapped by injuries, but this may be her day. It should be a close, hard-fought game, with little to choose between the two.

BOSTON COLLEGE-HASKELL INDIANS—Coach Cavanaugh's team will face stubborn opposition, but I look for it to maintain its winning streak.

SYRACUSE-COLGATE ON EDGE FOR BATTLE

Meet Today in Football Series That Stretches Back Over Period of 35 Years.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Colgate will march on Archbold Stadium tomorrow afternoon to renew the football feud with Syracuse that stretches back over thirty-five years. With every man trained to the minute, with every part of a powerful gridiron machine tuned and primed for the fray, Colgate advances to the lists determined to triumph.

Syracuse's preparation for the battle has been carried on behind a wall of secrecy. Nobody outside the personnel of the team and coaching staff knows whether Syracuse has equipped itself with the passer it so sorely needed a week ago, and nobody but Coach Reynolds knows the starting line-up.

It was learned, however, that Captain Vic Hanson, veteran end, will start as quarterback. The versatile three-sport Captain is untried as a quarterback, but Reynolds believes him the man to pilot the team in the absence of Baysinger, out for the season, and Cook, his understudy, who is handicapped by an injured knee. In the Georgetown game he called signals from end.

The line-up:

SYRACUSE.		COLGATE.
Archoska	L.E.	McFarlane

OWNERS TO DECIDE ON KEEPING LANDIS

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP).—The club owners of the National and American Leagues will meet in joint session here on Dec. 16 to decide the question of the re-election of Kenesaw Mountain Landis, as Commissioner for another term. Commissioner Landis issued a call for the meeting today.

The National League will hold its meeting here Dec. 14 and 15. The American Leaguers also are expected to convene here prior to the joint session, although President Johnson has not issued a call. The American League Executive is away on a vacation and will arrange for the meeting on his return.

The National League is reported to be unanimously in favor of Landis's retention for another term, and with the support of Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Six, Landis's retention is regarded as certain, baseball leaders say.

HARVARD IS READY FOR BROWN INVASION

54,000 Will See Crimson Battle Unbeaten Providence Eleven at Cambridge Today.

BRUINS' LINE-UP UNCHANGED

Will Start Same Team That Played Yale and Dartmouth Without a Substitution.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 12.—Harvard's stadium again will be packed to overflowing tomorrow when the Brown University bear comes to Cambridge to match strength and wits against the Crimson, following the Bruins' success against Yale and Dartmouth. It is expected that 54,000 will see the game.

The unbeaten Providence team will start with the same line-up that went through the games at New Haven and Hanover without change. Harvard will start with a team differing little from that which started against Princeton.

It has been necessary to use Stewart in Kilgour's place at guard, Saltonstall at left end instead of Strong and French in the back field instead of Guarnaccia, who cannot play today, but who may be ready for action against Yale at New Haven a week hence. Kilgour has not proved a very rugged player this Fall, and the use of both Stewart and Goodwin at guard is considered necessary because of the chances that these green linemen will be much needed at New Haven. Strong hurt his foot in practice early in the week.

Coach Horween intends to start the best team available, but several of his regulars are not yet ready to take the full shock of a long game, and it is believed that there will be many Harvard substitutions during the game. Today's drill was of the usual Friday order. Harvard has done some good running back of kick-offs this Fall, and did a lot of speeding in this department today.

Better protection for the kickers is desired this week and the ends have been drilled more thoroughly on their down-the-field work. Saltonstall and Meadows will not be beaten down the field by Gamache and Pratt if they can help it. Captain Coady, however, is not altogether free from lameness. Harvard expects a better charge in its line to meet the Bears and an improvement in interference and tackling.

The probable line-up:

HARVARD.		BROWN.
Saltonstall	L.E.	Towle
Coady	L.T.	Kevorkian
Simonds	L.G.	Farber
Gamache	C.	Considine
Stewart	R.G.	Smith

HARVARD CLASS TEAM DEFEATS YALE, 13 TO 0

Juniors Down Eli Sophomores in Game to Decide the Schools' Class Football Title.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 12 (AP).—For the first time in four years, a Harvard football team today scored a victory over Yale. The victor was the Harvard junior class team, which vanquished the Yale sophomores on Soldiers Field, 13 to 0.

It was in 1922 that a Crimson football eleven last was able to down the Blue. In that year the varsity team, captained by Charlie Buell, turned back the Elis.

The Harvard junior eleven won the interclass championship of the university last week and the Yale sophomores had won similar honors at New Haven. Today's game decided the Yale-Harvard class title.

ALLISON'S OARSMEN FIRST AT PRINCETON

Former Freshmen Win Varsity Event—Livingston Strokes 150-Pound Victors.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12.—Eight shells were launched on Lake Carnegie this afternoon to close the Fall rowing season at Princeton in the annual Fall varsity and 150-pound regatta.

Jeff Allison's varsity shell, manned for the most part by members of last season's freshman eight, shot ahead at a thirty stroke to win the race over the Henley course in 7 minutes 33 seconds. The shell stroked by Tom Livingston stretched out a one length handicap to a two length victory over the same course in 7 minutes 46 seconds in the 150-pound race that followed.

The varsity race found the winners scoring by about three lengths over the boat manned by those remaining from last year's varsity. The winning shell had the same boating, save for No. 2, as the freshman crew of last Spring, which was defeated by Columbia's championship yearling shell by less than a second here. The time of the varsity was good for the season and the conditions, but the time of the 150-pounders was not particularly impressive.

The boating of the winning shells:

Varsity—Bow, J. Ballentine; 2, Haven; 3, Conwell; 4, Thompson; 5, Quarles; 6, Kenyon; 7, Lawrence; Stroke, Allison; coxswain, McRae.

150-pound—Bow, Lasater; 2, Mole; 3, Robertson; 4, McPherson; 5, Cochran; 6, Armitage; 7, Dayton; stroke, Livingston; coxswain, Wise.

JONES HITS BACK AT YALE'S CRITICS

"Not Going to Crucify Me," He Says—Brands Dissension Reports as "Yellow Lies."

CITES NUMEROUS INJURIES

Defies Former Stars Who Complain at Not Being Asked to Help Prepare for Big Games.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12 (AP).—In the face of newspaper and other criticism of Yale's showing since Brown started the Blue on the scoreless path three weeks ago, Coach Tad Jones came spiritedly to the defense of the team and himself today.

"Those yellow bellies who crucified my brother and Frank Hinkey and Tom Shevlin are not going to crucify me," he said. "I was forced into this job, but as long as Yale wants me as a football coach I'll stay, and when Yale says she doesn't want me I'll go.

"I am willing to be judged by other coaches. This criticism is coming from shyster lawyers, poor doctors and dentists, and eighteen-dollar-a-week clerks who think they know more football than Roper, Dobie, myself and all the other coaches in the country.

Refers to Injuries.

"Injuries have crippled the team so that at times this season I have been lucky to have four backs who knew the signals to put in there," Jones said, in explanation of charges that back-field men have been sent against the line so continuously in a game that they were rendered unfit for other games.

Reports that personal feeling between Captain Bunnell, quarterback, and Bill Kline, star halfback, had prevented Bunnell giving the ball to Kline and had figured largely in Yale's defeats were branded by Jones as "yellow, malicious lies."

"I suppose I should have put cripples in there the way I did in the Army game, when I didn't have any one else," he remarked of the Maryland game, in connection with which there has been much criticism because second-string men were used.

"Where would I be if men Yale needed for Princeton and Harvard were crippled playing Maryland?"

Sees Yale as the Objective.

"This criticism is being directed at Yale because it is Yale," he said. "Look at Dartmouth. You don't hear them being discussed the way Yale is. They have lost some games, though."

Some former stars have criticized the fact that they are no longer being brought back to aid in preparation for the big games, under the old system.

"We could teach some of those boys football," was Jones's comment. "They didn't get into uniforms in the old days, and I know about that, for I played here. They aren't coming back, either."

Jones has one more season under a three-year contract.

AMHERST TO BATTLE WILLIAMS FOR TITLE

Record Crowd Expected to Watch Little Three Elevens in Action Today.

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., Nov. 12.—Amherst and Williams renew one of the oldest football feuds in history tomorrow when they clinch for the Little Three title on Pratt Field here. The conflict, which has been designated as a Walter Camp memorial game, is expected to draw the largest crowd ever to witness a Little Three encounter here. More than 7,500 will witness the spectacle as Amherst defends the championship crown it gained last Fall for the first time in a decade.

By comparative record Amherst looms as a slight favorite by defeating Wesleyan by a decisive 20-to-0 count and smothering Union by 26 to 6. Against Wesleyan Williams drew only a 24-to-14 victory and was mastered by Union 15 to 0. In weight both elevens are approximately evenly matched.

Despite relative scores, Coach Harry White, the Amherst mentor, anticipates the keenest struggle of the season as Little Three rivalry surges to intensity.

On the line Amherst will place six of the seven starters against Williams last Fall, while the Williams backs seem to have an edge on Amherst's.

Since 1884 forty-three games have been played. Williams has won 25 and Amherst 14, while four have resulted in tie scores.

The line-up:

AMHERST.		WILLIAMS.

Williams Team En Route.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Nov. 12.—Following late classes today the Williams football team hastened to Weston Field for a short signal drill under electric lights, after which the squad of thirty men boarded the train for Holyoke. It will continue to Amherst tomorrow morning for the clash for the Little Three title.

Although Amherst ranks the favorite, confidence exists here that the Williams team, which showed signs of finding itself against Wesleyan a week ago, will rise to the occasion and put up the battle of the season in tomorrow's game. Practically the entire student body of Williams will follow the team to Amherst tomorrow.

70,000 to See Notre Dame and Army Clash Today in Annual Fray in Stadium

ARMY-NOTRE DAME RATED EVEN TODAY

70,000 to See Clash in Stadium Between Mighty, Undefeated Teams, Starting 2 P. M.

IDEAL WEATHER PROMISED

BOTH ELEVENS IN SHAPE

Army Favored in Experience, but Rockne Outfit Is Regarded Nearly Equal to Horsemen Days.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

Two of the year's mightiest elevens, Army and Notre Dame, await the whistle which will send them into action in a football game that commands nation-wide interest. Since each team has come through its schedule thus far unscathed—a praiseworthy feat nowadays, and especially so in a year notable for cataclysmic upsets—the outcome of this afternoon's clash at the Yankee Stadium will be far-reaching in its effect on the football situation and may have a decided bearing on the national gridiron championship of 1926.

Drawn by the magnetism of the struggle between the service team and the Middle Westerners, one of the largest crowds in the history of football will watch the fray from the stepped tiers of the gigantic baseball arena. More than seventy thousand persons have purchased tickets for the forthcoming spectacle, and it is not unlikely that as many more admissions would have been readily disposed of had they been made available.

Color will be added by the presence of army dignitaries and the Cadet Corps, 1,180 strong. Accompanied by the West Point Military Band, the corps will arrive here at 1:15 and, disembarking at Highbridge, march to the Stadium, where it will give one of its famed drills, affording New Yorkers their sole opportunity this year of seeing the future generals at work and at play, now that Chicago has snared the Army-Navy game away from the Atlantic seaboard.

Assistant Secretary of War Davidson, Major Gen. John L. Hines, Chief of Staff of the Army; Major Gen. Charles P. Summerall, Commanding General of the Second Corps Area; Brig. Gen. Keith B. Stewart, Superintendent of the Military Academy, and Lieut. Col. Campbell B. Hodges, Commandant of Cadets, will be among the distinguished army officials attending.

Weather Outlook Is Fair.

Fair weather, slightly warmer—ideal November football weather—has been promised for the occasion, which marks the thirteenth meeting between the two institutions. The game will start at 2 o'clock instead of 2:30, the time being advanced in order to preclude a finish in semi-darkness.

Both squads reached the city yesterday. Notre Dame, coming from its South Bend habitat arrived early yesterday morning and after breakfasting at the Hotel Vanderbilt journeyed to the Westchester Biltmore Country Club at Rye, where it will remain until game time. Head Coach Knute Rochne brought three full elevens with him. Army, led by Captain L. M. (Biff) Jones, came to the city early yesterday afternoon and established headquarters in the service stronghold, the Astor. Shortly after luncheon the cadets took possession of the stadium for a short practice session devoted to signals, kicking, catching, passing and trying out formations intended to balk the flat-passing attack expected from the Hoosiers.

Following the practices the two coaches issued statements, the tenor of which was that a hard game was in prospect, that neither eleven underestimated the strength of the other and that, with remarkably few exceptions, the players were in good physical condition for the game. The chief Army casualty is Elias, substitute tackle, who has been out since the Syracuse game. Trapnell, a star back who has been out since the same game, is now mended to such an extent that he will be able to play if the occasion demands.

Notre Dame Stars on Bench.

Notre Dame has two of its stars on the bench. Joe Boland, 220-pound tackle, suffered a broken leg in the Minnesota game and is still in a Minneapolis hospital, while Fred Collins, fullback, sustained a broken jaw in the battle with the Gophers.

In the matter of experience Army will have a shade over its rivals. According to the tentative line-up announced by Coach Jones last night eight of the men who took part in the 27 to 0 defeat administered to Notre Dame last year will start today. They are Wilson and either Harding or Trapnell, backs; Sprague and Saunders, tackles; Schmidt and Hammack, guards; Daly, centre, and Born, end. The newcomers who have added strength to the Army eleven are Murrell, a former Minnesota star whose ram-like rushes demolished the Yale line; Cagle, a fleet little halfback, and Harbold, end.

The Notre Dame line-up, the backfield especially, is practically intact from last year when Coach Rockne, minus the famous Four Horsemen and others of his all-star 1924 aggregation, developed a team of sophomores that lost only two games, one to Army and one to the strong Nebraska eleven. The mid-Western team will probably line up with Voedisch and Maxwell on the ends; McMannon and Miller, tackles; John Smith and Leppig, guards; Boeringer, centre; Edwards, Flanagan, Hearnden and O'Boyle, backs.

Betting on the game is at even money, the feeling being that the two teams are about evenly matched in strength. On the season's record to date Notre Dame has an edge, for it has defeated Beloit, Minnesota, Penn State, Northwestern, Georgia Tech and Indiana. It has scored 169 points and had its goal line crossed only once, that being by Minnesota. Its closest games have been those against Northwestern, which is vying with Ohio State and Michigan for the Big Ten championship, and Georgia Tech, the Northwestern score being 6 to 0 and the Georgia Tech count, 12 to 0.

Army, in an equal number of games, has registered 198 points, but has been scored on four times—once by Davis and Elkins and three times by Syracuse. Its other victories have been gained at the expense of Detroit, Boston University, Yale and Franklin and Marshall. Army's reputation is based largely on the results of one game—Yale. Previous to that fracas the Elis were considered one of the strongest teams in the country. Army's 33-to-0 victory was one of the outstanding surprises of the year.

According to many, one of them, Hugo Bezdek of Penn State, Rockne's team this year is fully as strong as in the days when Stuhldreher, Miller, Leyden and Crowley were laying Notre Dame's opposition low. Its strength is not only in numbers, although it is well fortified numerically, but in thoroughly coached, fast, heady players. Rockne is especially blessed with backs, having a wealth of men to throw into any fray at psychological moments.

Rivalry Dates Back 13 Years.

Much water has flowed under the bridges and many touchdowns have rolled over the goal line since the Army-Notre Dame series began thirteen years ago. At the same time few football rivalries have had such a large effect on contemporary football tactics. Their greatest contribution was the introduction of the forward pass to the East, Notre Dame being generally credited with having pioneered the passing game or at least demonstrated its possibilities as a scoring weapon.

The story of how Army and Notre Dame came to be introduced is an absorbing one. In 1913 Army, casting about for a practice game to complete its schedule, took on the South Bend team, known then only in the West. Negotiations were carried on without the knowledge of Charles Daly, who was then head coach at the Plains following a brilliant record as quarterback on Harvard and West Point teams. Knowing little if anything about Notre Dame, Daly was somewhat exorcised upon scanning the schedule, for he had asked for a stiff game.

When the game was over Coach Daly had reason to change his skeptical opinion of the new foe, for Notre Dame won, 35 to 13. The defeat, however, was turned to good use by Army. Instead of going into deep mourning over the result, Coach Daly at once set about mending his broken fences by utilizing some of the formations that had brought on its downfall.

Army Adopts Passes.

The forward passing attack of the Notre Dame team was especially fascinating to the Army coach, and as a consequence when Army met Navy a few weeks later on the score was Army, 22; Navy, 9. It was in that game that the names of Pritchard and Merrillat became by-words, the former passing and the latter receiving with such proficiency that Navy was put completely at sea.

As an outcome of that Army triumph a beautiful and beneficial friendship sprang up between Army, ever appreciative of any aid in beating its service rivals, and the football gentlemen from Indiana. Twelve games have been played since then. Of these Notre Dame has won eight, lost three and tied one and scored 159 points to Army's 125. At the same time the game has grown in ever-increasing importance until now from the paltry 4,000 that failed to fill even the improvised stands of the old battlefield on the Plains the attendance has increased to 70,000 and forced the officials of both schools to look to New York for facilities capable of accommodating the crowds.

Both Army and Notre Dame Are Undefeated This Season

Neither the Army nor Notre Dame has met defeat this season, although both elevens have encountered hard opposition in their six-game schedules thus far. The cadets, in their third game, that with Syracuse, won by a margin of 27 to 21, while Rockne's South Bend Players were held to a 6-to-0 victory by Northwestern in their fourth start. With these exceptions, no other team has seriously threatened the East-West contenders. Army has compiled 198 points, twenty-nine more than Notre Dame, but the Rockne forces have allowed the opposition only seven points, while the cadets have permitted twenty-eight. The season's records of the two elevens follow:

ARMY.		NOTRE DAME.

CADETS HOLD A RALLY.

Will Entrain at 11:30 After Attending Classes Most of Morning.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Thirty-eight Army football players in charge of head coach Captain Biff Jones, accompanied by the other coaches and Trainer Frank Wandle, took a New York Central train for New York today. The football players attended classes until the noon hour. In the mess hall, at dinner, the 1,200 cadets in the corps, who will follow tomorrow to witness the annual gridiron clash with Notre Dame, staged a demonstration in honor of the team. They could not accompany the players to the railroad station, however, as the cadets were marched back to their academic duties at the conclusion of the meal. Tonight the cadets held a rally.

Although the cadet corps will be attending class for the greater part of tomorrow morning, they are scheduled to have an early lunch here and will march to two special trains at 11:30 A. M., which will carry them to New York. Lieut. Col. Campbell B. Hodges, Commandant of Cadets, will be in charge.

The post will be practically deserted tomorrow as most of the enlisted and civilian personnel at the academy will attend the game. The cadet corps will return to West Point immediately after the game but the football team will remain over until Sunday.

WESLEYAN IN TOP FORM.

Has Its Final Drill for Battle Today With Bowdoin Eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Nov. 12.—Coach Hill put the Wesleyan squad through a sharp light drill this afternoon and at the close announced that the team is in top form to meet the heavy Bowdoin eleven on Andrus Field tomorrow.

Pro Football Player Dies.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP).—Louis Feist, well-known professional football player, died at his home here today of spinal meningitis. He played on the Buffalo Rangers team here Sunday, when the local entry in the National Football League defeated Columbus, 26 to 0. He came from Canisius College.

COLUMBIA AND PENN ON EDGE FOR GAME

ONE POSITION IS DOUBTFUL

Rieger Favored for Fullback Post—All Quaker Regulars in Shape—50,000 to See Encounter.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—With an air of confidence that fairly radiated among the players, Columbia's varsity squad of forty-one men arrived here at noon today and after an hour's workout at Franklin Field Stadium went to the suburbs to rest for the Penn game tomorrow at 2 o'clock. The team spent the night at the Manufacturers' Country Club, Oreland, Pa., seventeen miles outside the city.

Coach Charles Crowley sent his Lions through a snappy drill in the Stadium between 2 and 3 o'clock, the weather being ideal. He hopes the field is as fast tomorrow, so that Rieger, Sesit, Norris, Kaplan, Captain Madden and the other backs can get loose.

Fullback Post in Doubt.

The only back field post in doubt is fullback. Crowley was undecided whether he would use Rieger, flashy ball carrier, or Norris at fullback, but alternated with the pair today. It is believed Rieger will get the call. Crowley said he anticipated a hard-fought game, but would not venture to make any predictions.

Pen followed Columbia at Franklin Field, going through its final signal drill between 3 and 4 o'clock. All the regulars were in their usual places, including Paul Scull, badly injured in the Penn State game. He is expected to start at halfback, although his torn cartilages have been bothering him all week. Paster Fields will be his alternate.

The Penn coaches anticipate a keen battle and are not underestimating Columbia in the least, especially since Crowley's team humbled Cornell, 17 to 9. This will be the sixteenth meeting between the two universities, Penn having won eleven, lost three and tied one. Columbia's last conquest over the Red and Blue was in 1903, when the Blue and White beat Captain Sol Metzger's team in New York, 18 to 6.

Expects Crowd of 50,000.

Graduate Manager Ernest B. Cozens of Penn said today he expects a crowd of 45,000 or 50,000, Columbia subscribing for thousands of seats on the north side of the Stadium.

The probable line-up:

PENNSYLVANIA.		COLUMBIA.
Thayer	L.E.	Furey
Smith	L.T.	Kerrigan
Duncan	L.G.	Cuneo
Butler	C.	French
Parke	R.G.	Adler
Hake	R.T.	Reynolds
Singer	R.E.	Brady
Murphy	Q.B.	Kaplan
Rogers	L.H.	Sesit
P. Scull	R.H.	Madden
Wascolonis	F.B.	Rieger

Referee—Dean Watkeys, Syracuse. Umpire—E. E. Miller, Penn State. Field Judge—W. D. Maginnis, Lehigh. Linesman—G. N. Lankart, Dartmouth.

5,000 Lion Rooters to Leave.

It is estimated that between 4,000 and 5,000 Columbia supporters will be in the stands at Franklin Field today when Columbia and Penn meet at Philadelphia. The "Columbia Special," a train chartered by the Columbia Student Board, will leave the Pennsylvania Station at 9:50 o'clock this morning, carrying several hundred students and alumni, and others will make the trip by auto.

Columbia men who will be unable to make the trip will follow the play in the McMillan Theatre, School of Business building, 116th Street and Broadway. A Grid-Graph board will be installed in the theatre and each play of the game will be flashed on the board.

85,000 MAY WATCH OHIO STATE CONTEST

Great Crowd Expected When Michigan Faces Buckeyes at Columbus Today.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP).—A crowd which may turn out to be one of the largest in American football history will watch Ohio State battle Michigan tomorrow at Columbus in the most important game of the Western Conference season, and Northwestern's biggest crowd will watch the Wildcat-Chicago tilt, which is the other featured contest.

More than 80,000 spectators have been provided for at the Wolverine-Buckeye spectacle, and there is a possibility that the figures will show an attendance greater than the 85,000 who saw Red Grange play his farewell college game in the Ohio State stadium a year ago. That game holds the present Western Conference attendance record.

Forty-seven thousand persons will crowd into Northwestern's unfinished stadium for Chicago's annual civil war between the Maroons and the Purple.

The Michigan-Ohio State battle will eliminate one of three surviving contenders for conference honors, unless it ends a tie, while Northwestern must conquer Chicago to keep its record clean. The former tilt is a toss-up, with both teams employing a strong running and passing attack capable of spectacular football. Northwestern is a heavy favorite against the much beaten Chicago team, though it has won only a single game from the Maroons in a dozen years.

Another large crowd will see Iowa meet Wisconsin at Madison, but the title race will not be affected by the outcome, for both teams are trailing the others. Iowa, which has not won a conference game, must beat Wisconsin or Northwestern if it is to break into the victory column, while Wisconsin has won only from Indiana.

Other games, though well attended, will lack the drawing power of close rivalry. Illinois meets Wabash, Minnesota plays Butler, Purdue takes on Franklin and Indiana meets Mississippi A. and M., a new intersectional foe.

Morris High Rifle Team Wins.

The Morris High School rifle team defeated the Evander Childs High School rifle team, 100 to 996, yesterday on the Morris range. It was the first dual meet of the season for both schools.

CORNELL IN SHAPE FOR DARTMOUTH

Red Eleven Will Face Green Team Before 25,000 Crowd at Ithaca Today.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Although Dartmouth is generally favored to defeat Cornell in their annual football game on Schoellkopf Field tomorrow, the 25,000 football enthusiasts who will crowd Ithaca for the game will see a stubbornly fought battle, in the judgment of impartial observers. Cornellians are frankly fearful of the Green's overhead attack and they conceded that in back-field play Dartmouth has a wide margin of superiority, but the cheerfulness in the Cornell camp and the high morale of the team suggest that the Red eleven may be due to find itself against the Green and put up a great battle. Physically and mentally the Cornellians are in better shape than ever before this year.

The Dartmouth party of thirty-five reached Freeville, a few miles northeast of here, this morning and established themselves at the George Junior Republic Inn. They engaged in a light drill on the hotel grounds before luncheon, and early this afternoon motored into Ithaca and worked out for a brief period on Schoellkopf Field. They found the gridiron had been frozen for two days, but warmer weather is expected to thaw it out by tomorrow. Coach Hawley declined to comment except to say that Dartmouth looked for a hard game. Whether Dooley would start at quarterback or left halfback was not disclosed.

The Cornell team drilled quite late and indulged in signal and kicking practice only. Coach Dobie was cautious, as usual, in comment, but indicated that the team was in shape and would put up a hard fight. The game is the tenth played between the two institutions since 1900 and the seventh since the war. Yearly relations were established in 1919, and since that time Dartmouth has won four games and Cornell three. The Ithacans are anxious to wipe out last year's crushing defeat, but they face a hard task.

Early arrivals by the hundreds poured into town by motor today, but the big influx will coms tomorrow morning by special train and car. Fraternity houses have agreed not to entertain house parties, in order that alumni of both colleges may be housed.

The probable line-up:

CORNELL.		DARTMOUTH.
Wickham	L.E.	Picken
Andarson	L.T.	Hardy
Carey	L.G.	Phillips
Rapuano	C.	Davis
Munns	R.G.	Rubin

MANHATTAN IS READY FOR UPSALA BATTLE

Will Be Minus Four Regulars for Game in East Orange This Afternoon.

Manhattan College will try to make it two victories in a row when the Green and White eleven faces Upsala College in the first meeting between the two institutions at Ashland Stadium, West Orange, today. Coach McCarthy is minus the services of four regulars, with Vincent Draddy, fullback, and Ed Martin, left tackle, out for the season.

Mike Hayes, halfback and most dependable pass receiver on the squad, has a bad knee, but Trainer Mumblo will try to have the Waterbury flash ready for today's battle. Morgan Burks, despite a chipped ankle bone, will get into part of today's contest.

Upsala has a rangy pair of ends, Law and Cook, a versatile fullback, Captain Wooley, and is expected to press Manhattan all the way.

The probable line-up:

MANHATTAN.		UPSALA.
J. Cohalan	L.E.	Law
Skidd	L.T.	Voss
Cronin	L.G.	Miller
T. O'Gnrman	C.	Sjostrom

Singer and Cressy Cue Victors.

Two games were played yesterday in the three-cushion tournament at Doyle's Academy. In the afternoon Ed Singer defeated H. Wright, 25 to 24, in forty-two innings. At night Jerome Cressy won from William Mattbews, 25 to 24, in forty innings.

N. Y. U. IS AWAITING LAST HOME GAME

Expects Only Stiff Workout in Contest With Davis and Elkins Today.

The New York University football team will seek its eighth consecutive victory of the season when it meets the Davis and Elkins team at Ohio Field at 2 P. M. This contest will be the last home appearance of the Violet eleven as it ends the season next Saturday against Nebraska at Lincoln.

Davis and Elkins is hardly expected to give the powerful New York University eleven more than a stiff workout this afternoon despite a strong attack which scored against the Army. Meehan, coach of the Violet eleven, said yesterday that he expected to start his first team.

Davis and Elkins arrived in town yesterday and went through a light workout at Ohio Field. The squad consisted of seventeen players. Many of the West Virginians are experienced men however, and they are expected to give a good account of themselves.

Meehan worked out the Violet varsity at Ohio Field also. The N. Y. U. practice included a brief dummy scrimmage, the coach risking no chance of the men being injured. After this there was a signal session and some more practice for the centre in passing and the backs in receiving the passes.

Strong and Connor punted for a brief period and also made several field goals from various distances from placement and by drop kicking.

NEW YORK.		DAVIS & ELKINS.
Losa	L.E.	McKinney
John Miller	L.T.	Francis Miller
Runyan	L.G.	Camiletti
Dunn	C.	Wagner
Skudin	R.G.	Curtis
Lasseman	R.T.	Lutz (Capt.)
Riordon	R.E.	Powell
Connor	Q.B.	Bowles
Strong	L.H.	Elfis
Roberts	R.H.	Close
Briants (Capt.)	F.B.	Brown

Time of game—2 o'clock. Referee—Ed Cochrane, Michigan. Umpire—Colonel Munnal, Army. Head linesman—J. G. MacDonald, Holy Cross. Field judge—Ira T. Carruthers.

Gargan to Start Maroon First Team, but Expects to Use Reserves Early in Game.

PARKER RELIES ON PASSES

Air Game Expected to Enable the Lavender to Cross Goal Line of Rivals for First Time.

In Lewisohn Stadium today the Fordham eleven will face the City College team at 2 o'clock in their annual struggle. The Maroon, boasting its full strength for the first time this year, is a liberal favorite to defeat the Lavender team, which, however, will be closing the most successful season that it has had since its return to the gridiron four years ago.

Coach Gargan anticipates little trouble from City College, but will take no chances, and intends to start his first team, which will remain in action until it is safe to insert the second team. With this in mind the Maroon mentor has been drilling his reserves all week in a defense against the Lavender plays and formations.

City College will present a young eleven which has been working hard, its objective being to score on Fordham something that the Lavender has never been able to accomplish. Coach Parker has equipped his men with a powerful overhead game and it will be upon this that the Lavender pins its hopes.

The loss of Irving Packer, who tore some of the muscles in his back last week in the Haverford contest, is a severe blow to Coach Parker, for he is a big, heavy man and has been playing a very aggressive game. Johnny Elterich, who has played in most of the games this year, will play the position. Johnny Clarke will start today, although he has not been in uniform all week and has not attended practice because of an infected foot.

The contest will be the last for Captain Tige Seidler, Artie Rosenbluth, Al Drieband, Tubby Raskin, Bill Cohen, Frank Longo, Joe Tubridy and Artie Moder. The first six received all their football instruction from Parker, playing under him four years.

Fordham has a strong overhead attack with De Lany tossing the ball and Graham, Leary and Politis on the receiving end. The second team relies mostly upon plunges through the line with Frank Baut and Al Geruso carrying the ball.

The probable line-up:

FORDHAM.		C. C. N. Y.
Leary	L.E.	Tubridy
Politi	L.T.	Elterich
Belvin	L.G.	Halpern
Scully	C.	Drieband

Haines Catches 100-Yard Pass From Skyscraper on Fifth Try

The longest "forward pass" on record, covering more than one hundred yards, was completed yesterday by two stars of the New York Football Giants, according to The Associated Press. It was tossed by Lynn Bomar, former Vanderbilt and All-American end, from the top of the American Radiator Building on West Fortieth Street, and caught by Hinkey Haines, former Penn State halfback, standing in near-by Bryant Park. On Bomar's first heave from his lofty perch, 324 feet above ground, the ball hit the sidewalk and burst. The other tries went wild, and another bowled Haines over before he grabbed and clung to the fifth toss.

NAVY SHIFTS PLANS TO USE REGULARS

Probably Will Start Reserves Against Georgetown Instead in Game Today.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 12.—Though Coach Ingram stated yesterday that he would start the strongest Navy line-up against Georgetown tomorrow, his inclination today was toward starting a second string and holding his regulars in reserve. The Navy has a very strong reserve list this season, particularly in the back field, and it is believed that this combination is capable of starting at a lively pace and giving much trouble to the opposition.

The line-up announced tonight as the probable one to start, contained Parish, Coffman, Condra and Shapley in the back field, with Ransford and Schuber also as possibilities. Should the second string team be able to take the lead, it will be allowed to play the whole game as the coaches fear injuries to the players who are the main reliances against the Army.

The probable line-up:

NAVY.		GEORGETOWN.
Williamson	L.E.	McGrath
Wilson	L.T.	Bear
Dodge	L.G.	Carroll
Warren	C.	Grisby
Burke	R.G.	Connaughton

500,000 FAIL TO GET ARMY-NAVY TICKETS

Bodyguard Keeps Disappointed From Colonel Carbaugh in Charge of Distribution.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 (AP).—Colonel H. C. Carbaugh, a short, portly army veteran who looks and acts as if he might be a retired jurist, today is about the most important individual in America. He has the hopeless job of trying to seat 600,000 spectators in 100,000 seats.

This gray-haired retired colonel is the distributer of ticketa for the Army-Navy football spectacle to be played on Chicago's lake front two weeks from tomorrow.

Although there are a half million persons who would like very much to make his acquaintance, it is impossible to get near enough to him to hand him a cigar. Wherever he goes about the Administration Building of the South Park Board a bodyguard surrounds him like the detectives who trailed Jack Dempsey. Outside the door of his office a policeman stands guard with instructions to permit nobody to enter, and nobody does.

Colonel Carbaugh, now about 63 years old, ordinarily is occupied with the peaceful pursuit of supervising the Civil Service Department of the South Park Board, which controls Soldier Field, the battleground of the Army-Navy game. For the last thirty days he has been buried under an avalanche of appeals for tickets until he undoubtedly wishes that the job wished on him had been wished on somebody else.

All the tickets have been mailed out to the lucky first hundred thousand. But there seems to be a majority of the 500,000 unlucky ones who have not yet given up hope. All the tickets were sent by registered mail, requiring receipts.

"It was a hopeless task to try to satisfy the demand for seats," Colonel Carbaugh said. "We actually had more than 600,000 applications. Soldier Field will only seat around 100,000. All I have to do now is to keep out of the way of the 500,000 who couldn't get tickets.

"We were forced to send notices to those whose applications could not be considered, and I regretted that part of my task very much. I was as disappointed as the unlucky applicants were. The only thing coming back to us now is the envelopes which were wrongly addressed and these tickets are being quickly taken up by the rightful parties."

The problem of finding space for the newspaper correspondents is giving the South Park Board officials no end of worry. The demand for press tickets is as heavy as the demand from the general public for the privilege of paying $10 and $15 for tickets.

The press box, as laid ont, will accommodate only abont 160 reporters, together with their telegraphers, but between 1,200 and 1,500 requests for press seats have been received. The press coop probably will be restricted to press associations and representatives from metropolitan dailies.

HORACE MANN TRIUMPHS, 7-0

Keeps Slate Clean and Goal Line Uncrossed Against Manhattan Prep —Other School Games.

Special to The New York Times.

MAMARONECK, N. Y., Nov. 12.—With all the points scored in the first two minutes of the final quarter, Mamaroneck High defeated Stamford High in an exciting game here today, 7 to 6. Neither team was able to tally in the first three periods, and then both unexpectedly registered touchdowns in the final session.

On the first play of the fourth period Nurenberg broke through the line of scrimmage on the 45-yard strip and ran through the Stamford team for the first score of the afternoon. McKenna, the quarterback, drop-kicked the point after touchdown, later to prove the margin of victory.

Mamaroneck kicked off after this and Memillo received the ball. He passed laterally to Contanso, who scooped in the ball on the run and continued his dash for 60 yards and a touchdown. Cygan, the right tackle, missed booting the ball between the uprights and by that lone point his team lost.

Horace Mann Wins Again.

Horace Mann, with an undefeated record and an uncrossed goal line, defeated Manhattan Prep at the Horace Mann field yesterday afternoon, 7 to 0, in a closely fought game. The ball remained for the most part in midfield, with neither team able to get within scoring distance after Horace Mann had registered its tally.

Early in the first period Smith, Horace Mann left half, rounded left end and ran 50 yards before he was brought down on the 6-yard line. Mackey threw a forward, which Hodupp, standing behind the goal line, caught for the lone touchdown. Stevens kicked the extra point.

Morristown High Scores

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Nov. 12.—Morristown High and Hackley High, traditional rivals, closed their respective seasons here this afternoon, the former winning, 13 to 6. It was a close and well-played game, with the Jerseyites overcoming the early lead of Hackley and winning in the last half.

Hackley was first to score, Appleton crossing the line after receiving a forward. In the third quarter Armstrong darted around the Hackley end for 20 yards and a touchdown. He also added the extra point. O'Brien registered the other touchdown in the final period by crashing through the Hackley line for two yards.

Hill School Beats Hotchkiss.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEVILLE, Conn., Nov. 12.—The Hill School football team defeated the Hotchkiss eleven here this afternoon, 10 to 9, the battle being staged on a slippery field. The one-point victory resulted from the accurate kicking of Ludlum, who booted a goal for a point after touchdown.

Both sides got a touchdown and a field goal, but the Hotchkiss effort to get the extra point failed when Reinmund missed his try. The Hill School touchdown was scored by Wilcox. Reinmund carried over Hotchkiss's tally.

New Haven Beats Hartford.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12.—New Haven High defeated Hartford High, 20 to 13, today at Weiss Park in the annual football game between the two largest preparatory schools in Connecticut. The victory was gained in the last minute of play, when a pass, Wilson to Hayes, allowed the latter to run forty yards and break a 13 to 13 tie.

Hartford scored its only touchdown in the first period, which closed with that eleven leading, 13 to 0, and the half ended with Hartford holding a 13 to 6 advantage, New Haven tying the count in the third quarter.

Riverdale Is Winner.

With Geissler tallying a touchdown, a field goal and a point after touchdown, the Riverdale School defeated Scarsdale High, 10 to 0, at the Riverdale field yesterday afternoon. This contest completes the Riverdale season, victorious with the exception of one tussle with Mount Vernon.

ENGLISH MAY ADOPT U. S. WRITER RULE

Resolution Before Tennis Body Also Would Prohibit Players Giving Newspaper Interviews.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The English Lawn Tennis Association apparently is going to take action similar to that already taken in the United States in prohibiting amateur tennis players from writing newspaper articles about tournaments in which they compete.

The council proposes to bring this suggestion before its annual meeting. The resolution also will prohibit competitors from giving interviews about tournaments in which they are engaged. Stanley Doust, a former Davis Cup player and now a writer about the game, declared tonight the consensus of tennis players is that the rule is drastic and quite unnecessary.

Since Mlle. Lenglen turned professional he said tennis associations have been in a panic and have revised the whole amateur definition to tighten up the amateur law as it stands at present.

COPULOS WINS TWO MORE.

Takes 9th and 10th Blocks in Beating Shuler in 3-Cushion Match.

By winning the afternoon and evening blocks of his twelve-block, three-cushion handicap match with Harry Shuler at the Strand Academy, Gus Copulos made a clean sweep of the match to date. Copulos won the afternoon game by the score of 60 to 45 and in the evening he triumphed by 60 to 33. Play was in the ninth and tenth blocks.

In the afternoon block, which lasted fifty-six innings, Copulos had a high run of six to his opponent's five. In the fifty-six innings of the evening encounter Copulos had a high run of eight to Shuler's three. Copulos now has a grand total of 600, while Shuler has gathered 367 points. Two more blocks tonight will finish the match. For his 600 points Copulos hae only required 573 innings.

HAMMER BEATS STERN.

Eerne Tie for Cup in Long-Delayed Pocket Billiard Contest.

Herbert Hammer defeated Harry Stern at pocket billiards last night at Lawler's Brooklyn Academy, 250 to 49, in a play-off game for the Poggenburg Cup. This game was put over from last Fall, when Hammer refused to accept a victory by default, due to Stern's illness. Last night's match lasted seventeen innings. The high runs were 54 for Hammer and 13 for Stern.

Hammer's victory pute him in a tie with Stern for first place. The play-off of the tie will take place tonight. Hammer is a Class A amateur, playing with a handicap of 250, and Stern is a Class B amateur, with a handicap of 173.

Ellis Also Place Next With Briggs, but Crimson Has the Better-Balanced Team.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12.—Harvard defeated Yale and Princeton in the annual Big Three cross-country run this afternoon on the five-and-one-half-mile course over the Woodbridge Hills in spite of the fact that Yale's two premier hill and dale men, Captain Macauley Smith and Albert Briggs, finished first and second. Harvard's winning team score was 25 to Yale's 31 and Princeton's 64.

Macauley Smith scored a brilliant victory, covering the course in the near record time of 27 minutes 53 3-5 seconds. He led practically throughout, left his field a furlong in the rear during the last mile and loped past the judges an easy winner.

Briggs, who captured second prize, led Sammy Reid, Harvard's leading runner, by twenty-five yards. Captain Haggerty of the Crimson team, who was believed by many to be the most serious contender of Macauley Smith for individual leadership, was thirty yards behind Reid, who finished exhausted and suffering from a slight side stitch for several minutes.

Harvard captured the meet by the general excellence and superior balance of its distance squad. Flaksman, Novogorod and King pushing Haggerty and Reid closely. Hayes of Yale made a desperate effort to save the race for the Elis by passing King, but failed by four seconds.

Myrick of the Tigers, who had been expected to finish close up to the leaders, showed a lack of acquaintance with Yale's new course and was passed by the leaders during the middle miles of the long journey. He finally broke the tape in sixteenth place. Wells, who finished twelfth, led the Princeton entrants, with Crabb fourteenth, Slade seventeenth, Gore eighteenth and Smith nineteenth.

Despite the recent rift in athletic relations between Harvard and Princeton, there was no evidence of friction between the rival harriers of these two institutions today. Just before the race Myrick, captain of the Tigers, and Haggerty, the Crimson leader, were photographed shaking hands and then both shook hands with Captain Smith of Yale.

The order of finish:

Pos.	Name and College.	Time.
1	Smith, Yale	27:53 3-5
2	Briggs, Yale	28:18 2-5
3	Reid, Harvard	28:19
4	Haggerty, Harvard	28:56 2-5
5	Flaksman, Harvard	29:12

CLARKE'S RECORD SOUGHT.

Rickard Cables British Board for Information on Flyweight.

Boxing is being threatened with international complications. The case involves the refusal of the State Athletic Commission to permit Elky Clarke, British flyweight champion, to battle Fidel La Barba, recognized here as the world's champion, until Clarke first submits to a trial bout. Promoter Tex Rickard had the La Barba Clarke battle on his schedule as a Madison Square Garden attraction.

Not discouraged, Rickard yesterday cabled to Norman Clark, secretary of the British Board of Boxing Control, seeking information on Clarke's record, which, if impressive enough, he plans to submit to the commission in an effort to gain sanction for a La Barba-Clarke bout.

C. C. N. Y. ACCEPTS BOXING.

Recognizes It as Minor Sport After Year's Agitation.

After a year's agitation upon the part of the student body at City College the athletic association yesterday recognized boxing as an official minor sport at the institution and will award numerals to the individual winners in the tournament which is to be held in the next two weeks, and numerals to the winning class team.

The tournament, which is being sponsored by the City College boxing club, will have its semi-finals on Nov. 18 and the finals on Dec. 2 in the Lavender gymnasium.

Other Boxing Results.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 12 (AP).—Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, outpointed Jack Duffy, Toledo, in a twelve-round bout here tonight, in the opinion of newspaper men. Both boxers weighed in over the lightweight limit. The title was not at stake. Don Boyer, Toledo welterweight, knocked out Patsy Kline, New York, in the second round.

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 12 (AP).—Bermondey Billy Wells, British welterweight, outpointed Julian Moran, Havana, in a ten-round feature bout here tonight. Willie Herman, New York lightweight, won the decision in another ten-round bout with Arramis Del Pino, Havana.

WATERBURY, Conn., Nov. 12 (AP).—Eddie Lord of Meriden won the State lightweight championship here tonight by defeating Georgie Ray of New Haven, in the feature ten-round bout of the Sedgewick Guards' card.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 12 (AP).—Jimmy Delaney, St. Paul, outpointed Johnny Risko, Cleveland, in a ten-round fight here tonight. Delaney weighed 173½ and Risk 190.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 12 (AP).—Johnny Farr, Cleveland, received a referee's decision over Johnny Datto, Filipino, in a bout here tonight. Farr weighed 126 pounds and Datto 127¾.

Doushka, at 100 to 8 Against, Wins Liverpool Autumn Cup

LIVERPOOL, England, Nov. 12 (AP).—Lord Carnarvon's Doushka, by Tetratema ont of Dorval, won the Liverpool Autumn Cup from a field of thirteen here today. H. Shaw's Naldera was second and Mrs. D. Frame's Polish Patriot third. The race was at 1 mile, 2 furlongs, 170 yards. Doushka, an outsider in the betting at 100 to 8 against, won by two lengths. A length and a half separated the second and third. The odds against Naldera were 8 to 1 and against Polish Patriot 20 to 1.

Brooklyn Pro-Football Elevens Unite; Fugazy's Horsemen Join National League

The Brooklyn Horsemen and the Brooklyn Lions, professional football teams, have amalgamated and will play ont the season jointly under the Brooklyn National League franchise, it was announced yesterday by Humbert Fugasy. Ebbets Field will be the home grounds and the team will be called the Brooklion Horsemen. Fugasy and Eddie Butler, President of the Lions, combined when it was realized two teams could not survive in Brooklyn.

Fugasy's long friendship with Tim Mara, owner of the New York Giants, in no little measure influenced the owner of the Horsemen to withdraw from the American League. He said in part:

"I saw an opportunity to clear up a muddled situation and join hands with my friend. In withdrawing from the American League I wish it to be understood that not the slightest ill-feeling exists. Big Bill Edwards, head of the league, is a personal friend and thoroughly appreciates the motives of my withdrawal of the Horsemen from his league. My relations with the officials of ths league have been thoroughly friendly and I have nothing but praise for them."

The combination will stage its first game on Nov. 21 against Brick Muller's Los Angeles eleven as sufficient time will not be available for the two outfits to be fused by tomorrow. Joint practice will start Monday. The Lions will play their scheduled contest with the Canton Bulldogs at Ebbets Field tomorrow.

CORNELL CONQUERS DARTMOUTH IN RUN

Led by Benson, Ithacans Gain Sweeping Cross-Country Victory, 38 to 73.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 12.—The Cornell cross-country team scored a sweeping victory over the Dartmouth harriers here this afternoon by a score of 38 to 73. It was Cornell's first appearance of the Fall, and the outcome indicates that the Ithacans ought to be factors in this sport again after a depression of several years.

Horace Benson, Jack Meakley's latest distance star, led the pack home, running the five and a half mile course in 29 minutes 49 3-5 seconds. He finished more than a minute ahead of his team-mate Pond. Auer, Dartmouth's crack, came in third and then Cornell sent Fuller and Houghton across the finish line.

Benson set the pace with Auer at his heels and Pond an easy third. Coming up a steep hill about half way over the course, Benson drew away by 50 yards and gradually increased his lead. He finished with a superb sprint. Seven men on each team scored.

The order of finish:

Position.	Name and College.	Time.
1	Benson, Cornell	29:49 3-5

BOXING BODY ENDS ARMORY DISPUTE

Announces National Guard Has Withdrawn Protest Against Recent Ruling.

The controversy arising over the State Athletic Commission's recently adopted ruling forbidding licensed boxers or officials from participating in bouts not conducted in licensed clubs was satisfactorily adjusted, temporarily at least, at yesterday morning's meeting of the commission, when representatives of the State National Guard withdrew the Guard protest against the ruling.

Chairman James A. Farley of the commission announced that after a discussion with Colonel William McClover, commanding officer of the Twenty-seventh Division; Captain H. J. Lucas of the 102d Medical Regiment, and Captain L. V. Meehan of the 369th Infantry, the commission was advised that the armory authorities had no objections to the board's latest piece of legislation.

The ruling, as it was adopted at the meeting of Oct. 26 last, follows:

"No licensed boxer or official operating under the commission will be permitted to take part in any bout unless same is held in a club licensed by the commission. To take effect Nov. 15."

Dan Caplin, manager of Sid Terris, accompanied by his attorney, and Terris accompanied by his lawyer, visited the commission in an effort to adjust their differences, but without success. Terris's application for permission to make his own matches pending disposition of their case was rejected by the commission when the litigants failed to agree. Chairman Farley announced the case is one for disposition by a court. Caplin, it was learned yesterday, has been offered $15,000 for the contract he holds on Terris, but the proposition did not appeal to Caplin.

The scheduled six-round bout between Joe Lynch, former world's bantamweight champion, and Jack Sharkey, veteran west side boxer, at the Pioneer A. C. next Tuesday night, was ordered canceled. Georgie Mack, Jersey City fighter, was ordered off the New Walker A. C. card scheduled for tonight, because he engaged in a bout at Paterson, N. J., last Tuesday and therefore is not eligible again to box until six days have elapsed.

LEHIGH READY FOR BATTLE.

Tapers Off for Rutgers Game Today. With Long Signal Session.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 12.—A long signal drill this afternoon completed the preparation of the Lehigh football team for the game against Rutgers tomorrow in the last home stand of the season.

It became definitely ascertained today that Captain Littell will not be able to play. The big tackle still shows the effects of the hard game at Bucknell. Cresswell and Kirkpatrick, two second string linesmen, showed up well, and, while only one will start, both will see service tomorrow.

Ben Levitz, a strong defensive back, will be unable to start. Levitz and Holtz, the latter an end, were injured in the Bucknell game.

BOXING BOUTS TONIGHT.

New Walker A. C.—Tony Canzoneri vs. Mush Kelly, Pancho Dencio vs. Joe Scalfaro, Kid Alberts vs. Pierre Gandon, Cy Schindel vs. Joe Walcott.

Ridgewood Grove S. C., Brooklyn—Mike Belcrino vs. Joe Glick, Joey Silvers vs. Bobby Barrett. Two ten-round bouts.

BUD DEMPSEY LOSES TO KERSCH IN THIRD

MANCINI SCORES EASILY

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Lew Kersch, east side featherweight, was credited with a knockout victory over Bud Dempsey, veteran Yorkville hattier, in the third round of their scheduled six-round star bout last night at the Pioneer A. C. An accidental butt which opened a nasty gash under Dempsey's left eye led Referee Jack Goodney, on the advice of Dr. Joseph Bier, to refuse to let Dempsey respond to the bell for the third round.

The action of the referee halted what promised to develop into a spectacular struggle. Though Dempsey was physically in good condition, aside from the severe laceration on his face, he will be charged in the records with having suffered a knockout.

The head-on collision which resulted in the stopping of the bout came after two minutes of the first round. Accidentally hutting his rival, Kersch opened an old cut under Dempsey's left eye from which the blood gushed forth. Referee Goodney wanted to stop the bout after the first round, but Dempsey pleaded so earnestly that the referee and Dr. Bier, a State Athletic Commission physician, consented to let the battle continue.

Dempsey, though full of fight, bled so profusely in the second round under Kersch's drives to the face that the officials had no other alternative but to stop the fight at the completion of the second round.

Dempsey protested against the official interference but the interruption was for his own good. Kersch weighed 128½ pounds and Dempsey 131.

Mancini Wins Easily.

Alf Mancini, Italian welterweight, had an easy time winning the decision over Paul Guiotta, east side New York lad, in the six-round semi-final. Mancini, carrying a steady two-fisted attack from first bell to last, won every round and at the finish had a one-sided margin on points.

Guiotta opened the battle with a hard right cross to the jaw, but was immediately forced to the defensive under Mancini's counter fire. Mancini never relinquished the offensive thereafter, forcing Guiotta about the ring under a steady fire of rights and lefts to the head, face and body at long range and at close quarters.

Mancini was particularly effective at infighting, but outscored Guiotta as well at long range. Mancini weighed 145 pounds and Guiotta 142½ pounds.

Baldock Batters Lorenzo.

Teddy Baldock, English featherweight, battered game little Tommy Lorenzo of the east side through every one of the six rounds they were in the ring, and at the final bell received a well-earned decision. Only Lorenzo's gameness and recuperative powers enabled the east side lad to survive the six rounds.

He was floored twice during the bout, once in the second round and again in the fourth session, under terrific rights to the jaw, and several times was sent staggering around under Baldock's relentless fire.

Baldock weighed 122 pounds and Lorenzo 122¾ pounds.

James J. Braddock, New Jersey's light heavyweight, won the decision over Lou Barba, Italian heavyweight, in their six-round bout. Barba proved something of a surprise for Braddock, who entered the ring with a record of fifteen straight knock-outs. It was an interesting bout, in which Braddock established his right to the decision rather handily. Braddock weighed 169¾ pounds and Barba 158.

Siegel Knocks Out Shapiro.

Willis Siegel, east side featherweight, knocked out Irving Shapiro of Brooklyn in one minute and 30 seconds of the fifth round of their scheduled six-round bout. Referee Jack Goodney stopped this bout when Shapiro was hopelessly outclassed. Siegel weighed 127½ pounds and Shapiro 135.

In the first of the scheduled six-round bouts Eddie Goldberg, St. Louis lightweight, knocked out Al DeWitt of Croton in the second round. A right to the jaw dropped DeWitt after two minutes of the second round, and although he arose DeWitt was in no condition to continue and the bout was stopped. Goldberg weighed 133 pounds and DeWitt 137½.

In the opening bout of four rounds Max Damsay, Bronx featherweight, won the decision over Abe Rosenberg of the east side.

100,000 Hail the Sparta Team Upon Its Return to Prague

PRAGUE, Nov. 12.—The Sparta soccer football team returning from the United States received an enthusiastic welcome today from more than 100,000 who gathered outside of the station and along the streets. When the team arrived a procession was formed, which with bands playing, flags flying and choirs singing, marched through the city. Banners bearing the inscription, "Hail Chechoslovak Victors," were carried by sporting organizations and rival teams. Official representatives of the Government met the team at the railway station.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 12.—Ralph Greenleaf captured his fifth consecutive victory in the world's championship pocket billiard tournament here tonight when he defeated Andrew Ponzi, 125 to 61, in fourteen innings. The victory put Greenleaf on even terms with Erwin Rudolph for the lead. Rudolph was idle today.

Greenleaf won his game by playing carefully in contrast to the more daring shots of his opponent and waiting for the breaks, which came in the thirteenth inning.

Harry Oswald, Pittsburgh dark horse, won his fourth victory of the competition, defeating Charles Harmon of Glendale, L. I., 125 to 92, in a well-played game. Oswald, whose winning has been the sensation of the tournament, was hard pressed at times, but he possessed the reserve strength to come through in the late innings.

Playing a very steady and heady game, Arthur Woods of Pawtucket, R. I., defeated Pasquale Natalie of Baltimore, 125 to 95, in twenty-four innings in the afternoon. Both participants furnished the matinee spectators with plenty of good shooting. Few safeties were called and the scratches were few and far apart. Woods made a run of 30 in the seventeenth inning.

Frank Taberski captured his fourth game in five contests by defeating Harold Pindle, the Wisconsin entrant, in the final night match, 125 to 22, twenty-six inninge.

Third Pimlico Serial Weight-for-Age Race Goes to Mars

MARS EASILY BEATS PRINCESS DOREEN

Winner of Second Pimlico Serial Takes the Third by Two-Length Margin.

RACE TWO-HORSE CONTEST

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 12.—Mars, Walter M. Jeffords's three-year-old son of Man o' War and Christmas Star, won the third of the Pimlico's Serial weight-for-age races here today, and he won it much more easily than he did the second, at a mile. This afternoon's race was a furlong further and Mars had only one horse to beat, his sole opponent being the Audley Farm's mare Princess Doreen, greatest money winner among the mares in America.

The race was ruined as a contest by scratches, and while the two kept right together for most of the journey Mars drew away when Coltiletti called on him and was going easily at the end to win by two lengths. Mars carried 120 pounds, being in receipt of three pounds from the mare, and ran the distance in 1:54 flat. The winner paid $2.60 in the mutuels, investors receiving a return of $3 on every $10.

The race was worth $3,625, making a total of $7,050 that the son of Man o' War picked up in the last two races of the series, H. P. Whitney's Croyden having captured the first.

Track at Its Best.

The sun looked down from a cloudless sky on the spectators at the next to the last day of the meeting of the Maryland Jockey Club and it would have been most enjoyable but for the chilling wind. The racing strip was at its best and there was another big tournout.

Only five had been named overnight for the day's feature, but three declined to take a chance with the mare and the Man o' War colt. Sam Hildreth scratched out the Rancocas pair, Celidon and Nedana, and Lee Rosenberg's filly, Extra Dry, also was kept in the barn.

With only two to send away Starter Milton caught Mars sideways and the colt jumped way out toward the outside rail when the barrier snapped. That gave the mare the chance to take the lead and she showed the way around the clubhouse turn and down the backstretch. Then Coltiletti let out a wrap and Mars ranged up alongside. They ran as a team for a piece but around the last turn Mars began to draw out on the Princess and swinging for home assumed a clear lead.

In the run down the homestretch Mars had the race so well in hand that it was evident that he could not be beaten barring an accident and there was little enthusiasm. Coltiletti was looking back all the way and Mars was going in the easiest possible fashion. The fractional times of the race were as follows: 0:23 3-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:13 4-5, 1:40 1-5 and 1:54.

Three Tumbles in 'Chase.

A series of casualties marked the second round of the Consolation Steeplechase, the last contest through the field of the Eastern racing season. At the jump on the lower turn C. C. Smithson's filly, Oriental Hope, came down heavily with R. Watkins, whose injuries were serious enough to require the services of the ambulance.

On the backstretch J. R. Macomber's Pete the Scribe parted company with F. Duncan, while at the final obstacle Ral Parr's Kangaroo tossed off G. Mergler. Neither of these two boys was injured.

Kangaroo was the favorite in the field of five that started. Oriental Hope made the pace as far as he went and, after Kangaroo was out of it, the Kershaw Stable's Autumn Belle just galloped home ten lengths in front of the Raritan Stable's Rip.

The winner paid $8.30 in the mutuels and Rip $4.90 for the place. As only two horses finished it materially benefited those who took Rip to show, as they received $7.70 for each $2 ticket.

DONNACONA BRINGS $39,000 AT SALE

$22,000 FOR BROOD MARE

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 12.—A string of 22 horses, the property of Mrs. Louise Viau, went under the hammer at the Tattersall sales here tonight for a total of $95,000. The sale was conducted by the Kentucky Sale Company. The bidding was kept at a brisk pace and all sales were opened at a nice figure.

The top price of the lot and also the top price paid for a brood mare during this sale was $22,000 for Etoile Filant, bought by Marshall Field of Chicago. Mrs. Viau's realization from the sale represents the largest amount paid for a single lot in the sale up until the time of that sale.

It was soon evident that the Viau horses were to sell for good prices. The sale on the high-priced brood mare was carried at fast speed until the $21,000 figure was reached and the auctioneer held the final bid for several minutes for a higher bid.

Immediately following the sale of Mrs. Viau's horses the imported Donnacona, property of G. W. Loft and Messrs. White and Garnett, was put on the block and sold for $39,000. Colonel P. T. Chinn was the purchaser. This is the highest price that has been paid for any horse at the present sale.

Following is a list giving the name of each Viau horse sold, its purchaser and the price paid:

Autumn Belle was well up all the way and closed gamely in the last half mile. He had no contention after Kangaroo lost his rider at the last fence. Rip was outpaced all the way. Kangaroo was going well when he made a poor landing at the last fence and lost his rider. Oriental Hope had plenty of speed, but fell at the ninth jump. Pete the Scribe lost his rider between jumps.

Miracle trailed back of the field to the stretch, where he came very wide, but closed gamely and won going away. Doto forced the early pace, took the lead in the stretch and held on well. Giant saved ground on the turn and had no excuse. Grierson was well up all the way, but weakened in the stretch. Grange broke slowly and was taken wide all the way. All Blue showed speed for a half mile.

TWO REMAIN IN TIE FOR SQUASH LEAD

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

The Columbia Club and Yale Club teams stand alone at the top of the ranking in the metropolitan Class B squash tennis tournament as the result of play completed yesterday. Both teams have a clean slate, with four victories and no defeats. The Columbia Club, present Class B champion, advanced to an easy 6-to-1 victory over the Gramercy Park Club team in a match played on the courts of both clubs.

The Yale Club victory, however, came after a close struggle. Yale won from the New York Athletic Club team, 4 to 3, on the Winged Foot courts. At the beginning of play yesterday Columbia, Yale and the New York A. C. teams were tied with three victories and no defeats.

The Elis' victory hung on the final match, as the score stood 3 to 3 when J. S. Davidson of the Yale Club and J. C. Rochester of the N. Y. A. C. took to the court. Rochester won the first game by 15—9, but Davidson made a fine rally and evened the score by winning the next game, 15—3. The final and deciding game was a close contest all the way, with Davidson's superior staying powers finally carrying the day by a 15-to-10 score.

By dropping a point in the scale the New York A. C. fell into a tie with the Interfraternity Club team, which scored a 5-to-2 victory yesterday at the expense of the Crescent A. C. team. The match was played on the Interfraternity courts. The other victors yesterday were Harvard Club and Princeton Club. Princeton defeated the Short Hills Club, 5 to 2, on the Princeton courts and Harvard won its first match in the tournament by a 5-to-2 score over the Montclair A. C. team. This match was played on the Harvard Club courts.

The summaries:

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Irregular Advance in Stocks—Money Slightly Firmer—Francs Rise Sharply.

A very irregularly distributed rise on the Stock Exchange and a slightly firmer money market divided attention yesterday with the swiftest recovery in cotton that has occurred on any day since the season's low price was touched, and with one of the most rapid advances in the franc that has occurred this season. The stock market's advance lacked uniformity. A few shares moved up 2 to 6 points under concentrated buying, but most of them lost part of the gain before the day was over. In the meantime other changes for the day were slight and there were some declines. The day's particular activity and the noticeably large advances occurred in the group of stocks which led in the midsummer rise and the October reaction. General Motors stock, whose extra dividend was made the basis for the advance in the shares referred to, closed at a net decline. But that has usually happened when the "good news is out," which had been the ground for a previous prolonged advance.

Yesterday's recovery in cotton brought the price nearly ⅝ cent per pound above the low price of Oct. 26. Spot cotton, in fact, went above the 13-cent level for the first time since Oct. 18, when the department's crop estimate still stood in the neighborhood of 16,000,000 bales, as against last Monday's 17,918,000. The scope of this recovery in price reflects partly the extravagance of the predictions of hardship put out by the Southern press, but largely also the greatly increased buying for home and foreign mills, on their conviction that the price had gone intrinsically too low. We shall now probably see what orderly marketing will do for the cotton-growers, as contrasted with the decidedly disorderly marketing which prevailed three weeks ago.

Sterling rose to a rate ⅛ cent above the season's low level, reached barely a week ago. It is noteworthy that the rate, which was then nearly ½ cent below the same date last year, ruled yesterday ¼ cent above 1925. Yesterday's rise in the franc did not carry its price to the highest of the season, reached in the middle of last week. But it ran close to that figure and, at yesterday's best price of 3 1-3 cents, had scored a net advance of 71⅝ per cent. from the price of July 20. This was a fairly appropriate greeting from the market to the reconvening French Parliament.

The Deputies reassembling at Paris yesterday had another picture of the currency movement presented to them. The report of the Bank of France, postponed from Thursday because of Armistice holiday, showed that most of the previous week's Government borrowings for settlement week had been repaid; the Treasury's debt to the bank having thereby been reduced to a total 2,300,000,000 francs below the July maximum. Note circulation, partly in consequence of these repayments, was reduced in the past week 723,800,000, after the preceding week's expansion of 1,072,500,000. The bank currency now outstanding is less by 505,000,000 francs than a month ago and by 2,232,000,000 than the high figure of August, and the reduction will go further in the next two weeks. Coupled with the exceptionally large reduction in discounts, these changes during the past week prove first that the public revenue is rising steadily; second, that strong and skillful hands are conducting the bank's operations with the currency.

Mercantile trade reviews at the week-end are still a bit bewildered over what appear to them extremely conflicting commercial weather signs. One of them, however, makes the sensible comment that the apparent confusion may be caused by the fact that comparisons of trade are now being made with highly stimulated activity at this time a year ago. All admit that, while different industries make different showing, "the balance is rather on the favorable side," with "no indication of any general setback." Even the bugbear of low cotton prices as a blow to industrial stability is admitted now to be obscured by evidence that, under these inviting prices, "production of cotton goods has been stimulated and employment of workers increased."

Guaranteed 8% Bonds

We endorse each bond guaranteeing interest and principal, which we collect and pay promptly. Bonds are secured by first mortgages on centrally located office buildings, commercial property, hotels and apartments in Florida worth twice amount of loan, as determined by independent appraisals. We sell individual 8% mortgage loans known as "standard life insurance company loans." Many insurance and trust companies purchase our securities. Our company, established seven years ago, specializes in first mortgage loans. Interest payable New York City if desired; titles insured by New York Title and Mortgage Company. STANDARD DELAYS ITS CALL FOR STOCK

EARLY DECISION EXPECTED

Wall Street Looks for It Today or Monday—Bond Issue at 4½ Per Cent. Reported.

Action on the proposed retirement of the $200,000,000 of 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey was deferred at yesterday's special meeting of directors, hnt it was clearly indicated in Wall Street that a definite plan for calling the stock will be announced soon, possibly by Monday.

The most influential stockholding groups in the company, including the Rockefeller interests, are understood to have approved the plan of retirement in its broad aspects, and it only remains for an agreement to be reached as to the details of the financing. Stockholders are entitled to notice of any proposed retirement thirty days in advance of a dividend date, and since the next divident date is Dec. 15, the directore will have to reach a decision by Monday if the stock is to be called in the current year.

There was talk yesterday of deferring the call three months, but interests close to the management felt fairly confident that some announcement would be made today or on Monday.

After yesterday's meeting of the directors the following statement was given out:

"The retirement of the preferred stock of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has been under consideration for some time. A financing operation of such magnitude involves many important considerations of moment to the company and its shareholders, and these considerations are still occupying the attention of the board. The subject was discussed at today's meeting of directors and no action was taken."

Various financing plans were discussed yesterday in connection with the proposed operation, hnt the project which is understood to have received the most serious consideration from the company's management and its bankers is as follows:

A public offering of $125,000,000 of 4½ per cent. twenty-year bonds, with no conversion privilege.

An offering to stockholders of 3,400,000 shares of additional common stock at par, $25, in the ratio of one share of additional stock for each six owned.

Such a plan would yield the company approximately the amount required to call in the preferred stock. It was believed that the company would have no great difficulty in selling $125,000,000 of its bonds on a 4½ per cent. basis. Its bankers are said to have approved a plan that closely approximates the above, although no official information to that effect could be obtained.

Banker Optimistic for Europe.

An optimistic picture of Europe's financial future as ganged by the interest of American bankers in competing for foreign bond issues was drawn by Alfred O. Corbin of F. J. Lisman & Co. yesterday. He declared that at least $1,000,000,000 worth of foreign bonds and other securities originating abroad will be sold in the United States during the current year. He said the bankers had investigated the businesses or governments on which these securities rested and had found them sound.

Federal Reserve's Cuban Plan.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—The Federal Reserve Board has opened hearings on its plan to consolidate the Boston and Atlanta reserve branches in Cuba and place the new organization under control of the Atlanta bank. Officials from Atlanta, Boston, New York and Cuba have been heard.

FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

De Beers Mining ⅝ lower at 18⅝; Rand Mines ¼ lower at 3⅝; London, Midland & Scottish Railways Consolidated shares 1⅛ higher at 74⅛.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—Prices were heavy on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 75 centimes higher at 50 francs; 5 per cent. war loan 2 francs 5 centimes higher at 59 francs 30 centimes.

Exchange on London 4 francs 5 centimes higher at 59 francs 30 centimes. The American dollar was quoted at 29 francs 76 centimes, against 30 francs 86 centimes on Wednesday.

BANK SKYSCRAPER DELAYED

Chase National Officials Deny Plan for New Building Is Ready.

A report in Wall Street yesterday that the Chase National Bank was preparing to build a $10,000,000 thirty-story office building on the former site or the Mechanics and Metals National Bank, merged this year with Chase, was met hy a statement by Chase executives that no decision had yet been reached on the bank's real estate program.

It has been known for months that Chase is considering a plan for a new skyscraper home on the land it acquired in the Mechanics and Metals merger. Last January, just prior to the consolidation, the Mechanics and Metals purchased the building at 62 Cedar Street, adjoining its own building. The tenants were notified to vacate in June. With one or two exceptions the Cedar Street building is now vacant. The two properties offer a site for a skyscraper in Nassau Street extending from Pine to Cedar Street.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Sterling, Francs and Lire Higher —Strong Cables From Abroad Help.

There was a noticeably improved tone in the market for foreign exchanges yesterday, in which advances running from good-size fractions to as much as 10 points were spread over the list. Business was not as heavy as the hreadth of the upturn would indicate, quotations for the most part having been "talked up" on the basis of an initial display of strength abroad which hrought all descriptions here at improved levels overnight.

The factors which counted for the enthusiasm included repeated assertions of the close approach of the end of the British coal strike; the vote of confidence which the French Administration received at its opening session, and support for the lire after more than a week of steadily declining prices.

Sterling was in good demand around $4.84⅝, while the Paris franc rose ⅛ cent to 3.33¾ cents. Italian lire finished np 7 points at 4.15¼ cents. Danish and Norwegian kroner were both actively bought in the expectation of still higher prices, with the Holland, German, Spanish and Swiss exchanges strong. Silver currencies continued upward. bnt South Americans tapered from Thursday's levels.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

After advancing confidently during the greater part of the day, prices on the New York Stock Exchange turned irregular in the final half-hour of trading yesterday under the influence of a heavy selling movement. The early upturn was led by a group of "industrial favorites" that included United States Steel, American Smelting and Baldwin Locomotive. General Motors, instead of continuing to advance on the announcement of a $4 extra dividend, sold off rather sharply, closing at 148¾ after touching a high point of 151⅞. Wall Street had some difficulty in explaining this decline. The net loss on the day was only ⅞ point, but that any decline should take place surprised most watchers of the market. The advance in the call-money rate from 4⅛ to 4½ per cent. contributed to the selling movement that developed in the final half-hour, but it was frequently mentioned that a similar stiffening of money rates in the past has been ignored. The late downturn was not sufficient to wipe out some substantial gains that had been made in the earlier trading, but it left the market irregularly changed for the day.

Advance in United States Steel.

In the earlier enthusiasm of the day, Wall Street insisted that the sharp advance in United States Steel common yesterday had its origin in the possibility of favored treatment for stockholders at the next quarterly dividend meeting. The action of General Motors's directorate in declaring a $4 extra dividend on Thursday encouraged the belief in the speculative community that some similar disbursement may be in prospect for holders of Steel. Both companies have the same banking connections, and it was argued that the controlling interests are frequently in accord on matters of policy. Steel shares, like most of the other active stocks, failed to hold their advance at the last. They rose 3½ points and then reacted 1⅝.

Banks Call Loans.

After ruling at 4½ per cent. virtually all this week, the call-money rate advanced to 4½ per cent. yesterday, hut this was not regarded as reflecting any significant change in conditions. The advance followed the calling of about $15,000,000 of loans. The banks, as is customary in the closing days of the week, called loans primarily for the purpose of strengthening their position with the Federal Reserve Bank. This tendency had been foreshadowed by the large drop in discounted hills shown by the weekly statement of the bank. That the fundamental position of the money market had not changed was indicated by continued easiness in rates for time loans.

***

Chesapeake & Ohio.

Offerings of Chesapeake & Ohio during the last few days, which have caused a slight decline in the market price of the shares, have come in the main, bankers say, from small speculators who had hopes of getting a fat guarantee on their stock and taking quick profits. News that the C. & O. would he made the head of the proposed Van Sweringen group indicated that the wait would be a little longer than expected and they became impatient to get into something more lively. The regular C. & O. minority, however, has taken advantage of the decline to increase its holdings, which now are said to be nearer 70,000 than 50,000 shares.

Francs and French Parliament.

The sharp advance in the French franc, which sold yesterday almost one-sixth of a cent higher than the level of Thursday, was stated to have had its origin almost entirely abroad. The market here for the most part merely followed the higher quotations established in Paris, but a decidedly favorable sentiment was reported to banking houses from most of the world centres. This was based largely on the favorable reception given to Premier Poincaré at the opening of Parliament yesterday. The vote of confiedence and other events of the day indicated to financial watchers that little political opposition to the Premier's financial program will make itself felt in the present session. Continued etrength in sterling shared interest with the franc in the foreign exchange market. Favorable prospects for the eettiement of the British coal strike furnished the principal supporting factor in sterling.

"Blind Investments."

One of the peculiar developments pointed out in connection with the new financing for the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is the big advance subscription which has been received prior to the offering by J. P. Morgan & Co., who will head the syndicate offering the securities. These subscriptions were described as "blind" because the terms of the offering have not been announced. They were considered, however, both a reflection of the remarkable ease of money at the present time and also of the popularity of the Standard Oil Company's securities.

Shares of Southern Railways.

At the close of yesterday's market prices of the leading railroad shares indicated that the most substantial gains had been made by the Southern roads, particularly Southern Railway and Atlantic Coast Line. These shares have been affected by the cotton scare, by the Florida hurricane and by a none too attractive future painted in some quarters for the South. It began to be believed yesterday that the gloom has been exaggerated, and that with earnings of close to 7 per cent. on their tentative valuation for the first three quarters of ths year the Southern carriers will show up as well for the entire year as any group of railroads. The sharp rise in cotton yesterday, on reports of large trade purchases, had its part in dispelling the pessimism over these carriers.

Belgium to Mint Silver.

Information received from abroad that Belgium is about to begin the minting of silver coins aroused considerable interest in the financial district. Bankers said the action probably had been decided on because of circulation requirements and was a natural sequel to the recently enacted stabilization plans of Belgium. During the war Belgium, like most other Continental countries, ceased minting silver, and most of her silver coins at that time were melted down, it being considered more profitable to sell the silver metal in the world markets. With the present stage in post-war finance reached, this condition has changed. It was recalled yesterday that silver coinage also plays a rather important part in Italy's financial program.

A Victory for the B. & O.

Recommendation yesterday by Examiner Burnside of the Interstate Commerce Commission that the Reading Railroad be permitted to lease the Lehigh & New England over the opposition of the Pennsylvania was considered in railway circles to be the first important victory of the Baltimore & Ohio in forming its Eastern railroad system. The Lehigh & New England provides one of the two main gateways to New England, and without its ownership through the Reading the new B. & O. system would be handicapped seriously in competing with the Pennsylvania. It now appears likely to railway men that the commission will approve the findings of its examiner according to custom and the B. & O. may devote its energies to absorbing the Reading, of which it now holds a controlling interest.

MONEY.

FRIDAY, NOV. 12, 1926.

Stock Exchange call money was made a little firmer as something approaching $25,000,000 was withdrawn, chiefly for the account of the Government's Liberty interest payments due on Monday. After opening at 4½ per cent., the rate stiffened to 4⅝ in early afternoon, at which figure it closed. In time money, ninety days and four months' featured at 4¾ per cent., while borrowers raised by a fraction their bid to 4⅝. A little more choice name merchants' paper now moves at 4¼ per cent. than previously, yet 4½ per cent. still obtaine for the hulk of the material discounted. Acceptances were firm and unchanged.

READING WINS STEP IN COAL ROAD FIGHT

Lease of Lehigh & New England for 999 Years Recommended by I. C. C. Official.

EXPECTED TO GO THROUGH

Would Speed Coal Transportation to New England, Aid Willard in Strengthening System.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—C. B. Burnside, Assistant Director of Finance of the Interstate Commerce Commission, has recommended that the commission approve the leasing by the Reading Company of the Lehigh & New England Railroad Company for 999 years from Jan. 1, 1927. The lessee would pay a cash rental of $1,069,000 a year, which Mr. Burnside said corresponds approximately with the New England's operating income for 1926, but which, he added, "is said to have no definite basis, being $200,000 less than first asked."

The lease would be conditioned upon the road's maintenance as an open route, for which a plea was entered in behalf of the New Haven. The Pennsylvania opposed the lease outright, claiming undue advantage might be given to its principal competitors, the New York Central and the Baltimore & Ohio, each of which owns 25 per cent. of the capital stock of the Reading.

To Aid Coal Movement.

Pointing out that "the predominant question of public interest in this proceeding concerns the provision and maintenance of efficient short line all-rail routes between New England and the territory southwest of New York Harbor," Mr. Burnside referred to the effect it would have on coal movements to New England as follows:

"Should the lease be approved, it is the announced purpose of the Reading to establish rates via the New England between its own territory and northeastern territory, including New England and Northern and Eastern New York. These rates will include rates on anthracite, the all-rail movement of which the Reading proposes to develop.

"The present movement by barge is decreasing and it is very unprofitable. It is proposed to make the new routes over the New England available to the Reading's connections. It will offer to the Baltimore & Ohio and Western Maryland rates via the New England on bituminous coal to Northern and Eastern New York, and New England territory by way of Campbell Hall and Maybrook, in addition to the New Haven territory to which the bituminous rates now apply. All connections through Shippensburg and Hagerstown, Md., will be offered through rates by way of the New England on merchandise to territory reached through Campbell Hall and Maybrook.

"The Pennsylvania Railroad will be offered through rates over the New England route on merchandise and bituminous coal by way of Rutherford and Milton, Pa., destined to northeastern territory by way of Campbell Hall and Maybrook, also rates on merchandise and coal between Pennsylvania territory and the local territory of the New England using the Reading as an intermediate line. The present interchange between the Pennsylvania and the New England is at Martin's Creek, Pa.

Would Save Distance.

"The substitution of the route over the Reading would result in a large saving of distance, but would reduce the present haul of the Pennsylvania. While establishing these new routes, the Reading declares its intention to maintain every through route and rate in which the New England now participates."

The Reading operates about 1,140 miles of line, chiefly in Northeastern Pennsylvania. The New England operates about 219 miles in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

The Baltimore & Ohio in favoring the lease claimed that it would result in economies, facilitate handling of traffic and possibly increase the movement over the routes in which it participates with the Reading. Over 60 per cent. of the tonnage originating on the New England, it was said, is anthracite coal. With regard to this coal, it was said in part:

"The coal produced on the lines of the New England competes in New York City and other common markets with the coal produced on the lines of the Reading, the Central of New Jersey and other carriers serving the anthracite fields.

"Applying a general principle, the transfer of control of the New England from the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company to the Reading would reduce competition in the transportation of coal produced on those lines. Applying another general principle, the relinquishment of control of the railway line by the coal company is in the public interest. The evils inherent in the common control of tonnage and transportation facilities have been particularly apparent in the mining and transportation of anthracite coal.

Recalls Historic Lawsuit.

"In United States v. Reading Company supra the relations between the Reading and the Central of New Jersey and their controlled coal companies were condemned as inimical to the public interest and as illegal under the anti-trust laws. The transportation by these carriers of the coal produced by their coal companies was also found to be in violation of the commodities clause (paragraph 8, section 1) of the act. The relations between the carriers and the coal companies were ordered dissolved.

"Combining these principles and excluding other considerations, we might conclude that, while the relinquishment of control of the New England by the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, is in the public interest, the control should be transferred to some carrier serving no other anthracite territory.

"We are reminded, under the consolidation provisions of the act, the commission is required in the division of railways into systems to preserve competition as fully as possible; and it is suggested that in reducing the present competition for tonnage between the New England and the Reading and in approving a lease which will give the Reading control of the New England, and may give the Reading and its allied interests a large influence in the management of the Lehigh & Hudson River, the commission will depart from the rule laid down by Congress.

"There is no doubt that public confidence in the Reading's proposal would be increased if it were to divest itself of its stock in the Lehigh & Hudson River."

Expected to Go Through.

Recommendation yesterday by C. V. Burnside that the Reading be permitted to acquire control of the Lehigh & New England is generally construed in railroad circles as an important development in the plan of Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore & Ohio, to build a railroad system of more active competitive character with the Pennsylvania.

Under a gentleman's agreement, the New York Central, joint owner with the B. & O. in more than 50 per cent. of Reading stock, will sell its stock to the latter when the time is deemed propitious for forming the B. & O. system. The Lehigh & New England will then give the combined Baltimore & Ohio, Reading and Jersey Central what is probably the most important gateway into New England. The Jersey Central control rests with the Reading.

The commission is generally expected to accept the recommendation of Mr. Burnside, as it is a rule of the regulatory body to follow the reports of its examiners.

Atlantic Coast Line Gets Road.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad to acquire control of the Columbia, Newberry & Laurens Railroad by purchase of its capital stock. Traffic over the smaller line is to be handled, however, on the same neutral basis as in the past, and the line is to be continued as an open route available to the Coast Line, Seaboard Airline and Southern railways.

$653,735 for Simms Petroleum.

For the nine months ended on Sept. 30, the Simms Petroleum Company reports a net profit of $653,735, after interest, depreciation, depletion, &c., which is equal to 95 cents per share, par $10, earned on 686,283 shares of stock. This compares with $2,307,760, or $3.36 a share, earned on 683,762 shares in the same period of last year. For the third quarter of this year the company's profit was $306,423, or 44 cents a share, as against $221,613, or 32 cents a share in the preceding quarter, and $500,125, or 73 cents a share in the third quarter of last year.

NEW BONDS TAKEN TOTAL $70,755,000

Week's Offerings Compare With $52,030,720 in Corresponding Period Last Year.

LARGEST ISSUE FROM BERLIN

Most Important Financing Now in View Is by Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Several large issues that reached the market yesterday were responsible mainly for bringing up to $70,755,000 the total of new bond offerings for this week. This compared with $54,062,000 last week and $52,030,720, in the corresponding week of last year.

The offerings, by groups, of this and last week follow:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Railroad	$17,821,000	....
Foreign	15,000,000	$32,000,000
Public utility	14,650,000	4,925,000

Territorial	....	1,500,000
Farm loan	....	730,000
Total	$70,755,000	$54,062,000

Activities in new financing were on a limited scale during most of the week and one day was devoid of new offerings. Toward the close of the week, however, there was a rush with one foreign and several domestic issues, the largest consisting of a $15,000,000 loan to the Berlin Electric Elevated and Underground Railways Company. This was handled by a syndicate headed by Speyer & Co.

Two railroad issues were sold, an equipment trust offering of the Illinois Central and a mortgage issue of the Missouri Pacific. The largest public utility offering was one of $11,500,000 bonds of the Northern Indiana Public Service Corporation, which will care for refunding and the company's requirements for new construction. The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company sold $10,000,000 of debenture bonds to be applied to the refunding of subsidiary bonds and additions to the company's properties. The Los Angeles County, Cal., Flood Control District issued $5,000,000 of bonds, and there were other good-sized issues by municipalities in many parts of the country.

The most important financing which the market is now awaiting is the Standard Oil of New Jersey's $300,000,000 plan, the details of which have not yet been decided. The company is to retire its preferred stock, but the controlling interests have not determined the form which the refunding issue will take. The general opinion is that it will consist of a large issue of convertible debentures and a new offering of common stock.

The bond market was strong most of the week. THE NEW YORK TIMES average, both of the domestic and foreign issues, reaching their highest levels of the present year. One of the features was an advance in several United States Treasury issues to the highest prices that they ever have commanded, and this exerted a strengthening influence on the general list. The easy tone to the money market furnished one of the principal supporting factors. Accumulation of foreign bonds continued on the New York Stock Exchange. All new offerings this week were absorbed readily by the investing public.

A loan of $3,000,000 by the City of Montevideo, capital of Uruguay, on which six New York banking groups submitted bids, was awarded yesterday to the Guaranty Company. The issue will bear 6 per cent. interest. The bonds will be offered publicly early next week by a syndicate headed by the Guaranty Company. Montevideo has a 7 per cent. bond issue outstanding in this market, due in 1952. These bonds advanced fractionally yesterday to 101⅝.

Siemens Group to Redeem Bonds.

Redemption of all the outstanding 3-year 7 per cent. secured sinking fund gold bonds, due Jan. 1, 1928, of the Siemens Group of Germany and $122,000 principal amount of 10-year 7 per cent. secured sinking fund gold bonds, due Jan. 1, 1935, will be effected on Jan. 1, 1927. Bonds designated for redemption should be presented for payment on or before Jan. 1, at the office of Dillon, Read & Co.

NEVADA CONSOLIDATED.

Copper Company Reports Net Profit of $2,018,853 for Quarter.

Net profit of the Nevada Consolidated Copper Company and subsidiaries for the September quarter of this year aggregated $2,018,853, after ordinary taxes and depreciation but before Federal taxes and depletion, as compared with $1,720,121 in the preceding quarter and $1,862,448 in the first quarter of this year. For the first nine months of 1926 the company showed a profit of $5,601,422 on this basis. It has outstanding 3,444,807 shares of no par stock.

Operating profit for the third quarter this year was $1,967,384 and other income reached $464,131. Depreciation was $412,662. These figures in the preceding quarter were, respectively, $1,711,797, $421,096 and $412,772.

LOREE ROAD GRANTS INCREASE TO SHOPMEN

Machinists Will Get 3 Cents More Per Hour—Mechanics and Helpers 2 Cents.

The Delaware & Hudson Company, of which Leonor F. Loree is President, announced yesterday that a wage advance, effective next Tuesday, would be made for all shop workers. Machinists will receive 3 cents more per hour and "step" mechanics and helpers 2 cents. Piece workers will receive a proportionate increase.

The Baltimore & Ohio and the New York Central began the present wage increase movement, which now appears likely to include all of the important railways of the East. The Pennsylvania followed suit, then the Lehigh Valley, Lackawanna, Reading and now the Delaware & Hudson. Negotiations are understood to be in progress on the Erie, Central Railroad of New Jersey, and other smaller properties.

The increases have been granted on the theory that the "shopmen had it coming to them." On the other hand the Eastern roads have opposed the 20 per cent. increase asked by the trainmen on the ground that brakemen and conductors are a favored class of railroad employes and now receive more than the other classes.

"The actual wages," they said, "paid to conductors and trainmen, considered in connection with the proportions they bear to the earnings and to the expenses of the railroads, together with various other factors, force the conclusion that increases in wage scales for these classes are not justified and we therefore must decline the requests."

BELGIUM AUTHORIZES NEW SILVER COINAGE

Minting of 800,000,000 Francs Expected to Be in One and Five Belga Pieces.

Information was received by New York banks yesterday of a decree by the Belgian Government authorizing its treasury to mint silver coins up to 800,000,000 francs. Paper francs now in circulation are to be canceled against the issue of silver coins. The silver coinage is expected to consist of one and five belga denominations, the belga being the equivalent of five francs, or approximately 13.90 cents.

The new decree is part of the stabilization plan, under which Belgium recently returned to the gold standard with the assistance of a $100,000,000 international loan and a credit arrangement with the principal central banks of the world. It provides that the National Bank of Belgium shall reduce its circulation by 800,000,000 francs, thereby strengthening the reserve ratio, that the debt of the State to the National Bank be cut by 1,300,000,000 francs, or 240,000,000 belgas, and the function of issuing fiduciary currency of small denominations be restored to the State.

Silver coinage in Belgium, as in most of the other Continental countries, was suspended in the war, when it was found more profitable to melt down the coins then in circulation and sell the silver in the world markets. The present operation also will be profitable, as the new coins will not contain their face value in silver. The difference is expected to be sufficient at least to pay for the silver metal acquired.

BANK SHARES ACTIVE OVER THE COUNTER

Group Continues to Advance in Unlisted Market—All Prices Move Upward.

Stocks on the over-the-counter market yesterday maintained a strong tone. Activity was somewhat pronounced again in the bank stocks section. Gains were made by industrial issues and moderate improvement was noted throughout the rest of the market.

Rumors of a stock dividend or an extra cash payment by Public National Bank brought that stock to the forefront of the bank shares with an advance of several points. Several of the usually inactive shares came into prominence also, and the group as a whole was strong and active.

Johns-Manville added 8 points to its recent gains, and Southern Baking rallied 2 points. Cellulose Products units, with a rise of 1 point, established a new high point for all time. Moderate gains were registered by Phelps-Dodge, Merck & Co. and American Cyanamid preferred. Zieley Processes was an exception, reacting 9 points on the day.

Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad, which has been in good demand for several days, advanced two points. In the utility section there were advances by New York and Queens Electric Light and Power common and preferred, Tennessee Products A preferred, Arizona Power preferred, Alabama Power preferred and American States Securities B.

CITES HIGH STOCK PRICES.

Moody's Finds Investors Holding Off —Looks for Pick-Up.

The following commentary on the market is made by Moody's Weekly Review of Financial Conditions:

"Investors in both stocks and junior bonds have been restrained from buying more freely through the feeling that prices were too high. The present stock market, however, is selling around a 6 per cent. basis, whereas at the peaks of 1880 and 1882 and 1893 it sold around a 5 per cent. basis, and at the peaks of 1902 and 1906 it sold around a 4 per cent. basis.

"Bond prices have gone above the previous high records of post-war times by nearly three-quarters of a point. It looks now as though we should have an excellent year-end demand."

Office of
THE UNION TRUST COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH, TRUSTEE.
Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 1, 1926.
NEW YORK SHIPBUILDING CORPORATION
First Mortgage Thirty-Year Five Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds.
Dated November 1, 1916—Due November 1, 1946.

Pursuant to Section 1 of Article Four of the Mortgage of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation to The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Trustee, dated November 1, 1916, securing its First Mortgage Thirty-Year Five Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, the undersigned Trustee hereby gives notice that the bonds of such issue will be purchased by the Trustee for the Sinking Fund provided in said mortgage, to an amount sufficient to exhaust One Hundred Eighty-seven Thousand Seven Hundred Fifty and Two Hundredths ($187,750.02) Dollars, being the moneys now held by it in such Sinking Fund. The Trustee hereby invites from the bondholders offers for the sale to it on November 22, 1926, of such bonds. As provided in said mortgage, such offers shall in each case be for all or any part of the bonds so offered. The lowest offers to the aggregate amount not exceeding an amount sufficient as nearly as may be to exhaust such moneys now held in the Sinking Fund will be accepted, provided that the price or prices accepted will in no event exceed, in addition to accrued interest, one hundred two and one-half per centum (102½%).

As soon as may be, on or after November 15, 1926, the undersigned Trustee will notify bondholders whose offers are accepted, so that delivery of the bonds covered by such acceptances may be made to the Trustee at its office in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on November 22, 1926.

All offers must be in writing, be enclosed in sealed envelopes, state the number or numbers of the bonds offered, and name the price or prices at which the same are offered.

All offers must be received at the office of the Trustee on or before noon of November 15, 1926.

THE UNION TRUST COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH, Trustee.

RAIL MEN SUM UP FOR WAGE ARBITERS

Walker Speaks for Companies and Sheppard and Doak for 89,000 Employes.

DECISION IS DUE BY DEC. 12

Board Adjourns Until Monday After Complimentary Remarks on Friendliness of Hearing.

Spokesmen for opposing sides in the railway wage dispute presented their final pleas to the Board of Arbitration yesterday, and the long proceedings entered a decisive stage.

After the summing up, which took place in Rumford Hall, 50 East Forty-first Street, the Board adjourned until Monday, when it will meet in secret session and begin work on a decision. This is expected to be a tedious task, with masses of testimony to be studied and discussed, but early next month a decision will be due on the demand of 89,000 trainmen and conductors in the East for increased pay.

Yesterday's arguments were marked by deep earnestness on both sides. J. G. Walber, Vice President of the New York Central Lines and Chairman of the Employers' Conference Committee, had stayed at his office until after 2 A. M. preparing his final address. He spoke two and one-half hours, using statistics and argument to show that a wage increase was not justified. L. E. Sheppard, President of the Order of Railway Conductors, and William N. Doak, Vice President of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, divided the time allotted to their side for a summary.

Figures for Trainmen.

Mr. Doak contended that although traffic on the roads had increased enormously since the war, wages had not kept pace. He said:

"In 1917 the train and yard service employes put in 514,672,000 service hours, while in 1925 they handled the business of the country with only 417,858,040 service hours, or a reduction of 96,813,960 service hours. At the same time these men produced 723,076,940 more freight train miles and 735,769,550 more passenger train miles in 1925 than they did in 1917, despite that fact that there were 3,679 fewer employes of this class."

While the trainmen have admitted that these figures are a tribute to the efficiency of the railroads, they contend that their duties and responsibilities are vastly heavier than they were before the war, when traffic was lighter.

Mr. Sheppard spoke of the hazards of railway employment, the uncertain and irregular hours, the night work, the skill and training required. Then he compared the pay of trainmen and conductors with that of other unionized workers, and asserted that railroad wages had utterly failed to keep pace with the gradual advances that have been going on in other trades.

Differences of Industries

Mr. Walber, for the railroads, took sharp issue with Mr. Sheppard's comparisons. He mentioned particularly the trainmen's oft-repeated comparisons with building-trade workers. He admitted that wages for the building trades had continued to advance since 1923, and said the railroads were not in a position to pass the costs on to their users, their charges to the public being regulated by national and State commissions. He added:

"Our positions with respect to these rates in outside industries is that the conditions under which those rates produce earnings are entirely dissimilar from the conditions under which the rates for our employes produce their earnings."

Mr. Walber said the demands of the trainmen, if granted, would amount to $38,000,000 annually, and that while some roads might be able to pay increases, it was only fair to treat the Eastern territory as a whole. He mentioned "continuing pressure from the public for further reductions in freight rates and passenger fares."

Before the board adjourned the representatives of both sides thanked the arbitrators for their patience during the long hearing. There also was an exchange of felicitations by both sides on the friendly spirit in which the entire arbitration had been conducted.

The arbitrators were allowed forty-five days from the start of the hearings for a decision, which puts the time limit at Dec. 12.

HIGH PRICES FOR YEAR MADE BY CURB STOCKS

Forward Movement Continued, With Industrials in Leading Place—Bond Trade Moderate.

Bullish sentiment prevailed in the Curb Market yesterday and substantial gains in prices were made in practically all groups. Several representative stocks moved into new high territory for the present movement, a few of them reaching their best levels of the year. An advance in the call money rate from 4¼ per cent. to 4½ in the late afternoon failed to disturb the list.

Industrials were more prominent in the day's doings than in the preceding session. United States Gypsum, in response to a recent declaration of a cash and stock dividend, ran up several points to its high of the year at 166, but profit-taking subsequently modified the gain. Celotex common and preferred made impressive gains. Tobacco stocks, under the leadership of Philip Morris "A" and common, which scored new highs for the year, were strong. The sugar group came to life for noticeable gains. Johns Manville ran up 9 points to 162 and Tubize Silk forged ahead. Coal stocks were strong. Stutz Motors rose about a point.

Standard Oil securities continued to exhibit strength. The Indiana shares sold up to 65½, a new high for the movement and the best level attained in months. Prairie Oil, Humble Oil and Standard of New York ruled specially firm. Cities Service, new and preferred stock, led the independent oils by registering new highs for the year. Utilities were steady in the main, but were less active than on the previous day. American Light and Traction led the list.

Bond dealings were in moderate volume and price changes were not conspicuous. However, the new Western Union Telegraph 5s were in demand at 100¾ and Wabash 5s advanced to a new high for the year at 96¾.

Ten Per Cent. Cut in Tire Prices.

Reductions of about 10 per cent. on general lines of tires of the B. F. Goodrich Company and the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company were reported in the financial district yesterday, to take effect soon. This is the first general reduction affected since July 6.

NEW LISTINGS ON THE CURB.

Rulings Also Made on Hungarian and Paper Company Bonds.

Admission to the unlisted trading privileges of the New York Curb Exchange has been extended to 100,000 shares of common stock, no par, and 17,500 shares of 7 per cent. $100 par first preferred stock of the Bearings Company of America; $10,000,000 of 6 per cent. debentures, due July 1, 1943, of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company; 113,076 shares of no par common stock and 28,260 shares of 7 per cent. $100 par preferred stock of the Union Steel Castings Company; $15,000,000 of first mortgage 6 per cent. bonds of 1956 of the Berlin Electric Elevated & Underground Railway; and $11,500,000 of first and refunding mortgage 5 per cent. bonds of 1966 of the Northern Indiana Public Service Company. Admission to listing was granted to 134,225 shares of no par capital stock of the Kawneer Company.

The Curb Committee on Securities has ruled that contracts for Hungarian consolidated municipal loan of 1946 must be settled on Nov. 24 by delivery of interim receipts. Contracts in International Paper Company 6 per cent. debentures of 1941 must be settled on Nov. 22 by delivery of temporary debentures.

DECLINE OF 10.8% IN BANK CLEARINGS

Total for Week Ended Nov. 11 $8,545,851,000, Against Last Year's $9,570,905,000.

LOSS OF 12.9% IN NEW YORK

Decreases Reported by Eighteen of Twenty-three Cities—Short Week in Several.

Bank clearings for the week ended Nov. 11, in the leading cities in the United States aggregated $8,545,[illegible], which was a decrease of 10.8 per cent. from the figure reported for the corresponding week last year, when the total was $9,570,905,000. Many of the cities reporting covered only five days in the week this year, especially cities in the West and South which observed Armistice Day as a holiday.

In this city exchanges this week totaled $5,402,000,000, as compared with $6,199,000,000 last year, or a loss of 12.9 per cent. In the cities outside New York the total of clearings this year was $3,143,851,000, against $3,371,905,000 last year, or a decrease of 6.8 per cent. Of the twenty-three cities reporting clearings this week, eighteen showed losses. The largest losses were in Philadelphia, New York, Buffalo, St. Louis, Richmond, Atlanta, New Orleans and Portland, Ore.

The following table, compiled by R. G. Dun & Co., shows the figures, for this week and the average daily bank clearings for November to date and for three months as compared with the same period last year:

The largest stock of money was $[illegible] on Jan. 1, 1921. The total stock of gold in December, 1924—$4,570,067,375—was the largest ever recorded.

National Supply Company Profit.

The National Supply Company of Delaware and subsidiaries report a net profit of $3,157,963 for the first nine months of 1926 after charges and Federal taxes. This equals, after preferred dividends, $10.47 a share, par $50, earned on 265,900 shares of common stock. For the quarter ended Sept. 30 the company's profit stood at $1,462,[illegible], or $5.03 per share on the common stock.

Philadelphia & Reading Rights.

Several purchasers were said yesterday to be in view for the Baltimore & Ohio and Joseph Widener holdings of rights to subscribe for stock of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal Corporation. The Reading Company has announced its intention of asking no further time extension for the exercise of the rights, but the B. & O. has made no open move toward disposing of its large block.

FRENCH NOTE ISSUES CUT 723,871,000 FRANCS

Treasury Repays 500,000,000 to Bank, Private Discounts Are Reduced 1,795,360,000.

The statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes for the week ended Nov. 10 in francs:

Gold at home	Increased	1,000
Silver in hand	Increased	1,000
Notes in circulation	Decreased	723,871,000
Treasury deposits	Increased	31,990,000
General deposits	Decreased	179,217,000
Bills discounted	Decreased	1,795,360,000
Advances	Increased	117,234,000

The State repaid the bank 500,000,000 francs during the week. Advances to the State now stand at 36,050,000,000 francs, against 31,350,000,000 francs a year ago, and 23,000,000,000 two years ago. On Dec. 4, 1925, the French Parliament fixed a maximum of 39,500,000,000 francs for such borrowings. Previously the legal limit had been placed at 33,500,000,000 francs on Nov. 23, 1925; at 32,000,000,000 francs on June 27 and at 26,000,000,000 on April 16. The advances of 38,350,000,000 francs reached on July 21 of this year were the highest on record.

The principal items in the statement compare as follows with the same date one and two years ago, in thousands of francs:

	Gold.	Circulation.	Disc. &c.
1926	5,548,790	54,926,965	6,478,352
1924	5,544,560	40,635,940	7,477,980

Of the total gold holdings above stated 1,864,321,000 francs are reported as "held abroad."

Under the vote of Dec. 4, 1925, the legal limit on note circulation is 58,500,000,000 francs. The law of July 22 this year transferring to the bank the foreign exchange held by the Treasury raised the limit to the amount of the bills transferred, making it 59,431,000,000. The law of Aug. 10 provides that notes issued to purchase gold or foreign exchange shall not be counted in determining the legal limit. The circulation of 57,293,627,000 francs, reached on Aug. 5 this year, was the highest ever recorded at the Bank of France.

The French bank's official discount rate remains at 7½ per cent., to which it was raised from 6 per cent. on July 31, 1926.

SOVIET OIL MISSION DEPARTS ON OLYMPIC

Leader Says $1,000,000 Will Be Spent Here on Equipment—More in Germany.

Revival of the Russian petroleum industry will not precipitate an oil price war in Europe, it was said by members of a delegation sent here by the Soviet oil trust known as the Grosneft, before they sailed on the Olympic last night. The delegation spent four months here studying American methods of producing and refining oil.

S. M. Ganshin, Vice President of the trust and a member of the delegation, said that as a result of the visit the delegation would book orders for about $1,000,000 of oil equipment here. The bulk of new equipment for the Soviet fields will continue to be bought in Germany. Orders here will be placed through the Amtorg Trading Corporation, buying agency for the Soviet Government.

The Grosneft trust has charge of operations in the Caucasian oil fields. Besides Mr. Ganshin, the members of the delegation were N. I. Rodnesky, technical director; H. N. Ackerman, director of refineries; E. K. Wallen, English-speaking representative, and S. A. Vishetravsky, petroleum engineer.

"While we were received with cordiality in the oil districts we visited, we found some curiosity as to whether it was the intention of the Russian petroleum industry to crowd American oil interests from the European field," said Mr. Ganshin. "However, we are convinced that the consumption of Europe and the rest of the world is more than sufficient to absorb the Russian and American output."

POLAND TO RETIRE ZLOTYS.

12,600,000 in Subsidiary Currency to Be Taken Up Next Year.

Under a decree of the President of Poland 12,600,000 zlotys of subsidiary currency will be retired annually, beginning Jan. 1, according to a cablegram from Warsaw received yesterday by the American Polish Chamber of Commerce and Industry in the United States, Inc. The statutes of the Bank of Poland have been modified, both of these measures having been adopted on the recommendation of the Kemmerer mission.

The economic situation in Poland continues to improve, according to word received by the Chamber. The surplus of revenues over expenses is increasing monthly, and in October this surplus amounted to 22,000,000 zlotys. Consequently, it is declared, no increase in taxation is necessary.

RAIL EQUIPMENT ORDERS.

Atchison Buying 41 Big Freight Engines From Baldwin Company.

The Baldwin Locomotive Works has booked orders for forty-one heavy freight engines from the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad, twenty-five switching engines from the Seaboard Air Line and thirteen locomotives from the Central Railroad of Brazil. The Northwestern has ordered 100 flat cars from the Bettendorf Company. Inquiries include five combination horse, baggage and automobile cars, two combination baggage and mail cars, ten baggage cars, ten dining cars and eight observation cars for the Union Pacific.

The Southern Pacific has ordered 15,000 tons of steel rails to be used on lines in Texas. The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company received 8,000 tons and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation 7,000 tons.

New York City has just placed orders for about 11,000 tons of cast iron pipe and fittings. The United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company will fabricate about 3,700 tons of them and the Warren Foundry and Pipe Company about 2,500 tons.

RECORD FOR CAR CONDITIONS

The railroads of the country, despite the loading of more than 1,200,000 cars for three consecutive weeks, which represented advances of from 80,000 to 100,000 cars over the same weeks of last year, are maintaining the condition of their equipment. The number of freight cars in need of repair on Oct. 15 was the lowest in five years. On the same date there were 4,242 serviceable locomotives in storage.

Class 1 roads on Oct. 15 had 9,290 locomotives in need of repair while on Oct. 1 there were 8,889.

Reports showed 145,327 freight cars in need of repair, or 6.3 per cent. of the number on line. This was 2,935 fewer than the record established on Dec. 15, 1925, when there were 148,262 cars, or 6.5 per cent. It also was 3,751 cars fewer than the number in need of repair on Oct. 1 of this year.

Surplus freight cars in good repair and immediately available for service on Oct. 23 totaled 79,016, including coal, stock and refrigerator cars.

TRADE REVIEWS FIND BUSINESS IS SPOTTY

LOWER PRICES ARE FACTOR

Cold Weather Spurs Retail Trade in Apparel, but Wholesale Peak Has Passed.

Trade and industry are still highly irregular in activity, trade reviews report, due as much to excellent past comparisons as to new depressing elements. Retail trade returns in particular show wide variations. While cold weather has stimulated heavy wearing apparel lines, shoes and coal, it is apparent that the wholesale trade peak was passed in September.

Industry, while showing recessions in some lines during the past week, made notable advances in others, leaving the balance as a whole rather on the favorable side.

"It has been a week without especially significant movements in financial and commercial circles," says Dun's Weekly Review. "The further easing of money rates marks a somewhat unusual phase for this season, but demands from speculative sources have lessened, and relatively low prices for different commodities tend to reduce the amount of funds required for trade uses. The price element also partly accounts for the decreased bank clearings at a number of important cities, yet the losses in the South apparently result largely from the abnormal cotton situation, which has had a repressing effect on mercantile operations in that section.

"Where a let-down has occurred, as in the steel industry, it attracts attention largely because of the present disposition in many quarters to look for signs of a reaction from the previous high level of activity. That expansion could not continue indefinitely without some check is obvious, but there is no indication now of any general setback, and there are a number of evidences of an exceptionally heavy volume of trade in the aggregate."

"Colder weather over a large part of the United States has given a much-desired stimulus to buying of seasonable goods at retail," says Bradstreet's.

"The week's developments in industry include news of a marked rally shown in October building. Also it has transpired that, despite reports of lowered steel output in October, the actual production was well ahead of October, 1925, and the largest recorded in any October.

"The immediate week's happenings include reports of a slowing down in shoe manufacturing at several important centres, low prices for lumber, possibly foreshadowing a curtailment of output, and low water in parts of North Carolina, making probable a slowing down of some cotton mill operations."

MACHINE COMPANIES MERGE

Aetna and Standard to Become $2,000,000 Corporation.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 12.—Announcement was made here tonight that details had been completed for a merger of the Aetna Foundry and Machine Company of Warren, Ohio, and the Standard Engineering Company of Ellwood City, Pa. The new corporation will be the Aetna-Standard Engineering Company. Its officers will be: President and Treasurer, M. I. Arms; Vice Presidents, R. C. Stiefel and R. J. Wean; Secretary, J. R. Paisley; Assistant Secretary and Assistant Treasurer, I. S. Taylor.

The Aetna-Standard will have a capital of more than $2,000,000. Based on the records of its constituent companies, it will have an annual business of $4,000,000. Its products go to all parts of the world where there are steel or tin mills.

EXTRA BY DU PONT LIKELY.

Directors Expected to Pass Motors' Dividend to Stockholders.

An extra dividend of $3 a share by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. was forecast yesterday as a result of the declaration of a $4 extra dividend by the General Motors Corporation, in which the du Pont organization holds a 25 per cent. common stock interest, or 1,996,243 shares. The $4 extra by General Motors is equivalent to $3 a share on the du Pont common stock.

Directors of the du Pont company will meet on Monday for dividend action, and at that time it is expected the new du Pont stock, resulting from the recent two-for-one split-up, will be placed on a regular annual dividend basis of $7. In addition the company is expected to declare the $3 extra as a bonus to du Pont stockholders.

General Motors' extra increases du Pont's revenue to the extent of $7,984,972. The latter company has received thus far this year $20,129,413 from General Motors.

EXTRA DIVIDENDS DECLARED

United Railways Investment Company to Make Distribution.

Dividend announcements by three companies yesterday included extra distributions by two companies and a 15 per cent. dividend by another.

The United Railways Investment Company of Philadelphia announced a dividend of 15 per cent. on its preferred stock, adding that the company was about to be dissolved and that stockholders would be asked to approve the dissolution on Nov. 23. The last dividend to be paid by this company was 2½ per cent. in scrip in January, 1907. No disbursements ever were made on the common stock.

Standard Oil of Nebraska declared an extra dividend of 50 cents, in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 62 cents. Previously 25 cents extra was paid. The Wabasso Cotton Company, Ltd., of Montreal, Canada, announced an extra dividend of 50 cents for the final quarter, in addition to the regular quarterly of $1.

LISMAN SEES CREDIT OF CHICAGO IN DANGER

Warns of Default on Traction Securities on Arriving to Push Bid for Lines.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Unless Chicago settles its traction problem promptly to avoid defaulting on $165,000,000 worth of securities, the future credit of every enterprise in Chicago, and even of the city itself, may suffer, Frederick J. Lisman, New York banker, warned in a statement issued here today.

Mr. Lisman and his attorney, John Maynard Harlan, are the authors of the Lisman plan by which they and their associates seek to take over the surface lines at the end of the franchise period, Feb. 1.

"The East is vitally concerned, from a security holders' point of view, in the Chicago traction situation," reads Mr. Lisman's statement. "The bulk of these issues is held in the East by insurance companies, estates, educational foundations, colleges and large and small individual investors. The impending default in principal is the largest single default in principal which ever occurred in the United States.

"Unless something is done promptly this huge default will more or less reflect not only on the future credit of all Chicago public utilities, but also on the credit of every enterprise in Chicago and even of the city itself."

STEADINESS IN WOOL.

Prices Lower at Week's Opening, but Recover Later.

BOSTON, Nov. 12 (AP).—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow: "The wool market, which was par to 5 per cent. lower at the first of the week, has practically recovered its loss. Trading has been brisker, as the week advanced, and prices stronger, due chiefly to the stronger market in Australia, where prices have advanced about 5 per cent. on the finer wools, in consequence, largely, of English buying at higher limits, presumably due to the expectation of the end of the British coal strike.

"The foreign markets appear to be near to stabilization. The River Plate markets are more active and some low quotations out of Montevideo a week ago have been bolstered up a cent or more per pound.

"The manufacturers are generally busy and some of them evidently have very considerable requirements yet to cover.

"The first sale of Fall wool in Texas saw most of the wool withdrawn, only a few small lots being sold in the range of 25 to 27 cents."

LIVERPOOL'S COTTON WEEK.

Large Increase in British Stocks and British Imports.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 12.—Weekly cotton statistics are as follows: British stocks, 979,000 bales, against 906,000 bales a week ago, 872,000 two weeks ago, 824,000 three weeks ago and 589,000 a year ago; of which American, 600,000 bales, against 534,000 bales a week ago, 471,000 two weeks ago, 420,000 three weeks ago and 397,000 a year ago. Imports, 134,000 bales, against 94,000 the week before; of which American, 111,000 bales, against 87,000.

Forwarded, 58,000 bales, against 54,000 the preceding week; of which American, 42,000, against 38,000. Exports, 5,000 bales, against 10,000 a week ago; of which American, 2,000 bales, against 9,000. Sales, 40,000 bales, against 44,000 the week before; of which American, 23,000, against 24,000.

BUSIER WEEK IN DRY GOODS

Current Sales Above Year Ago and Road Sales Not Below.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Marshall Field & Co. in their weekly review of the wholesale drygoods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of drygoods showed a slight increase over last week and exceeded somewhat the figure recorded for the same week last year.

"Road sales were considerably better than a week ago and maintained approximately the same volume as during the corresponding period last year.

"There were more customers in market than for the same period in 1926.

"Collections showed an increase over the same period a year ago."

A. M. Byers Earns $2.20 a Share.

The A. M. Byers Company reports for the September quarter of this year a net profit of $419,000, after depreciation, interest, Federal taxes, &c., which is equal, after preferred dividends, to $2.20 a share earned on 150,000 shares of no par common stock. Net earnings after depreciation, Federal taxes, &c., but before interest, were $452,393, while other income reached $27,658. Interest, &c., were $61,051.

WHEAT PRICES DROP EVERYWHERE

Liquidation by Local and Eastern Longs Sends Chicago Level Down 3 Cents.

LITTLE TRADE FOR EXPORT

Trade Is Too Limited to Absorb Offerings—Corn Drags Wheat and Rye Lower.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Liquidation by local and Eastern longs was on in wheat, and with a lack of aggressive support except such as came from shorts and holders of bids prices dropped 2⅞@3⅛ cents from the finish of Wednesday. The close was well toward the bottom, with net losses of 2⅞@3 cents, with a number of stop-loss orders uncovered on the way down. Winnipeg was weak and off 2⅞@3¼ cents from Wednesday, with Buenos Aires down 1@2 cents and Liverpool ½@⅝ pence.

There was little in the news that attracted attention and the limited trade was insufficient to absorb the offerings when Eastern liquidation started and prices declined sharply.

Export demand at the seaboard was very slow, with sales estimated at not over 200,000 bushels.

All deliveries of corn sold at a new low on the crop, prices breaking 2@2¼ cents and the close was at net losses of 1⅞@2 cents, with the market showing a distinctly heavy undertone throughout the day.

Primary arrivals today were 1,223,000 bushels; week ago, 1,575,000; last year, 758,000, and shipments, 533,000 bushels; week ago, 551,000; last year, 438,000.

Oats closed ½ to ¾ cent lower, with little attention being paid to the bullish Canadian crop estimate of the previous day, while rye was 1⅛ cents lower with wheat.

DROP IN WHEAT FUTURES.

Prices of wheat futures on the New York Produce Exchange yesterday broke 3½ cents to 3¾ cents a bushel on lower cables and unfavorable Southern Hemisphere crop news, and the market closed at about the lows of the day. Dullness in export demand and reports that the British strike had been settled brought about general selling and liquidation by those who had bought on an early decline.

RUBBER FUTURES DECLINE.

Trade on Local Exchange Restricted—January Off 30 Points.

Trading in crude rubber futures continued to be restricted on the Rubber Exchange of New York yesterday, although the price level was fairly steady. Five positions were traded in for a turnover of fifty-one contracts.

The maximum decline was 30 points in January. May, with a loss of 10 points, showed the greatest resistance of any position on the list.

In London trading also was quiet, the January-March quarter closing unchanged, and other positions off ⅛d.

Imports at American ports yesterday totaled 5,088 tons, bringing the month's receipts up to 21,046 tons, as compared with 12,021 tons on the same date in last November.

LEATHER STOCK SPLIT UP.

Bankers Report Progress in Plan to Readjust Central's Capital.

Bankers for the Central Leather Company announced yesterday that stockholders of the company are signifying their assent to the capital readjustment plan in highly satisfactory numbers. Although the number of shareholders who have deposited their stock is still small, the bankers averred that it is customary for stockholders to delay depositing until the last minute. The time limit for deposits expires next Monday, and a rush of depositors is anticipated then.

The Central Leather readjustment plan was arranged to do away with accumulations of back dividends on the preferred stock, and to initiate future payments to shareholders. Under its terms each holder will receive for each 100 shares $500 in cash, voting trust certificates for fifty shares of 7 per cent. cumulative prior preference stock, and voting trust certificates for seventy-five shares of no par, Class A, participating and convertible stock, carrying a non-cumulative preference dividend of $4 a share annually, and participating common stock in additional dividends up to $2 annually per share.

Cuyamel Fruit Company's Profit.

The Cuyamel Fruit Company and subsidiaries report for the third quarter of this year net earnings of $15,482, after interest, depreciation and taxes, equal to 5 cents a share earned on 300,000 outstanding shares of no par stock. This compares with $703,280, or $2.34 a share, in the preceding quarter, and $72,457, or 24 cents a share, in the third quarter of 1925. For the first nine months of 1926 the company earned $1,029,180, or $3.43 a share, as against $880,414, or $2.93 a share, in the same period of last year.

LIVE STOCK AT CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Decline in hog values was checked by liberal shipping orders, but the top figure for the day was 30 cents under that of Thursday, with the general average 10 cents lower, at $11.50, while the top was $11.80.

The bulk of the 120 to 200 pound averages sold at $11.50@$11.75, with packing sows largely at $10@$11.

Packers bought 9,100 and shippers 17,000, with 7,000 left over. Receipts were 22,000, with 7,000 estimated for tomorrow.

Fat lambs broke 25c@50c as compared with the bulk of the trading Thursday, with best natives and Westerns selling at $13.65 and the bulk of the sales at $13@$13.25. Sheep were generally 25 cents lower, with main sales at $5@$6.25. Receipts were 11,000.

Cattle were generally steady, with few offered good enough to bring over $10. Best yearlings sold at $11.65, with the bulk of beef steers at $8.25@$10.50. Receipts were 4,000.

COTTON AT HIGHEST LEVEL IN 3 WEEKS

BUYING STARTS IN LIVERPOOL

Foreign Sentiment Is Helped by Prospects of British Strike Settlement.

With the first notice day for December contracts due a week from next Wednesday, increased activity in that position developed yesterday and cotton prices advanced over a quarter of a cent. The improvement started in Liverpool, where sentiment was influenced by progress in negotiations for settlement of the coal strike. Spot interests bought steadily in the process of shifting hedges from December over into later months. For the first time in some weeks the market opened higher and not only maintained the opening gain but recorded a further advance as the session progressed and closed at the top, 25 to 33 points higher than Thursday. Final quotations proved the highest of the past three weeks and trading broadened materially.

Buying of December started with the opening. As compared with a discount of 12 points recently, December strengthened to within 8 points of January and just before the close sold at a spread of only 6 points. The strength of December influenced the whole market and when an upturn of $1 a bale failed to attract Southern selling, prices rose 15 points the last half hour without meeting any substantial quantity of contracts.

The feature of week-end figures was an increase of 328,000 in the visible supply, which brought the total to 5,898,000, the largest since February, 1915, when the record world's visible of 5,882,000 was established. The amount in sight for the week was 800,000, compared with 621,000 last year, making 8,234,000 for the season against 8,870,000 last year. Spinners took 471,000, compared with 419,000 last year, making 4,734,000 for the season against 4,579,000 last year.

Books of the independents in the Youngstown district are being opened on tin plate for the first quarter at the prevailing price of $5.50 a base box.

COMMODITY PRICES.

All Cash Grains React With Contract Options—Lard Establishes New Low.

A sharp break in all the cash grains, following an equally abrupt decline in the contract options, featured the wholesale market yesterday. Lard was also weak, sagging to a new low for the year. Movements in other circles were narrow and unimportant.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday ....4½ per cent. for the best names.
Thursday ....4½ per cent. for the best names.
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Orders for Novelty Ribbons.

An active demand for narrow fancy ribbons for holiday sale and for the manufacture of novelty ribbon merchandise is reported by wholesalers here. Metallic, velvet and grosgrain kinds are moving best in this merchandise. A steady call is also reported for the staple satin, moire and taffeta ribbons. Millinery manufacturers are buying belting ribbons for hats for both immediate and Spring sale. General Spring lines are now being prepared in the ribbon trade and will shortly be offered.

Call for Men's Shoes.

Little change in the demand for men's shoes of the better kinds is reported here. Business for "at once" delivery is seasonably active, and a steady though not unusual demand is reported for Spring lines on the road. The attention that has lately been given to higher heels on men's shoes for Spring by the press has apparently interested dealers in them more than they were at first, but it is not thought that there will be much demand for the extremes that are shown by certain manufacturers. Another novelty, which so far has not taken any too well from all accounts, is the button oxford for men. Some styles are shown in combinations of leather, but the greater portion of them are in solid calf. Narrower toes, in keeping with high heels and the general impression of lightness that is sought, seem to be taking well for the new season.

Gray Goods Sales Fair.

A fair amount of business was put through in the local gray goods market yesterday, a good portion of it being done on printcloths. Sales of these fabrics embraced spot 38½-inch 64-60s at 6⅞ cents and contracts from January on at 6⅞ cents. Spot business was put through in 39-inch 72-76s at 8¼ cents, and sales of 39-inch 68-72s were made at 7½ cents. Among the sales of sheetings were 36-inch 56-60, four-yard goods at 8¼ cents and 37-inch 48-square, four-yard cloths at 7 cents. For 36-inch 5.50-yard sheetings, 5⅛ cents was paid. Not much was done in the specialties, but the business in fine yarn cloths included several constructions of broadcloths. Among them were contract sales of 114-76s and 128-68s at 13¾ and 15½ cents, respectively, and actual spot sales of 100-60s at 11¼ cents.

Cold Weather Helps Gloves.

Reorders for men's gloves have been coming through from stores in some sections, but general stimulation is dependent on continued cold weather. Capeskin and mocha gloves are having the most call. Manufacturers say, however, that consumers have been showing increased interest this year in gloves of varied leathers, including pigskin and buckskin. As gifts it is believed these types will do well during the next few weeks. Tan and gray are the leading shades. Credit managers of glove concerns say that, while there is slight backwardness in payments from some sections, the general credit condition is better than last year at this time.

Overcoats Still Being Cut.

Manufacturers here are continuing to make up overcoats on a large scale. It is rather unusual for manufacturing activity in these garments to go on at such a high rate as late as this. Moreover, shipments are going forward steadily to city retailers and near-by ones, with comparatively little stock accumulating. Later calls by the stores, it is believed, will absorb production, particularly if there is a sustained cold spell. Selling agents say that the activity in overcoats is holding back for the time being the expected expansion of the demand for stock suitings.

Strike Ending Helps Somewhat.

With the coat strike settled, manufacturers of women's coats are preparing to go into the Spring season free of some of the handicaps that beset them through the Fall. One of the immediate results of the settlement will be a greater placing of orders for Spring fabrics by the manufacturers. Much of this business had been held back until the labor skies cleared. More models and sample garments will be prepared for the Spring, although opinion is divided as to the benefits of a marked variety of models. Inasmuch as the Spring is usually a long-drawn-out season, leaders in the trade say that production will have to be very carefully watched in order to avoid surplus stocks. Even with a strike on its hands during the Fall, the trade had some overproduction, it is pointed out, so that proper regulation becomes more necessary with a full complement of labor for the Spring.

Knitwear Openings Coming Soon.

Spring and Fall lines of knitted outerwear will be opened on Nov. 22 at the Great Northern Hotel, Chicago. A full representation of Eastern manufacturers will be had. The Cleveland group of manufacturers, however, it was said yesterday, will not be ready with their lines until Nov. 29, owing to continued active seasonal demands. Outerwear manufacturers are quite confident over the prospects for the new season, following the good business of the last few months. All of them will feature one staple model that will enable jobbers to buy with confidence. Sports types of garments will be stressed for the Spring season in wide variety.

Jewelry Prospects Brighter.

Reports from the jewelry trade indicate a more optimistic frame of mind on the part of manufacturers than was the case a few weeks ago. Although competition between producers is extremely keen, retail sales appear to be keeping up at a rate which presages an active holiday business. Out-of-town reports show New England and the South to be somewhat off color in a commercial way, but jewelers in other sections of the country appear to be taking goods in a normal manner. A feature of the present demand was said yesterday to be the growing call for articles made of yellow gold, which had been "out" for some time. Another is the favor shown woman's rings of green gold in the Pacific Coast section. The call for betrothal rings for men, which is slowly increasing, is a third. Sellers of strap watches for men tell of an extremely good demand for them.

Burlap Prices Lower Here.

Lower prices and a more or less general lack of demand for goods other than spots has marked the week in burlaps here. Yesterday there was a fair interest in November shipments but, generally speaking, the market is in an unsatisfactory condition. Bids are few, and most of them are too low for acceptance by sellers. Calcutta, however, is reported very firm, with yesterday's prices unchanged from Thursday's. Local prices have dropped off 5 points on lightweight goods in the last week, and from 10 to 15 points on heavyweights. A feature is the strength of spot 36-inch 8-ounce goods, quoted at 7¼ cents. These were the prices quoted here yesterday on standard 40-inch burlaps by C. E. Rockstroh & Co., Inc.:

Nov. shipment	6.55c	8.35c
Dec. shipment	6.50c	8.25c

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

A Large Proportion of Increases Was in the Foodstuffs.

The changes shown in Dun's list of wholesale commodities prices this week were exactly equal to those of last week, but, while there were 46 declines in 80 revisions then, there were only 43 reductions indicated in the current list. Nearly a third of all the changes took place in the foodstuffs portion of the general list. Aside from a numerically large break in hides, other features were lacking.

The following table gives the minimum prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

Twenty-five of the week's changes were confined to the foodstuffs, and in them were thirteen advances. In the local market for provisions all of the changes in flour were upward. Spring patent and Winter soft straight went up 20 and 25 cents a barrel, respectively, and there was also a rise of 10 cents a barrel in fancy Minnesota flour. Middle Western lard was lower here, but hams and bacon were unchanged. At Chicago live beef, hogs and sheep all were cheaper, with mess pork unchanged. Short ribs supplied the only advance.

More than the usual number of changes was seen in the dairy products. The best creamery butter went up 1¼ cents a pound to a price equal to that of a year ago, but all of the other items in the list stayed under the 1925 comparative figures in spite of the advances some of them showed. Special held cheese went up half a cent a pound, and advances of 2 and 5 cents a dozen respectively were seen in fancy near-by and first quality fresh-gathered eggs.

Declines in dried apples and in prunes were the only revisions indicated in the fresh and dried fruits this week. All but one of the changes in the vegetables were also downward. There was a drop in choice pea beans and declines of 15 and 10 cents a barrel respectively were shown by potatoes and turnips. Onions went up 25 cents a bag.

Both of the basic Brazilian coffees easier tone to burlaps was seen. were higher this week, but no change was indicated in tea. Fine granulated sugar was lower and there was also a break in 96-degree raw sugar. A rise in Mombassa red pepper was indicated in the spices, with declines in black Lampong and Singapore white peppers also shown.

The week's changes in the grains consisted of advances in wheat, rye and malting barley, and declines in corn and oats. Leathers were quotably unchanged, and advances in hides, except for a rise in Chicago calfskins, were also lacking. Declines in the latter were shown in No. 1 native packer, No. 1 Texas, Colorado, heavy native cow, branded cow, No. 1 buff and No. 1 extreme stocks. Tallow declined.

All of the changes in the metals were upward, the rises occurring in No. 2X pig iron, Bessemer pig iron, antimony, electrolytic copper, zinc and tin. The listed lumber and building materials were without change either way. In the combined lists for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils there were fourteen changes this week, only six of which were advances. None of the changes was of particular interest. In the naval stores turpentine went up this week, while a further decline took place in resin.

American litharge and American red lead paints were cheaper this week, and there was also a drop in chip boards in the paper list. In the latter was also a rise in No. 1 old paper mixture pulp. In the miscellaneous changes were rises in hay, hemp, jute and Eastern crude rubber and declines in furnace coke and wool.

The feature of the week in the textiles was the reductions made in bleached wide sheetings, sheets, pillow cases, &c. Not much change took place in the other markets, although Hard Coal Demand Slumps.

A falling off in demand, both wholesale and retail, is being experienced in the anthracite trade, Saward's Journal will say today. The retailers were first to notice the change, which they consider largely a weather condition and one which will end with a few cold days as suddenly as it began. But in the meantime they are ordering out less coal, and are therefore buying less, since they are well stocked up and cannot keep on taking in tonnage faster than it is disposed of. After hesitating a few days, following the violent advance in October, the bituminous market began to react during this week. Softening had previously appeared in the high volatile grades, but the low volatiles held steady for a short while before joining in the retreat.

Long Beach Hotel Keeper Injured.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BEACH, L. I., Nov. 12.—James Moriarty, proprietor of Moriarty's Hotel here, was trapped by fire on the third floor of the hotel today. He hung from a window, but was forced to drop before the arrival of firemen with ladders. Other members of the family escaped safely. Mr. Moriarty was treated at Long Beach Hospital for a sprained back and broken foot. The fire is believed to have started from a defective flue. The hotel was the oldest in the section and was almost totally destroyed.

FIGHTS $1,329,785 REFUND.

Great Northern Takes Order of the I. C. C. Into Court.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 12 (AP).—A complaint was filed in the Federal court here today by the Great Northern Railway seeking to set aside an order by the Interstate Commerce Commission holding the Great Northern was overpaid by the Government in connection with the six months guaranty period following Federal control.

The railroad contends that instead of having been overpaid $1,329,785, as held by the commission, it has, in fact, been underpaid and that no refund is due the Government. It charges the commission made several material errors in estimating the amount of its compensation.

Harwell Realty and Construction Corporation, Nat Harris, President, sold the plot, 100 by 100 feet, at the corner of Metcalf Avenue and 174th Street. This is the second plot of four lots sold in three days out of the entire block bounded by Metcalf Avenue, 174th Street, Harrod Avenue and Bronx River Avenue, consisting of seventy-three lots purchased by the seller last week.

The purchaser in yesterday's deal was William Guggolz. The property was held at $30,000. John J. Reynolds was the broker.

Louis M. Weiss & Co., as brokers, sold for Harry Dubin the plot, 75 by 100 feet, on the east side of Cross Avenue, 200 feet north of 174th Street, to Louis Kaplan.

The same brokers sold for Phillip Oppenheimer the plot, 50 by 100 feet, on the north side of East 174th Street, 50 feet west of Fteley Avenue, to Leader Realty Company.

Albert D. Phelps sold for the estate of W. W. Astor vacant plot, on the north side of 163d Street, 100 feet west of Sheridan Avenue, to Morris Katz, builder, for the erection of a five-story apartment house.

Buys to Protect Light.

Joseph Durst, through his Rochell Realty Corporation, has increased his holdings at Madison Avenue and Thirty-third Street by the purchase from Claudia S. Stone of the four-story building at 175 Madison Avenue, on lot 24.8 by 100 feet. The purchase was made to protect the light of the sixteen-story Burrell Building at the northeast corner. Mr. Durst purchased 173 Madison Avenue in July, 1925, from the Hoagland Corporation.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. leased for Mrs. James H. Kidder her five-story American basement residence at 6 East Eighty-second Street to H. Nelson Slater, furnished, for the Winter season.

J. M. DOPPEL RESELLS A CATSKILL ESTATE

OTHER SUBURBAN SALES

Catholic Church to Improve Plot in Flushing—Houses and Vacant Parcels in Deals.

Eagle Lodge, the former Catskill estate of Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel Jr., near Seager, N. Y., has been sold for John M. Doppel to Samuel Van Boyen through the office of Hamilton Iselin & Co. Joseph Gottlieb represented the buyer.

The property comprises a tract of about 180 acres, improved with a modern fifteen-room lodge, garage, cottage and other outbuildings. It has an elevation of 2,500 feet above sea level and commands an extensive view of the surrounding country. It takes its name from Eagle Mountain, on which the property is situated.

The property was built for Mrs Drexel by her father, the late George J. Gould, and was sold to Mr. Doppel through the Iselin Company about four years ago.

The Rev. John B. Delea, pastor of St. Kavin's Catholic Church at Flushing, has purchased from various owners through the E. A. White Organization, representing the sellers, the block consisting of thirty lots on Forty-fifth Avenue, 194th Street and 195th Street, Flushing, as a site for its church.

The erection of a church of Colonial design, with a seating capacity of 1,000, will be started immediately. This is the third Catholic Church to be started in Flushing in the past four years.

The United Community Corporation sold two houses at 18-57 Casino Place and 22-38 Howland Street, Astoria, L. I., to Frank John Ross and Nicholas Koulcher Delton. Frederick Loeb was the broker.

The Hub Realty Company sold for Otto Knaack the house at 250 Junction Avenue, Corona, on a lot 20 by 100 feet to an investor.

Frank S. O'Hara sold a two-family brick house on the east side of Thirty-second Street, 100 feet north of Polk Avenue, Jackson Heights, for the R. K. R. Building Corporation to James Burke.

The same broker also sold a brick one-family house on the east side of Thirtieth Street, between Jackson and Burnside Avenues, Jackson Heights, to Margaret Lierman for the Thirtieth Street Holding Corporation.

Magistrate Henry A. Bridges and Judge Thomas C. Brown of Staten Island have purchased a plot of ground on Richmond Road, Mount Hope Park, for investment purposes. A. F. Powers is the agent of the property.

Among other recent purchasers at Mount Hope Park are Louis Lanner, Howard B. Miller, Agnes Patty and Otto W. Gentzsch.

The 156 Columbia Heights Company, Louis Silk, President, sold through Fred P. Cody, Inc., two lots, 40 by 100 feet, on Hudson Street, near Lafayette Boulevard, Long Beach, to a builder. Fred P. Cody, Inc., have now assembled a plot of six lots, 120 by 100 feet, on which the same builder will erect four houses for Spring occupancy.

Charles W. Wynne and Louis H. Low have sold the residence with outbuildings, on a plot 155 by 200 feet, at Prior Terrace, Beechmont Park, New Rochelle. The property fronts on Prior Terrace, Ellerton and Clair Avenues. The purchaser is a client of Sharp & Nassoit.

The Homeland Company sold a plot, 50 by 100 feet, facing St. Andrew's Drive, Homefield, Yonkers, to Forest H. Opsal; also a plot, 52 by 124 feet facing Odell Parkway and running through to St. Andrew's Drive, to Charles W. Patrick.

In Shado-Lawn, Hastings-on-Hudson, the company sold to Catherine Ryder a plot, 50 by 130 feet, on Burnside Drive.

A three-acre parcel on the Shingle House Road at Millwood, near Briarcliff, recently sold for Benjamin Acker, has been purchased by Miss Mabel W. Brown, who will improve and occupy. Anne Moehlenpah was the broker.

Last Chapter of the Morrissey in Greenland

The Putnam Expedition noses up alongside a big glacier to fill the tanks from the fresh water streams which flow down the ice into the sea.

Captain Bob Bartlett puts on a diving helmet to look for leaks in the bottom of the ship after she had run on the rocks of Northumberland Island.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 12.—Pressure is high from the Mississippi Valley and Manitoba eastward to the Atlantic Coast (Richmond, Va., 30.50 inches), and it is low west of the Mississippi and over the Canadian Northwest, except Manitoba (Juneau, Alaska, 29.34, and Pueblo, Colo., 29.54 inches).

The eastward advance of the western disturbance will cause southerly winds and rising temperature Saturday and Sunday east of the Mississippi River, and increasing cloudiness over the eastern half of the country, with showers in the lower lake region, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee and the East Gulf States Saturday night or Sunday and in the Atlantic States Sunday afternoon or night.

COUNTRY-WIDE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The following record of observations at United States Weather Bureau stations yesterday: the temperatures given are the highest during the twelve hours from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M. and the lowest during the preceding twelve hours from 8 P. M. to 8 A. M.; the barometer reading and condition of weather are those recorded at 8 P. M., and the rainfall is for the twenty-four hours ended at 8 P. M.

LIGHT CAUSES $70,000 FIRE.

Workman's Lantern Ignites Gasoline as He Primes Truck Engine.

Special to The New York Times.

ALLENHURST, N. J., Nov. 12.—A workman using a lantern to aid him in priming an automobile truck engine with gasoline early today caused a fire which destroyed a hotel, part of the plant of the Boynton Lumber Company and a number of other buildings, with a loss of $70,000. The fire was not under control until several hours after the alarm had been sounded. Fire companies from Ocean Township, Allenhurst, Deal and Asbury Park responded.

Several power wires from the near-by plant of the Eastern New Jersey Light and Power Company were burned, halting the trolley car service. Hundreds of shore workers were compelled to walk or use buses, which were put into service.

John Lesko, whose carelessness is said by police to have started the fire, is a watchman employed by the lumber company.

Public School Notes.

OPEN SCHOOL WEEK EXHIBIT—During this week, which is being celebrated in the public schools of the city as "Open School Week," the biology department of the James Monroe High School has prepared a number of exhibits for visitors. The chief one is a display of living plants and animals taken care of by the students. The collection consists of a variety of seedlings and full-grown plants, as well as turtles, lizards and other animals. On the second floor are a number of pen and ink biological drawings, made by the students from direct observation.

TO PRESENT "PINAFORE"—On Dec. 16 and 17 the combined boys' and girls' glee clubs of the James Monroe High School will present Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pinafore" at the Hunts Point Palace. Preparations have been in progress for the last five weeks.

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Eastern District of New York.—BARNEY SLOBIN, Complainant, against SHORE LUMBER AND SUPPLY CO., INC., Defendant.

Upon the annexed petition of MILTON HERTZ, Receiver of the property and assets of the above-named defendant, duly verified, the offer of ROBERT R. SIZER & CO. and BABCOCK ANGELL LUMBER CO., as amended, and upon all proceedings had herein, it is Ordered that Archibald W. J. Pohl, Isaac Parahelsky and Harry M. Lewis be and they are hereby appointed appraisers to estimate and appraise the value of the defendant's personal property, assets and effects, and also the value of the defendant's interest in the real estate owned by Long Island Importing and Exporting Company, according to their best skill and judgment, and that they file their appraisal with all convenient speed, and that the said appraisers be paid for their services at a sum to be fixed by the Court, and it is further Ordered that the creditors of the Shore Lumber and Supply Co., Inc., show cause at a Stated Term of this Court, to be held in the Post Office Building, Room 224, Borough of Brooklyn, City of New York, on November 29th, 1930, at 10:00 A. M., why an order should not be made authorizing and permitting the Receiver to accept the offer of $30,000.00 made by ROBERT R. SIZER & CO. and BABCOCK ANGELL LUMBER CO. for the Receiver's right, title and interest in and to the personal property of the estate of Shore Lumber and Supply Co., Inc., situated at Pine Street and Magnolia Boulevard, Long Beach, Nassau County, New York, together with certain accounts and deposits due the estate of Shore Lumber and Supply Co., Inc., and the capital stock of the Long Island Importing and Exporting Company owned by Shore Lumber and Supply Co., Inc., also the Receiver's right, title and interest in the real estate owned by Long Island Importing and Exporting Company, all of which real and personal property is more particularly described on the annexed petition, or why the Receiver should not accept any better offer made at the hearing before the Court, and for such other and further relief as to the Court may seem just and proper.

Sufficient reason appearing therefor, 1st service of a copy of this order to show cause upon mailing same to the creditors of the above-named defendant on or before November 15th, 1926, be deemed good and sufficient service.

Dated, November 8th, 1926.
GROVER M. MOSCOWITZ, United States District Judge.
MILTON HERTZ, Receiver, 189 Montague St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

ROLL-CALL NETS RED CROSS $50,667

LEADING WRITERS ENLIST

Stage Folk and Others Also Join in Drive—Investment Brokers Form a Division.

Responses in memberships and subscriptions on the first day of the city's Red Cross roll call totaled $50,667, Howard J. Rogers, Executive Director of the Red Cross in Manhattan and the Bronx, announced last night. Of this amount, $34,459 was contributed through business and industrial committees.

One division which was unusually active yesterday was the authors' and playwrights' group, under George Barr Baker. Among the writers whose memberships were received were Wallace Irwin, Arthur Train, Ellis Parker Butler, Clayton Hamilton, Samuel Merwin, Channing Pollock, Samuel Hopkins Adams, Irvin S. Cobb, James Forbes, John Taintor Foote, George Barr McCutcheon, Henry Sydnor Harrison, Edna Ferber, John Luther Long and Mary Roberts Rinehart. Irving Berlin and Rube Goldberg were others who renewed their Red Cross memberships.

Performers in all the large Broadway productions, at the appeal of Walter Hampden, are preparing to enroll by companies. Several of the girls' and young men's clubs of the city are also answering the roll call on a hundred per cent. basis.

A new addition to the banking division took the field yesterday in the form of an investment house division, led by Donald Durant of Lee, Higginson & Co. Frank Polk, former Assistant Secretary of State, heads the lawyers' division for the city, and Darwin P. Kingsley, President of the New York Life Insurance Company, is Chairman of the life insurance group.

J. STACY HILL TO QUIT AS MANAGER OF HOTEL

Cincinnati Business Man Will Devote His Time to Travel and to Highway Work.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 12.—J. Stacy Hill, President and General Manager of the Hotel Gibson, will retire as General Manager of the hotel on Jan. 1. Mr. Hill has contemplated the move for three years. He has held the post for seventeen years.

Mr. Hill's contract expires this year, and at a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the company he notified the directors that the contract would not be renewed, explaining that he was retiring from service as General Manager so that he might have time for travel and other interests.

Mr. Hill started his career as a clerk at a hotel cigar counter, then became owner of a chain of cigar stands, later buying a controlling interest in the Gibson, in which one of his stands was located.

Despite the resignation from his post of General Manager he will continue as President of the company until the annual meeting in the Spring. Mr. Hill announced that he did not know if he would continue as head of the company after that, much depending on developments in his affairs in the ensuing months.

Mr. Hill declared that the hotel was in fine financial condition, and that this year had been a very prosperous one.

"The hotel has no mortgages and there is a large surplus on hand. The surplus and depreciation reserve amount to $2,000,000," he said.

"For a long time I have desired to travel and I am planning to take a trip to Egypt and Europe. This will come as a wonderful vacation after years of application."

The journey will be made with Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Burton. Mr. Burton recently retired as President of the Burton Range Company.

Mr. Hill also is President of the J. S. Hill Cigar Company of 419 Walnut Street. It is understood that he will not resign from this post for the present. W. E. Hawk is Manager of the Gibson. A successor to Mr. Hill has not yet been chosen.

Mr. Hill is a director of the Dixie Highway Association and other national highway associations.

DRIVE FOR HOME OF AGED.

Plans Outlined in Methodist Episcopal $500,000 Campaign.

More than 200 workers in the campaign to raise $500,000 as an endowment fund for the Methodist Episcopal Church Home, Ninety-second Street and Amsterdam Avenue, in celebration of its diamond jubilee, attended a dinner last evening in the Hotel Commodore. Plans for the campaign were outlined.

George B. Hodgman, Chairman of the Endowment Fund Committee, was toastmaster and other speakers were: the Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of the Madison Avenue Church; Mrs. George W. Downee, wife of the pastor of Centenary Church; William J. Stitt, Chairman of the Special Gifts Committee.

Dr. Sockman said the certainty of a home in old age made for morale in youth. He declared there was an increasing need today for homes for old people who were financially unable to care for themselves.

HEADS WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Mrs. W. H. Purdy Is Elected by Federation—Flurry in Session.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 12.—A motion for a recount of ballots was overwhelmingly defeated, following the announcement of the successful candidates in the biennial election of officers of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs at its closing session today.

Mrs. William H. Purdy of Mount Vernon was elected President.

Mrs. Harry Lilly defeated Mrs. Fred Joel Swift for the office of Second Vice President by three votes and a supporter of Mrs. Swift called for a recount that was rejected.

Sing Sing to Enlarge Quarters.

OSSINING, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP).—Sing Sing Prison is preparing for more tenants. Bids for four new buildings, including two cell-blocks, have been asked and will be opened Nov. 30, it was announced today. An administration building and a chapel are also included in the plans.

Window Cleaner Dies in Fall Near Meeting to Aid Workmen

The State Industrial Survey Commission was taking testimony as to methods of improving protective measures for workmen under the Workman's Compensation act yesterday morning at the Bar Association Building, 42 West Forty-fourth Street, when Redmond J. Cody, a window cleaner working on the ledge of the ninth floor of the adjoining building, toppled from his position to the roof of the building in which the commission was sitting. He died a few moments later. It was found that the leather strap holding him to the building had broken. Cody lived at 417 East Seventy-eighth Street and was employed by the St. Nicholas Window Cleaning Company, 130 West Forty-second Street.

Members of the commission, in recess shortly after the accident, discussed the case and the rights of the dead workman under the act which they seek to improve. It was agreed that the act would do much for the man's family.

PASTOR PERMITS HAIR BOB.

But Declares It Sinful as a Sign of Woman's Independence.

ASSEN, Holland, Nov. 12 (AP).—The question, is it sinful for a Fundamentalist hairdresser to bob or shingle a woman's hair? was recently placed before the Rev. Dr. K. Fernhout, President of the Dutch Reformed Church Synod, which some time ago expelled the Rev. Dr. J. G. Geelkerken of Amsterdam for casting doubt upon the etory of Adam and Eve and the serpent in the Garden of Eden.

The applicant for spiritual advice said he felt burdened in mind as to how he could cut off a woman's hair in the light of Paul's writing to the Corinthians that "a woman's hair is her glory."

Dr. Fernhout has replied in a religious journal that if a woman cuts off her hair to assert her independence or merely to follow a silly fashion, she undoubtedly commits a sinful action. He asserts that long hair is symbolic of the divinely preordained subjection of woman to man.

Certain exceptions, however, are allowed and it is suggested that Christian women who want to be bobbed or shingled shall apply for a permit to their pastor or chief elder, who will certify whether the reasons for the proposed step are theologically admissible or not.

Pastor Fernhout wears a full beard, because, he says, he has conscientious objections to shaving.

Club Manager Held on Girl's Charge.

Arthur Ginatasio, 25 years old, manager of the Penn Inn, a night club at 140 West Thirty-second Street, was held in $2,000 bail for the Grand Jury yesterday by Magistrate Corrigan in Jefferson Market Court charged with beating Leonore Cassanova, a dancer of 222 Riverside Drive. After furnishing bail Ginatasio and his partner, Lawrence Martin, were served with papers which detectives said represented a $150,000 damage suit brought against them by Miss Cassanova. Miss Cassanova testified that the attack occurred on Oct. 11 in the night club.

Soper Jury Chosen From 600 Called.

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP).—The jury to hear the second trial of Mrs. Fannie Soper was completed today. After nearly a week's examination of about 600 talesmen summoned, believed to be a new record for Essex County, defense and prosecution selected three jurors who will serve with the nine already chosen. Mrs. Soper is charged with the murder of her husband, Deputy Sheriff Henry Soper of Boquet. The Court of Appeals reversed her conviction of murder, first degree, at the first trial.

ASK CHRISTIANS' AID FOR STARVING JEWS

Dr. Cadman and Judge Dowling Sponsor Plea to Help Fund for Relief.

5,000,000 NEEDY IN EUROPE

Appeal Is Made to Supplement Assistance Sent by American Jews to Those in Peril.

A plea for help was sent out yesterday in the form of a letter to 150,000 representative Christians throughout the United States, by the American Christian Fund for Jewish Relief, saying that there were 5,000,000 Jews facing starvation in Central and Eastern Europe.

The call was sponsored by the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman of Brooklyn, President of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, and by Justice Victor J. Dowling, a leading Catholic layman, who is serving as joint chairman with the approval of Cardinal Hayes.

"Good Samaritan Sunday" will be observed tomorrow by thousands of churches throughout the country as a first step to show sympathy.

The call says that the American Jews are raising $25,000,000 for this relief work. "American Christians have never realized nor understood the sufferings of the Jews of Central and Eastern Europe," says the appeal. "Five million Jews are in desperate distress today—2,225,000 in Russia, 2,225,000 in Poland and 500,000 in Bessarabia, Lithuania and the near-by countries. Men, women and little children are suffering and in misery—they are hungry all the time.

"Since 1914 'The Four Horsemen' have ridden grimly over half of the Jewish population of the world—war, pestilence, famine and always death.

"It is no fault of the Jews that these things have happened. Varying philosophies of government, economic collapses, famine, race prejudice have played their part. In the dark days of Czarism in Russia the Jews were not allowed to own land or to till the soil. By law they were forced to become small merchants—the middlemen of the country.

"The Soviet Government overthrew this law, but also wiped out the small merchant and the middleman. The Government became responsible for distribution. The Jews were left without means of livelihood—and starved.

"In Poland and other countries the Jew suffers from fierce religious prejudice and unjust laws. Persecutions and pogroms have destroyed his home, his work, and many have been killed. Unjust taxes have been levied upon him. Because of the economic collapse in Poland the Jew was the first to suffer and continues to be the greater sufferer.

"During these twelve long years 3,000,000 American Jews have faithfully and loyally helped their European brethren. Again and again they have stood between them and death. Pestilence has been met, famine has been defeated. In this time $62,000,000 has been given by the Jews of America for relief work among these people. This is in addition to the Jewish gifts to all war and general relief funds and does not include a much vaster sum sent directly to relatives and friends.

"God is in this work. The Joint Distribution Committee ministers to the soul as well as to the body. Now that we American Christians know the facts and the needs we must act. We cannot let men, women and little children starve.

"We must realize that American Jews cannot save all of them. Unless Christians help many will perish."

CITY BREVITIES.

Max D. Steuer, attorney, will be the principal speaker at a testimonial dinner tomorrow night at the Far Rockaway Jewish Centre, in Leo J. Goldberger, chairman of the Long Island division of the Federation for the support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies.

The Alumni Association of the Law School of Columbia University, had luncheon yesterday at the Lawyers' Club, and heard an address by William J. Donovan, Assistant in the Attorney General of the United States, on law enforcement. Edwin P. Grosvenor, president of the Association, presided.

EARLY NEEDLEWORK IS SOLD

First Day's Sale of de Souhami Collection Brings $44,585.

The first of the two sessions of the sale of the de Souhami collection of needlework tapestries and Gothic furniture, held yesterday at the American Art Galleries, netted $44,585.

An eighteenth century Aubusson tapestry, from the Comte de Gasquet James collection, sold for the highest price of the day, $2,950, and went to Amy S. Phillips. It is "Le Char de Cérès." Another eighteenth century Aubusson tapestry, "Le Moulin de Charenton," after a Lancret cartoon, was bid in by Max J. Kramer for $2,600. The same buyer paid $1,500 for a seventeenth century Flemish verdure tapestry. He also bid in for $1,150 a second Flemish verdure. J. Alex Hayden paid $1,200 for two seventeenth century needlework hangings.

A. Alavoine obtained a petit point panel for $1,900. He also paid $1,250 for another petit point panel and $600 each for four Directoire period tapestry laque armchairs. Charles of London acquired for $1,100 two sixteenth century French Renaissance tapestry covered walnut armchairs and P. C. Henry paid $1,250 for two Louis XIV period walnut armchairs with needlework.

GIFT IN HONOR OF BRANDEIS.

Friends Contribute $5,000 to Harvard Law School $5,000,000 Fund.

Wilson M. Powell, Chairman of the $5,000,000 endowment fund campaign for the Harvard Law School, announced yesterday a contribution of $5,000 by friends of United States Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis in honor of the Justice, who today will celebrate his seventieth birthday. Justice Brandee is one of the distinguished alumni of the school, having received his degree in 1877.

The donors expressed the hope that the money might form part of a Brandiee professorship. Until there is one, the income will be used to support one or more research fellowships bearing the name of the Associate Justice.

University Also Announces Retirement Fund, Effective Next Year.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP).—Faculty members at Syracuse University will receive an increase in salaries and tuition rates will be advanced, effective in September, 1927, Chancellor Charles Wesley Flint announced today at the annual Fall meeting of the trustees.

The action was taken, Chancellor Flint said, in accordance with a promise at the beginning of an endowment drive in 1924. With the approval of the Board of Trustees, establishment of a retirement fund for Faculty members also will be effected next year.

GERMS FROM HAND TO HAND

Disease Communicated in Friendly Greetings, Tests Show.

Two investigators at the University of British Columbia, Dr. H. W. Hill and Miss Helen Mathewe, have made tests to demonstrate that handshaking is a means of transmitting many kinds of germs, and have reached the following conclusions, according to the weekly bulletin of the California State Board of Health:

1. The transfer of organisms was as great, if not greater, when the given hand was dry than when both were moist.

2. The greatest transfer was found to be to the palm of the hand; in fewer instances, to the fingers, and least of all to the finger tips.

In the discussion of their results they state that "handshaking seems even more important in the transference of disease than the use of the common towel; in the former there is a direct contact between unwashed hands; in the latter indirect contact between washed hands and that the number of people in a crowd who have their fingers in the mouth has been calculated to be about 10 per cent.

"Granting the correctness of their results and deductions the fact remains that people have the means of preventing spread of infection from handshaking literally 'in their own hands,' for there is absolutely no need for the fingers or other part of the hand to be put in the mouth or to the lips at any time," comments Health News of the New York State Department of Health.

"Infection from ingestion of food touched by one's own hands can be prevented by washing our hands before eating, but we are still at the mercy of those who prepare food for us and fail to wash their hands before doing so. Why is it that even people who know better daily violate this simple rule of personal hygiene?"

PUBLISHERS DISCUSS WAGES

American Association Again Urges Restoration of 1920 Postal Rates.

FRENCH LICK, Ind., Nov. 12 (AP).—The wage scale, the open shop and circulation problems held the attention of the American Newspaper Publishers Association at the final meeting of the Fall convention here today.

Publishers should study the matter from all angles before recognizing a union's request for increased wages, Harvey J. Kelly, Chairman of the special standing committee, declared. He urged publishers to work together and analyze carefully before taking any definite action toward additional increases in their mechanical departments.

The convention reaffirmed its stand on a resolution recommending to the National Congress without qualification that it restore the 1920 postal rates on second-class mail matter "and urges thereto that there be established a reasonable rate for transportation of newspapers in bundles within 300 miles' radius of the office of publication."

BRITISH MINE CHIEFS URGE MEN TO SETTLE; END OF STRIKE SEEN

Delegates' Conference Accepts Government's Peace Plan—Districts to Vote on It.

OWNERS MUST STILL AGREE

Cabinet Expects Wages Are to Be Offered on Longer Hours Basis.

COOK OPPOSES IN VAIN

Pledge of National Tribunal to Weigh Complaints Influences Affirmative Vote.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The miners' delegate conference, after a long and heated debate today, decided by a narrow majority to refer the Government's coal peace proposals to the districts with a recommendation for acceptance. The voting was 432,000 in favor of and 352,000 against the proposals.

The decision is regarded in Government circles as meaning that the strike is virtually at an end, as it is almost inconceivable that the men should reject the recommendation of their delegates.

Difficulties of course may arise in connection with the owners, and the Government indifference to their wishes made it clear to the miners today that the wages which the coal owners were understood to be ready to offer were on a basis of increased hours and that the Government could give no guarantee about working conditions.

Summary of Proposals.

Apart from these revisions, the Government declared in a letter sent by the Secretary for Mines to the President of the mining association today that it was prepared to set up a national arbitration tribunal whether the owners agreed to it or not.

Briefly summarized, the Government proposals are as follows:

District settlements, involving longer work.

A national tribunal to sit for six months only to deal with appeals from either side against agreements not conforming to the standard agreements.

The owners' proportion of the distributable proceeds of the industry not to exceed 15 per cent. and be not less than 13.

For four hours the miners' delegates debated the terms. They had before them the document from the Government elucidating some points about which doubt was expressed.

Cook Opposes Acceptance.

It was made clear, for instance, that the tribunal which would be set up would be debarred from dealing with the question of hours in any circumstances.

Rejection of the Government's proposals was strongly urged by the South Wales and Yorkshire delegates. A. J. Cook, the miners' Secretary, a professed follower of Lenin and the man who is blamed by the public and by a large section of his own followers for the unhappy mess in which the miners now find themselves, made strong opposition against the acceptance proposals and after the official announcement of their acceptance had been made exclaimed:

"They are the most abominable terms ever put before a body of men. They could not possibly be worse."

The opinion was generally expressed during the conference that the terms were extremely favorable to the miners. On the other hand the view was heard that the proposed national tribunal would be so limited as to be practically useless.

But those delegates who favored acceptance urged that such a course was the only alternative to a complete debacle and this carried the day. It was decided by a narrow majority that the voting should be by district and not by individual ballot.

At least a week must elapse before there can be any general resumption of work, as Cook announced that no district negotiations of any kind would take place until the result of the district voting was known and the delegate conference had met again. Another meeting of the conference is scheduled for next Friday.

Miners Lose Chief Demands.

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP).—To all intents the long coal stoppage which dislocated half the country's industries has ended with the rejection of nearly every important claim for which the miners fought so tenaciously.

The termination of the strife came today when the miners' delegate conference recommended that the miners accept the Government's peace proposal. That the miners will accept the recommendation is regarded as a foregone conclusion.

The settlement is described by nobody as a negotiated peace. It is a peace virtually imposed by the Government and was accepted only after bitter opposition by a minority of the Welsh miners and in the face of a probable stampede of the men back to work had it been rejected.

The Royal Coal Commission's report, which figured so largely in the earlier negotiations, is disregarded. The owners gained most of their points for the settlement, which means longer hours and decreased wages.

COMMUNISTS JEER MARIE AT CHICAGO

CLASH TWICE WITH POLICE

Marie, Undisturbed, Is Welcomed Officially to City Hall—Plans Trip to Florida.

New York Times Associated Newspapers.
From a Staff Correspondent.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.

ON BOARD THE QUEEN OF RUMANIA'S TRAIN, CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Queen Marie was greeted with cheers, flags and applause as she entered Chicago this evening in a drizzling rain, but she was greeted also with the first hostile demonstration she has experienced since she came to America.

The demonstration was one prepared in advance by Communist and culminated in a half-hearted riot at the City Hall, where some of the more hardy demonstrants forced their way into the building a few minutes too late to intercept and embarrass the royal party, which had just left after being officially welcomed by Mayor William E. Dever.

The police charged the Communists with drawn clubs, dispersed them and arrested George Maurer, Secretary of the International Labor Defense, and Miss Margaret Miller, a girl Communist, who had been distributing pamphlets.

Unaware of the disturbance, the Queen, Prince Nicholas and Princess Ilena went to the Lake Shore Drive Hotel, which had been prepared to house them during their three days stay in Chicago, and made ready for the receptions of the evening. They were delayed by the failure of their bagagge to arrive and it was after 9 o'clock when the royal party appeared at the Drake Hotel for the private dinner given by the Chicago Welcoming Committee.

After the Queen entered the hotel she appeared with her children on the gallery overlooking the lobby and smiled and waved at the crowd gathered below to catch a glimpse of her. At the dinner she sat on the right of Mayor Dever. At her right was Mr. Morris, former American Minister to Sweden and now Rumanian Consul General in Chicago, who is accompanying the royal party on its tour and supervising the programs in the cities she visits. Across from the Queen was Arthur Meeker, Chairman of the Chicago Welcoming Committee, sitting beside Princess Ilena. Prince Nicholas sat beside Mrs. Francis J. Johnson.

There were only sixty at the dinner and it was one of the jolliest, most informal affairs the Queen has attended in America. At the last moment, when the Queen was called upon for a few words, a microphone was placed before her and with amused dismay she exclaimed:

"Oh, now I can't be humorous!"

The dinner was followed by a public reception in the Drake Hotel.

The Communists had been holding a protest meeting in advance of the Queen's arrival at a hall in the Loop district. As the time for the Queen's arrival, 5:30 P. M., approached, they formed up outside their hall and marched 300 strong toward the railway station. Some of them bore large banners and other placards attacking Queen Marie and the Rumanian Government.

Soon after leaving their headquarters they came into collision with the police, who tore the sticks off their banners

ITALY WINS AIR RACE BY NEW SPEED MARK, 246 MILES AN HOUR

Major de' Bernardi Sets Three Other New Records in Fastest Seaplane Flight.

SCHILT, AMERICAN, SECOND

MUSSOLINI CONGRATULATED

Italians' Planes and Skill Credited for Victory Before Hampton Roads Throng.

Special to The New York Times.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 13.—The seaplane high speed honors of the world were wrested from America by Italy this afternoon when Major Mario de' Bernardi, aboard his swift red racer, won the Jacques Schneider maritime cup with an average speed of 246.496 miles an hour over a triangular 350 kilometer course.

Major de' Bernardi's plane flashed across the finish line at the rate of more than four miles a minute, and, what is even more remarkable, he flew at a fraction over that rate throughout the entire course of 217.483 miles. In this notable performance the winning pilot broke at least four world's records, all of which were held by Lieutenant "Jimmy" Doolittle, the army pilot, who won last year's Schneider Cup race at Baltimore.

Major de' Bernardi established new world's records for Schneider Cup speed and broke Lieutenant Doolittle's closed circuit records of 234.772 miles an hour for 100 kilometers and of 234.356 miles an hour for 200 kilometers, established at Bayshore, near Baltimore, Oct. 26, 1925, the same day that last year's Schneider Cup race was run. Major de' Bernardi also shattered Lieutenant Doolittle's world record for seaplanes of 243.713 miles an hour for 3 kilometers, which was made over a straightaway course at Baltimore last year. Four of the six entrants finished today's race. Their rank and time were:

First—Major Mario de' Bernardi of Italy. Elapsed time—52 minutes 56.22 seconds. Average speed—246.496 miles per hour.
Second—Lieut. Christian Frank Schilt, United States Marine Corps. Elapsed time—56 minutes 22.96 seconds. Average speed—231.363 miles an hour.
Third—Lieut. Adriaco Bacula of Italy. Elapsed time—59 minutes 1.30 seconds. Average speed—218.006 miles per hour.
Fourth—Lieut. William Goanell Tomlinson, United States Navy. Elapsed time—1 hour 25 minutes 16.72 seconds. Average speed—136.933 miles an hour.

Lieutenant Cuddihy and the Curtiss motored No. 4 plane, on which America's hopes were chiefly pinned, was eliminated from the race at the end of the sixth lap by a forced landing. He had covered 300 kilometers in 46 minutes 45.63 seconds at an average speed of 239.191 miles an hour. Major de' Bernardi covered the same six laps at an average speed of 246.378 miles an hour.

Captain Arturo Ferrarin of Rome-Tokio flight fame, who was the favorite among the Italians before the race, also failed to finish, being forced out by motor trouble at the end of the third lap after flying 150 kilometers. He was going well when compelled to quit, having maintained an average speed of 238.358 miles an hour for that distance. This, too, was better than that of the best speed the Americans showed, that of Lieutenant Cuddihy, who covered the first 150 kilometers at an average of 237.762 miles an hour

Called Greatest Air Race.

The contest was held under ideal conditions and experts declare it was the greatest ever run in America. The six planes taxied off for the start at intervals of less than five minutes, and within half an hour after the first racer, that of Lieutenant Bacula, had taken the air, all six seaplanes were speeding over the triangular couree in a spectacular contest that was witnessed by thousande from both shores of Hampton Roads.

The speed of the five fester planes averaged over 200 miles an hour on every lap, and the eight so thrilled the spectators at the naval base as each plane turned the home pylon that announcement of the quarter results of the Army-Notre Dame and other big Eastern foothall games failed to bring a murmur from the crowd.

Secretary Wilbur and Attorney General Sargent were conspicuous in the

Bootleggers Lose Rum-Running Submarine; Third Craft Used in Lake Champlain Seized

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Nov. 13 (AP).—An undersea rum-running craft, described by the customs authorities as "a submarine without motors" was seized on Lake Champlain last night with 4,800 bottles of ale.

According to word reaching the Collector of Customs here, the seizure was made in Canadian waters by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police for the American authorities off Fort Montgomery, N. Y.

Captain J. B. Kendrick, lake patrol leader, was advised last night that the craft was iosded off the old military post and was ready for a dash south. High winds, however, had stirred the waters of Lake Champlain to such uglinese that Captain Kendrick hesitated about venturing into the open lake with the Government patrol craft, and so communicated with the Royal Mounted Police.

Late last night the "submarine," which was anchored in a cove off the fort and not more than 200 yards north of the imaginary border line, was boarded by a squad of troopers, who rowed out to the boat.

United States Deputy Inspector Cheney was with the Canadians in an unofficial capacity and checked the cargo, counting 4,800 quart bottles of ale, which apparently were destined for American Thanksgiving trade.

A week ago today the same craft, reported beached at Grand Isle, caused considerable comment until Captain Kendrick explained its construction and use. It is the third of such boats to be seized on Lake Champlain this season.

Today's seizure is believed to have thrown Lake Champlain bootleggers back to the three-plane method of distribution—motorboat, automobile and airplane—on which they depended before they took a leaf from recent military history and submerged. The submarine is the last of the fleet of those known to have been constructed for the bootleg traffic.

The financial loss represented by destruction of their undersea craft and realization of the effect of Canadian cooperatin with American chasers will prevent further effort along this line, according to Collector of the Customs Harry C. Whitehill.

"There is no doubt, however," he said, "that rum-running submarines on Lake Champlain proved their usefulness."

The customs men were fooled the first time they stopped one of the towing launches, but later one of the strange craft was found adrift with 5,000 bottles of ale in the broad lake. Then followed the capture of the second, with 4,000 bottles, as it was being towed on a 175-foot hawser. It had not been submerged quickly enough.

GARNER FAVORS CUT IN CORPORATION TAX

Ranking Democrat of Ways and Means Committee Favors a 12 Per Cent. Levy.

SAYS BUYERS WOULD GAIN

He Agrees With Chairman Green in Opposing Both Refund and Credit Proposals.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Representative John N. Garner of Texas, senior Democratic member of the House Committee on Ways and Means, who is here for the committee's meeting on Monday to prepare legislation for the short session of Congress, which begins in December, expressed today his opposition both to the refund proposed by President Coolidge on income taxes paid in 1925 and to Secretary Mellon's plan to give a credit on taxes paid in 1926.

Mr. Garner said he felt there was no occasion now to reduce income taxes, and that any attempt to do so would not be successful in the coming short session. Instead he would reduce the corporation tax, in the belief that this reduction would bring down the prices of products of corporations and thus mitigats the cost of living among the people generally.

Mr. Garner's attitude is especially significant in that it approximates the expressed yesterday by Representative William R. Green of Iowa, the Republican Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, who said, after explaining that a tax refund now would hardly work fairly or practically, that he believed the small corporations should receive the benefit of any reduction, thus giving an opportunity to test the claim that the relief afforded corporatione would be passed on to the benefit of the ultimate consumer.

The tax reduction proposals tentatively advanced by President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon aim to give tax relief through a refund on 1925 taxes paid, as the President suggests, or through a credit which the taxpayer would be permitted to deduct from the amount of 1926 taxes paid in 1927, as the Secretary of the Treasury believes to be the simpler and more practical method.

Differ on Amount of Cut.

President Coolidge suggested a cut of from 10 to 12 per cent., while Secretary Mellon was inclined to the opinion that the existing surplus would justify a 12½ per cent. reduction. Representative Ogden L. Mills of New York, one of the chief experts on taxes of the Ways and Meane Committee, said today, after a conference with Secretary Mellon, that the proposed 12½ per cent. cut was "sound and workable." In this opinion he seems to be in disagreement with the committee's Chairman, who, ordinarily, would have charge of any revenue measure brought before the House.

President Coolidge has appealed informally to Congress to consider further tax reduction as a business proposition and to avoid anything that might give a partisan tinge to its consideration. That appeal, however, does not appear to touch the situation developed today through the agreement of the leading Republican and the leading Democrat of the House committee which handles revenue legislation.

On the one hand are President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon, suggesting that the surplus should be distributed payers, and on the other hend the two through a rebate or credit to tax-House leaders, one a Republican, agreeing in effect that the surpins should be applied to a direct reduction of the corporation tax, so that corporations could reduce the prices asked for their products and the people would benefit.

In the 1924 revenue bill taxes on incomes were reduced, but the corporation tax was increased from 10 to 12½ per cent. In the 1925 revenue bill the corporation tax was increased to 13½ per cent. Repreeentative Garner's suggestiou today was that the corporation tax, to which he would confine any revenue legislation undertaken at the coming short session of Congress, might be reduced to 12 per cent.

Figures $200,000,000 Saved.

It was figured by Representative Garner in conversation on the subject this afternoon that a reduction in the

SMITH TO DROP LONG AS HEAD OF PRISONS

Superintendent Not Expected to Be in Department After State Reorganization.

EARLY REPORT ON PRESSER

Alger's Findings in Gunman's Parole Case Almost Ready for the Governor.

Extensive changes in the personnel of the State Prison Department and other agencies concerned with prisbn management are likely to be made when the State reorganization plan goes into effect at Albany after Jan. 1, persons who are in the confidence of Governor Smith said yesterday. The most important change will be the appointment of a trained penologist as head of the new Department of Correction in place of State Superintendent of Prisons James L. Long, the present head of the Prison Department.

Mr. Long, who is an important cog in the Democratic machine of Nassau County, was appointed to his present position by Governor Smith on Feb. 11, 1924, for a five-year term. It is not expected, however, that he will remain connected with the new Department of Correction in any capacity long after Jan. 1.

The State Prison Department and its management by Superintendent Long have been under investigation since last May, when Governor Smith appointed George W. Alger as his special commissioner to conduct an inquiry into the attempt to turn "Izzy" Presser, a notorious gunman, loose under a parole, to which it was charged he was not entitled, jail breaking being among his offenses. Mr. Alger is about ready, Governor Smith was told before he started on his present holiday, to report the result of his inquiry, which was conducted under the co-called Sherman-Moreland act. It is expected that his report will be in the Governor's hands soon after Thanksgiving and that Mr. Long will hand his resignation to the Governor before the beginning of the Governor's fourth term.

Alger's Commission Wide.

While Mr. Alger was commissioned to make particular inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the proposal to parole Presser, his mandate from the Chief Executive was broad enough to permit, if not require, a more extensive probe into the conduct of the Prison Department under Mr. Long. It was said last night that the report was likely to furnish a basis for recommendations by the Governor having in view radical changes in prison management.

Mr. Alger yesterday declined to discuse in advance any part of his report or to indicate when it would be in the hands of the Governor. From another source it was learned, however, that the report is now in process of preparation. There was no intimation that it would reflect seriously on Mr. Long, even though the investigation is said to have shown that at the best he permitted himself to be imposed upon by Presser to an extent where he gave active support to the proposal to let the convict out on parole, despite a bad prisnn record.

Whom the Governor has in mind for head of the new State Department of Correction has not become known, but it is understood that an expert penologist with known executive ability is under consideration.

Under the reorganization plan the State Board of Parole, the State Prison Commission, the Probation Commission and the Prison Industries Board will ho much more closely under the supervision and control of the head of the Department of Correction than they are at present. The new Conservation Commissioner will receive an annual salary of $12,000, where the State Superintendent of Prisons, whose place he will take, receives $8,000 a year.

Presser's Escapade.

Presser, who will go on trial for jailbreaking in Warren County on Nov. 28, got away from Great Meadows Prison when a member of a road gang which was encamped some distance from the prison. Afterward he wrote a letter to Superintendent Long in which he said that, far from trying to escape, he had been attacked and overpowered by gangsters whom he had known and who incidentally had shot

DUCHESS OBTAINED ANNULMENT DECREE IN MARLBOROUGH SUIT

Rome Reports That Consuelo Vanderbilt, Not the Duke, Was Plaintiff in Church Courts.

COERCED INTO MARRIAGE

Her Mother Is Said to Have Supported Statement That She Used Undue Pressure.

PUZZLE IN DUCHESS' ACT

No Intimation Is Given as to Why She Wanted First Marriage Declared Void.

ROME, Nov. 13.—Consuelo Vanderbilt, not the Duke of Marlborough, was the plaintiff before the Catholic marriage courts in the suit for annulment of their marriage, and it was to her that the Catholic Diocesan Court at Southwark, England, granted a decree of nullity last July, which the Tribunal of the Rota at the Vatican later confirmed.

The matter came before the Tribunal of the Rota here merely because canon law prescribes that no verdict annulling a marriage can become effective unless ratified. As, however, no opposition to the ruling of the Diocesan Court in England was made by the Duke as defendant, the proceeding before the Rota Tribunal was a mere mater of form, and the verdict was upheld without discussion.

The proceedings before both the Tribunal of the Rota and all Diocesan Courts are surrounded by the greatest secrecy. All Judges are bound by oath, on pain of excommunication, not to reveal ths slightest detail of cases on which they pass judgment. Despite this, however, THE NEW YORK TIMES learns from an excellent source that the verdict in this case was based on the fact that the ex-Duchess, Consuelo Vanderbilt, was able to prove to the court's satisfaction that her consent to the marriage with the Duke of Marlborough was not freely given, but was wrested from her by undue influence on the part of her mother and other relatives. The mother and numerous others appeared as witnesses and confirmed the daughter's plea.

The Duke of Marlborough, while represented by legal counsel, did not oppose the annulment.

Catholic Method of Procedure.

All cases for annulment of marriage are first tried by special courts in the diocese in which the plaintiff files his or her suit. If this special court finds for the plaintiff and grants a decree of nullity, the case is then brought before the Tribunal of the Rota for ratification. The Rota Court will reverse a verdict of a Diocese Court only in the event of the defendant producing some fresh evidence, or proving that witnessee who testified before the Diocesan Court were bribed, or that the documents submitted were false, &c. In all cases liks the present one, in which the defendant's legal adviser declares that his principal accepts the decision of the Diocesan Court and is ready to abide hy it, the proceedings before the Tribunal of the Rota become a mere matter of form and the decisions of the Diocesan Court are uphsld without discussion.

When a case is called before it, the Tribunal of the Rota asks the defendant to show cause why the decision of the diocesan tribunal should not be declared effective. If the defendant's legal adviser declares he has no objections to make, a prelate whose task it is to see that the laws of the Church are not violated is then questioned. If he also raises no objections, the case is allowed and a decree upholding the decision of the Diocesan Court is promulgated. This is what happened in the Marlborough-Vanderbilt case. Neither the Duke's legal adviser nor the prelate who safeguards the laws of the Church made any opposition, and the judgment was promulgated accordingly.

Legal Advisers for Both Sides.

The whole case, of course, was conducted through the legal advisers of the two interested parties, and neither the plaintiff nor the defendant, nor

JURY HEARS LOVE LETTERS OF RECTOR TO MRS. MILLS; WIDOW LISTENS UNMOVED

Points in 9th Day of Trial; Mrs. Gibson Continues to Gain

The ninth day in the Hall-Mills trial brought these developments:

1. Love letters from Dr. Hall to Mrs. Mills were read in court, with Mrs. Hall masking any emotion she may have felt.
2. A witness testified that he had seen a Dodge sedan parked near De Russey's Lane at midnight of the night of the murder. The Hall car in 1922 was a Dodge.
3. Another witness, who was a gardener-chauffeur for the family in 1922, said he had not washed red clay from the Hall sedan, nor had he seen any one else wash the machine.
4. Mrs. Jane Gibson continues to gain and may testify on Tuesday.

MISSIVES IN ARDENT VEIN

Simpson Reads Them in Court as Mrs. Hall Holds Her Head High

DEFENSE PROTESTS FAIL

Witness Tells of Dark Spots on Willie Stevens's Clothes Sent to Cleaner.

SEDAN CAR SEEN IN LANE

Ex-Sheriff Says His Testimony Was Altered—Counsel Clash in Byplay on Politics.

Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall had a smile on her face as she came into court yesterday after the luncheon recess. There was a twisted little smile on the lips of Assistant Attorney General Alexander Simpson as he also came in to resume the Hall-Mills trial in Somerville, N. J.

All morning he had labored over the evidential chain he hopes will connect Mrs. Hall and her brothers, Willie Stevens and Henry Stevens, to the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, with but indifferent success. He moved over to his counsel table and dug into the pile of exhibits. He found a sheaf of letters and turned to Supreme Court Justice Charles W. Parker and Common Pleas Judge Frank L. Cleary. He sfred out a card.

"I want to offer this in evidence," he said, handing it up to the Court, who gravely studied it.

The card and the letters, part of the ardent correspondence between the rector and his choir leader, had entered the case last week when paiid Charlotte Mills, the daughter of the dead woman, had identified them as in the handwriting of Mr. Hall.

Defense Protests Fail.

They had merely been marked for identification, however. The prosecutor was now ready to spread the intrigue upon the record, with Mrs. Hall forced to listen to the phrases which her husband had penned to another woman. Defense attorneys were vigorous in objections, but Justice Parker ruled against them.

"The card containing a short poem marked for identification 15, apparently dated Christmas Day, 1921, and enclosed in an envelope which is inscribed, 'Merry Christmas,'" said the Justice, "is admitted in evidence over objection, and the exception is noted."

Mrs. Hall heard the verdict and knew what was coming, but gave no outward sign of distress except that her smile fled. She folded her gloved hands in her lap and with her head a trifle to one side watched Senator Simpson. Picking up the card, with its lines of verse in the murdered man's hand, Simpson's strident voice began the reading. He held the card close to his eyes, peering at it, and shifting from one foot to the other.

"Dear Heart of Mine" the verse was headed, and it was signed "D. T. L." These letters were variously deciphered as "Dear True Love" and as "dein treuer Lieber," the German of "your true lover."

Letters Read in Court.

The Senator finished the lines and tossed the card to one side. He picked up the first of eight letters to "My own dear wonder-heart." The phrases fell from his lips amid titters from the audience, chiefly women and girls. The emotion that had gripped the clergyman, as starkly set forth in letters that were a singular commingling of devoutness to his calling and to Mrs. Mills, was frankly laid bare.

Still the woman charged with his murder preserved a manner that was a mask. The letters were not dated, but the first evidently had been written when the clergyman and his wife were on holiday in Maine. The second, as read, seemed to have been composed in the rector's study in his New Brunswick church, written as the voice of Mrs. Mills, outside in the organ loft, came to him.

"And I know your dear voice is singing out those lovely words," he wrote, "and your heart, too."

The harsh tones of the prosecutor paused and he darted a sly look at Mrs. Hall. She had not moved and her face was a blank as she returned the look. A slight flush overspread her features, but that was all. There was a scarcely discernible quiver of her lips, it is true, but her next movement suggested that it might not have been prompted by the letters. She shielded her mouth with a hand and whispered to Mrs. Edwin Carpender, a cousin, at her elbow. Mrs. Carpender nodded and smiled.

Mrs. Hall Rigidly Calm.

Mr. Simpson read two of the letters and then turned the task over to Francis L. Bergen, Prosecutor of the Pleas for Somerset County. Prosecutor Bergen is a young man and he proved to have greater histrionic ability for the task, but his stressing of excerpts left Mrs. Hall calm.

"Mrs. Hall wonders why I am taking only three Sundays this year," the Rev. Mr. Hall wrote to the younger woman, "she doesn't know how hard it is to take those * * * it was you.

3 SHOT IN BROADWAY AS GEM THEFT FAILS

Lone Thug Attempts Hold-Up in Shop at 38th Street and Is Wounded in Brief Pursuit.

CROWDS WILDLY EXCITED

Gunman, Who May Die, Fights to Escape as Tackle Downs Him—Policeman, Civilian Hurt.

A twenty-two-year-old thug was wounded, probably mortally, a patrolman and a civilian were slightly wounded and a clerk had his coat ripped by a bullet, when at 9:20 o'clock yesterday morning the thug attempted unsuccessfully to plunder the jewelry shop of Henry Silberfeld at 1,395 Broadway, one door north of the northwest corner of Thirty-eighth Street.

The shots and the calls for help of the men in the jewelry shop and the sounding of a burglar alarm siren, with which it was equipped, caused great excitement among the Broadway crowds. When the brief pursuit of the would-be robber was ended and he lay with the two other wounded in the Casino Theatre lobby, police reserves from the West Thirtieth Street Station had great difficulty in quieting the clamoring throngs.

Great Crowds of the Curious.

Thereafter throughout the day Mr. Silberfeld's shop drew greater crowds of sightseers than it ever attracted before during its twenty-four years of existence. A detail of police were needed to keep the curious moving along, but at brief intervals some one would enter the shop to congratulate David Jacohy, for sixteen years a salesman there, upon his bravery and his narrow escape from the criminal's bullet.

Jacoby, at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning, was assisting Henry H. Hoffman, manager of the shop, to arrange a window display. The door of the shop was locked in accordance with police recommendations, but at intervals Gilbert Miller, a negro porter, had to go outside and then the front door would be unlocked for a few seconds.

Once, as Miller emerged, a well-dressed young man pushed past him into the shop. Miller thought he was a cuetomer and went on unconcernedly, while Jacohy, also thinking the man to be a purchaser, came forward and locked the door after Miller. "I want a cigarette case," said the man.

Hoffman went to a showcase and, taking out several cigarette cases, displayed them for inspection. The supposed customer glanced at them carelessly and then suddenly drew an automatic pietol. Jacohy, who had returned from the door, was at Hoffman's side. Pointing the weapon at the two men, the thug ordered: "You get into the rear room."

Demands the "Best Stuff."

They did so and there the armed man turned to Hoffman. "Where is your best stuff?" he demanded.

"In the safe," replied Hoffman.

The man then ordered Jacoby to get

Vatican and Mussolini Plan Religious Movies To Spread History of the Faith and Church

ROME, Nov. 13 (AP).—Motion pictures to foster religious feeling and spread knowledge of religious art and literature, not through direct propaganda but by telling simple dramatic tales, are being produced by the Institute of Religious Art and Education, just founded by Premier Mussolini with the support of the Holy See.

The films will be made on a strictly non-commercial basis, and each production will have the authorization of the ecclesiastical authorities. The Fascist Government already has ordered the obligatory showing of one such film on every movie program in Italy after they appear.

Henceforth every Catholic missionary carrying the Gospel to primitive peoplee in remote parts of the globe will be equipped with a movie camera with which to film the story of his experiences. In addition, the stories of missionary experiences of long ago will be reconstructed where they occurred by modern priests.

Great pilgrimages, picturesque processions, elaborate ceremonies and Church evente of all sorts will be taken against their natural backgrounde, it being the intention to use as little as possible of artificial settings.

Already under preparation are descriptions of the festivals of the seventh centenary of St. Francis of Assisi, the events of Holy Year in Rome, a film about the life of Jesus and another concerning St. Francis. Still another, planned on a huge scale, describes the early days of Christianity in Rome.

The directing committee includes Marquis Misciatelli, Catholic litterateur; three members of the Pontifical Commission for Sacred Art, one of the Pontifical Commission for Christian Archaeology and several other Vatican prelates.

Heavy Police Guard Protects Fuller in Paris, But Sacco Sympathizers Fail to Molest Him

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Twenty plain-clothes men and a number of uniformed police were detailed to act as a bodyguard to Governor Alvin T. Fuller of Massachusetts when he arrived in Paris today. The authorities feared that Communists or others might molest him as a result of the feeling aroused in European radical circles by the case of Sacco and Vanzetti, convicted of murder in Massachusetts.

When the boat train arrived the detectives scrutinized carefully all persons on the station platform, but failed to discover any tronhlemaker. The Governor was met by friends and the Secretary of the American Embassy, and drove away with him in a car sent by Ambassador Herrick. Governor and Mrs. Fuller will stay at the Ritz for several weeks, and go to London later.

When told that Communist leaders had taken advantage of the Ambassador's return a fortnight ago to present a plea for the livee of Sacco and Vanzetti, the Governor remarked that he was not expecting a "welcoming" committee of that sort.

Governor Fuller said he had met and married Mrs. Fuller in Paris, where both studied, and that they had returned merely to renew old tiee and to visit the scenes of their courtship and early married life.

Both the Governor and his wife appeared in the best of health and chatted gayly with friends who met them. They pronounced the trip across the ocean an excellent one.

GARIBALDI'S SISTER HERE TO AID ITALY

Sure Her Brother Ricciotti Is Not Involved in Catalan Plot, She Declares.

WILL GO ON TO CANADA

To Study Immigration There to Give Her Country Outlet for Excess Population—Praises Mussolini.

Signorina Italia Garibaldi, sister of Colonel Ricciotti Garibaldi, who is threatened with expulsion from France because of alleged complicity in the Catalan plot, arrived late yesterday on the Italian liner Colombo. She expected to be met at the pier by her brother, General Giuseppe (Pepino) Garibaldi, who lives in Stamford, Conn. When informed that he had left for Europe last Tuesday night on the Mauretania, the young Italian woman was quite concerned and asked if it was really true.

When told her brother, Ricciotti, was liable to be deported by the French Government, the Signorina exclaimed: "I do not believe that Franco could do such a thing. Two of my brothers gave their lives for France, bringing units to the allied cause before Italy entered the war."

Moved by Reports of Brother.

She was visibly moved when told of the rumors that Colonel Garibaldi's name was being linked with some of the attempts upon Premier Mussolini's life. "A Garibaldi would not soil his hands with blood in that way," she said. "All of the attacks upon Mussolini have been isolated instances and not one a matter of plot." She added that while all her family were Republicans they had always received kind and courteous consideration from Mussolini.

"I am travelling, myself, on a diplomatic passport and have come over here in connection with Italian emigration to Canada on a plan that I have been working out with the Government in Rome for the past two years. Frankly it is a relief to be here. There is such tension in Italy. Such evidence of arms everywhere that one is frightened much of the time. We call it 'exasperation.'"

Mussolini, she said, is a strong man and is working out his own destiny. The need of a strong man in Italy after the war had been filled by his personality, she asserted.

"My grandfather recognized, even at the time of his death, that Italy had not reached the point where she might have the full fruits of a democracy and that for some time to come there would have to be strong men at the top. This is the rôle that Mussolini has been filling. How it will all end I do not know.

"We Garibaldis give. We do not accept. That has always been our code. That is our attitude now. I do not believe that Ricciotti is in any way involved in any of the things that are charged against him. As I said, we do not have to soil our hands with blood."

Women Now Without Vote.

Signorina Garibaldi said women in Italy had the privilege of voting in municipal elections, but now that these offices are appointed by the Department of the Interior they had no voice in the Government.

She was asked what her emigration plans were and she said that at present, with the help of the Italian Government, farmers from Northern Italy were to be implanted in Western Canada. The first experiment calls for two hundred families. The farm houses and the farm implements await the pioneers when they arrive. Payments for the farms are to be made in small amounts.

She indicated that Italy faced a serious problem now in its excess population. "We have 42,000,000, with land which can only well take care of half that number. Our Immigration Commission listens to all plans, but adopts none. There is a desire to colonize in Northern Africa, but this does not always appeal to the immigrant; and there is another movement to increase the population of Sardinia, but that is no feasible either. Our chief hope is in such countries as Canada, and while many of us know it our commission has difficulty in recognizing it."

After spending a week in New York she will go to Ottawa and then to Winnipeg to study the immigration question.

NO AUTO INSURANCE FOR COLLEGE DRINKERS

One Company Refuses to Issue It and Many Others Make Strict Preliminary Inquiry.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13 (AP).—The college youth and his automobile is regarded by at least one insurance company as an unusual risk and worthy of especial investigation before a casualty policy is written. That is the statement of C. L. Gibbons, manager of the Casualty Department of the Maryland Casualty Company.

Mr. Gibbons said he understood that while no blanket instructions to refuse insurance have been issued, many other companies have adopted the rigid investigation of the Maryland company.

In many instances it has been found inadvisable to insure automobiles driven by youths who drink or who fill their machines far beyond capacity and go driving about recklessly.

Explorer Will Take Six Scientists to Labrador Next June.

ROCKLAND, Me., Nov. 13 (AP).—When Lieut. Commander Donald B. MacMillan sails in the schooner Bowdoin from Wiscasset next June to establish an experimental station at Kowk, in Northern Labrador, for five years' scientific work he will be accompanied by nine men, six of whom will be scientists, he said today. This will be the fourth Arctic trip of the little auxiliary schooner.

Soon after arrival at Kowk the Bowdoin will become frozen in for the Winter in a comparatively safe harbor, and will be used as the base for the scientists, who will travel over wide areas by dog team, gathering scientific data and obtaining their food supply, including caribou, Arctic hare, walrus and birds.

The experimental station will be a frame structure to accommodate ten men. Leaving the scientists at the station, the Bowdoin will be broken out of the ice early in August and return to Wiscasset. Relief scientists and supplies will be taken up each Summer during the five years.

Paris Hears Metropolitan Has Bought Famous Holbein

PARIS, Nov. 13.—It has been learned here that an American Museum has bought a picture reputed to be among the most famous paintings in the world, signed by Hans Holbein, the great eixteenth century Dutch master.

The sale was made by Jacques Seligman of the noted Paris firm of art dealers. The name of the museum, although it is understood to be the Metropolitan of New York, however, has not been disclosed nor has the price paid for the picture.

GAME WARDEN SEIZES TWO BANK BANDITS

Fox Lake (Ill.) Man's Rifle Awes Youthful Pair Who Were Fleeing With $4,500.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Two young bank robbers quailed with shaking kneee today in the face of a repeating rifle in the hande of a McHenry County citizen, turned vigilante, and tamely submitted to capture, surrendering their swag, some $4,500 in currency, and their automatic pistols.

Half an hour before their capture, in the heart of the village of Fox Lake, Ill., the bandits had walked into the Spring Grove State Bank, six miles away, cowed with their guns Floyd Ross, cashier, and the sole person present, scooped up all the money in sight and drove rapidly toward Chicago.

The robbery occurred about noon. Six minutes later Victor C. Siegler, a deputy State game warden, learned of the raid. Hurrying into the near-by soft-drink parlor of Joseph Brown, Siegler grabbed a repeating rifle and, impressing Pani Webber into service as chauffeur, set out in hot pursuit of the robbers.

At the ontskirts of Fox Lake the pursuers sighted their quarry. The bandits, in nervous haste, had lost their way and fetched up against an embankment in a "blind alley."

One glance at Siegler's car and the protruding muzzle of his weapon decided them. They abandoned their automobile and surrendered.

BANK KILLER TRIAL IN ITALY.

De Saro, One of Diemond Gang, to Go Before Court at Palermo.

The fifth member of the murder gang that killed and robbed two messengers of the West End Bank in Brooklyn three years ago, George De Saro, who fled to Italy before all of his accomplices were caught here, is soon to be tried at Palermo, Italy. In response to notice from the Italian judicial authorities District Attorney Charles J. Dodd made arrangements yesterday to assist in the prosecution. His assistant, Sylvester Sabatino, will go to Italy on Tuesday. All documentary evidence relating to the crime has been in the hands of the Italian authorities since the trials of the others here.

Of the four convicted here, three were executed, Morris and Joseph Diamond and John Farina. The sentence of the fourth accomplice, Anthony J. Pantano, twice convicted, was commuted and he is now serving a life term. Today is the third anniversary of the slaying of the bank messengers, William Barlow and William McLaughlin. De Saro was arrested in Italy a year after the crime and has since been in prison. His extradition was refused the American authorities by the Italian Government, according to the law of that country.

TO MEET ON MEXICO BORDER

Baptist Missions Will Discuss Aid to Latin Immigrants.

The American Baptist Home Mission Society announced yesterday that a conference representing five commissions which represent various agencies along the Mexican border will meet at El Paso from Dec. 11 to 16 to discuss educational and religious problems arising out of the increase in immigration from Mexico into the United States.

The society estimates that there are 1,500,000 Mexicans in this country today, an increase of 278,000 in the last five years.

COOLIDGE CONSIDERS MEXICAN RELATIONS

Sheffield Confers With Him and Kellogg, but Conversations Are Kept Strictly Secret.

CAPITAL SILENT ON NOTE

But Mexican Minister Is Quoted as Saying Protest on Alien Laws Is Not Unusually Stiff.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The subject of this Government's relations with Mexico continued to occupy the attention of President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg in conversations today with Ambassador Sheffield, who is a guest at the White House. Added significance was attached to the situation by the continued cloak of silence with which the conferences were shrouded.

Mr. Sheffield called on Secretary Kellogg this morning for a brief interview, but State Department officials declined absolutely to reveal the nature of the conversation or to make any comment whatever beyond the bare statement that Ambassador Sheffield expected to leave Washington either tomorrow or Monday for New York, whence he would sail on Thursday for Vera Cruz en route to Mexico City.

It is known that the last note in the long controversy between the United States and Mexico was dispatched by the State Department more than a week ago, when Ambassador Sheffield and Charles Beecher Warren, former Ambassador to Mexico, were in the capital. But State Department officials have not even admitted that the note was sent and have steadfastly refused to discuss its contents.

It is generally believed here that the last American note was more firmly worded than the preceding ones in the series of exchangee which has taken place since the end of March, when a mass of previous correspondence between the two Governments on the land and oil controversy was made public.

Kellogg Stand in 1925 Recalled.

While it is not thought that this last note goes so far as an ultimatum, it is said to have been designed to bring the issue sharply before the Calles Administration, which has failed to give convincing assurance that the new land and oil laws are neither confiscatory nor retroactive in their application.

In connection with Ambassador Sheffield's presence here it is recalled that Secretary Kellogg took a similar opportunity in June, 1925, to issue a strongly worded statement on Mexican relations, in which he declared that "the Government will continue to support the Government in Mexico only so long as it protects American lives and American rights and complies with international engagements and obligations." He added that "the Government of Mexico is now on trial before the world."

The policy of the United States Government has undergone no announced change since that time, and the American Government continues to insist that Americans be adequately protected in their property rights.

Besides the question of the Mexican land and oil laws, which is the outstanding problem between the two countries, it is also known that the Administration has been carefully watching the attitude of the Mexican Government toward the Nicaraguan revolt. It has been reported that the Calles Administration has been handing a sympathetic ear to political refugees from Nicaragua.

Early Reply Announced by Saenz.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 13.—The Excélsior today carries a statement by Foreign Secretary Saenz in which the Minister denies that the tone of the latest American note to Mexico is unusually strong. It is couched in the customary diplomatic phrases, similar to those used in previous exchanges between the two countries, the Secretary says.

According to Señor Saenz, the note was received eight days ago and Mexico's reply will be delivered in a few days.

The Universal states that the American note, which has been closely studied here, deals with issues which have been the subject of negotiatione for months past. The tone of the American note, the paper says, is not alarming, as it is phrased in the usual diplomatic style.

The press here is awaiting the opportunity to publish the entire correspondence.

Harvard Club Sad or Merry As Princeton Gains or Loses

Cheers followed every gain made by Yale and sorrowful cries every gain by Princeton in the Yale-Princeton football game as it was registered on the bulletin board at the Harvard Club yesterday. When the game ended with a 10-to-7 victory for Princeton, the gloom was of an intensity which has not been noticed at the club before except after the defeat of Harvard in a major event.

This was the reverse of the mood usually displayed by Harvard men in relation to the Yale-Princeton game. Because Harvard plays Yale a week later, Harvard men usually are delighted at disaster to Yale in the Yale-Princeton game, as it leads them to foresee the collapse of Yale before Harvard in the next week's classic.

JUSTICE LYNCH SWORN IN ON SHORT NOTICE

Gov. Smith's Appointee Takes Office at Nyack to Keep Calendar Moving.

Special to The New York Times.

NYACK, Nov. 13.—Humphrey J. Lynch of White Plains, whose appointment as Justice of the Supreme Court in the Ninth Judicial District to succeed the late Justice William Popham Platt was announced last Wednesday by Governor Smith, was sworn in yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins in the latter's private chambers here. The new Justice was called to Nyack for the ceremony unexpectedly, as it was not planned to swear him in until the 23d of the month. The change in dates was said to be because of a desire to keep the court calendar moving.

Frank Comiskey welcomed Justice Lynch on behalf of the Rockland County Bar Association, and Francis Duffy of Yonkers spoke for the Westchester County Bar Association.

Justice Lynch is 46 years old and was graduated from New York University Law School in 1906. He has practiced law in Westchester County for the last twenty years and is a graduate of the Potsdam Normal School. He was for a time principal of the Chatterton Hill High School in White Plains and took up the study of law at night.

DR. MOON MISQUOTED.

Seye He Did Not Mention 'Gospel of War' in Atlantic City Speech.

In a report of the address of Dr. Parker Thomas Moon of the Department of History of Columbia University before the New Jersey State Teachers' Association in Atlantic City appearing in yesterday's NEW YORK TIMES Dr. Moon was quoted as declaring that President Coolidge, in arguing that the reduction of our national debt would increase our preparedness for war, was undermining the cause of peace and preaching the doctrine of war. This was erroneous.

Dr. Moon, in a letter to THE TIMES yesterday, explained that what he did say regarding this argument was that he wondered "just how that will appeal to French statesmen as a reason for ratifying the debt agreement." He declared that he neither made nor implied another statement attributed to him in the article, which ended, "Pay it so that we could easily declare war on her."

"After summarizing the President's utterances on the World Court," Dr. Moon said, "and on our preparation for war, I quoted his words, 'Every time a Liberty bond is retired preparedness is advanced,' and added, by way of comment, that when a President makes a speech of this sort 'the cause of peace is not advanced.' I cause of peace is not advanced. I made no mention of the gospel of war."

Senator McKinley No Worse.

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 13 (AP).—Senator William B. McKinley of Illinois passed a fairly comfortable night and there was no appreciable change in his condition today, his physician said, at the sanitarium where the Illinois Senator has been receiving treatment since Aug. 12. The Senator has gradually weakened for several weeks, but his respiration and temperature continue normal.

WELLS'S 'CLISSOLD' CALLED DETESTABLE

Professor Phelps, However, Says He Found the Book "Steadily Interesting."

PRAISES "HARMER JOHN"

He Says It Restores All the Values of Life Wells Takes Away, in Lecture at Town Hall.

The first of a series of lectures on contemporary books and plays was given yesterday by Professor William Lyon Phelps at the Town Hall under the auspices of the League for Political Education. In the course of his address Professor Phelps reviewed "The World of William Clissold" of H. G. Wells, which he characterized as "a detestable book that is steadily interesting"; Hugh Walpole's "Harmer John," which he recommended as an antidote to Wells's book in that it restores all the values of life that Wells takes away; Dorothy Canfield's "Her Son's Wife," the best book, according to Professor Phelps, of the author's entire career, and Archibald Marshall's "The Allbrights," recommended for its charm and faithful presentation of English life. The speaker also recommended "A Dictionary of Modern English Usage," by H. W. Fowler, as the work of a scholarly man of impeccable taste, a sense of humor, and familiarity with the best society.

"The World of William Clissold," said Professor Phelps, "is, strictly speaking, not a novel at all, but rather a gigantic tract containing a résumé of all of Wells's political, anti-religious, social and scientific theories. It is a detestable book that is steadily interesting, and I read every word of it with intense interest."

The author's attacks on religion, on the churches, both Protestant and Catholic, and on the clergy, said Professor Phelps, are "stupid and slapdash statements that, coming from a historian and novelist of Wells's attainments, are amazing in their lack of understanding of other peoples' points of view."

"If Wells's thesis that big business will take over the world is true wouldn't it be a hell on earth?" said the speaker. "It would mean that every one of us would have to be efficient. Lazy people, it seems to me, are among the most charming and gracious I have ever met, who say things that contain more wisdom than the talk of all the busybodies on earth. Nevertheless, every one with what is generally spoken of today as an 'adult mind' should read this book."

Speaking on "The Dictionary of Modern English Usage" Professor Phelps declared that the modern tendency toward informality has made many people afraid to use good grammar through fear of being thought "highbrow." "Not one person in the world," he said, "can speak English correctly, but we should try to do the best we can."

Among current plays the speaker recommended "John Gabriel Borkman," "The Master Builder," and "Three Sisters" as given by Eva Le Gallienne at her repertory theatre in Fourteenth Street, which, he said, was the most courageous undertaking in New York, especially as it is sponsored at great financial sacrifice by an actress who could have achieved a successful career in the commercial theatre. Other plays recommended were "Caponsacchi," played by Walter Hampden; "Iolanthe," which he said was "the best production of a Gilbert and Sullivan opera I have ever seen"; and Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows."

ANOTHER CHICAGO MAN SHOT

Brother-in-Law of Moe Rosenberg Wounded in Attack by Two Men.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13 (AP).—An attempt to assassinate Morton Kallis, a brother-in-law of Moe Rosenberg, whose brother, Michael Rosenberg, Sanitary District Trustee, recently was the object for a bomb which damaged his home, failed early today when four shots were fired at him by two men, one bullet wounding him in the leg.

Kallis, who is head of a printing concern, was about to enter his home when the men fired from shrubbery. Both escaped.

The bombing of the Rosenberg home, the burning of the furniture in a lawyer's office, threats made by telephone and the Kallis attack, all have been attributed by the police to vengefulness, growing out of the recent election.

NEEDS OF RURAL LIFE ARE TOLD TO COOLIDGE

Committee Advises President That Conditions on the Farms Should Be Improved.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Headed by Kenyon L. Butterfield, President of the American Country Life Association, founded by ex-President Roosevelt, a committee today informed President Coolidge of the work this organization is doing to strengthen American rural activities. Mr. Butterfield declared the study of the relations between farm income and farm life now being carried on was the vital subject before the American people and the thing upon which economic stability was founded.

"The officers of the Country Life Association," Mr. Butterfield said to the President, "have felt that you would be interested to know at first hand something about the main features of the work of the association, which is the outgrowth of the Country Life Commission appointed in 1908 by President Roosevelt.

"We have had national conferencee on rural health, on rural education, on the rural church, on the relations between the village and farm, on the organization of the local community. We find even in these years of economic stress in agriculture and possibly because of this stress a rapidly growing conviction on the part of the farmers themselves and the farmers' organizations that in the last analysis the fundamental agricultural question is a question of the quality of the people on the land.

"A large body of students coming from rural communities interested in rural affairs, and preparing to make their life work in the rural field, have twice registered through their delegates at our national conferences the outstanding rural needs which in their judgment are still unmet or inadequately met. We believe profoundly in the value of organising the local rural community and in closer relationship between the large villages and small cities and the farmers of the surrounding country.

"The country life movement is making international headway as it should. Our purpose, Mr. President, in laying this statement before you, is simply to acquaint you with the latest developments in this important field, for we believe that the American country life movement is one of the significant currents of the last decade and of the present time, and gives promise of practical helpfulness to tens of thousands of rural communities in this country who are struggling through not only to a more satisfactory business return from their occupation, but also to a more satisfying life in their homes and communities."

DEATH TIES UP SUBWAY.

Joseph Hirsch Killed as Train Enters Prince Street Station.

Traffic on the local southbound track of the B. M. T. subway was held up for twenty minutes yesterday morning when Joseph Hirsch of 160 Bleecker Street either jumped or fell in front of a Brighton Beach train as it was entering the Prince Street station. He died before he could be taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.

Power was shut off on that section of the line at 8:35 A. M. The wheels of the first car passed over the body before Motorman Michael Leahy could bring his train to a stop. Leahy told the police that Hirsch jumped directly in front of his train. The police emergency squad, led by Sergeant Stanton, and Hook and Ladder Company 20, in charge of Captain John Walsh, were summoned and extricated the dying man.

Hirsch's identity was established by papers found in his pocket, and later his body was identified by Adolph Hirsch, a brother, of 250 East 175th Street, the Bronx. The passengers on the train were shaken up by the sudden application of the brakes and had to walk along the roadbed to the platform, a few feet distant.

AUTO COMPANY HEAD LOST.

E. R. Myers's Empty Car Found at Baltimore Water Works.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 13.—The discovery of an auto belonging to Eugene R. Myers, President of a motor car company here, on a bridge over Loch Raven Dam at the city water works, has led relatives to ask the Water Department to drag Loch Raven for his body.

Mr. Myers has been President of the motor car company for eight years and is widely known in the automobile trade. He is 43 years old and has been a director of the Automobile Trade Association for several years.

The last seen of Mr. Myers was when he took two of his sons to school yesterday morning. For some months he has been in poor health.

When business associates found his car the door was open and Mr. Myers's hat, coat, automobile license cards and pocketbook were found on the seats.

Mr. Myers's wife was Miss Jessie Merriman, a member of a prominent Baltimore County family.

DUCHESS OBTAINED ANNULMENT DECREE

any of the witnesses, were required to appear before the Tribunal of the Rota, nor were they present in Rome.

If, on the other hand, a defendant raises objections, the debate before the Tribunal of the Rota is liable to be very protracted, as happened in the famous Boni de Castellane-Anna Gould case, which lasted several years.

Though the verdicte of Diocesan Courts and the Tribunal of the Rota are immediately communicated to the interested parties, the absolute secrecy which surrounds annulments of marriage is not usually broken till many years later, unless the principals themselves care to make the facts public.

Full reports of the activities of the Tribunal of the Rota are generally published in the Acta Apostolicae Sedis, an official Vatican publication. The last number of this publication, however, contains only reports of cases tried in 1920. It will, therefore, probably be 1932 before the Vatican publishes an official version of the Marlborough-Vanderbilt case.

Mystery in Ex-Duchess's Action.

When the first information was received from English sources a few days ago that the Marlborough-Vanderbilt marriage and divorce would be placed before a Diocesan Court, it was reported that the applications for an annulment of the marriage was being made by the Duke, in order that he could embrace the Roman Catholic faith. His divorce from the Duchess was a barrier to this.

Now, however, it appears that the application was made by the former Duchess, who was supported by her mother, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, the divorced wife of the late William K. Vanderbilt. There is no intimation as to why the application was made by the former Duchess.

In the absence of any statement of the reason why the former Duchess appeared before a Catholic marriage court to ask for a decree annuling her marriage to the Duke, Catholic authorities here were reluctant last night to state what proof the court in question might require of her right to appeal to it.

The Rev. Dr. John R. Mahoney of the Church of St. Rose de Lima, West 165th Street, who holds the office of Defender of the Marriage Bond in the Archdiocese of New York, said an appellant would have to satisfy the court that there were good reasons why such a decree should be granted, and that it was most probable it would have to be shown that the rights of a Catholic were concerned. In this connection, Father Mahoney called attention to the fact that the former Duchess, after her divorce, had married a Frenchman, who was presumably a Catholic, and that it might be desired to regularize his position with the Church, which had become irregular by his marriage to a divorced woman.

Father Mahoney also said that any married person, whether Catholic or not, might appear before a Catholic authority and ask whether his or her marriage, though performed outside the Church, would "under the laws of the Catholic Church be regarded as a valid marriage," and that an opinion on the subject would be given, but he doubted that the authorities would go so far as to render a decree unless the person concerned showed the right to receive such a decree as "affecting the interests of some Catholic."

Get Right to Remarry.

With the annulment of the Marlborough-Vanderbilt marriage by an ecclesiastical court both the Duke of Marlborough and the Duchess, the former Consuelo Vanderbilt, regained the right under Catholic rules to have their second marriages validated.

As both have remarried since their divorce in the English civil courts in November, 1920, the marriage of the Duke to Miss Glady's Deacon of Boston and the marriage of the Duchess to M. Jaques Balsan, a Frenchman, are valid in the eyes of the Catholic Church provided Miss Deacon and M. Balsan were eligible to marry and there were no impediments in their cases.

As Miss Deacon had never been married before apparently there would be no ecclesiastical opposition to her marriage with the Duke. Apparently, also, there would therefore now exist no obstacle to either the Duke or his present wife being received into the Roman Catholic faith and becoming communicants of that Church.

In connection with the second marriage of the former Miss Venderbilt there is the fact that her present husband, M. Balsan, had previously been married and divorced. Whether his first marriage has been declared null by an ecclesiastical court is not known. If it has been then both he and his present wife are apparently eligible to church membership. If, however, M. Balsan received a divorce in the French civil courts without having his marriage annulled by an ecclesiastical court he would be in a similar position to that of the Duke prior to the annulment of the latter's marriage to Miss Vanderbilt. This would prevent either M. Balsan or his wife from becoming members and participating in the sacraments of the Roman Catholic Church.

In connection with the whole situation it is pointed out that the ecclesiastical action has no civil effect and that the legitimacy of the Marlsborough children is not affected, as that is governed in the civil laws, which still regard the first Marlborough marriage as valid, though terminated by divorce.

Church Law on Consent.

The Catholic Encyclopaedia, on the law of consent for marriage, says:

"Those who marry do so by signifying their consent to be man and wife. Consent is the very essence of marriage, and it is in consequence of their free, deliberate consent that a man and woman become husband and wife. * * *

"The consent must be free and deliberate. Violence or coercion by fear in a degree so great as to deprive either party of his freedom to dissent would invalidate the consent given. The fear need not be absolute, but it must be relatively so strong as to prompt external consent while the party dissents internally. canon law considers the requisite freedom wanting, and the contract null and void."

The former Duchess of Marlborough was baptised and confirmed in the Episcopal Church in the diocese of New York, and Bishop Littlejohn, who officiated at both her baptism and confirmation, was one of the officiating clergymen at her wedding in 1895 at St. Thomas's Church on Fifth Avenue.

The Churchill family, to which the Duke of Marlborough belongs, has been Protestant for many centuries, though the present Duke has latterly been attending St. Aloysius Roman Catholic Church at Oxford.

Efforts to communicate with Mrs. Balsan or her mother, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, last night were unsuccessful. Mrs. Belmont returned to this city from abroad a little over two weeks ago, and until three days ago stopped at the Colony Club. On her arrival here she was met at the pier by Mrs. Balsan.

corporation tax from 13½ to 12 per cent. would enable corporations benefited to pass on to users of their products—that is, to the people generally—as much as 70 per cent. or perhaps as high as 80 per cent. of $200,000,000 saved to the corporations by the reduction.

Estimating that there is a turnover four times in the sale of corporation products, with taxes charged the ultimate consumer on each turnover, Mr. Garner estimated that the actual reduction from which corporations would benefit would be about $800,000,000. He disputed the view that every penny of a tax reduction would be recognized by a corporation through reduced prices, but expressed his opinion that 70 per cent. surely would be passed on to the people, and he made a rough estimate that purchasers of corporation products would benefit to the extent of $600,000,000 on account of reduced prices paid for the things they bought.

From all appearances, the tax reduction promise held out by President Coolidge will not be fulfilled at the coming session of Congress, which will end March 4, 1927, because of differences of opinion among those most concerned, or it will be necessary for the President to use his influence right away in seeking to harmonize these views and convince Democratic Senators and Representatives that he is anxious to bring about a situation that will take the tax reduction proposal out of partisan politics and will permit the Democrats to have as much credit as the Republicans for the cut.

Representative Garner said the pending alien property legislation and annual appropriation bills would take up the time of the House until the Christmas holidays, thus leaving only two months after Congress convened in the new year to enact a tax reduction law. He doubted that both the Senate and House could complete tax legislation in that time, unless the problem was simplified by confining tax relief to a reduction of corporation taxes.

Mr. Garner said he did not know what the attitude of the Democratic side of the House would be toward his suggestion, but he was already assured of support from three Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee.

CLOAK LEADERS SIGN PEACE AGREEMENT

Union Heads and Inside Shop Manufacturers Conclude Compact in Long Struggle.

TERMS ARE MADE PUBLIC

Workers Get Aid in Unionizing the Industry and Concede Right to Reorganize to Employers.

The agreement between the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and the Industrial Council of Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc., was formally signed yesterday and the strike so far as the inside shop manufacturers are concerned came to an end after a nineteen-week struggle. The compact was signed by Morris Sigman, President of the International union, and Louis Hyman, manager of the Joint Board, for the union and by Henry M. Finder, President of the Industrial Council, for the manufacturers. The workers will return to work on Wednesday or Thursday.

There are thirty-six clauses in the agreement that was signed. The employers promise that all the members of the Industrial Council "who produce all or part of their garments on their own premises will maintain union shops." The union obligates itself to furnish information to the manufacturers, and it is provided that work given to a non-union manufacturer shall be withdrawn and that such an offending member of the council shall be fined. The amount of the fine shall be determined by the sum involved in the work. Expulsion will be the penalty for a second offense.

Joint Committee Created.

The agreement creates a joint committee of representatives of both sides charged with the duty of checking up the sending out work to and the production of garments by non-union or sub-standard channels. This committee will be headed by the Impartial Chairman. An accountant is added to the staff of the Impartial Chairman and receives authority to investigate without formal notice "any establishment in the industry" suspected of not living up to the terms. The manufacturers pledge themselves not to purchase garments from any maker whose workers are on strike and not to give work to contractors unless they operate inside shops.

The eleventh clause reads: "The Council shall cooperate with the union in maintaining an unemployment fund for the benefit of the members of the union. The fund shall be made up by contributions from the manufacturers and members of the union; the contribution of the employers * * * shall be equal to 2 per cent. of the weekly payroll and that of the workers to 1 per cent. of their weekly wages. The fund shall be administered jointly."

All complaints must be submitted in writing and shall be investigated by the manager of the Council and the manager of the union, and their decision shall be binding upon the parties involved. In the event of a disagreement the matter is to be submitted to a joint trial board, with the Impartial Chairman as umpire.

The union pledges itself not to enter into any contract with others that will give a rival manufacturer the best of the Industrial Council, and in return the manufacturers pledge cooperation in the work of unionizing the industry.

"From the date of the execution of this agreement until the first Monday of June, 1928," the compact continued, "a week's work shall consist of forty-two hours in five week days. * * * After the first Monday in June, 1928, a week's work shall consist of forty hours in the first five days of the week. * * * No overtime shall be extracted or permitted in the manufacture of cloaks and suits between Nov. 15 and Dec. 31, nor between May 1 and July 15. * * * In the seasons in which overtime is permitted, such overtime shall not exceed ten hours in any week, nor two and a half hours in any day."

Minimum Wage Scale.

This is the minimum weekly wage scale: Cloak and dress cutters, $52; sample makers, $45; jacket, coat, reefer and dress operators, $55; skirt operators, $53; piece tailors, $48; reefer, jacket and coat finishers, $46; jacket, coat and reefer finishers' helpers, $38; jacket, coat, reefe and dress upper pressers, $50; under pressers, $46; skirt upper pressers, $46; under pressers, $36; skirt basters, $30; skirt finishers, $28; drapers, $32; begraders on skirts, $36; bushelmen who also do pinning and general work on garments, $40, and examiners $40. Buttonhole makers will receive $1.50 for each 100 buttonholes and ten cents additional when silk is employed.

The workers will be paid for these holidays: Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day, Christmas Day and half a day on election day. They will not be paid if they take Columbus Day off. Sewing machines driven by electrical power must be provided by the manufacturers.

It was agreed that where a contractor defaulted the council would pay for the work done on garments. Both sides agreed to a system of limiting the number of sub-manufacturers employed by the members who do "jobbing," and in time of labor abortage the manufacturers are given the right to employ apprentices.

Employers are given the right to discharge for incompetency, misconduct, insubordination, soldiering on the job and breach of rules to be jointly established.

"During the terms of this agreement there shall be no general lockout, general strike, individual shop strike, or shop stoppage for any cause whatsoever," is the pledge given in Article Thirty. A "substantial" violation of this clause on the part of the union will give the council the option of terminating the whole agreement. Should any quit work they will receive twenty-four hours in which to return and the union promised to return the strikers to the shops.

Get Right to Reorganize.

The fight that prolonged the strike centred about the demand of the manufacturers that they have the right to reorganize their shops, and they won. It is now provided that all members of the council have the right of reorganization. Under "additional reorganization rights" it was provided that all members of the council having a regular force of thirty-five or more employes, and who have been paying in wages and overtime the equivalent of thirty-two weeks employment during the year preceding reorganization, shall have the right to displace 10 per cent. of their workers. New firms admitted to the council will not be privileged to reorganize until they have been members of the council for six months. Each new member is to subscribe to the agreement, which will supersede any individual agreement the firm might have had with the union. The agreement insures peace in the industry until Juos 1, 1929.

"The purpose of the agreement," said Mr. Finder, "is concisely set forth in the preamble, which says in part: 'The parties hereto desire to cooperate in establishing conditions in the industry which will tend to secure to the workers a living wage and eliminate such manufacturing establishments as operate under unfair conditions of labor and sanitation and to provide methods for a fair and peaceful adjustment of all disputes.'"

NOVELIST TO PRESS FALSE ARREST CASE

Carroll Daly Is Indignant Because Federal Marshal Has Failed to Apologize.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 13.—"Statements made by United States Marshal William Hecht and attributed to my attorney, Charles J. Wallace of Yonkers, that I am disposed to let this case drop are untrue, and I intend to prosecute the matter to the limit," Carroll J. Daly, novelist and short-story writer, said today. He was arrested on Nov. 5 by Deputy United States Marshal Nathan Schwartz and placed in the Tombs charged with being John J. Daly, wanted in Los Angeles for using the mails to defraud.

Mr. Daly received yesterday a letter from Marshal Hecht saying he was investigating the arrest and asking him to come to Marshal Hecht's office to make a "personal statement," so that the "inquiry would be compiete."

"Why, I've never heard a word of apology from them for my arrest," Mr. Daly said today. "My attorney was informed by Assistant United States District Attorney Murdock on Monday of this week that the incident was to be regretted; but never a bit of apology has been made to me personally, either by Schwartz or Hecht. Now comes this letter, and then Marshal Hecht informs the newspapers that my attorney has said that I am disposed to let the matter drop. Mr. Wallace never said that. I never authorized him to, and if Marshal Hecht is anxious to inquire into this matter he has my address. There never would have been any 'inquiry' if the story of my arrest and detention had not been published, I believe.

"I believe that Marshal Hecht is liable for the acts of his deputies. I am going to prosecute this case and hold some one liable for my false arrest. The most galling thing about the whole matter is that despite the fact that they found they were wrong, no one had the decency to apologize."

MINIMIZES STRIKE OF UTILITY LINEMEN

Officials of Companies Assert Only 125 Men Have Quit Jobs in Westchester.

Officials of the Westchester Lighting Company of Mount Vernon and allied light and power companies in various sections of Westchester County minimized the effect of the strike of linemen yesterday, declaring 125 men had quit instead of 300, as had been reported. They also insisted it was a walkout, because the companies had never been notified of any intention to attempt to unionize the linemen.

No question of wages is involved in the controversy. Some ten years ago a similar attempt was made to unionize men in the employ of the lighting companies, but it failed.

Judson Clark of New Rochelle, Vice President of the Westchester Lighting Company, said that, so far as the strike was concerned, "White Plains was the sore spot of the whole county."

He said that the police had cooperated in every way to keep the power houses safe from intrusion and in maintaining the high tension lines which carry the current to the consumers. In addition, thirty-two members of the sheriff's emergency force are on guard at the power plants in Elmsford, Mount Vernon, Ossining and New Rochelle.

HORSES FALL INTO RIVER.

One Dies From Exhaustion After Being Rescued.

While a large crowd looked on, policemen and members of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals labored for two hours yesterday afternoon to rescue two truck horses that had fallen into the East River at the foot of Tenth Street. Exhausted from supporting themselves in the water, the two horses were finally lifted from the water in slings. Charley, a big chestnut, was revived, but his teammate, Billy, a gray, died shortly afterward.

The two horses, owned by Charles Kemsle, were drawing a load of lumber and were driven by Walter Bell, a negro. One of them stumbled against a stringpiece, lost his balance, and fell into the river, breaking the pole and harness and pulling the other after him.

The two horses, neighing loudly, swam about in the water until, after the arrival of the S. P. C. A. truck, in charge of William Ryan, the slings were placed under them and they were hoisted a distance of thirty feet to the street level.

IDENTIFIES MURDERED MAID.

Woman Aids State as Alleged Slayer Asks for Autopsy.

A positive identification of the torso of Rebina Lyttle was made at the Kings County Hospital morgue yesterday by Mrs. Hoxie Clark of 817 Fifth Avenue, Manhattan. Mrs. Clark said that she employed Miss Lyttle as a maid several years ago. The identification was made through scars resulting from an operation. Mrs. Clark was reached after a long telephone search over New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts.

Patrick McClafferty is in the Queens County Jail awaiting trial for the murder of the woman. The trial will start on Nov. 22.

An order for an autopsy to ascertain whether Miss Lyttle died of alcoholic poisoning will be sought in Queens County Court, Long Island City, tomorrow by Joseph Lonardo, counsel for McClafferty, he advised District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe of Queens County yesterday. McClafferty first said ths woman died during a drinking bout Nov. 8, but later said he killed her with an axe, according to the police.

Pelham Police Marksmen Vie.

ITALY WINS AIR RACE BY RECORD SPEED

gallery of more than 15,000 viewing the race from the Hampton Roads naval base. Across ths historic stretch where the Monitor and ths Merrimac once fought, many thousands more watched Major de' Bernardi run away from his competitors.

Vietor's Skill Is Praised.

Ths victory of the Italian, whose participation would not have been possible without ths support and interest of Mussolini, is credited by all ths American experts present to ths superiority of material of the Macchi-Fiat motors, with which Italy's racers were driven, and to the splendid manner in which they were handled by their nervy pilots.

The Americans are credited with having handled their planes as well and with having got out of them approximately all that was possible over triangular course with two very sharp turning points. Ths race had not been half run before American experts were quick to recognize that it had developed into a battle between engines.

When Major ds Bernardi opened his throttle on the second lap and covered it at an average speed of 247.071 miles an hour (a speed faster than either of the principal American contenders had developed) it was apparent that he would win if his engins lasted seven laps.

Half way through the race ths only American chance lay in Major Bernardi failing to finish. But his engines refused to burn out under the grueling load they were carrying at 2,700 revolutions a minute and he looked fit for another race when, after turning the finish line, he swung past the great crowd at the naval base breakwater pier and was accorded a great ovation by sadhearted Americans with lumps in their throats.

Beneath the judges' stand at the end of ths breakwater, from which a special telegraph line had been strung for direct connection via New York with Rome, an Italian newspaper man was flashing the result to Mussolini's capital.

Warner Congratulates Mussolini.

Over this same improvised wire this message, scratched on a stray piece of paper by Edward P. Warner, Amsrican Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air, was sent to Rome:

Mussolini, Air Minister, Rome.

"Sincere congratulations, magnificent race won by Major de Bernardi and your Schneider Cup racs team. Entire Italian team displayed finest sportsmanship and ability.

WARNER.

Assistant Secretary of Navy for Air."

At ths sams time Rear Admiral Moffett, Director of American Naval Aviation, was making this statement: "I congratulate Major ds Bernardi, ths Italian pilots and sngineers on winning this racs and breaking the world's official seaplans speed record. Italy's race team has displayed ths finest brand of sportsmanship and ability throughout their preliminary testing and in the race. Their machines show that they have made marked enginsering advancement over their entries in previous Schneider Cup races. It is to be congratulated on being so well represented both from the material and personnel standpoint."

Ths outstanding lesson of the racs is conceded to be that the Italians won by developing speedier planes, whils ths Americans, except for ths installation of the new Packard and Curtiss motors, merely used the planes with ons of which they won last year. Ons prominent air expert exclaimed, "We ought to quit kidding ourselves that we havs the foremost air engines in the world. Other countries are forging ahead and developing speedy racing engines and planes. No doubt ths loss of this race will prove an incentive to America."

The average speed of only 218.06 miles an hour for 350 kilometers developed by Lieutenant Bacula's plane today is no criterion. All thrse Italian planes are similarly motored and on straightaway test runs in Italy each developed considerably mors than 250 miles an hour.

Bacula's No. 1 plane had orders not to go at top speed, but at slower gait, so as to incrsass ths Italian chance of winning in tbs event that the de Bernardi and Ferrarin planes were unable to cover the whole course at the terrific speed they were making.

Speed of Contestants.

The average speed in miles per hour of each plane in ths race carried along cumulativsly by laps today was:

ITALIANS.

Laps.	Bernardi.	Ferrarin.	Bacul...
1	238.443	234.63	209.584
2	243.197	238.748	213.425

6	137.570	239.191	231.171
7	136.953	.....	231.069

Theas figures do not represent the elapsed time for each lap but the cumulativs average miles per hour at the end of each lap. They show, for example, that at the end of every lap Major de Bernardi's average elapsed time for all previous laps up to ths ending of that lap was steadily increasing.

Ths average speed on esch lap was as follows:

ITALIANS.

Laps.	Bacula.	Ferrarin.	Bernardi.
1	209.584	234.631	238.443
2	217.410	243.012	247.071

A remarkable thing about de Bernardi's race is that Lieutenant Doolittle's world's speed record of 245.73 miles an hour, maintained for only three kilometers, was broken by ds Bernardi on each of six laps today—every ons but ths first, which was run before he let his engine loose. Doolittle's record of 234.772 miles an hour for 100 kilometers was broken today by de Bernardi on any combination of any two of the fast Italian's fifty-kilometer laps.

De Bernardi's new seaplane world's record for 100 kilometers today was 248.189 miles an hour. It represented a combination of bis fifth and sixth laps. He also flew two other laps today—tbe third and fourth—at an avcrags of 247.8115 miles an hour, which was itself a new record.

On four of his laps today—the third, fourth, fifth and sixth—de Bernardi established the new seaplane speed record of 248.00025 miles an hour for 200 kilometers. Lieutenant Doolittis's previous record for that distancs was 234.355, or 13.644 miles an hour slowsr than ths new record.

Cuddihy covered the fastest lap—the fifth—in 0:7:41.87—and de Bernardi was only slower than that on his own first lap, which was before he began to let out for real high speed.

Ths Schneider Cup, which if won by America today would havs been held permanently, was tonight presented to ths Italian team at an elaborate banquet given at ths Monticello by the Worl[illegible] Chamber [illegible] a decision recsntly reached by the International Aeronsutic Federation, the next racs will be held in Italy, probably at Venice, in 1928.

Major ds Bernardi, the winner of ths race, is 33 years old. He was born in Verona, Italy. He qualified as an aviator in 1913. In May, 1916, he was ordered to the front with the Francesco Baracca Pursuit Squadron, where he participated in numerous engagements. He succeeded in bringing down sevsral enemies and was decorated with two medals of "Military Valor" and two war crosses.

At the end of ths war he was assigned as commander of the experimental sqnadrons in the office of the Technical Director for Military Aviation.

NIGHT FIRE SWEEPS A STUDIO BUILDING

FIFTY PERSONS DRIVEN OUT

Arts Academy Head Loses 200 Canvsses, Life Work—Private Thestre Damaged.

Many valuable paintings and considerable antiqus furniture in the homes of fifty persons living in a six-story apsrtment house at 108 West Fifty-ninth Street were destroyed by a fire which started in ths basement of the building shortly after 2 o'clock this morning and swept up ths rear to the roof.

As far as could be determined all of ths occupants were able to reach ths street in safety, but none of them had any opportunity to savs any of their personal effects.

Tbs building extends through the block from Fifty-ninth Street to Fifty-eighth Street, about midway between Sixth and Seventh Avenues. A patrolman noticed a wisp of smoke and a burst of flame coming from ths basement where a theatrical scenic painter has his studio. An alarm was turned in and the policeman roused the tenants.

The fire swept toward the rear and then shot upward through to the roof. On ths way it set fire to the stage and scenery of ths Central Park Theatre, a neighborhood playhouse conducted by tbs Threo Arts Institute.

The theatre is on ths west sids of the building and next to it is a vacant lot where formerly the Army and Navy Club stood. The club building has been demolished and firemen were able to get at the blaze by stretching lines of hose from both Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth Streets through the lot.

Two alarms were sounded and Assistant Chief "Smoky Joe" Martin arrived with tbe additional apparatus. Police reserves from the West Forty-seventh Street Station under Captain Charles Burns assisted the tenants of ths burning building and also those who lived in near-by apartments.

Tbe lifs work of Walter I. Cox, director of ths Academy of Arts, was destroyed. This collection included between 200 and 300 valuable paintings he had in his studio on the first floor.

Paints, varnish and canvasses of ths artists living in the building provided ready fuel for ths fire and it was still blazing long after the alarm was turned in.

Paintings valued at more than $100,000 in the studio of C. T. Miller on ths ground floor were completely destroyed by fire, water or smoke and a $150,000 collection of antiqus jewelry and othsr valuables, in the studio of Mme. Pstschankov, President of the Russian Women's Association, were burned.

SMITH-FOR-PRESIDENT CLUB

BUFFALO, Nov. 13 (AP).—The pre-election Smith-Wagner Club here today changed its name to the Smith-for-President Club. George G. Davidson Jr., formsr Collector of the Port here, was named President.

He said the club is the first to be organized in the country to campaign for ths election of Governor Smith as President of the United States.

TRIBUTES TO CANNON POUR IN AT DANVILLE

Messages Arrive From All Over the World as Townfolk Pay Silent Homage.

DAWES WILL ATTEND RITES

He Will Represent Coolidge at Services Tuesday—Body Will Lie in State Today.

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 13 (AP).—Down between the rows of leafless elms which span Vermillion Street messengers scurried in the rain today to the home where Joseph G. Cannon lies dead, hearing expressions of condolence and sympathy from around the world.

But not in the formal phrases of bereavement could Danville's grief be couched, for the man a nation knew as a ruler in the councils of the great was to his townspeople never more than "Uncle Joe," neighbor, benefactor and comrade.

The paying of scholarly tributes was for others. Danville's own tokens of sorrow arose from the home memories of a man whose civic spirit and whose benefactions touched the lives of his neighbors not only collectively but individually.

It was Cannon money that gave Danville electric light and power and that built the city railway. It was "Uncle Joe," the Member of Congress from Danville, who brought a soldiers' home to the city and got the appropriation for a Federal building.

But more than this, it was "Uncle Joe" who got positions in Washington for scores of Danville youths, enabling them to work their way through college and law school; and it was "Uncle Joe" who befriended scores of others and started them toward substantial careers.

Widows of the Civil War and veterans of the World War owed gratitude to "Uncle Joe" for pensions obtained for them through special bills or personal efforts.

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock a long line of those who loved him will file through the broad rooms of the Cannon home past the bier. They will be admitted until 5 P. M. Danville's memory of Mr. Cannon is not the memory of a statesman nor a political czar. It is the memory of a man whose democracy was proof of his greatness, whose kindly greetings and whose fund of stories are traditions in his community.

Until the end he loved a humorous story and sought to inject one into every situation. In his last conscious hours he interrupted the gravity of the sick room with anecdotes. His last words were "have courage." He sensed the gravity of his condition and sought to comfort the daughters who stood beside his bed.

The funeral services at 3 P. M. Tuesday will be simple. The Rev. T. N. Ewing will officiate at the St. James's Methodist Church, of which Mr. Cannon was a member, and Past Commanders of the Danville American Legion Post will bear the coffin to the grave.

President Coolidge will be represented by Vice President Dawes, who telegraphed the family today that he would attend the services.

Throughout the business and residential districts flags fluttered at half-mast today under a dismal sky. In many downtown store windows huge photographs of the ex-Speaker of the House occupied central positions. All business and industry will cease during the funeral hour.

Mr. Cannon died the "perfect death," his physician, Dr. C. E. Wilkinson, said today.

"I believe it will go down in history as one of the most unusual which ever befell a great statesman," said the physician. "Usually thay die suddenly, often comparatively young, through wear and tear. It was not so with Uncle Joe. He had no disease. Briefly, his physical machinery just wore out. He slept away peacefully."

WILL AIDS EYE INFIRMARY.

Dr. Robert G. Reese Left Bequest to Build Glaucoma Pavilion.

The New York Eye and Ear Infirmary inherits a share of the estate of Dr. Robert Grigg Reese, widely known New York physician, who died on Oct. 18, by the terms of his will filed for probate yesterday. The bequest, which comprises the remainder of Dr. Reese's residuary estate, the value of which is not known at this time, is to be used to erect and maintain a glaucoma pavilion, to be known as the Reese Pavilion. The value of the entire estate is given in the papers as "more than $800,000."

Dr. Reese left the residence he owned at 50 East Fifty-second Street, together with his medical practice, and $50,000, to Dr. Algernon B. Reese, a nephew, with the provision that he is to pay 25 per cent. of the net profits to Mrs. Louise de l'Aigle Reese, the widow. She is to inherit the income from the residuary estate during her lifetime.

Specific bequests contained in the will include $40,000 to Mrs. John Crowell, a sister, of Middletown, Pa.; $100,000 to Eugene P. Summerson, a nephew, of Flushing, L. I.; $25,000 to Dr. E. E. Tull of Princess Anne, Md.; $80,000 to Margaret Reese, a niece; $20,000 to Dr. C. A. Drake, an assistant to the testator; $20,000 to Dr. Albert Durham of Tuxedo, N. C.; $20,000 to Dr. Harmon Smith of 44 West Forty-fifth Street and $5,000 each to the Misses Leonore Seely, Alice Taylor and Phoebe Sterrett, secretaries. Several other relatives and friends inherit remainder shares in the residuary estate.

ROLL-CALL TOTAL RISES TO $72,126

WARNING ABOUT IMPOSTERS

Public Urged to Give Only to Workers in Booths—Carlton Emphasizes Organization's Needs.

An advance of nearly $22,000 in memberships and contributions marked the second day of New York's American Red Cross Roll-Call, raising the total to $72,126 with more than a dozen divisions not heard from among the 200 working in the campaign. Many of the women's groups led in yesterday's activities, especially among the banks, theatres and motion picture houses.

W. Breese Evans, director of the industrial divisions, said that there were more than 5,000 business and professional men in Manhattan and the Bronx engaged in the campaign.

Impostors masquerading as Red Cross workers have been soliciting funds, it was announced. The public was warned against making contributions to any persons except those in the official Red Cross booths.

The need for an increased membership to back up the disaster relief operations of the Red Cross throughout the country was emphasized last night in a statement by Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union and Chairman of the Roll-Call Committee.

"While the hurricane disaster in Florida," said Mr. Carlton, "directed attention to the work of the Red Cross this relief operation was in no way, as a matter of fact, characteristic of those in which the Red Cross is engaged from one year's end to the other, because the public was asked to supply the funds. In ninety-seven other emergencies the Red Cross responded, using the funds it receives from its annual membership dues. While the Red Cross expended $100,000 in administration of the Florida relief, the funds were given by the public direct to the sufferers, not for Red Cross use in any other locality.

"Yet in ninety-seven other localities the Red Cross supplied all funds and workers, giving relief to over 300,000 people and expending $2,600,026, besides some $50,000 sent to disaster victims in other countries. The necessity for a generous response to this year's Roll-Call is therefore apparent."

MAYOR AS MINSTREL IN PRESS CLUB'S SHOW

Will Be Interlocutor, With William Collier Among End Men—Others on Program.

As a member of the New York Press Club, Mayor Walker for a short time this evening will become a minstrel on the stage of the Forty-fourth Street Theatre in an act in which he will be the interlocutor, with Arthur (Bugs) Baer, William Collier, Jack Donohue, George White and Bernard Granville as end men.

The act is part of the New York Press Club's entertainment to celebrate its fiftieth anniversary. More than forty stars have been scheduled for appearance, including Beniamino Gigli, tenor; James Wolfe, basso; Borough President James J. Byrne of Brooklyn, Gene Tunney, George White and his company, Vincent Lopez, Eddie Jackson, Marie Dressler, Fannie Brice, Bobby Clark, Sam Bernard, Belle Baker, Jimmy Hussey, Joe Laurie Jr. and Roy Atwell.

S. Jay Kaufman will be master of ceremonies. Among the boxholders are Vincent Astor, Anne Nichols, George R. Hearst, Irving Berlin, Charles E. Gehring and Mayor Walker.

The proceeds of the show will go to the benefit fund of the club.

Vare's Lead in Philadelphia 232,929.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13 (AP).—The official plurality in Philadelphia of William S. Vare, Republican candidate for United States Senator at the recent election, was 232,929 over William B. Wilson, his Democratic opponent. His total vote was 306,553, and Wilson's combined Democratic and Labor vote was 73,624. The plurality of John S. Fisher, Republican candidate for Governor, over Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, Democrat, in Philadelphia was 245,550.

PRISON INQUIRY UNDER WAY

New Jersey Official Studies Alleged Plot to Escape.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 13.—Joseph S. Hoff, principal keeper of the State prison, is investigating charges made against Fred Lattiere, a prison guard, by Frank Lombardo, a convict, it was learned today.

Lombardo testified recently before the Civil Service Commission at a hearing on the dismissal of Elmer Wright Jr., a tower guard, who was accused of negligence in connection with the escape last June of Lombardo and Sigmund Rutkowitz. The prisoner declared that Lattiere knew of the plot to escape and received $700 for aiding.

Since June Mr. Hoff has been working on the case and has questioned the accused deputy and both convicts. He said today that his investigation was not complete but that he believes Lattiere is probably the victim of an attempted "frame-up" by Lombardo.

"SPEAKING OF SWEATERS"

AN INTERVIEW WITH ROBERTS OF LONDON

Mr. Roberts speaks authoritatively of sweaters, for he is the maker of "Paris and London's finest."

Mr. Roberts says: "I believe that we are now entering upon the greatest sweater era we have seen for some time. In all the years I have been making sweaters, I have never been called upon to prepare so many as for the resort season.

"In Paris too, I found this same feeling and demand. I was actually astounded at the large number of original model sweaters being shown by the Paris Haute Couture. These dressmakers who a few years ago would not have considered even showing sweaters are now featuring them as an important part of their new collections. Why? Simply because the smart woman's wardrobe demands no less than eight different sweaters."

INCAS STOLEN FROM INCAS

Eight Expeditions Between 1800 and 1892 Failed to Find Treasure, Simmons Declares.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 13 (AP).—Doubloons worth of eight and treasures of the Spanish main lie buried on a South American Treasure Island, ready for the person who is willing to dig for them, according to George Finlay Simmons, Curator of Ornithology of the Cleveland Museum of Natural History.

On his return here from the island, Mr. Simmons said that the treasure, taken from the Inca Indians, still lies undisturbed where it was buried by two pirates a century ago on an island off the coast of Brazil.

Reminiscent of the days of Captain Kidd, the story of the treasure is replete with lore of roving buccaneers, shifting ballasts and treasure maps. One of the hoards, Mr. Simmons said, amounts to $40,000,000. It was buried by a Spanish pirate, Jose Santos, who captured a ship laden with gold and silver bar and vestments and candelabra for the churches of Lima, Peru.

More than $8,000,000 more was buried on the same island by an English pirate who styled himself Zulmiro, Mr. Simmons said. Records of this "cache" were kept, and were in the possession of the Russian quartermaster of the ship until he died in the Far East.

Eight expeditions were made to find the treasure between 1800 and 1892, according to Mr. Simmons, but most of them never reached the desolate coast of the island. Those that did found landmarks left on the map wiped out by a landslide.

"Robert Louis Stevenson used the island as the scene of 'Treasure Island,'" Mr. Simmons said, "but the swag found in fiction is still there in reality."

Mr. Simmons was commander of the Blossom, research ship of the Cleveland Museum, which cruised the South Seas for two and half years, visited three continents and brought back specimens for the museum's collection.

JERSEY TEACHERS ELECT.

George R. Gerard of Belleville Is Chosen President.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 13.—George R. Gerad, Superintendent of Schools of Belleville, was elected President of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association at the closing session of the organization's seventy-second annual convention here today. He succeeds George J. Smith, Superintendent of Schools of Clifton.

Henry P. Miller, Principal of the local high school, was re-elected First Vice President. Josephine R. K. Lages of Camden was elected Second Vice President and Harriet J. Outwin of Paterson, Recording Secretary. Frederick Cook, Plainfield, and Agnes Wharton were elected to the Executive Committee. Charles B. Dyke of Short Hills was re-elected.

Establishment of a State college for the training of teachers for secondary schools to be under control of the State Department of Public Instruction was recommended in resolutions.

The association warned the State Legislature not to break faith with the teachers in the matter of the pension and annuity law, passed at the last session. They asked that the Legislature appropriate to this fund the full amount certified by its Board of Trustees as necessary for its proper maintenance.

Mr. Rogers Muses on Conscription of Wealth And Finds It Too Good to Come True

To the Editor of The New York Times:

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 13.—I been reading and studying over President Coolidge's message to Kansas and Missouri. He brought out Mr. Harding's idea (he didn't say it was, but it was) about the conscription of all wealth in case of war.

That sounds fine after the war is over. Funny nobody thought of it before the last war started, and I doubt if you hear anything of it just before the start of the next one. If they did do it, it would be a great enlistment boost for war, as we all know thousands that would go themselves just to see some of the money taken away from the ones that copped it during the last war.

It would be a very interesting experiment and would add novelty to the next war, as we have lots more fellows ready and willing to give lives than we have ones that would give their fortunes. You would have more suicides and heart failures on your hands than you would have shot by bullets.

It was a great idea even when Mr. Harding recommended it, but it's like a campaign promise; it's too good to ever come true. It would be worth a war just to try it out.

Yours for serious consideration of promises. WILL ROGERS.

Fire Insurance Policy Clause Affects Christmas Decorations.

Holiday displays in stores or display windows made with Christmas greens, cotton, tissue paper or similar materials may nullify insurance policies. Warning of the danger of such displays has been given by William B. White, Superintendent of the Bureau of Surveys of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, who points out that the provisions of the standard form of fire insurance policy act as a "practical prohibition" of such materials.

This prohibition is said to be equally applicable to churches, clubs, public buildings and private homes. The policy clause curtailing the use of special material for display reads: "Unless otherwise provided by agreement in writing added herto, this company shall not be liable for loss or damage occurring while the hasard is "Increased by any means within the control or knowledge of the insured."

Special electrical effects must also have the approval of the Board of Underwriters to make the insurance policy effective, Mr. White advises.

'MAKE BUDGET CUTS' ALDERMEN ARE TOLD

Municipal Economy Committee Writes to F. C. Cunningham, Finance Chairman.

DUTY TOWARD VOTERS CITED

Precedents Are Quoted to Show That Mayors in Past Have Let Aldermanic Reductions Stand.

Reasons why rentpayers and taxpayers expect Aldermen to seek to reduce next year's budget at their taxpayers' hearing next Wednesday were given yesterday by the Municipal Economy Committee in a letter to Frank A. Cunningham of the Thirty-sixth District, Chairman of the Aldermanic Committee on Finance and therefore chiefly responsible for what the Board of Aldermen does about the budget.

The letter from the Municipal Economy Committee was signed by Herman A. Metz, Chairman of the Executive Committee. After recalling that the charter places upon Aldermen, as direct representatives of the people, the duty to inquire carefully into the propriety and reasonableness of all budget allowances, the letter says:

"Instead of budget attention not being expected of Aldermen by voters, it is the chief reason usually given for not abolishing the Board of Aldermen entirely. Instead of a $1,000,000 reduction being only a million saved it is over $20,000,000 saved because it lowers the base for each year's future increasing.

"Instead of always rubber-stamping the budget by totals ranging all the Board of Estimate, the Aldermen on six different occasions have reduced the bdget by totals ranging all the way from $2,000 to $8,100,000.

Former Mayors Quoted.

"Instead of Mayors snapping their fingers at Aldermanic reductions they have, in most instances, allowed the reductions to stand. Mayor Gaynor said, 'I am not prepared to set my judgment up against yours'; Mayor Mitchel said, 'Where the necessity or propriety of appropriations has appeared to me to be at all debatable and your action merely evidences a judgment as to necessity or fair dealing I have not attempted to interfere with your determination.'

"Instead of Aldermen not having time to study the budget for next year, they have had a great deal more time than the Board of Estimate actually gave. They might have started with the tentative budget on Oct. 10. They might have attended two hearings on that budget. They might have examined the proposed budget on Oct. 20 and attended two all-day hearings on that. They might have read numerous news items and editorials. They have already had a fortnight for studying the budget now before them.

"They can learn more in two hours now than their predecessors could learn in two weeks, thanks to the printed explanations. They can save several million dollars if they will study proposals which will be made to them next Wednesday by the Municipal Economy Committee and others. If they reduce, it is probable that Mayor Walker, like Mayors Gaynor and Mitchel, will let most of their reductions stand."

To encourage cutting in the budget increase of $42,000,000 the committee recalled several former Aldermanic cuts:

Precedents Are Cited.

"In 1906," it said, "its reductions were bluntly vetoed by Mayor McClellan, but in 1907 it cut out large increases for high-salaried employes; for police inspectors whose positions had not been filled; it cut down what it called excessive allowances for police and street cleaners. In 1910 it corrected a clerical error of $2,000, which was like an error they have had a chance to correct this year of $375,000 in the amount allowed for lighting public buildings.

"The largest cut ever made by the Board of Aldermen was $8,121,000 in 1912. It made reductions under nineteen different heads, of which Mayor Gaynor vetoed only three.

"For next year there are twenty-two city departments which have increases far above 4 per cent. and fourteen increases over 8 per cent. If the changes of 1927 over 1925 are taken, there are twelve departments that have increases for personal service alone of 16 per cent. and over, running up to 50 per cent. in Queens, 28 per cent. in Richmond 18 per cent. in the Bronx, 16 per cent. in Brooklyn, 20 per cent. in police, 13 per cent. in welfare, 10 per cent. in the Mayor's office, health, water and correction."

To support the request that Chairman Cunningham have copies of the budget at the hearing and follow point by point the suggestions of the Municipal Economy Committee and other citizens next Wednesday, Chairman Metz's letter concludes: "Never until small useless items are kept out of budgets will officials use methods which will prevent big leaks in spending and planning."

College Youth Wins a Dance Partner by an Ad; Baltimore Girl Liked His Appeal for a 'Drag'

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Advertising was turned to a new use with success when Louis A. Hester Jr., student at St. John's College, Annapolis, went to the want ad column of a newspaper to get a "drag" for a football dance tonight in Baltimore, "drag" meaning a dance partner, in college parlance.

His appeal in The Annapolis Evening Capital read as follows:

"Young college student desires a drag for a Southern Hotel roof party in Baltimore Saturday night after St. John's-Hopkins game. Address Box 40, Evening Capital, before Friday night."

There were six replies, and a delegation of reporters awaiting the resourceful student. The net result was that Miss Yvonne Batchelor of Baltimore won his decision with the following reply by wire:

"Saw your ad and loved its originality. Won't a Baltimore girl do? Call this evening, Madison 5715."

This being the first response, it received first attention. As often happens, the youth got the wrong number and a male voice answered; but patience prevailed and eventually Miss Batchelor was reached.

Mr. Hester is a Virginian, from Clarendon, just across the Potomac River from Washington.

HUNTERS KILL 200 DEER.

Sullivan County's Record for the Season Likely to Reach 400.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Over 200 deer have been killed in Sullivan County since the fifteen-day season opened, and between now and the close of the season on Monday it is expected the number will reach 400.

Large numbers of hunters are swarming into the deer-hunting territory of Sullivan. Many bucks which were wounded but not captured, and wounded or killed does, are being found.

GIRL ENDS HER LIFE BY LEAP INTO SEA

Liner Halts, but Hour's Search in Midocean Fails to Recover Body.

WAS WORRIED BY TAUNTS

Victim Had Been Told That Sister's Illness Would Prevent Her From Landing.

The Fabre liner Providence, which arrived here yesterday, halted in midocean for more than an hour in a vain effort to recover the body of Miss Angelina Sapienza, a 23-year-old Italian girl of Lawrence, Mass., who committed suicide by jumping overboard on Nov. 7. Officers of the ship said that comments of her fellow second-class passengers, who told her that because her 4-year-old sister Concetta had the measles she would not be allowed to land, had preyed upon her mind.

The child was taken sick on Nov. 5 as Angelina, her mother, Maria, and Concetta were on their way home from a vacation in Italy. Although the illness was quickly diagnosed as a mild case of measles, the young woman was obviously worried. Her mental distress increased greatly when she was told that the child would have to be isolated.

Her fellow passengers asked her whether she was an Italian or an American citizen and when she said the former they told here that all three would be sent back to Italy. It was in vain that Captain Noel Marcantetti reassured here by pointing out that since Concetta was born in America she was an American citizen. The ship's doctor also told her that by the time the Providence reached New York the child would be well.

On Nov. 7, Miss Sapienza was so depressed that the trained nurse taking care of Concetta ordered her on deck to get a breath of fresh air. Suddenly a scream was heard and the passengers saw the young girl leap overboard. They say that they had great difficulty in keeping her mother from following her.

The liner stopped at once and a boat was lowered in the hope of recovering the body. It was thought that it might be in one of the vessel's propellers. No trace of the body was found.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Emil H. J. Hyser, 65 years old, a cabinet maker and upholsterer of this city who wrapped himself in the coverings of his bed yesterday afternoon and fired a bullet into his head died late last night at the White Plains Hospital. A will made several days ago, which left everything to a Marie Tynan of 226 Central Avenue, Brooklyn, was found on a table in the room. Keyser is believed to have committed suicide in a fit of despondency over the death of his wife a year ago.

AMBASSADORS LEAVE FOR BERLIN AND ROME

Scharman and Fletcher Tell of Improvement in Germany and Italy.

Two United States Ambassadors sailed yesterday on the Leviathan of the United States Linee to their respective posts at Berlin and Rome.

Jacob Gould Schurman departed for Germany after a six weeks' visit, which he spent in Washington and New York, which is his home city. He will eat his Christmas Thanksgiving dinner in Berlin at the American Club, he said. In a statement made on the ship the Ambassador said:

"There are no difficulties existing at the present time between the United States and Germany. Everything is working smoothly and the friendly spirit of the pre-war days between the two nations is being re-established.

"The German people have confidence in the attitude of the Government of the United States toward their country. There is no thought of war among the German people. They are devoting all their energies toward the economic reconstruction of their country and are making steady progress in developing its industries. Germany has been one of the leaders in the peace movement since the war and the Locarno agreement was first suggested by Stresemann.

"The combine in the iron and steel industries of Germany, France and Belgium that has just been organized could not have occurred a year or so ago. Another thing that will be of great benefit to Europe is the proposal to remove a number of the artificial trade barriers between the various countries on the Continent."

Henry P. Fletcher, who departed for Rome with Mrs. Fletcher, declined to make any comment upon Premier Mussolini or on Italian politics. He said that Italy was concentrating on restoring the lira and attracting tourists, in both of which the Government was making steady progress.

EXONERATED OF KIDNAPPING

Adamo and Savino Freed After Woman Admits She Knew Them.

After Mrs. Anna Dale, 30 years old, of 346 West Forty-fifth Street, had admitted under questioning yesterday in West Side Court that Raffael Adamo, 35 years old, and Giuseppe Savino, 33 years old, both of 221 East Eighteenth Street, were known to her and that Adamo had formerly boarded in her home, Magistrate Flood, without questioning the men, who had been held without bail charged with kidnapping the woman, discharged them.

Adamo and Savino were arrested Thursday after Mrs. Dale had told the police that they and three other men had kidnapped her from her apartment Wednesday afternoon. She said she managed to telephone her husband Charles, who went with detectives to Adamo's apartment and found the two men and Mrs. Dale there.

Mrs. Dale testified she had suffered no injury.

CHIEF NAVY FLEETS COMING HERE MAY 1

Pacific and Atlantic Units Will Stay Two Weeks, Prior to Manoeuvres.

TO GO TO NARRAGANSETT

Army Will Join Game There—Cuban Waters to Be Scene of First Practice.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The entire fleet of the United States, with the exception of the battleships of the scouting fleet and the submarine divisions of the battle fleet, will anchor at New York on May 1 for a two week's stay when the crews of the vessels will have shore leave. Prior to joint army and navy manoeuvers in Narragansett Bay.

An earlier part of the program, the Navy Department announced today, will include an attack of the Pacific fleet against the Army's canal defenses at Panama after which the Pacific fleet will pass through the Canal and on March 15 engage the scouting fleet and control force of the Atlantic fleet in manoeuvers in Cuban waters, the combined fleets making their base at Guantanamo Bay. Both fleets will then engage in the working out of naval strategical problems, simulating rival naval forces.

These manoeuvres completed the war-time fleet, with the exceptions named, will steam from Guantanamo Bay on April 23, reaching New York on May 1. Following a two-weeks' stay there, which will terminate May 16, the United States fleet, including the battle fleet, scouting fleet, fleet base force and control force, 133 vessels of all classes with approximately 150 airplanes, will proceed to Narragansett Bay, where manoeuvres will be held jointly with the army during the week terminating May 22. At that time a general conference of officers of the army and navy will be held to study the lessons of the war game.

The details of the joint manoeuvres have not been determined and will be worked out in a series of conferences to be held between Admiral Charles F. Hughes, Commander-in-Chief of the United States Fleet, and Major Gen. Preston Brown, Commander of the First Corps Area at Boston.

The units of the battle fleet comprising seventy-seven fighting ships and carrying ninety airplanes, will sail from Pacific Coast bases on Feb. 19, returning to their respective bases by June 30.

AGED PHYSICIAN A SUICIDE.

Vermont Doctor Puts Chloroformed Towel on Face Before Hanging.

ISLAND POINT, Vt., Nov. 13 (AP).—First wrapping a chloroform-soaked towel about his head, Dr. E. F. Norcross, seventy-five-year-old physician, ended his life by hanging in his barn last evening, it became known today. He left a note in his home telling where his body could be found.

The police believe that Dr. Norcross placed a ladder across the beams in the barn from which he suspended a rope loop. A partly empty bottle of the anesthetic was found in his pocket. It was believed he became unconscious before dropping from the ladder.

Dr. Norcross had held several town offices during the many years he practiced in this vicinity.

COOLIDGE HEARS VIEWS ON MERCHANT MARINE

Middle West Farmers Favor Private Development, Malcolm M. Stewart Tells Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—While calling on President Coolidge today Malcolm M. Stewart of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce said that the agricultural centres of the Middle West favored an adequate American merchant marine. His views, he told the President, were obtained from attending twelve hearings in such centres.

"To sum up briefly what was brought out at all of these hearings," he said in a letter left with the President, "the consensus of opinion was that the ideal situation would be to have this merchant marine in the hands of private companies.

"The alternative to private operation under present shipping conditions is Government operation and in every case the agricultural interests insisted that the Government should definitely announce its intention of maintaining a merchant marine permanently in order to remove all uncertainty on the part of shippers.

"In following out this policy Congress should be requested specifically to authorize the Shipping Board to proceed with a very aggressive program of development of all the trade routes now in existence, with a program of replacement and reconstruction in order to meet the highest type of competition presented by foreign steamship lines, especially in cargo liner service. If this is done, and we fail to get adequate Government aids, it is the opinion of the interior of the country that these trade routes can be built up in time to where they will be attractive to private capital.

"Transportation in its development stage is essentially a governmental function and the Government in the shipping business at the present time is not competing with private American companies, but is developing a service not only to commerce and agriculture but something that is invaluable for national defense.

"It was clearly brought out that the people of the interior of the country do not feel a five-year guarantee in the sales program of the Shipping Board is adequate, that it might take more time than this to permanently develop the trade routes that have been established and even if it took ten or fifteen years the Government would really be saving money not only to the national Treasury but to commerce and agriculture in providing the services that are so essential."

MAN'S DEATH LAID TO FALL.

Country Club Employe Found on Bench in Westbury (L. I.) Station.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Nov. 13.—Bernard Feeney, 36 years old, of Everett, Mass., employed as an engineer at the Salisbury Country Club, Westbury, died at the Nassau Hospital today from a wound in the back of his head. He was discovered unconscious on a bench in the Westbury station of the Long Island Railroad by Frank Depuy, a mail carrier. Coroner Wilmot Y. Hallock has ordered an autopsy.

An investigation by Captain Harold R. King, head of the Nassau County detectives, disclosed that Feeney and Thomas Patterson, another employe of the country club, had been out together last night. Patte son told the police that he had left Feeney at 11 P. M. and that he did not know of Feeney's movements after that. The police believe that Feeney received his injury in a fall, but are continuing their investigation.

RUTGERS RECEIVES CRANE LITHOGRAPHS

John W. Mettler Gives Collection to University—Business Men to Aid Extension.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 13.—Rutgers University, it was announced today, has come into the possession of more than 7,000 steel and copper plate engravings and lithographs of George Washington, Benjamin Franklin and Napoleon Bonaparte through a gift of John Wyckoff Mettler, President of the Interwoven Stocking Company, a graduate of the class of '99 and a trustee of the institution.

The engravings and lithographs, many of them contemporaneous with their subjects, were collected by Warren Crady Crane of New York City. Napoleon is represented by 5,000 items, Washington by 976 and Franklin by 688. One of the rarest is a lithograph of Washington of a portrait by Rembrandt Peale. It is an oval bust surrounded by an oak wreath, dated 1827. Another is a bust in uniform by William Angus, published by J. Fielding in 1785; another is a bust in uniform by J. Trenchard, published by Laurie & White in 1797.

One of the rarest is a print in color of Franklin, Lafayette, Marie Antoinette and D'Estaing, a French Admiral who commanded the fleet sent to aid the colonists.

The collection will be housed in a special room in the university library.

John M. Thomas, President of Rutgers, announced today the appointment of 100 business men of New Jersey to serve on twelve Advisory Committees which will work with the industrial extension division of the university.

Some of those who have accepted such invitations are Major J. S. Richardson, director of the New Jersey Public Utility Information Committee; William J. Ellis, Commissioner of the State Department of Institutions and Agencies; W. A. O'Leary, Assistant Commissioner of Education; B. R. Miller of the Ingersoll-Rand Company; Dr. C. E. French of the Standard Oil Company; William R. Adams of the International Motor Company; Bryan Houston and S. W. Candee of the Tidewater Oil Company, and R. L. Abbott of the General Electric Company.

Arrangements have also been made to lend books from the university library to students of the extension division and to New Jersey industrial plants.

Twin Boy Smothers In Crib.

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Nov. 13.—Donald H. Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson of 1,139 West Front Street, while sleeping in a crib with his ten-month-old twin, Robert Herbert, was smothered to death today by bed clothing. Futile efforts were made by Dr. L. D. Henn and city firemen through the use of a pulmotor to revive the infant.

MRS. FISH'S WILL HELD UP.

Cannot Be Probated Until Beneficiaries in England Are Notified.

Special to The New York Times.

CARMEL, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Because six beneficiaries under the will of Mrs. Florence Fish, wife of Hamilton Fish Sr. of Garrison, live in England the probate of her will, it was learned today, must be delayed until proper notice can be served upon them.

As soon as the executors bring the matter before Surrogate J. Bennett Southard of Putnam County citations will be issued. Then, either by personal service or publication in English newspapers, the heirs of Mrs. Fish in England will receive ample notice of the proceedings started in Putnam County to have her will probated.

No figures are available as to the value of her estate, but it is reported in Carmel that it will total between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000.

Mrs. Fish, until her death, had a country residence in Garrison.

FINED $25 FOR AUTO DEATH

Clergyman in Fatal Collision Punished for Ignoring Warnings.

OGONTZ, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP).—The Rev. Ralph E. Urban of Trenton, N. J., who ran down and killed a man on North Ogontz a week ago, was today fined $25 and costs and released. The clergyman was on his way from Trenton to Haverford College, near Philadelphia, to see his son play soccer when his machine struck Lewis Bennett's car and killed Bennett.

At a hearing today before Magistrate Refsnyder prosecuting officials expressed the belief that Mr. Urban could not be held for manslaughter because of insufficient evidence. The Magistrate then fined him on a charge of reckless driving in that he ignored warning signs as he approached a dangerous crossing.

It is understood that Bennett's family will be compensated through insurance carried by the clergyman. Bennett, who was a tester for an automobile company, left a widow and two children.

The Accessories of Fashion suggest the successful gift

The exclusive fashions for which Jay-Thorpe is known, are quite naturally reflected in the fashionable gifts presented by this shop. Complete collections of perfumes, jewelry, novelties and accessories from the world's most noted sources express the unusual, the beautiful and the fashionable in gifts.

Handbags to Accent Smartness

Handbags are ideal gifts, for a handbag is necessary to every hour of the day—the time merely changes its style. For morning are tailored bags of calfskin or reptile leather; for afternoon, antelope; and for evening, rhinestone mesh, woven pearls, or lovely Aubusson tapestry.

Jewelry of Personality

In the scope of our jewelry alone are gifts for women of every fashion type. Here you will find pearls and clear crystal; curious hand-wrought necklaces, bracelets, and earrings of gold; the newest link bracelets; and the large, single stone rings that are so smart worn in duplicate.

Perfumes in Fashion's Moods

It is in perfumes that the gift may most subtly compliment a woman's personality, and what greater tribute than to give the most appropriate one? The leading perfumes of the French couture; all the most successful creations of the great Paris parfumeurs; and "Pensees d'elle"—Jay-Thorpe's own exclusive perfume.

"LE BOTTIER"—The new French 48 gauge silk hose introduced by an exclusive Place Vendome house to conform to the modern evening slipper (4.95).

1,500 MEN ATTEND BIBLE CONVENTION

DINNER HELD AT ARMORY

Supreme Court Justice MacCrate is the Toastmaster—Sessions Continue Today.

More than 1,500 delegates registered yesterday at the opening of the two-day convention of the New York State branch of the National Federation of Men's Bible Classes at the Tompkins Avenue Congregational Church, Tompkins Avenue and McDonough Street, Brooklyn. E. V. Kreidler, State President, acted as Chairman.

After a song service led by William McEwan, an address of welcome was given by the Rev. Dr. J. Frederick Berg of the Reformed Church, Flatbush and Church Avenues, representing the clergy and the Brooklyn Federation of Churches. The Rev. J. Stanley Durkee of Plymouth Church, had charge of the devotional service.

Then Harry L. Slack, President of the National Federation of Everyman Classes, spoke on "How to Meet the Need for More Bible Study"; Samuel Wilson discussed "Propaganda, Promotion and Publicity"; W. F. Norris, ex-President of the Bartholow Bible Class, Mt. Verton, told "How to Build a Class for Bible Study"; H. A. Bente of Flushing, Queens, outlined "The Need for More Bible Study"; J. B. Montgomery of Philadelphia explained "How the State-wide Movement Helps the Local Church," and the Rev. Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston, Chairman of the Presbyterian Synod of Milwaukee, Wis., took for his subject, "Why the Bible Does Not Lose Its Power."

In his address, President Kreidler said:

"For many years there has been no movement in the Christian Church so silently powerful and irresistible, and none so promising in its possibilities, as that of the men's Bible class.

"From authentic statistics I find that there are 60,000,000 people in the United States of American who are without any church affiliation whatever; 15,000,000 of those are men. I also observe that in this State of New York 6,000,000 men and women have no church home, and of that number 1,500,000 are men.

"It is the business of the Christian Church to win those men for Christ and His Church, but how? A Bible class supplies the point of contact. The key to Bible class success is consecrated personality, with leaders who have a passion for mankind and for the doing of deeds of love and mercy, who really know Christ, and so have a real basis for the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God. There is positively no limit to the growth and force of this mighty Bible class movement.

Supreme Court Justice John MacCrate acted as toastmaster at a banquet which opened the evening session at the 106th Infantry Regiment Armory, Bedford and Atlantic Avenues. Among the speakers were Frederick A. Wallis, Commissioner of Correction; the Rev. Frederick M. Gordon, Executive Secretary of the Brooklyn Federation of Churches; the Rev. O. F. Bartholow of Mount Vernon and the Rev. A. Lincoln Moore.

MAID FREED IN GEM THEFT.

Margaret McConnachin Cleared of Guilt of $300,000 Taylor Robbery.

When detectives working under orders of Inspector John D. Coughlin admitted yesterday that they were unable to connect her with the theft of $300,000 worth of jewels from the home of Myron C. Taylor, 16 East Seventieth Street, Margaret McConnachin, 72 years old, a maid servant, was discharged by Magistrate Edward Weil in Harlem Court.

She had been arrested on suspicion on Nov. 8.

FRAUD ORDER STOPS VICTOR PAGE STOCK

CALLS SYSTEM SCANDALOUS

Investigation Begun With Raid by Troopers on Meeting to Sell Motor Shares.

Announcement was made in the office of Attorney General Ottinger yesterday that Justice Selah B. Strong of the Kings County Supreme Court had issued an injunction restraining the Victor Page Motors Corporation, a Delaware organization, from further sale of its stock in this State.

The Attorney General's investigation, which led to the granting of the restraining order, began last March with a raid on a meeting of stockholders of the corporation in the Yorkville Casino, in the upper east side, when Victor Page, originator of the corporation, and Charles Freeman, an associate, were conducting a stock-selling campaign.

Subpoenas were issued at the time by Deputy Attorney General Milholland, who led State troopers and others from the Attorney General's office in the descent on the meeting, for Page, Freeman and John Paige Knox, secretary and legal adviser of the corporation, for their appearance in the Bureau of Frauds of the Attorney General's office on the next morning for questioning about the conditions under which stock in the corporation was being sold.

Mr. Milholland said that Page offered to give any information desired when the subpoena was served on him amid booing from many stockholders, but that on his appearance in the bureau next morning he refused to answer questions of Mr. Milholland and Deputy Attorney General Simonson. The statement issued yesterday said:

"Justice Strong stated in court that on the defendants' own admissions, the promotion of the corporation was one of frenzied finance from its very inception. According to the Attorney General the organization was one of the binest of hine-sky promotions, and the sale of its stock the most scandalous ever engineered by high-pressure salesmen."

The Attorney General's report of the granting of the injunction also included the following statement by Deputy Attorney General Milholland:

"Page formed the Victor Page Motors Corporation with 5,000,000 shares of stock at $1 par value, all of which he issued to himself for applications of patents, which have not yet been granted; some incomplete drawings and designs of an automobile with an air-cooled motor, none of which was complete, and neither a motor nor an automobile had been constructed from these designs. Then Page sold the stock, and lent part of the receipts from the sale to the corporation on demand notes."

Approves New Jersey Bus Line.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 13.—The Public Utility Commission granted today permission to Richard Mayr to operate three buses between Nutley and Journal Square, Jersey City. It was the second time the proposals had been before the board. Under an order of July 1 last the operation of the buses was held to be in direct competition with the Erie Railroad and Mayr was directed to discontinue the service. Since then, however, the route has been changed.

NOVELTY CUFFS FOR GLOVES, SAYS LETTER FROM PARIS

Turnover and Simply Embroidered Cuffs in Soft Shades Are Outstanding in Latest French Exhibits.

"Women's noyelty gloves with turnover cuffs are predominant in the newest exhibitions in the Paris stores," says a letter recently received from Macy's Paris office. "Embroidered cuffs are shown in various effects," it continues.

"Some are with very simple embroidery, not much elaborated, in soft shades. In others the cuffs are all embroidered with chenille or ribbon in bright colors.

"Suede and glacé gloves are both very popular. There is scarcely room for doubt that novelty gloves have taken a very important place in ladies' wearing apparel."

The demand for novelties is not hard to understand when those in the Glove Department on Macy's street floor are examined. One model, that is especially wanted by New York women, is of fine French kid, with over-sewn seams. It has a turn-back cuff, daintily embroidered with ribbon. The back continues the exquisite design.

Instead of a Charge Account

Instead of a charge account, combine the economy of cash buying with the advantages of a charge account, and without its drawbacks. Deposit money in the D. A. Department on the second floor at Macy's, where it earns interest at 4 per cent. Deduct your purchases from your Depositors' Account. Any saleslerk can tell you about it.

PAINTED TOLE GIVES COLOR TO MODERN HOMES

Decorated Metal Aids in Creation of Artistic Effects.

The Corner Shop on Macy's seventh floor has just received a collection of interesting articles made from old and reproduction tôle, or decorated metal. The pieces are distinguished for their graceful lines and distinctly ornamental character.

Painted tôle came into popular use in France and England during the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. It furnishes attractive bits of color and aids in the artistic effect so much sought in the decoration of every home.

A pair of Louis XVI tôle vases in light yellow are decorated with black medallions, groups of musical instruments and ribbons. French cache-pots of tôle, for growing plants, are ornamented with pictures. Shallow oval fern dishes in red with gold stencilled flower decorations are nine dollars and twenty-four cents, and empire red vases are nine dollars and sixty-four cents.

Old French lanterns have been made over into charming hanging glass cases. The backs of the cabinets are painted to represent quaint old wallpaper. The sides and fronts are glass, with a decorative border design. They are priced at thirty-eight dollars and seventy-five cents each.

Another exquisitely decorated example of the tôle pieces is a bouillotte, or candle lamp. It consists of a bronze standard which holds two candles and its yellow shade. It is decorated with dancing cameo figures in soft greys.

FOLDING TABLES SHOWN MONDAY

Simplicity of Opening and Closing Exhibited All This Week.

A new idea in automatic folding card tables will be shown all this week in a special demonstration in Macy's basement. They will be displayed during the regular store hours.

The tables are very simple to operate, and the game need not be delayed while the host opens the legs one at a time. All four legs open together and the closing of one leg closes them all. A snap lock keeps them from allowing the table to collapse at inopportune moments.

The frame of the table is finished in mahogany and a black moiré top makes an excellent playing surface. The price is eleven dollars and four cents.

Macy's Weekend Candy Packet is on sale in the Candy Department, street floor or basement, on Friday and Saturday. There are special combinations every week, fresh made in Macy's own candy factory, of delicious candies at economy prices.

KILLS HER BETRAYER IN A BRONX CROWD

HOME BROKEN UP, SHE SAYS

Waited All Day Outside Barber Shop for Her Victim to Appear.

Freshly shaved and dressed in his Saturday night best, Luigi Fino, 34 years old, a tile setter, of 607 Concord Avenue, Bronx, stepped out last night from a barber shop near the corner of Bergen Avenue and 149th Street, in that district, which is known as the Hub of the Bronx, and sauntered along the crowded sidewalk toward the corner. A young woman wearing glasses that did not fit gave a little gasp as she sighted him and followed quickly.

As Fino reached the corner the woman caught up with him. Facing him she whipped out a pistol and without saying a word fired two shots into his body. Fino fell and as he lay there the young woman fired another bullet into him. He died almost instantly.

The shots caused consternation in the crowd. A number of women fainted and a great throng pressed forward. Excitement was at a high pitch. Darting through the milling crowds, Traffic Patrolman Hickey, who was on duty a short distance away, found the young woman standing over the body, the pistol still in her hand.

She submitted to arrest quietly and was taken to the Morrisania Police Station, where she told this story to Assistant District Attorney William A. Kier and Captain of Detectives John Duane:

Her name is Mrs. Catherine Denino and her home up until last week was 1,235 Darrow Avenue, Evanston, Ill., where she lived with her husband, Rocco. She is 16 years old and will not be 17 until next March.

He Betrayed Her, She Says.

Until she married Rocco she had lived in Harlem with her mother, Mrs. Mary Scatta of 231 East 109th Street. It was when she lived there that she met Fino. He was a cousin of her mother and was boarding with the family for a time. She was only 12 years old then. He betrayed her.

About a week after her marriage to Rocco, in July, 1925, she told him of Fino. He did not seem to mind. Then they moved to Evanston and all appeared well until a few months ago, when both she and her husband received letters from Fino, recounting the events of the previous years and threatening exposure to friends if money were not paid to him.

Two weeks ago the situation was brought to a climax. Her husband received another letter from Fino containing more definite threats of exposure if money were not sent to him at once in the Bronx. There was a quarrel between the husband and wife that ended with Catherine being ordered to leave.

She went to Chicago and bought a pistol. On Friday night she reached New York. She made a visit to her mother and, searching the haunts of Fino, learned that he visited the barber shop near Bergen Avenue every Saturday. She did not want to miss him and took up a stand near by at 11 o'clock in the morning. She had donned a pair of glasses for a disguise.

All through the day she waited, sauntering away now and then to avoid suspicion. The night came, and still Fino had not appeared. But she was determined. Fino must have slipped into the barber shop while she left her post for a short time, for she said she did not see him enter.

The barber finished his work on Fino and a few minutes after 8 o'clock he walked out to his death.

The young woman was charged with homicide.

SUE TO KEEP PARK AV. FREE OF BUSINESS

Murray Hill Property Owners Ask Court to Bar 21-Story Building at 40th Street.

Property owners of the Murray Hill district carried their fight against the encroachment of business along Park Avenue to the Supreme Court yesterday. A suit was filed asking for a writ of certiorari to review a decision of the Board of Standards and Appeals permitting the erection of a twenty-one-story business building at Park Avenue and Fortieth Street.

Among the opponents of the proposed building are Arthur Curtiss James of 78 Park Avenue and 40 East Thirty-ninth Street, Joseph F. Stillman of 35 East Thirty-ninth Street, Charles L. Riker of 37 East Thirty-ninth Street, John E. Berwind of 76 Park Avenue, Edith G. Bowdoin of 36 Park Avenue, Harry H. Flagler of 32 Park Avenue, Mrs. Martha W. Bacon of 1 Park Avenue, and the Women's City Club of New York at 22 Park Avenue.

The petitioners assert that their district has long been protected from business houses by zoning restrictions. When Victor C. Farrar, on behalf of Fortieth Street and Park Avenue, Inc., bought the property to erect his building, therefore, the Superintendent of Buildings rejected his plans, the complaint says. The structure was to be on the southwest corner of the two streets, with a frontage of 110½ feet on Park Avenue.

Farrar took his plans to the Board of Standards and Appeals and over the objections of the Murray Hill residents obtained the board's approval. In appealing to the court, the residents declare that the board refused to listen to evidence that the site in question would be more profitably improved for an apartment hotel or for other residential uses. They assert that the success of Farrar will encourage speculators to buy up other property nearby with the idea of inducing other business interests to follow into the breach made by Farrar in the old zoning restrictions.

TO DEPICT EVOLUTION.

New Haven Show Will Have Yale and Smithsonian Exhibits.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 12.—Man's evolution from the time he lived in cliffs will be depicted at the New Haven Progress Exposition here from Jan. 26 to Feb. 5.

Yale University, for the first time in 237 years, is making an appropriation for an outside exhibit, in connection with this event. The New Haven Chamber of Commerce, sponsor for the exposition, will provide for several thousands of feet of floor space. New Haven will spend $1,500 on an exhibit of municipal departments.

School supervisors from all over Connecticut will be the guests of local school authorities. Rotarians and Kiwanians from all parts of the State will attend as guests of the New Haven Rotary and Kiwanis clubs.

New Haven clocks made before the era of metal interchangeable parts will be displayed, together with the most modern devices. Watches will be made from the first operation to the completed timepiece.

For the first time in Connecticut talking motion pictures will be shown, and a carload of exhibits will be brought from the Smithsonian Institution in Washington. The Museum for the Arts of Peace in New York will display rare examples of firearms.

Kansas City Star Sale Upheld.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 13 (AP).—Motions to dismiss the suit brought by Walter S. Dickey, owner and editor of The Kansas City Journal-Post, to set aside the recent sale of The Kansas City Star, were sustained by Judge O. A. Lucas in Circuit Court here today. "The demurrers are all sustained and the petition is dismissed," Judge Lucas said.

REGENTS APPROVE JUILLIARD SCHOOL

Provisional Charter for Musical Institution Under $13,000,000 Will.

TO BE ORGANIZED SOON

Dr. Noble Doubts Incorporators Will Administer Fund as They Expect To.

The Juilliard Musical Foundation has received a provisional charter for the incorporation of a school of music from the New York State Board of Regents, it was learned yesterday. The incorporators, including lawyers, merchants and educators, will meet to organize within the next week or ten days and at that time will announce plans for the Juilliard School of Music.

One of the incorporators are of the opinion that they are to "administer" the funds left under the will of the late Augustus D. Juilliard to finance the school of music. But Dr. Eugene Noble, also an incorporator, does not share that understanding. He declined last night, however, to discuss the plans of the incorporators in advance of their organization meeting. His only comment was:

"A provisional charter has been granted by the Regents for the incorporation of a school of music. As soon as a meeting is held for organization the plans will be announced."

The incorporators are: James M. Beck, counsel, a trustee of the Juilliard Musical Foundation; Paul M. Cravath, lawyer; Paul D. Cravath, lawyer; John L. Wilkie, lawyer; Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, Presbyterian minister, and former president of Dickinson and Goucher Colleges, and Secretary of the Juilliard Musical Foundation; Professor John Erskine of Columbia University, A. M. Kennedy, merchant; James M. Perry, lawyer, and Allen Wardwell, attorney.

The Juilliard School of Music for which a charter has been issued will be financed by a fund of from $10,000,000 to $13,000,000, left by the late Mr. Juilliard to foster music in America. The precise amount is not known because of adjustments to be made.

Dispute About Management.

The Juilliard Musical Foundation was created with the endowment of Mr. Juilliard in 1920. In the Summer of that year Dr. Noble became its Secretary, and his administration has been the target for criticism from musical circles. In December, 1925, the Advisory Committee, consisting of Miss Alice P. Bliss, Mrs. Susan D. H. Davies, Mrs. Janet Schenck, Richard Aldrich and Ernest Schelling, "resigned" because, they said, the trustees in management did not follow the advice of the Advisory Committee and, also on the ground that the Advisory Committee had been "held responsible in the eyes of the public for management policy of the Juilliard School."

In announcing their retirement the Advisory Committee further said: "We believe that the administration of a musical foundation of the magnitude of this one and especially the management of a technical music school should be in the hands of some one well qualified by training, knowledge and experience in the art of music."

The Musical Digest continued the attack on the management of the Foundation recently, among other things charging that it had never obtained a charter, that Dr. Noble had ruled with an iron hand, that the wishes of the founder had not been carried out, and that a spirit of distrust toward the Foundation rather than good-will had been created.

Will of Former Odd Fellow Expresses Gratitude of Organization.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 13.—An odd feature of the will of the late John H. Baxter of Peekskill, who died at Cairo, Greene County, on Sept. 5, was a bequest of $500 to Cryptic Lodge of Odd Fellows of Peekskill and the statement that the decedent owed much of his success to the lodge and its members. The will was filed for probate today with Surrogate George A. Slater of Westchester County.

Mr. Baxter left an estate valued at $4,300 with these bequests: To Ida F. Williams of Peekskill, $500; Thomas C. Baxter, brother, of Dolgeville, N. Y., $300; residue to Lillian V. Horton, sister. In reference to the gift to the lodge the will says:

"In appreciation and to express my gratitude to Cryptic Lodge and individual members of the great help it and they have been to me. Whatever success I have achieved and whatever property I have accumulated, I owe in a great measure to Cryptic Lodge and its members and the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of the State of New York."

COUPLE WED FIFTY YEARS.

Mr. and Mrs. John Diaz of Woodhaven Celebrate Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. John Diaz of 7,703 Eighty-eighth Avenue, Woodhaven, celebrated yesterday their fiftieth wedding anniversary. They, with their daughters, Miss Mabel Diaz and Mrs. Madeline Murphy of 8,614 Eighty-sixth Avenue, Woodhaven, and grandson, Eugene Murphy, enjoyed their anniversary dinner at Bay Shore, L. I.

Hundreds of friends and relatives sent the couple flowers, presents and congratulatory messages in honor of their marriage, which was solemnized in the Church of the Panlist Fathers, Fifty-ninth Street, Manhattan, by the late Father Young, rector of the church.

Mrs. Diaz was born in what is now Greenwich Village seventy years ago, and her husband was born in Spain seventy-five years ago. They moved to their present home forty years ago. At that time they had only seven neighbors.

Found Dead After Suicide Leap.

A young woman who was identified as Miss Eva Aditz, 22 years old, of 1,252 West Farms Road, was found dead yesterday in the courtyard of a six-story tenement at 941 Intervale Avenue, the Bronx. Her legs and hips were broken, and the police decided she had jumped from the sixth story. She was identified through a card bearing the address of her home, a boarding house, where it was said she had been despondent because she was unable to get steady work.

MAN HURLED TO DEATH AS TRAIN HITS TRUCK

Car Is Demolished at Crossing at Lakewood, N. J.—Boy Killed in Long Island City.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Nov. 13.—Wilbur Eeves, 25 years old, of Asbury Park, a negro, was killed today when a special train of the Central Railroad of New Jersey hit the truck in which he was riding at the Meadow Avenue crossing here. Eeves and George C. Burke, the driver, were hurled from the truck, and although Burke was thrown almost twice as far as Eeves he escaped with a few cuts and bruises.

The train which struck the truck was composed of empty passenger coaches and was going north. Burke and Eeves were on their way to a dumping ground beyond the crossing. Burke said that not until he had driven the truck almost on the crossing, with the train bearing down on it, did he see the danger. He tried to turn down the southbound track to escape, but the locomotive struck the rear of the truck, and, demolishing it, sent Eeves and Burke flying from the cab. Burke landed in some marshland off the right of way, but Eeves hit the hard gravel near the tracks and was instantly killed.

Following an investigation Coroner Frank Brower ordered Burke's arrest pending an inquest on Monday. He said that Burke's actions indicated contributory negligence.

Alphonse Puras, 8 years old, of 52 Greenpoint Avenue, Long Island City, running across the street in front of his home yesterday afternoon in pursuit of other boys, was struck and killed by a motor truck. Frederick Ottush, the driver, of 236 Grove Street, Brooklyn, told the police that the boy ran in front of his vehicle and it hit him before he could bring it to a stop. His story was borne out by statements of witnesses, and the police refused to detain the driver, saying that all the evidence would be laid before a Magistrate in the Long Island City Court tomorrow morning.

Robert Kondelka, 3 years old, of Secaucus, N. J., was almost instantly killed yesterday afternoon when he was struck by a motor truck as he darted out into the street from behind a telephone pole.

When a trio of motor trucks were in collision yesterday afternoon at Pike and Madison Streets, on the lower east side, three occupants were slightly hurt. They were Frank Rubino, 175 Skillman Street, Brooklyn, driver of a Street Cleaning Department truck; his helper, Harry Kruger, 205 Broome Street, and Frank Cunningham of 371 Broadway, Brooklyn, a helper on the truck being operated by George Moran of 767 Madison Street, Brooklyn. The third truck was being operated by Aaron Jacobs of 65 Mangin Street, who escaped injury.

Stationary Train Telescoped.

An empty elevated train moving north on the middle storage track of the Jerome Avenue line was driven last night into a stationary train at 175th Street, telescoping several of the wooden cars in each train and throwing a large quantity of débris to the street. Only one operator was on the moving train. He was unhurt. The débris caused traffic on Jerome Avenue to be diverted to Grand Concourse.

ELEVEN BOYS WIN SCOUT HERO MEDALS

NAMES OF THE WINNERS

Eleven gold medals for life saving, or attempted rescue, under conditions of grave personal danger to the rescuer and eighteen certificates of heroism were awarded last week by the Boy Scouts' National Court of Honor, according to an announcement made yesterday at National Scout Headquarters, 200 Fifth Avenue.

The gold medal for life saving is the highest honor in the gift of the Boy Scouts of America. In addition to the medals and certificates, each of which was accompanied by a letter, personal letters were sent by Daniel Carter Beard, National Scout Commissioner and Chairman of the National Court of Honor, to two other boys who performed worthy service in connection with life saving.

"William C. Letson, 16 years old, Somerville, N. J., rescued Nicholas Zanetti, 9 years old, of Raritan, N. J., from drowning in the Raritan River on July 9, 1926. Letson, after bringing the unconscious boy to shore, dived again after a second boy, whose drowned body he recovered.

"John Walters, 14, Newark, N. J., rescued Thomas Pope, 37, his Scoutmaster, who was swimming with the Scout Troop in the Connecticut River at Glastonbury on July 29, 1925.

"Lawrence Koth, 15, Austin, Pa., rescued Charles McCloskey, 8, on Jan. 30, 1926. McCloskey, who was skating, broke through the ice. Koth went into the water also, and a third boy fell in. Koth pushed the third boy to the edge of the ice, where he was hauled out, and then got McCloskey from under the ice and held him until he in turn could be rescued.

Cesere Zampese, 15, Omaha, Neb., rescued Jesse, 12, and James Allen, 10, negro boys, from drowning in Carter Lake, near Omaha, on Aug. 5, 1926.

Donald B. Roberts, 14, Houlton, Me., rescued Bennet Perry, 29 years old, on July 16, 1926, from the Aroostook River. Donald T. Flesher, 15, Mount Vernon, Ind., attempted to rescue Russell Smith, 19, while swimming on July 5, 1926, in a swift current.

Lyman Boyle, 13, Frankfort, Ind., rescued a Mrs. Castle, 19, from drowning in Larick Lake, July 14, 1926. Leon Barnes, 15, Andover, Kan., rescued Lawrence Shannon, 15, from drowning Sept. 1, 1926. Leroy Byers, 13, Parsons, Kan., rescued George Thrasher, 7, on June 6, 1926. Thrasher, who had climbed a tree, slipped and fell against a high-tension wire carrying 2,300 volts. Byers obtained a board, climbed the tree and knocked the wire away from the Thrasher boy, who fell to the ground unconscious. Byers then carried him over his shoulder to his home some distance away.

Nick Heban, 17, Rossford, Ohio, fully dressed, rescued John Kachmarik, 10, and Anthony Heban, 14, a cousin, from drowning on May 20, 1925. He has received two medals from other organizations for this rescue and is also credited with saving life two years ago. Don Clardy Jr., 13, Dallas, Texas, rescued Maple Pearl Jordan, a baby 2 years old, from a burning house on Oct. 8, 1925.

500 DRESSES ARE BURNED.

Fire in Bridgeport Tailoring Shop Forces Suspension of 3 Concerns.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 13 (AP).—Fire early today swept through the tailoring and dress manufacturing establishment of J. Fishelberg in Main Street, destroying cloaks, coats and dresses stored there, and spread to the Nookery Tea Room, the P. & C. clothing store and the Traveler shoe store. One fireman, Hoseman Schmidlin, was injured, and the fire damage was estimated at $25,000.

Three dress manufacturing establishments closed down today as a result of the fire. In Fishelberg's establishment were about 500 dresses which had been partly finished and which were to have been taken to the three clothing establishments today to be completed.

SEES WINTER TRAVEL GAINS

Leon Danley, French Railway Agent, Tells of Tourist Trains.

Leon Danley, General Agent in the United States for the International Sleeping Car Company and the French railways, returned last week from his annual visit to Europe. He said that in his opinion the coming Winter season traffic to the Riviera, Algeria and Egypt would surpass all previous records.

From Nov. 1, Mr. Danley said, Pullman saloon cars have been operated daily on the five express trains between Alexandria and Cairo in each direction. The train de luxe between Calais, Paris and Monte Carlo, which usually is put into operation on Nov. 15, was started a month earlier this year.

With regard to Russia and the Trans-Siberian Railroad, Mr. Danley said his company had not been able to reach terms with the Soviet to operate the trains de luxe from Moscow to Mukden as they did before the war or get the diners and sleepers the Government had seized after the revolution.

JEWISH DRIVE TOTAL REACHES $2,308,563

Contributions Since Thursday, Announced Last Night, Amount to $272,780.

NAMES OF RECENT DONORS

Next Rally to Be Held Tomorrow Night—Stroock Sees $3,000,000 Mark Passed by That Time.

Unofficial figures prepared last evening at campaign headquarters of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies, at the Hotel Pennsylvania, show that $272,780 has been tabulated since the last rally on Thursday. This brings the present total to $2,308,563 in the campaign for $4,720,000, which the Federation is waging on behalf of its ninety-one constituent agencies.

The next report of money raised will be made tomorrow afternoon, when both the men's and women's divisions meet at the Pennsylvania. Sol M. Stroock, President of the Federation, expressed the opinion yesterday that the fund would pass the $3,000,000 mark at this third big rally.

Frederick Brown, General Chairman of the campaign, in a statement issued yesterday, showed that the women have reached the $300,000 mark as the campaign enters its second week.

Two important events by constituent groups of the Federation are scheduled for tonight. The Real Estate Club of the Federation will hold its fifth anniversary dinner at the Hotel Biltmore, at which, it is announced, Mayor Walker will speak. At the Jewish Center, Far Rockaway, L. I., there will be a testimonial dinner to Leo J. Goldberger, Chairman of the Long Island Division of the Federation and a leading worker in the Rockaways. Neither of these dinners is for money-raising purposes.

Among the contributions announced last night, listed according to trade groups, are the following:

UNIVERSITY HEADS TO MEET

Will Discuss Urban Education Problems at Brown.

The Presidents of seven universities, members of the Association of Urban Universities, will shortly be entertained by Polytechnic Institute, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Parke R Kolbe. They will come from the Universities of Cincinnati, Buffalo, Akron Toledo, Louisville and George Washing University, St. Louis. They will meet to discuss the various problems of the larger universities and promote the development of modern educational methods.

Dr. Kolbe will leave today for Brown University to attend the meeting of the association, of which he is a former President. President Faunce of Brown University will preside, and Dr. Kolbe will read a paper on "Modern Changes in the English and German Universities."

EXPERTS TO DISCUSS GASOLINE PRODUCTION

Synthetic Manufacture From Soft Coal to Be Explained at Carnegie 'Tech.'

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 13.—Discussion of the production of synthetic gasoline from soft coal will be the feature of a four-day conference of the leading fuel technologists of Germany, France, England and the United States, which opens tomorrow at the Carnegie Institute of Technology at Pittsburgh. The conference, known as the International Conference on Bituminous Coal, will be concerned chiefly with the best methods of the utilization of coal and with considering new ways of employing coal. It is the first international gathering of its kind.

The Germans are considered to have gone further in producing synthetic gasoline from soft coal than the scientists of any other country. The two men who have achieved the liquefaction of coal, Professor Franz Fischer, Director of the Institute of Coal Research of Mulheim-Ruhr, and Dr. Friedrich Bergius of Heidelberg, inventor of the Bergin method of producing oil from coal, will describe their work before the conference.

Dr. Bergius reduces the coal to paste and at a very high temperature and high pressure combines it with hydrogen. The resulting fluid has all the properties of crude petroleum and must be treated in the same way to obtain gasoline and other products of crude oil. The inventor reports a test on an Upper Silesian gas coal from which 140 gallons of crude oil per metric ton of dry coal were obtained.

This crude oil on straight distillation and refining yielded forty gallons of motor fuel, fifty gallons of Diesel engine oil, thirty-five gallons of fuel or creoseting oil, a pitch residue and 10,000 to 12,000 cubic feet of gas.

Among the other European scientists who will speak are Dr. R. Lessing and Geoffrey M. Gill, English technologists, and General Georges Patart of France, who was in charge of the manufacture of explosives for France during the war and who is the inventor of a process for making alcohol from coal.

New York chemists and engineers will be well represented among the speakers. Among those who will take part are Walter E. Trent, George A. Orrok, S. R. Church, John M. Weiss and Emil Piron, consulting engineers; George E. Learned, Henry Kreisinger and Dr. Walter Runge of the International Combustion Engineering Corporation; C. V. McIntire, of the Consolidated Coal Products Company; Dr. Louis C. Jones of the Nitrogen Engineering Corporation, and Fred R. Low, editor of Power.

Arthur S. Tuttle, chief engineer of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, has appointed Kenneth Allen, the board's sanitary engineer, as the city's delegate to the conference. The New York State representative appointed by Governor Smith is James A. Hamilton of the State Industrial Commission.

The Chambers of Commerce of Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond boroughs have been invited to send representatives to the conference and the Mayors of sixty leading American cities and the Governors of each State have been urged to send representatives to take part in a discussion on smokeless fuel for cities.

COMMUNIST REVOLT STARTS IN WEST JAVA

District Chiefs Are Among Many Killed or Injured in Outbreaks Over a Wide Area.

NATIVES FIGHT INSURGENTS

Dutch Governor Notifies The Hague That Uprising, Long Brewing, Has Been Put Down.

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP).—Communistic revolts have broken out in West Java. Despatches from Batavia today reported serious disturbances, with the loss of numerous lives and an unknown number injured.

Throughout the night mobs ran wild with firearms and torches. At West Bantam the District Chief was killed, with several natives and his wife and child wounded. The District Chiefs at Tjenings and Laboens were attacked. The former was killed, as well as the police guard which tried to protect him, while the Laboens chief, although wounded, managed to escape.

In Batavia a prison was attacked by Communists, four of whom were wounded. The others fled and made a stand in a telephone station, but were dispersed by rifle volleys.

Railway lines were torn up and telephone and telegraph communications were cut.

After a time natives joined with the authorities for suppression of the disorders. Today the Governor General of Java reported to The Hague that the revolts had been put down and that no further anxiety need be entertained.

No late news was received from Batavia tonight, but a despatch from Singapore reported the seizure of ammunition aboard a ship bound for Batavia, which, it is supposed, was intended for the Communists.

Authorities Taken Unawares.

Even if immediate danger is past, the clearly organized nature of the rising causes apprehension that this may be another definite instance of Communist activity in the Far East. Those familiar with Dutch Colonial affairs asserted that the Dutch authorities long had been fully aware of the Communist agitation in the East Indian Archipelago. By deporting subversive elements and forbidding Communist gatherings they enceeded in a measure in suppressing manifestations of disloyalty to the Crown.

Last night's outbreak, however, seemed to indicate that they were taken unaware, while the wide area affected, including virtually the entire western part of Java, showed an extensive organization aiming at a simultaneous coup.

While it is not yet established who the real leaders of the disturbance are, there seems to be little doubt that they are connected with the Indonesian Communist Party, an outgrowth of the "Sarakit Islam." Originally a semi-religious and semi-commercial native brotherhood, started a decade ago, the organization has been deeply involved in politics and is commonly reputed to be supported by Moscow. The existence of a native women's secret Communist organization has also been revealed.

Religious Fanaticism.

Recently the Dutch authorities pointed out that Eastern communism differs from Western in that religious fanaticism, as well as extreme nationalism, plays an important role in it.

So-called Communist agitation was recently discovered in the ranks of the native army and native police, since which time the authorities have instituted a combing-out process for removal of suspected agitators. Certain Europeans trying to land in Javanese ports were also barred.

Three leading native Communists, named Barsono, Aliarcham and Mardjohan, all in their twenties, were banished to New Guinea. Four prominent Chinese journalists were expelled on a previous occasion on a charge of fomenting sedition.

armored cars, artillery transporters and artillery "dragons." Among the surprises was a new type of tank designed to manoeuvre at high speed either on ordinary wheels or on a caterpillar track, as the nature of the country over which it is travelling demands.

There was also a huge tank resembling a big cruiser with four revolving turrets for machine guns and a central turret for three-pounders. It moved at a fairly high speed and was declared the finest land-fighting machine in existence.

In strong contrast to this huge machine were baby one-man tanks controlled like motorcycles which buzzed around the monster like bees around a lion.

Mother Poisons Children and Self.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 13 (AP).—Despondent because of ill health, Mrs. Catherine Borchelt, 42, gave poison today to her four children, ranging in age from three to fourteen years, and then swallowed some herself. The five were taken to a hospital in serious condition.

ROYALISTS IN RIOT AT HERRIOT MEETING

French "Camelots" Attack Sorbonne, Laying Out 13 Policemen—Dozen Rioters Injured.

DRIVEN OFF BY GENDARMES

Authorities Appear to Have Had Warning of the Attack in Time to Act.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Edouard Herriot, Minister of Public Instruction in the present French Government and formerly Premier, was the object of a brief but fierce riot tonight in front of the Sorbonne, during which thirteen policemen and twelve young men were injured and taken to hospital for treatment. A number of American students witnessed the affair.

The youths staging the riot, about 250 in number, are members of the famous "Camelots du Roi," a militant royalist organization eponsored by L'Action Française, a royalist daily newspaper. As soon as M. Herriot arrived to preside at a literary conference at which the works of Victor Hugo were discussed, the Camelots, massed in a side street, rushed to the entrance and tried to fight their way into the Sorbonne, with the idea of breaking up the meeting. Shouts of "Down with Herriot!" "Vive le Roi!" and similar provocative cries filled the air.

The Camelots have often broken up meetings in this fashion but the police, evidently warned of the attempt, were too much for the fiery royalists tonight and after some minutes of close combat, during which thirteen policemen were put out of action, the Camelots were driven back to their previous position, leaving their twelve wounded and a dozen arrested members to look out for themselves.

M. Herriot is as militantly socialist as the Camelots are royalist. Several days ago students paraded the Latin Quarter demonstrating against M. Herriot, because they felt he had made studies in the University of Paris too severe.

Seeks to Be Assembly Speaker.

FRENCH RULING NEAR ON ALPHABET RELICS

Academy Will Decide if the Letters Found at Glozel Were Man's First Writing.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—The European archaeological controversy now going on over the question whether or not the first linear alphabet devised by man was among the interesting things recently dug up in the obscure French village of Glozel, near Vichy, may be decided at the approaching meeting of the French Academy of Inscriptions.

The relics discovered date, according to experts, to prehistoric times. This of itself is not startling, since similar objects have been unearthed before in many countries. However, earthen tiles were found on which were inscribed what the discoverers assert to be the first alphabet in the world. Archaeologists have taken sides since then.

Among the distinguished ones supporting the finding are Salomon Reinach, head of the museum at Saint Germain-en-Laye, M. Esperandieu Moutet and Count Begouen. On the other side are ranged such men as Camille Julian, leading European authority on Gaul-Roman times.

Both parties to the controversy presented their case at the last meeting and the academy is expected to issue an opinion when it meets again.

M. Julian contends that the letters represent merely a cursive Latin script which has survived in countless examples. He declared that relics of this sort frequently were unearthed in France in Gaul-Roman times and were used by sorcerers, who believed they had magic powers.

Such a sorcerer existed in Glozel 2,000 years ago, he added. However, supporters of the first alphabet idea say our own letters were derived from those imbedded in the tiles at Glozel.

QUELL RIOT IN BERLIN OVER EX-CROWN PRINCE

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—The former German Crown Prince was the cause of a miniature riot in the Friedrichstrasse, Berlin's Broadway, this afternoon. He and his eldest son—the one whose recent illegal enrolment in the German Army forced the retirement of General Von Seeckt from the high command—went into a tailor's shop, leaving their big limousine, adorned with the imperial coat-of-arms and their chauffeur in imperial livery, waiting outside.

Several score of idlers gathered curiously about the car. When the Kaiser's son and grandson emerged they gave voice to a mixture of catcalls and cheers, depending on the political sentiments of the individuals. The erstwhile royalties chose to consider the demonstration as favorable to themselves, raised their hats and grinned complacently.

The crowd rapidly swelled, and, as the limousine drove off with its occupants, hundreds pursued it up the street. Then the Hohenzollern cheerers clashed with the antagonists of the former ruling house and there was a brief but bloodless mix-up which police soon dispelled.

They saw heavy, light, medium, three, two and even one-man tanks. There were also roadless tractors,

NEWS TO ARCTIC BY RADIO

Westinghouse Station Broadcasts to the Frozen-In Settlements.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 13 (AP).—World events of the last two months were broadcast tonight to Arctic settlements by Station KYW, Chicago, marking the first of a series of such programs from the four stations of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

No mail or news has entered the Arctic region since the usual [illegible] up early in the Fall, so KYW informed residents of trading posts and detachments of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police that Tunney is the new heavyweight champion of the world; that destructive hurricanes have visited Florida and the West Indies, and broadcast various other news happenings of recent weeks.

Residents of the region have received the schedule of broadcasts. Stations KFKX, Hastings, Neb.; WBZ, Springfield, Mass., and KDKA, Pittsburgh, will broadcast later in the month.

An Evening Slipper Fantasy
by I. MILLER

Once there was a maiden who desired the distinction of wearing the most beautiful slippers in the world. So they brought her footwear of rare distinction from countries near and far. Delicate kidskin shoes with the lustre of a pearl or the intricate patterning of old lace; slippers of sparkling silver threads woven by some peasant lass of sunny France; dainty footwear whose sparkling band of silver sequins had a care-free, gypsy air; exotic brocades in turquoise blue and lavender with an old-world charm; slippers with jewelled heels and buckles--brilliant-hued --rare--resplendent!

Then said the maiden, "I needs must wear them all, for each one is as lovely as another"

Lovely, indeed, are these exquisite evening slippers which await you at the shops of I. Miller and especially in the "Little Corner of Paris", the new and exclusive Evening Slipper Salon at Fifth Avenue and Forty-Sixth Street

NEW YORK CHICAGO PARIS

There are only two kinds of shoes

THERE are more styles of shoes than ever before. But judged by the requirements of your feet, there are only two kinds of shoes . . . those that help you and those that work against you.

By harmonizing with the action of your feet, by supporting them buoyantly, instead of rigidly, and by giving them all-day comfort, the Cantilever Shoe helps you every minute you are wearing it.

Like your foot, the Cantilever Shoe is flexible from toe to heel. It functions with the foot. The natural lines of the foot are closely followed by the Cantilever Shoe. It fits the foot. The flexible arch of the Cantilever Shoe fits up snugly to the undercurve of the foot. It supports without restricting.

When you work, walk or go shopping, you will enjoy the comfort, support and foot freedom that the Cantilever Oxford gives you. A variety of modish Cantilever pumps and oxfords can be seen at any of the stores below.

White, AAAA to E. Utility Oxfords, $10 and $10.50. Dress Oxfords, $12.50 to $14. Pumps, $10.50 to $13.50. High Shoes, $12.50. Men's Shoes, $11 and $12. For children and junior misses, $4.50 to $8.50

Foot health for children

The flexible arch of the Cantilever Shoe for Misses and Children permits constant exercise of the important arch muscles. Its broad forepart assures straight toes. This shoe fits well and wears well.

New Moscow Play, "The Days of the Turbins," Revives the Revolution of 1918.

MOSCOW, Nov. 13.—One of the most romantic stories of the whole revolutionary period in Russia has been revived by the play "Days of the Turbins," whose setting is Kief in the troublous year of 1918, when the oldest city in Russia changed hands almost from week to week during the struggle of rival groups. As told by eyewitnesses it might rank with "the death of Roland," as an example of sheer courage against hopeless odds.

A certain General Keller was a descendant of one of the Teutonic knights of the sword who conquered the Baltic coast in the fourteenth century and left a deep imprint on Russian history. Keller was an extraordinary personality. He stood 6 feet 6 in height and was broad in proportion. His face, it is related, had something terrifying and abnormal about it. Among the fair-haired Balts he stood, as swarthy as a Spaniard, with a prominent nose and a chin that seemed carved of old oak. His eyebrows met in a deep black band over eyes of chilled steel, whose anger few dared to face.

In his younger days General Keller had mortally insulted the Brigade Commander, to whose staff he had been appointed upon leaving the Staff College. But when the case was referred to the Czar the latter, instead of dismissing Keller from the service, gave him command of a guard regiment in St. Petersburg.

Here he was once affronted by a high-placed superior. Returning to his quarters he sent off two letters, one to the Czar resigning his commission, the other a challenge to a duel with this superior, who knew Keller was a dead shot. He hurried to the Imperial presence and the Czar declined to accept Keller's resignation. Instead, he appointed him commander of a brigade in the wildest part of Central Asia.

A Mighty Figure in the World War.

During the Grr War Keller, commanding a division, performed an extraordinary feat. In assaulting a strong Austrian position his troops were being decimated by the fire of three batteries hidden behind a hill. General Keller sent in his last reserve battalion to capture the guns. The attack failed. Then he summoned his own staff and the divisional clerks, telephonists, cooks, orderlies, a few hundred in all.

"You must take those guns," he roared magnificently, "and I will lead you."

So he led them and they took the guns and the Austrian position by storm.

Such was the man who found himself in Kief in the Summer of 1918—his imperial master slain—his surbordinates killed by their own men, soldiers transformed into revolutionary Soviets—alone save for a Baltic servant whose ancestors had served Keller's ancestors in the wars of a dozen generations.

Keller Spurns Hetman's Offer.

The self-styled Hetman of the Ukrains, Skoropadski, was then holding Kief with the aid of German bayonets. He offered Keller, who was an old personal friend, an important post. Before Skoropadski and his staff and a group of high German officers, Keller thundered back:

"You stand for Ukrainian independence and sit in the Council, but I am only a servant of his Imperial Majesty the Czar of all the Russias."

And he went away, leaving them speechless.

Then the Germans retreated to take part in the last onslaught on the allied front from Chateau-Thierry to the Argonne, and Skoropadski fled with them.

General Keller raised a corps of 2,000 volunteers, mostly untrained cadets, to fight tens of thousands under the Ukrainian partisan leader Petlura. The partisans swamped the resistance and Keller fell from a blow with a clubbed rifle.

The next day they brought him before the commander of Petlura's vanguard, an ex-sergeant of Cossacks—rough, bearlike, brutal. The Czar's General stood straight in his blood-stained uniform, still wearing the epaulettes which meant death in those days in Kief. The Cossack rose and saluted and Keller returned the salute.

"We know you, General," said the partisan leader, "and are willing to trust you. I offer you the command of one of our divisions against the damned Bolsheviks who killed the Czar, your Emperor."

Chooses Death Instead.

Keller said simply:

"Do you fight for Russia or the Ukraine?"

"For the Ukraine," said the Cossack "against all her enemies—Germans, Bolsheviks and Russians." Keller smiled and said:

"I refused a part of Russia's flesh from Skoropadski, my schoolmate of the Pages' Corps in St. Petersburg. Do you think I would break oath now for mutinous dogs like you?"

"Then, General, we must shoot you," came the answer.

"Shoot me," replied Keller. "Why not? But I demand my conditions."

The story of the play goes that they bandaged his wounds and invited him to eat and drink with them and to talk mightily of battles and brave men. And in the morning it was done according to his directions.

Instead of a firing squad, there was Petlura's "Death Battalion," with the regimental band playing the prohibited "God Save the Czar."

Instead of a barracks wall there was the central open square of the city.

Instead of a trembling victim there was General Keller, in full uniform with his eyes unbandaged, roaring the order:

"Ready! Present arms! Fire!"

POINCARE TRIUMPHS AGAIN IN CHAMBER

Refuses to Increase Civil Service Salaries and Defeats Opposition, 305 to 200.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Undismayed by yesterday's vote, the Socialist and Radical Opposition in the Chamber this afternoon forced a conclusion with the Government again on the extraneous matter of an increase of salaries of civil servants and were beaten by a similar vote of 345 to 200.

This new division in the Chamber marks considerable reserve on the part of the Radicals in their loyalty to M. Herriot and their support of the Government. Yesterday seventy-one Radicals voted for the Government measure and forty-seven voted in opposition with the Socialists and Communists, while ten abstained altogether. These formed a stronger minority than was expected, but it is a minority which will not increase during the coming months and constitutes no danger so long as no political or controversial matter is introduced, a course which Premier Poincaré is prepared most prudently to follow.

Today when the Socialists sought to get a debate started on the Government's refusal to increase the salaries of civil servants, the Premier replied that salaries which were sufficient four months ago when the franc was 200 to the pound should be enough now when the franc was worth 25 per centmore. The Government refused to permit the balancing of the budget to be upset by granting the new demands.

YOUNG'S RADIO TALK HEARD IN ENGLAND

Address Congratulates British Broadcasting Company on Its Fourth Anniversary.

ON AIR AT SCHENECTADY

Read into Microphone by Operator in Absence of Its Author, It Reviews the Rise of Radio.

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP).—British radio listeners had a surprise tonight when they heard a speech by Owen D. Young broadcast from America. It was the fourth anniversary of the British Broadcasting Company. Mr. Young, a collaborator in the Dawes plan for reparations payments, paid tribute to the British concern and offered his congratulations.

Broadcast From Schenectady.

Unable to make a personal appearance at the short-wave station of the General Electric Company in Schenectady, Owen D. Young, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Radio Corporation of America, in response to an invitation from the British Broadcasting Company to broadcast a message on its fourth anniversary, yesterday afternoon prepared an address, and it was read into the microphone by one of the operators at the station.

Broadcasting on a wave length of 32.79 and 26.8 meters simultaneously, using the call letters 2XAF, the message was transmitted at 3:55 P. M., New York time, or 8:55 London time.

This station has been in operation during a series of statistical transoceanic radio experiments, and the results indicate that the address was received with sufficient strength to enabis the British Broadcasting Company to rebroadcast it throughout Great Britain.

Mr. Young's message follows:

"I send my good wishes to the British Broadcasting Company on its fourth birthday, and my congratulations to the people of England and Scotland on the service which it has performed.

"Each generation brings into being new children, who are different from any of their ancestors and who will be unlike any of their descendants. This generation has brought radio into being. It has no nationality or birth. Even Marconi, who has the greatest claim, would be the first not only to admit but to praise contributions of inventors and engineers in every land.

"Radio not only recognizes no nationality of birth but it admits of no national limitation of performance. It brazenly passes through all ports of entry; it pays no customs duties; it defies fortresses and frontiers. Only the barriers of language can prevent its universal application.

"True it is that the physical agencies of transmission must be physically located, and therefore, they are subject to national control. Like lighthouses, these broadcasting antennae lift their heads in every land, and their business truly is to enlighten and make more easy the ways of the people whom they serve.

"They throw out ideas and information for education. They scatter music and sports for entertainment. Like all instruments of great power, they must be widely and conscientiously used. To turn them to wrong purposes would make them engines of destruction.

"The problem of the British Broadcasting Company in serving 44,000,000 people in 95,000 square miles differs much from that of our American stations, which serve 110,000,000 people in nearly 3,000,000 square miles. Not only do the technical and physical problems differ, but the entire method of control and character of use differs. The differential in time alone between San Francisco and New York is almost as great as that between London and New York. The diversity of our interests leads to diversity of programs, and therefore, diversity of control.

"Take agriculture alone. The wheat-growing farmers of the Northwest are interested in quite different problems from the cotton producers of the South. In England you have not only a more concentrated population and a more homogeneous people, but you have more closely unified interests.

"It is to be expected, therefore, that your method of dealing with broadcasting would differ from ours. We have roughly 600 stations—you ha e approximately 21. There are, however, here, with all of our diversity, programs of national interest which we are making provision to broadcast nationally. The time will soon be here when programs of international interest, especially between English-speaking peoples, may likewise be broadcast internationally.

"At some other birthday of yours, we will not only send you our best wishes and congratulations, but we will listen in throughout America to your birthday celebration."

AWAITS GEN. CHIANG AS SHANGHAI ROBBER

HINT OF EMPIRE'S REVIVAL

Chinese Think Chang Tso-lin Will Try to Restore Young Emperor or Make Himself President.

By THOMAS F. MILLARD

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 13.—After the outbursts of alarmed criticism of China's sudden canceling of the Belgian Trade Treaty, the foreign press here is subsiding and taking a moderate attitude. This is probably because it seems that Washington and London are not excited over it. Also the general tone of the Japanese press is favorable toward China's action, which indicates that Tokio leans toward the pan-Asian effort to throw off the diplomatic hegemony of the Western powers in Asia.

Much interest has been aroused here in the Earl of Balfour's utterance in the House of Lords regarding China, frankly admitting the powers' inability to carry ont a definite policy vis-à-vis China and vaguely predicting that the principal Pacific Ocean powers must devise unusual means to deal with the case.

That is taken by the British press here to intimate that the powers are thinking of intervention. Lord Balfour's speech coincides with the news from London that the new British Minister to China has merely been given a letter addressed to the Acting Foreign Minister in Peking in case, when he arrives there, the Government still has no President. Also, the British Government regards the Canton régime as a local Government, but does not intend to recognize it now.

The humorous note given to this question is the retort of the Canton Foreign Minister to the joint note of the Consular Corps there in protest against "irregular" customs duties. Canton pointed out that the consuls lack a juridical status because they continue the fiction that Peking is the seat of the National Government, whereas Canton controls the larger part of the country. Canton further said it was ready to discuss these questions directly with the powers any time they recognize where the real authority of China exists.

Helps Undermine Foreigners.

While these sarcastic exchanges amuse foreigners, their constant appearance in the Chinese press helps to undermine foreign diplomatic influence and implants contempt for the Peking régime among the people.

The events of last week indicate that Marshal Sun Chuan-fang's position is weaker. Persistent rumors have it that the next few days will bring his overthrow and give the Shanghai region to the control of the Southern Party.

There are also rumors that General Chang Chung-chang, an adherent of Chang Tso-lin, again plans to seize power in Shanghai. The local Chinese now lean toward the Southern Party, detest Chang Chung-chang and also dislike Marshal Sun Chuan-fang, making a complete shift here.

Those who recall events in Shanghai a decade ago remember that General Chiang Kai-shek, the present victorious Cantonese leader, is still under criminal indictment in this settlement for alleged armed robberies, a capital offense here. If this Kuomintang military hero gains power here it will be a curious situation and one almost compelling the foreign municipal and consular officials to welcome and recognize him as the dictator of this region.

Chang Tso-lin Seeking More Power.

The news from the North today intimates that Marshal Chang Tso-lin is gradually edging in to take the title of Chief Executive of the republic. It is also rumored that he is planning to reinstate the young former Emperor, with himself, Chang, ruling behind the throne. These reports are vague but persistent, and generally are credied by the Chinese.

Such a move by Chang would be unpopular and would result in further alienation of Middle and South China from Peking.

Foreigners here would welcome almost any development which would give a fresh direction to Chinese politics or force some remedial action by the powers.

CHINESE PIRATES ROB A FRENCH STEAMER

Kill Guard and Get More Than $70,000 in Loot From Ship Near Bias Bay.

HONGKONG, Nov. 13 (AP).—Twenty-six pirates today attacked the French steamer Hanoi, shot and killed a guard, a native of Annam, stole $50,000 shipped by the Maritime Customs of Pakhoi to the Hongkong bank and also took belongings of passengers valued at $20,000, as well as a large quantity of guns and ammunition.

The pirates made their attack near Bias Bay, in which in recent months several vessels have been similarly held up and robbed.

The Hanoi, a vessel of 1,200 tons, plies between Haiphong, French Indo-China, and Hongkong, by way of Pakhoi, Southern Kwangtung.

After killing the guard, the pirates tossed his body overboard and proceeded to loot the ship, encountering no further resistance.

Eleven rifles, ten revolvers and thousands of rounds of ammunition made up the haul in guns and cartridges.

After the robbery, the pirates turned the Hanoi toward the bay and abandoned her.

THREATEN RED WAR STATUE

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—The war veterans of Levallois-Perret, a working-class section of Northern Paris, are threatening violent action should that Communist municipality carry out a plan to inaugurate a war memorial conceived in the revolutionary Bolshevist spirit which would be considered insulting and injurious by all good Frenchmen.

The statue, which it is understood is ready to be unveiled, consists of a main figure representing France as Victory, in the form of a weeping woman, at whom a soldier is raising a clenched fist in a threatening gesture. A third figure is that of a soldier, roped to an execution post, evidently facing a firing squad, while a fourth figure shows a blacksmith breaking a sword across his knee.

BERENGER RESIGNS, THEN AGREES TO STAY

'Impossible!' Exclaims Briand When Ambassador Tells Him He Wants to Quit.

PARIS, Nov. 13 (AP).—M. Berenger, French Ambassador to the United States, offered his resignation to Foreign Minister Briand a few days ago, it is learned, on the plea that his work in connection of the debt-funding settlement was finished.

M. Briand refused to accept the resignation, and M. Berenger consequently will soon return to Washington.

M. Berenger's appointment runs for six months at a time, in order that he may retain his seat in the Senate. His third six-month term will begin next month.

When the Ambassador visited Foreign Minister Briand a few days ago and expressed his wish to resign M. Briand threw up his hands and exclaimed, "Impossible!" The Government, he said, could not spare M. Berenger yet, and he must return to Washington. M. Berenger finally consented.

The Ambassador has been exerting his great personal influence in Parliament, especially in the Senate, in favor of ratifying the Washington debt agreement, appearing before committees and having long individual conversations with the members.

DENY OLAF IS ENGAGED.

Norwegian Circles Say He Will Not Marry Astrid's Sister.

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 13 (AP).—Highest court sources today denied any knowledge of the reported betrothal of Crown Prince Olaf of Norway to Princess Martha, sister of Princess Astrid, who recently was married to Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium.

Court circles express pity for Prince Olaf, because he is always being annoyed with rumors of his engagement to one Princess or another. The leading newspapers here refrain from mentioning the rumor, which had its origin in Stockholm.

MANY RUSSIANS JOBLESS.

1,182,500 Union Men Alone Are Idle, Says Tomski.

MOSCOW, Nov. 13 (AP).—There are 1,182,500 unemployed members of the Soviet trade unions, President Tomski of the Red Trade Union International announced today.

"In spite of considerable development in industry and other branches of national economy," he added, "unemployment during the last year increased by 19 per cent."

There are said to be even more outside the trade unions who are unemployed.

MUSSOLINI SCORNS TO PROTECT HIMSELF

Appears in Public More Than Ever, Offering Easy Target to Foes.

BUT FOLLOWERS GUARD HIM

Police, Soldiers and Militia Mingle With Crowds, and Other Precautions Are Taken.

ROME, Nov. 13 (AP).—Premier Mussolini, who preaches the doctrine "live dangerously," is living up to it by mapping out a program for the future which will carry him more than ever before the public, despite pleas that he protect himself by seclusion from further attempts at assassination.

Protection by keeping out of the public eye the Duce feels, according to those close to him, would be treason to the Italian people, who see in him a symbol of the nation's spirit of indomitable fearlessness. Keeping in the limelight may be an optional privilege for the ordinary mortal, but it is an obligation and a duty for a generalissimo who preaches the doctrine "Live dangerously! Risk should not be the spice but the staff of life for a weak nation which dares hope to be strong."

Practicing what he preaches, the Premier, since the recent attack upon him at Bologna, has shown himself in public at every opportunity. He has walked through the streets and driven daily in his limousine from his home through the crowded centre of Rome; has reviewed troops and Fascist militia; has shown himself on the famous balcony of the Chigi Palace; has presided at a public session of the Chamber of Deputies, and in a dozen other ways has offered an easy target for bullet or bomb.

And now he has mapped out a program for the future which entails more rather than fewer direct contacts with the people.

"I am confident," he repeated on several occasions this week, "that nothing and nobody can harm me until my task is completed."

Although refusing to shut himself off from the people, the Premier has consented to other means of protection from would-be assassins. By means of the new law for the defense of the régime, every man, woman and child, suspected even remotely, of opposition to the régime, is being closely watched on every occasion when the Premier is within the range of danger. The throngs are literally honeycombed with police agents, soldiers and militiamen, while the most rigid cordons prevent any one from coming near him.

Regulations governing entrance to the Chamber of Deputies and the Chigi Palace, whenever he is present, have been stiffened. When the Premier is in the streets no one carrying a package of any description or who is acting suspiciously is allowed within several hundred yards.

This compromise arrangement of still exposing himself but protecting himself is explained as the result of the necessity of steering a middle course. So much of a barometer of the régime is he that his personal appearance before the people is considered essential. When other Fascist leaders speak the crowds scream: "Il Duce! Il Duce! We want to hear the voice of Il Duce." Sometimes, even when he commands silence, shrill voices continue to cry "Oud Duce!"

MUST HAVE PLACE IN SUN.

Mussolini Tells German Interviewer of Italy's Requirements.

BERLIN, Nov. 13 (AP).—Italy demands that the other powers absolutely acknowledge her "requirements in the sun and on the earth;" if not, Italy will be obliged to take hers by right. Premier Mussolini is thus quoted in an interview at Rome published by the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung.

The Duce, however, did not believe that other powers would force such an issue. He said to the correspondent that Italy demanded that the other nations practice the liberalism they professed also to Italy and recognize the Fascist form of Government. Mussolini declared that Italy would soon, possibly in ten years, catch up with the others who were now in the lead.

With regard to Italo-German relations, the Italian Premier expressed the conviction that nothing existed that was likely to estrange the two nations.

"I cannot consider the rights of minorities a source of conflict," said he, "for I can counter with the rights of the majorities. The Italian nation is so homogeneously constructed as to differ from most other nations."

The Premier was of the opinion that the pending negotiations for an arbitration agreement would ultimately be successful, and concluded:

"I firmly believe in the happy future of German-Italian relations."

ITALO-FRENCH BORDER HARD FOR TOURISTS

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Because of the tension on the Franco-Italian border due to the recent Fascist outbreak at Ventimiglia, travelers using that route between the two countries are subjected to many unpleasant difficulties established by the Italians to keep out anti-Fascisti and by the French who have to control Italian emigrants entering France.

Tourists are forced to go through the most tiresome routine in getting passports examined, and although customs agents seldom search tourist baggage the various formalities take four very uncomfortable hours.

Passengers have to change from an Italian to a French train at Ventimiglia, and a few lucky ones are able to get through in the twelve minutes between trains. Others are obliged to stand in line with swarms of unwashed laborers, and if it happens that the offices close for lunch—two hours—they find themselves at the end of the line when they return from a hotel meal. A single narrow passage exists through which all must pass before the Italian and French Consular officials and customs officers.

It is hoped that the important travel companies will intercede with the two Governments to allow touriste and business men to avoid the intricate red tape.

Plans to Make Roman Institution Centre of Italian Education.

ROME, Nov. 13 (AP).—Premier Mussolini intends to make the University of Rome the central font of higher education in Italy, it was learned this morning when the rector, Signor Del Vecchio divulged the fact that the Government had granted 30,000,000 lire for repairs and new construction work.

"Rome can be and must be Italy's greatest study centre," the Premier said in a message read at the opening ceremonies of the academic year today.

The plans contemplate the creation of a university city comprising three groups of edifices, one devoted to medical study, the second to scientific and the third to include the Faculties of law, letters and political science. A residential hall for 800 students and a large athletic field also will be built.

This year's enrolment is more than 5,000, including nearly 1,000 women.

Evening Harmonies of Gowns, Wraps, Furs and Accessories by Sarnoff

THE success of the evening ensemble depends upon its being chosen in its entirety in one establishment, and is emphasized in this establishment by the perfect harmony between the major and minor motifs of the ensemble mode; to which should be added that the only extravagance at Sarnoff's is in the luxury of the mode itself, never in the price.

FRENCH JAIL MACIA AND GARIBALDI ALSO

Spaniard Coldly Ignores Advances of Abashed Italian When They Are Confronted.

23 OTHERS TO BE TRIED

Discovery of Plot Saved Betrayed Spanish Expedition From Massacre in Ambush.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Colonel Ricciotti Garibaldi, nephew of the great Italian liberator whose name he bears, and himself an outstanding hero of the World War, occupies a cell in the Santé Prison tonight. Nearby is lodged a gray haired, distinguished old man, Colonel Macia, descendant of an old Catalan family and leader of the present Spanish revolutionary movement.

Such were the dramatic and altogether surprising results of today's meeting between the two conspirators at the French Secret Service headquarters following the closely-guarded arrival in the capital of Colonel Macia.

The confrontation lacked all the dramatic, colorful moments many expected. When the ascetic-looking Macia entered the room smoking a cigarette and almost cheerful in manner Garibaldi made a movement to shake hands, but the Spaniard looked coldly at the Italian and turned away. He did not recognize him by as much as a lift of an eyebrow. Throughout the interrogation, however, Macia gazed calmly at Garibaldi while the latter, seated, looked at the floor.

Was His Own Dream, Macia Says.

When Macia was told that Garibaldi admitted seeing him once and being sympathetic to the Catalan cause Macia said this was true but that the movement itself was entirely his own dream and had been his sole preoccupation for several years.

Garibaldi reiterated that he had neither supplied the men nor arms but had indicated to certain Italians that the cause was worthy of support.

Macia said his Italians were enlisted long before he met Garibaldi.

Both have chosen well known members of the Paris bar as their defendant.

The final touching note was given to the day's events when Garibaldi and Macia were led to prison from the Palace of Justice. Their wives and Macia's two children were waiting with tear-stained eyes in the corridor. A brief emotional meeting took place and then the two conspirators were driven away in a taxicab.

It had been generally conceded that Garibaldi and Macia would probably be banished from France for their dangerous activities—the Italian because of his efforts to stir up trouble between France and Italy at the apparent instigation of the Italian police and Macia for organizing a Catalan republican movement on French soil. However, the French Cabinet, during its meeting yesterday, decided to leave the fate of the two men in the hands of the Minister of Justice, and the latter has now determined on criminal action against them on the charge of secreting arms of war and explosives and later distributing them.

23 Other Plotters to be Tried.

With Macia and Garibaldi will be prosecuted twenty-three other conspirators, Italian and Spanish, who constituted the "general staff" of Macia. The Italians are believed to have joined the Spanish movement at the behest of Garibaldi.

Just what the ultimate fate of the two prisoners will be remains to be seen. Should the State decide to carry out the prosecution to its logical conclusion all will probably receive prison sentences; but there are those who think the matter will never reach this point. Not that France has not a clear case against the two men. As a matter of fact the Secret Service has made an almost perfect case; but the question arises whether France wishes to run the risk of arousing public opinion in France and Italy to a much greater extent than during the recent revelations by trying the men in open court, to which necessarily would be brought important witnesses from both countries. The trial of Garibaldi, for example, might easily develop into a contest between Fascism and anti-Fascism.

The fact that the Public Prosecutor is determined to proceed against Garibaldi on the charge of assembling and distributing arms of war would indicate that despite the emphatic denials of the two conspirators the police have positive evidence that Garibaldi was closely allied with the Catalan independence plot.

France, it is observed here, has already accomplished all she desires, namely, the showing up of Macia as a plotter against the Spanish Directorate and Garibaldi as an inspired troublemaker between Italy and France.

Plotters Saved From Slaughter.

PARIS, Nov. 13 (AP).—Plot and counterplot, machine gun ambushes and keen detective work all combined to make the discovery of the recent Catalan conspiracy a real chapter in a "thriller" that has all the elements of a dime novel and then some.

It was the extraordinary memory for faces of Inspector Bringer of the French Secret Service that smashed the plot and resulted today in the formal arrest of Colonel Francisco Macia, former Spanish Deputy, on charges of storing and distributing arms and explosives, and Ricciotti Garibaldi, grandson of the Italian patriot, for conspiracy.

Bringer accidentally ran across an Italian Secret Service man in the streets of Nice a few weeks ago. He had seen him only once, but he recognized him and wondered at his unannounced presence in France. He followed him and stumbled on a strange combination of plots within plots that was about to send the Catalan Republican conspirators to an ambush across the Spanish frontier.

The Italian inspector shadowed by Bringer was found to have a false passport. His papers were seized and put the French on the track of what they described as a conspiracy smacking of mediaeval days. The scheme as unearthed looked in the beginning like a plot in which Italians were to help the Spanish Republicans to invade Catalonia. The connection with the Italian police of some of the leaders of the intrigue, however, French police say, led to the revelation that the Italian participation was merely a blind and that Colonel Macia was destined to be double-crossed.

An Italian emissary was shadowed and when he crossed the Pyrenees to give the conspirators away to the Spanish authorities, the French police were certain that the Catalan plotters were being led into a trap.

Then began a search for the mainsprings of the movement, with the consequent arrest of Garibaldi and search for evidence that large sums of money had come to him from Italian sources.

"Had Bringer been walking on the other side of the street that day," said one of his colleagues, "or had he not such a marvelous memory for faces, Colonel Macia and his followers would have marched into the teeth of Spanish machine gun and rifle fire as soon as they crossed the border."

The opinion expressed in official circles is that France would have been involved in grave unpleasantness with Spain if she had overlooked the organization on her territory of a plot against the safety of that country.

Colonel Macia and Garibaldi today were transferred from the police to the judiciary authorities on order of Minister of Defense Louis Barthou. This afternoon they were sent to Santé Prison to await further investigation into the conspiracy.

J. PILSUDSKI WODZ POLSKI „PODSZEWSKI". ZAŁOŻYCIEL „ROBOTNIKA".

Special Correspondence of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Oct. 29.—The accompanying double cartoon was the cause of the recent gesture of Marshal Joseph Pilsudski toward the ultra-Right, or monarchist, parties of Poland.

The cartoon appeared Oct. 17 in the Robotnik, official Socialist organ, and so angered the Marshal that he made a great swing to the Right, deserting the Socialists, who have been loyally supporting him against the resent extreme Right party, which, however, goes no further Right than the industrialists. One picture shows the Marshal as a revolutionist smuggling Socialist propaganda into Russia, and the other contrasts his former attitude by showing him as a boon companion of royalists.

Royalists declare the kingly aspirations of Pilsudski are likely to be realized while the Left parties say he only wishes to form an extreme Right bloc to eclipse the National Democrats, his constant opponents in the Sejm. Glos Pravda, Pilsudski's personal organ, has made no denials of the existence of a plan to place the present military dictator upon a throne.

BERLIN SUPPORTS ENVOY ON FLAG

NATIONALISTS ASSAIL HIM

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—The Foreign Office supports fully and completely Ambassador von Maltzan's action in displaying the Reich's flags over the German Embassy at Washington on Armistice Day, saying special instructions from Berlin were unnecessary in such cases.

Though the reactionaries are still ranting on account of the Ambassador's course, the reasoning of the Republican press is firmly behind the Foreign Office and Dr. von Maltzan. The papers comment that the people of Berlin cannot dictate what diplomatic measures a German plenipotentiary abroad should adopt and recall the unpleasantness which resulted when on the death of Woodrow Wilson the German Embassy failed to half-mast the flag.

The Nationalistic Lokal Anzeiger continues its criticism, saying that Dr. von Maltzan chose the lesser of two evils, preferring the censure of his own people rather than that of the Americans, and that the Government's full support of his action shows clearly the cringing spirit of its foreign policy.

Ambassador von Maltzan in a cablegram to the Foreign Office today, explained that President Coolidge issued a declaration that Nov. 11 was a national holiday and that the dean of the diplomatic corps requested that flags be displayed. Since it was clearly designated that it was a celebration of the end of the butchery of the war and not of a victory, there was no reason for Germany to refrain from entering into the spirit predominating the ceremonies, especially since Germany's war allies, Austria Turkey and Bulgaria, also acquiesced in the President's and the dean's expressed wish.

The Anzeiger remarks, however:

"It was known what indignation Maltzan's act would arouse among the German people, but in accordance with the present foreign policy it was considered best to please the American people and their President."

The monarchistic Kreuz Zeitung is firm in its demand for Ambassador von Maltzan's recall, despite the Foreign Office statement, which it ignores.

"The Entente powers cannot be criticized for celebrating Armistice Day," it says, "even though 'victory' did not fall into their laps. But when the official German representative at Washington participates in such affairs it is unsurpassable fawning obsequiousness. If it is true that the dean of the diplomatic corps ordered the flagging it was Maltzan's duty to explain the impossibility of carrying out the request."

The Republican press points out the mistake the reactionaries are making in thinking Americans were commemorating victory instead of an end of the fighting, saying victory would be celebrated the day the Versailles Treaty was signed, which is not observed in any land.

The Republican organs also point out that the Allies desire to show that hate is forgotten, as is proved by such acts as American and British aviators placing a wreath on the casket of Richthofen, the German ace, when his body was returned to Germany for final burial; as war orphans placing a wreath on German graves at Birmingham and countless acts on the part of Americans showing that Nov. 11 is a world holiday of hope that humanity has learned a lasting lesson from the four years of conflict.

BERLIN, Nov. 13 (AP).—The Nationalists are bent upon obtaining from the Government an explanation of why Ambassador von Maltzan hoisted the German flag on the embassy at Washington on Armistice Day.

LEGISLATORS IGNORE PILSUDSKI'S DECREE

Most of the Members Are Absent at Opening—Those Present Protest Press Censorship.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Nov. 13.—Two-thirds of the Polish Sejm [Parliament] went on strike this afternoon when, under the Pilsudski decree, they were called to meet at the Zamek Palace to hear the reading of th call for the new session, in which the budget for the coming year is the chief subject to be considered.

A mere handful of 142 members of the lower house out of a possible 450 rallied under military supervision at the President's quarters, and two hours later, instead of commencing the business at hand, they presented en bloc a protest against the recent press censorship plan fixed by Presidential decree.

This action presages war to the finish between the duly elected Diet and the dictatorial Marshal Pilsudski, the latter holding the upper hand by virtue of his domination of the army.

As a result, the coming weeks are filled with possibilities of a new overturn of the Polish State, the outcome which is hoped for even among the defeated parties, who since May have hoped unsuccessfully to gain the favor of the Marshal.

BRITISH NAVY SHOWS CONCENTRATED FIRE

BATTLESHIPS WITH "BULGE"

Every type of naval craft, surface, air, undersea, representing the full strength of a British battle fleet, participated in the naval manoeuvres off Portland, which this year, for the first time in the history of the British navy, were witnessed by women from the decks and turrets of one of the mightiest fighting ships afloat.

The British naval demonstration, in honor of the delegates to the British Imperial Conference, most of whom were accompanied by their wives, was not merely a "showing off" of holystoned decks, polished brasswork and gleaming guns—it was a practical exhibition of the normal work of training, testing and improving against the day the battle fleet might have to go into action again against an enemy fleet.

In some respects according to naval observers, who, with the Dominion Prime Ministers and others, witnessed the scene from the battle cruiser Revenge the fleet flagship, it was a repetition of part of the battle of Jutland, the most famous naval battle in the World War.

Prior to the fleet manoeuvers the Prime Ministers witnessed at Croydon concrete examples of the progress made by the Air Service since the conference in 1923. Afterwards they saw the army give an exhibition of modern warfare, but the fleet spectacle was the one that evoked the greatest interest.

Virtually every phase of naval warfare, both attack and defense, was shown in the six hours that the fleet manoeuvred. The visitors were taken on the Revenge through a channel that had been swept clear and buoyed by the mine-sweeping flotilla; with cruiser and destroyer screens ahead and aircraft high in the heavens acting as scouts, three battle cruisers and three battleships went into action against the "enemy" red target, towed more than 18,000 yards away, and demolished it in five minutes with salvos from their fifteen-inch guns, at the same time that "enemy" submarines attempted to fire their torpedoes.

Torpedo Attacks Smoke-Screened.

Then the Fifth destroyer flotilla demonstrated how the destroyers continue the work of battle cruisers by insistent torpedo attacks. They dashed ahead, fired their torpedos and immediately sheered off in an opposite direction, laying down behind them as they steamed away a heavy smoke screen.

The firing of the heavy guns on the battleships and battle cruisers was heard at Windsor and Oxford and near London, from 70 to 100 miles away.

The fleet, which was commanded by Admiral Sir Henry Oliver, included the battleships Iron Duke, Emperor of India and Marlborough and the battle-cruisers Hood, Repulse and Renown. Admiral Oliver, who was Chief of Staff at the Admiralty during the latter part of the World War, had as his second in command Vice Admiral Cyril Fuller, whose flag flew from the Hood.

The ships were at their designated stations when the Revenge steamed out in the forenoon. As the battleship approached the aircraft carrier Furious, airplanes were launched for reconnaissance purposes, and these flew over the Revenge. Submarines of the "K" and "R" classes gave a demonstration of diving and rising to the surface, and then the visitors were brought into gradual touch with the action itself.

The Sixth Destroyer Flotilla took up its station in front of the Revenge to form an anti-submarine screen. Two submarines of the "L" class attacked the battleship and three torpedoes were fired. The guests were then shown anti-submarine operations by destroyers sent out to deal with the undersea craft by means of depth charges. Nearly twenty of these were fired and though they were at least a mile away from the Revenge the detonation could be easily heard and the concussion was felt on the battleship.

Concentrated Fire on Target.

As the flagship approached the fleet the battlecruisers and battleships repeated the manoeuvre that formed one of the crucial moments of the Battle of Jutland. They deployed from cruising position, in which they had been steaming, into line of battle and went into action against the target. First the huge 15-inch guns in the turrets of the Hood belched forth, and the watchers could see where the shells burst round the target. The guns of the Repulse followed and then those of the Renown. Then came a concentrated fire. Describing the scene, a naval correspondent on the Revenue said "no ship could have survived five minutes of that inferno."

Then the destroyers which had been held as a protective screen were launched to the attack. With the Revenge as their objective they moved off in one line and accomplished the work of "mopping up."

The whole operation occupied about six hours, and although in the morning the weather was misty and visibility was poor, later in the day, when the battleship attack took place, the sun shone brightly and the observers were able to watch the flash and smoke from the guns as they were fired and then a few seconds later the burst of the shells around the target.

The display was arranged primarily to show the fleet at its ordinary work rather than to exhibit a popular spectacle. According to observers, nothing was theatrical, yet everything was dramatic. Among the post-war developments that the delegates saw was the battleship's own defense against mine and torpedo attack. The cumbersome steel net which used to hang around the hull of the big ship was gone; nowadays it is not needed in a properly protected harbor and it so hampers speed that it is impracticable at sea. In its place has come the "bulge," an underwater excrescence on the side of the ship which absorbs the first shock of an explosion and so protects the vitals of the hull. All the British battle cruisers, the Revenge class of battleships and the Warspite of the Queen Elizabeth class are now bulged and the remainder of the Queen Elizabeth class are being reconditioned one at a time.

One of the interesting features of the manoeuvres was the return of the scouting and spotting airplanes that were sent up before the firing from the aircraft carrier Furious.

Besides witnessing the fleet in action the delegates from Canada, Australia and other British dominions had an opportunity to see officers and men of their own countries taking an active part in the day's proceedings.

One of the objects of the Imperial Conference is the study of questions connected with imperial defense, and the exercises afforded the Prime Ministers special opportunities for acquiring information of value and importance.

Weight of Metal Fired Enormous.

The battle cruisers carried out their firing program while steaming twenty knots. Each of the three major ships has a main armament of 15-inch guns that have a range of about twenty miles, although the firing during the manoeuvres was only at about half that range. Each 15-inch gun weighs eighty-seven tons and fires a projectile weighing three-quarters of a ton at a muzzle velocity of 2,700 foot-seconds. With twenty of these guns mounted in ten turrets in the three battle cruisers and their firing coordinated at a single target, the weight of metal concentrated on the object fired at is enormous.

The system of concentrated fire by many ships upon an organized plan and under one control, which the Dominion Prime Ministers witnessed, is a post-war innovation. At the Battle of Jutland, in the preliminary cruiser engagement before the battleships were able to get into action, when there were six British battle cruisers opposed to five German vessels, on both sides, owing to misunderstood signals, two ships fired at one time upon a single opponent. The Queen Mary was engaged by both the Seydlitz and Derfflinger, but this concentration was not prearranged. In the development of concentrated fire the controlling ship opens fire first and at a given interval the second ship discharges her projectiles at the same object, while after a similar interval the third ship follows suit, and so on. In this manner the gun crews on the first ship have time to reload their guns while the second and following ships are firing, with the result that a continuous stream of projectiles is poured at the target.

RHINELAND UNREST LAID TO THE FRANC

Its Inferiority to the Mark Makes Cost of Living Too High for French Soldiers.

Copyright, 1926, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

MAYENCE, Nov. 13.—By the simplest mathematics it takes at least seven French francs to weigh the scales against one mark. This cold fact has more to do with the current unrest in the Rhineland than the idealists of Paris or Berlin dream.

The French Army of Occupation can hold the bridgeheads and fulfill the other duties under the Treaty of Versailles until 1935, unless that much-battered document is further mutilated; but armed with francs it cannot fight the cost of living in regenerated Germany. Its 52,000 soldiers garrisoned at Coblenz, Mayence and a score of little towns in Rhenish Prussia and the Bavarian palitinate are miserable. With their few francs they cannot go anywhere or do anything.

French prestige has suffered from this seven to one calculation, over which the Rhinelanders do a lot of private gloating. They have not forgotten the nightmare years of inflation when the franc looked as big as the sun, and when if one could get French officers billeted in the house one was "on easy street," and when the mere presence of the armies of occupation shielded the Rhineland from the misery which the rest of Germany was shivering under.

"These people have got nothing more to give us—heraus mit em. Their country is bankrupt, let them go home to work." This is the sentiment all along the French zone of the Rhineland.

Arnold Daly Still in Hospital.

Arnold Daly, the actor, is still confined to his bed in the Metropolitan Hospital recovering from a slight fracture of the skull suffered in a recent fall. Physicians at the hospital said yesterday that he is "doing nicely" but will not soon be able to leave. Previous to his accident Mr. Daly was playing the part of Marshal Bazaine in "Juarez and Maximilian."

FAMOUS RUSSIAN 'RUBY' IS ONLY A RUBELLITE

Stone, Owned by Swedish Kings and Catherine the Great, Is of Little Value.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 13 (AP).—The famous ruby of the Russian crown jewels, which once was owned by Sweden, then by Catherine the Great of Russia and long was reputed to be the world's largest ruby, now turns out to be only an ordinary rubellite, according to expert opinion.

The bogus character of this long famed jewel is disclosed by Professor Gregori Aminoff, head of the mineralogical section of the Swedish Royal Museum. His statement is based on a report by Professor A. Fereman, noted Russian mineralogist, published in the Bulletin of the Russian Academy of Science, in which the Russian authority writes about it as follows:

"It was, as a matter of fact, a light red tourmaline from Burma (rubellite)—Genuine rubies are always dark red—weighing 250 carats, of irregular shape and representing nothing exceptional either as to size or quality."

Thus ends the appeal of one of the most noted pieces of jewelry that have figured in Swedish and Russian history.

Originally the Swedish Crown obtained it as war booty at Prague, its earlier history being shrouded in mystery, and Queen Christina, the spendthrift daughter of Gustavus Adolphus, once pawned it for ready cash at Antwerp, where it was later redeemed by the Swedish Government.

It was in the Summer of 1777 while visiting Catherine the Great in St. Petersburg that the Swedish King, Gustavus III., had it removed illegally from the Swedish Crown collection in order to bestow it on the Empress in return for her favors. Since then there have been many proposals to have it redeemed once more by the Swedish authorities but it is still kept in the Russian collection. Now the Swedish interest has cooled.

RUSHDI BEY CONFERS WITH TCHITCHERIN

Their 'Long-Established Common Views' Remain Unchanged, It Is Announced.

ODESSA, Ukraine, Nov. 13 (AP).—Foreign Ministers Tchitcherin of Soviet Russia and Tewfik Rushdi Bey of Turkey, meeting for their much-discussed conference, had a private conversation lasting three hours today.

Afterward it was stated that they went over all the questions of international interest to their two countries. The "highest satisfaction" was expressed that their "long-established common views remained unchanged."

Turkey's foreign policy is directed toward world peace and friendly relations, Rushdi Bey told newspaper men today. He said his presence on Russian soil was the best proof of the cordial relations between Turkey and Soviet Russia.

"Turkey's foreign policy," he said, "is directed to the support of the world's peace and the friendly relations between neighbors. The recent treaty between Turkey and other countries is an indication of this."

MRS. BARTHELMESS IN PARIS

She Refuses to Say Whether She Seeks a Divorce.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Mary Hay, movie star, wife of Richard Barthelmess, reached Paris today from the steamship Paris, following by a week her husband, who is stopping at the Crillon.

Miss Hay refused to admit or deny a report that she was seeking a divorce here, and would not reveal at what hotel she would stay. She expects to spend several months here and does not know whether she will see her husband.

Their child, a little girl, is now in California in the care of friends.

The China -

A wide border of pure jade tone circles the newest and loveliest service plates from Lamm of Dresden, and over this pure jade is a network of intricate pattern—all hand-painted in coin gold. 250.00 the dozen.

Light and gay as the laughter over the coffee cups—a demi-tasse set from Lamm of Dresden, each little cup with a bowl all of coin gold, each with a different little scene—in the manner of Watteau—painted upon its flaring inner shoulder. Set of twelve cups and saucers, 144.00.

And for the table's center—especially if the dinner be very formal—what more appropriate, more delightful choice than a compote set of classic lines, in austere white and coin gold? This, also, comes from Dresden, but is pure Grecian in design, its every figure expressive of the symbolism and chaste simplicity of Hellenic art. Compote and two candlesticks, 169.00.

Seventh Floor

The Stemware -

Imported glass—full lead blown, and of fragile beauty—takes a feathery design, engraved and filled with gold. So deep is this engraving, the intaglio gold seems, in certain lights, to be in tiny molten drops. Goblets are 5.95 each, with champagne, wine and high ball glasses of proportionate price.

Seventh Floor

The Silver -

A pattern of classic lines—The Pantheon—is of that simple, clear-cut beauty of which one never tires. The Thanksgiving table whose flatware is in this design will be rich, indeed. Teaspoons of sterling silver are priced 20.00 to 27.00 the dozen, according to weight, with other pieces of proportionate price.

Pepper and salt shakers of sterling silver in distinctive designs are 5.00 to 18.00 the pair.

And in the Butler's Pantry

A carving set from Sheffield—in the new mirror finish which so much resembles silver—proves itself true steel when carving time arrives. With polished horn handles, this is a set of which no pantry or festive board, for that matter, need be ashamed. Three piece set of stainless steel, 12.00. Other three piece Sheffield sets, 9.50 to 22.50.

Seventh Floor

Of Pantheon design in sterling silver—a regal coffee service is 443.00 for the four pieces. The tray, 385.00. The water pitcher, 180.00. A vegetable dish, 215.00.

While the tray upon which King Turkey will be borne is of sterling silver, in hammered pattern, 115.00.

Street Floor

BUT FIRST make sure—doubly sure—that there be not a single detail to mar the perfect setting of the festive board.

The Napery -

For the formal dinner, Convention likes best a cloth of damask—satin-smooth. "Old Bleach" is the richest choice, and is especially lovely in the Marguerite design. The three yard cloth is 45.00, the matching twenty-two inch napkins, 37.50 the dozen.

Or, if your taste be for the more ornate, you will delight in a cloth from Italy, bordered eighteen inches deep with shadow filet and further enriched with point Venise and cut work. The filet border, copying a priceless antique, is gay with garlands and Cupids in the Venetian manner. 450.00.

Witness Saw Sedan Like Mrs. Hall's, With Lights Out, Near Crime Scene

darling, you I was longing for * * * my true mother, my gypsy, my heart, my life."

The phrases fell into the court room in the drone of the reader, but fell with no sign of reaction upon the accused woman. There she sat, the same inscrutable calmness upon her, with her head held high through all the ordeal. Four years ago, in an interview, she had voiced her faith in her husband. She gave no sign that that faith has been shaken.

"I can't talk to you any more in the presence of Mrs. Hall or Jim"—this, the only reference to the husband of the choir singer—"don't be surprised if I stay away when you are talking to them. Something gets all out of order then, and I lose my peace and self-possession."

Mills Once Sold the Letters.

James Mills also was listening, resting back in his seat, with folded arms. Four years ago the letters had gone from his house to a newspaper and $500 had been paid for them. Mills, who had stood earlier in the day at the disturbed grave of his wife and had remarked, "They made a good job of sodding," gave no sign of interest in the letters.

The letters were the high mark of the day's session during which seven witnesses were heard. At one point Senator Simpson and State Senator Clarence E. Case of the defense clashed in a bitter wrangle. The special prosecutor had persisted in referring to Senator Case as "the junior counsel," rather than an associate of Robert H. McCarter, and this plainly nettled the lawyer. He finally found revenge by adroitly coupling "bosses" with "Hudson County," much to the indignation of Senator Simpson.

Harry Kolb, a milkman, contributed what at first seemed a significant item in the State's case. He swore that at about 5 A. M. on the day after the crime he found a rear door in the Hall home wide open. The defense neutralized this, however, by showing that the door led into a closet, which had no other opening in it.

Spots on Stevens's Clothes.

William Grealis, a youth, testified to having taken a suit owned by Willie Stevens to be cleaned on Sept. 16, two days after the crime and the day the bodies were found lying beneath a crabapple tree. The young man said that the suit had "spots" on it, dark in color, but was unable to say that they might not have been caused by food dropped by the eccentric Willie Stevens himself.

The State sought to show that the sedan owned by Mrs. Hall had been washed clean of red clay, such as abounded at the scene of the crime. But sturdy, open-faced Peter Tumulty, who was the Hall handy man in 1922 and now is chauffeur for Henry de la Bruyere Carpender, broker, who was indicted with the others but is to be tried later, could not aid Senator Simpson on that. He had washed no cars for nearly a month after the crime, nor had he seen any one else engaged in car-washing.

Miss Agnes Storer, a gray-haired woman with a clear, pleasant voice, admitted that Mrs. Hall had told her the rector "was out of town" when she called the day before the bodies were found. But Miss Storer, who is organist of the late rector's parish, the Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, said that she "had understood perfectly" the evasion. Mrs. Hall, the organist said, paid her expenses when she accompanied the widow on a trip to Italy in 1923. Throughout all the trip, they never mentioned the case, she added.

The chief accomplishment of the State came when William F. Randell, hitherto known in the case as "Randolph," testified that at midnight on Sept. 14, he had seen a Dodge sedan parked near De Russey's Lane. The Hall car at that time was a Dodge of this type. Randell, however, could not identify the car further than that it was a Dodge.

Conkling Hostile Witness.

The last witness of the session was Bogert T. Conkling, formerly Sheriff of Somerset County. He testified to the condition of the bodies and the general aspect of the scene of the crime. He complained, in the course of his testimony, that investigators for the State had tried to induce him to sign a statement he had made at State Police Headquarters in Somerville. He explained that he had refused to sign it, because it contained "inaccuracies."

The status of Mrs. Jane Gibson, ace of the prosecution's case, continued uncertain yesterday. Physicians at the City Hospital in Jersey City said that the blood transfusion performed on Mrs. Gibson early Friday had corrected an anemic condition, but that there still was no way of telling when she would be ready to take the stand at the trial and tell her alleged eyewitness story, accusing the defendants.

"Mrs. Gibson is under the constant care of two nurses and a physician and seems to be resting comfortably," said Dr. George O'Hanlon, Superintendent of the hospital, last night. "She appears to be in no immediate danger and the transfusion has added greatly to her strength."

The defense attorneys indicated last night that they were intensely interested in the condition of Mrs. Gibson. They expressed hope that Senator Simpson would not close his case without calling her, thus enabling them to ascertain "which of her six versions of the crime is the correct one." They were plainly more interested in this phase of the case than in the card or the letters read during the day.

Edward Waite, who was to testify as an expert on firearms and bullets for the prosecution, was reported yesterday to be dangerously ill at the Hotel Latham in this city. Major Calvin H. Goddard, his partner, who is with him, said that Mr. Waite had had a weak heart for several years and had suffered a severe attack on Friday. He said that Mr. Waite's condition yesterday was unimproved and that the attending physician, Dr. George de Naouly, was "keeping a close watch on the patient."

Verse Written by Dr. Hall.

The verse which Dr. Hall penned to Mrs. Mills was entitled "Dear Heart of Mine." It was as follows:

This red, red rose, my Christmas gift to you,
Is but a symbol of love, devoted, faithful, true;
For love, is like a rose, dear heart, fresh as the early morn.
God took the beauty of the skies, the glory of the dawn,
The fire of passion, the call of the evening, the golden glow,
And with the mystery of the stars he made the love we know:
So in this rose you find me, dear, the love it can impart—
Love, loyal, true and absolutely, the offering of my heart.
Christmas Day, 1921.
E. W. H., D. T. L.

The first letter, headed merely "Tuesday evening," read:

My own dear Wonder-Heart: Just a line to you this last evening that I am at Wellsford. You will probably receive this on Friday, a few hours before I reach N. B. Dearest, I want to tell you what an inspiration, help and strength your letters have been to me. What a revelation of love and character. It seems as though we have together opened the doors of a wonderful world. It is here now. We live in it. It is simply wonderful, calm, visible, yet of infinite music, poetry and beauty, intangible, yet eternal ties. We know it is ours forever. D. T. L.

Calls Her "Gay Gypsy."

The text of the next was:

Oh, you dear wonder-heart, what a cheery dear heart you have been today, darling, what a gay gypsy you were this afternoon. I could not wait until tonight to see you and find you so full of life and spirit. Oh, how I wanted to sit and stay with you, but I could not then, and then there was our ride. But we will play and some day next week; darling, it is so good to see you well and your own dear self again. Wasn't it a lovely ride? I hated to leave you out downtown, but it seemed wisest. I would look queer to go away up to Carmen Street first, and it was just the time people would be in the streets, so it was best, even if hard to do, as we did it, dear.

Darling, the choir is singing hymns and I love to listen and I know your dear voice singing out those lovely words and your heart, too. There is something divine in the way you sing hymns. You love them so. You could easily be a song evangelist. People love to hear you sing hymns. There is the pathos and tenderness in your voice that people feel and, darling, I must go in now and look at my dear heart while she sings. Beloved, all my heart's love for you and there is a deep, deep joy and peace to our heart's content. D. T. L.

Looked Forward to Tryst.

The prosecutor then read the next letter:

Dear, dear, darling wonderheart of mine: Your Saturday letter has come and all your dear good letters and poems. Just a line before this mail goes.

Friday night at eight P. M. our road beyond Parker Home—I will see nobody before I look down into those deep wonder-eyes of love and look up to this wonderful wonder-world of love that we are living in, a world infinitely more wonderful than all the beauties of physical nature, as wonderful as they are. Ever always and devotedly, D. L. T.

She Kept Rose on His Desk.

Characterized as State's exhibit for identification No. 10, another letter read:

Wednesday evening, 7:30 P. M.—My own true darling heart: Just a few lines before I get to work again on my postcards that I am writing to send around the parish—your dear good Sunday letter came today. I am glad everything goes well—and you do take good care of things. I approve heartily of everything you have done—and we ought to have evening service and early communion, too. I hate to omit them—yet it seems impossible to arrange in present circumstances. It is just true to your wonderful love that you are keeping a rose on my desk. Dearest, I can never tell you in words the beauty of spirit that came over me when I read that. You know I understand as no words can express.

Dearest, about the pictures—I haven't destroyed them—I love them all so much I can't do it—and while I know we can get better ones—and will get them—I want those too. I have them safely kept.

"I love your phrase that all our memories, even the quarrels, were "but stepping stones to the vision of a greater, truer, devoted love." That is beautiful and true. We know it.

The clippings you sent me arrived today and they are all interesting. The story is the same as the picture "Forever," isn't it? And Keable's new book sounds interesting. I see that a review of it is to appear in today's Boston Transcript, so I will try to get a copy—My "Daily News" never came from New York yet. We must get that poem somehow.

Dear, dear heart of mine—I am writing freely to you—I must—I get all wrought up inside unless I "talk it out"—and I do by myself; every moment I know you hear me caressing you. Good night, good night beloved—my whole heart's love—with mountains of strength and oceans of depth. Don't you think I had better not plan to come to 49 when I get back? I know I shall not be able to speak and will just want to crush you for hours—too pent up—to speak for words are too feeble. Darling, I want to see you Friday night—alone—by our road—where we can let out—unrestrained that universe of joy and happiness that will be ours. Mrs. Hall wonders why I am taking only three Sundays this year. She doesn't know how hard it is to take those. Oh, "Forever" is so true. I know you are here. Blessed heart, I kiss you—tenderly—fiercely—oh such love—yes, as I felt at Geneva—Bernardsville—every where where I longed and yearned and dreamed—it was you darling—you I was longing for—oh I know it so well—my true Mother—my gypsy—my heart—my life. Always, D. T. L.

His Letters From Maine.

The next letters read were written from Maine. The first one was as follows:

Islesford,
Sunday afternoon.

Dear Eleanor:

Minnie wrote to Mrs. Hall that you have not been feeling well. Please let me know at once if you should ever feel seriously ill. I must be sure that "no news is good news," and that you would send word immediately whenever necessary. One week has gone—nearly—and two more will pass, slowly, but eventually, if I can be patient.

Please write often. I have many, many things to tell you, so many that I shall have to keep them until I get back. I went to service this morning at the chapel here on the island. It is a sort of undenominational chapel. The service was by the "Sea Coast Mission" that does very good work along the coast. I have a book for you to read, "The Gipsy Trail." I got it in Boston. Shall I send it or bring it back with me? It has been foggy and damp here, but today the sun is shining. I hope it is for you, too.

I will write again soon. Just send word as soon as you receive this, telling me how you are. Please tell Jim that Charlie Stryker is to bring vegetables to you. Has he done so? How I am wondering "Where are you now?" How much I wonder while I am away! It is such a wonderful world! And a true one—and loyal—

As ever,
Edw. W. Hall.

Tells of Longing to See Her.

The second was phrased with less restraint, thus:

I enclose 2 clippings—keep them & we can discuss them after we read the book which I will get as soon as I get back.

Darling, one week from today! Only 7 more days—& I cannot wait until Friday night—I must see you Friday afternoon—so our road at 2:30 next Friday. If any unforeseen event makes it necessary to change I will send word as soon as I reach N. B.—which will probably be at 10:23 or 12:19—If I do get there at 10:23, I will let you know any way that I am back—oh dearest what patience we have had. But the agony will be forgotten when I look into those dear eyes again.—Good night beloved—every blessing for you—only help me to be strong & patient until we are in each others arms again.

My whole heart's love, darling,
Ever devotedly, D. T. L.

He Suggests a Tryst.

Tuesday night, 9:30 P. M.

My own true, dear, loyal, and wonderful gypsy queen—I have been off on a tramp all day—as I wrote to you this morning—so I can't get my letter off until tomorrow—but I must send a line tonight—as we have only one mail a day and it leaves early in the morning. Dearest, you have been with me all day—and I am looking and longing for your Sunday letter, which will come tomorrow. But it will be formal—so I shall look for a true-heart gypsy letter at Seal Harbor either tomorrow or next day. Your letters are blessings, dear, just what I want, crave, need—but I am piggy and want one every moment. Your letters have been wonderful—as wonderful as you are, dear heart. If you have a different plan to suggest for the Friday I get back to N. B., let me know it. Perhaps it would be better to meet at our road on Friday afternoon, than at 49. What do you think? But to see you anyway—to hold you.

Crush you, and pour my burning kisses on your dear body and to look deep, deep into those wonder eyes of love and just drink of the most wonderful thing in life—our love! Wholly, completely yours, dear heart, storing up health and strength to be your gypsy king, strong in that love which has the strength and calm and peace of these granite hills and the depth, wonder, mystery of these refreshing, glittering seas about me. Rejoice, dearest—dream, dream, dream—for the wonder of the universe is ours. Life is infinitely sweet and blessed. To have known such love as we have known is to know God, to know eternal life, to know bliss in its greatest ecstasy.

Peace, dear heart, and blessing for I love you—more than words can tell—and my prayer is for the divinest blessings for you.

And to know that even this love is growing—ever growing. D. T. L.

Tells of His Lonely Mood.

Four more of the missives, in the order in which they were read, were:

Dear, dear, darling heart of mine! I had hoped to have a long note for you tonight. But it has seemed as though I just could not write. My thoughts and feelings have been too full to put into words or on paper—just one of my moods today, dear—one of my lonely, longing moods—you always, dearest, my treasure, my anchor, my rock, oh, how I did want to fly off with you this afternoon. I wanted to get away to Dreamland—Heaven land. Everything seemed so sordid, earthly, commonplace.

Can I meet you tomorrow—our road at 2 P. M.? We can have the afternoon together—or if it rains shall we go to a show? I want to be with you—rather in the country—I just want to hold you—there is a peace then that nothing else brings—I can't talk to you any more in the presence of Mrs. Hall or Jim. Don't be surprised if I stay away when you are talking to them. Something gets all out of order—then—and I lose my peace and self-possession. Dearest, love me hard, hard, harder than ever—for your Babykins is longing for his mother. D. T. L.

His Love and Eclairs.

My own dear, dear heart:

This morning after leaving you, I had a chance to read a little more of "The Mother of All Living." It is very interesting—much more so than I expected. I am anxious to get it to you—so will hurry this—Dearest Sweetheart, try and realize how sweet you are when you eat the eclairs—oh, how I love to get them for you—cheerio, dearest heart of mine—I am loving you as you are loving me today—hard—fierce—and oh, so deeply and truly—a long, strong burning kiss on your dear lips—liquid fire into your very soul. D. T. L.

Her Letters a "Blessing."

Seal Harbor Postoffice,
Saturday, A. M.

Oh, you dear, dear angel sweetheart. Your dear, dear letter and what volume I wanted to write, but I have just a moment. Now, I will write you a long letter soon and answer your various questions. Dear, your letters are blessings to me. I could not endure the separation without them. Oh, will the time ever pass, thought and longings so strong through me, that I can only let these sweet peas say all that I want to say. You are a royal queen. You are perfectly right. You are wonderful, dear, more wonderful every moment. I will write more tomorrow. Every moment, every breath. D. T. L.

In an Exalted Mood.

Dear, dear tender wonder heart of mine. Have you felt what an exalted mood I am in today? Dearest, I have so longed to talk, talk, talk with you while holding you in my arms. I am not wild or fierce today, but peaceful and calm, strong and exalted. Such an assurance. I feel like Tennyson's strong Son of God, immortal love. Dearie, dear heart, I want to hold you close, commune with you, hold you tight with my left arm and stroke your dear firm face and body with my right and look deep down into those wonder eyes, hazel eyes. Dearest, you are like a crystal to me. I will call them crystal eyes. I seem to see and feel all the awe and wonder of the universe in them and I am full of awe and wonder today. I want you and music. I will bring the Victrola. I have been thinking a great deal about prayer. Have you been praying this morning? For me?

I feel sure you must have been, even if you are not conscious of it.

Love and prayer.

What wonderful power! Isn't psychic influence strange and wonderful?

Let us meet at our road at 2:15. I will get there first so you will not have to wait if it rains. If you suggest any other place call up 74 between 1 and 2 and I will answer the phone. Beloved heart you are all the wonder of life for me. Life, love, mystery, will power, affection are all bound up in you, the true Eve, the mother of all life and love for me. I feel your firm, strong fingers gripping mine as we crush one another in a firm, strong embrace. Your darling, D. T. L.

MAYER ON THE STAND.

When court opened, Herbert B. Mayer, a reporter for The Daily Mirror, resumed the stand, his cross-examination by Mr. McCarter having been broken by adjournment. His examination was brief, the defense attorney contenting himself with further light on Mayer's work on the investigation by the tabloid which led up to the State's inquiry.

Rector's Diary in Evidence.

Senator Simpson then offered in evidence the diary written four years ago by Mr. Hall. When Charlotte Mills was on the stand last week she identified the diary as in the handwriting of the rector, and as having been found in the Mills home several weeks after the murder. It was admitted as S-100, the hundredth item of physical evidence offered by the special prosecutor, after a protracted argument against it by Mr. McCarter, the legal point developing thus:

Mr. McCarter—I object.
Senator Simpson—It is part of the State's case and shows the relationship between these people, the conversations between them, and correspondence, and the possession of this document of Dr. Hall's, written by him, detailing his great affection for this lady, in the possession of this lady, certainly is competent evidence, just as much as the letters written by her to Mr. Hall, which are already in evidence.
The Court—Mr. McCarter, has the defense examined this paper?
Mr. McCarter—No, sir, but we would like to see it.
The Court—Well, here it is for your inspection.
Mr. McCarter—We do not by looking at it, I hope, in any way render the paper competent.
The Court—No sir, not at all. You have a right to examine it before you either consent or object to its being admitted.
Mr. McCarter—Counsel has once or twice suggested that if we look at a paper we are hung and drawn and quartered. We do not understand that to be the rule.

Opposes Diary as Evidence.

Mr. McCarter contended that the diary, not having been found near the bodies, was not competent against the defendants.

"We know of no theory," he said, "upon which documents found a long time after the deceased, not written by the defendants, of which the defendants have no knowledge or notice whatever, can be chargeable to them, and we know of no theory on which the State can introduce those letters in evidence against us."

"They consist of a lot of loose pages, loosely in or torn from a book. There is no explanation of their condition. They may not be all here—a lot of loose papers. It does not appear even that these that are offered are all that were found, and the condition of the articles is mutilated and unidentified. It appears in the case that a newspaper got it and paid $500 for it with some other documents to James Mills."

After further argument the Court ruled as follows:

The Court—The view taken by the Court about this paper is that these entries, which for the sake of convenience may be called diary entries, if relevant, are, in our judgment, competent on the question of motive.
Now, then, holding that the question then is whether they are relevant. We have glanced at them and find that they manifestly are relevant on that phase. They are also apparently continuous, although sheets apparently detached from a book, they are not continuous in order of date. I won't mention dates because that will be for consideration later, and even though they may be incompetent, there is enough here in our judgment to justify laying them before the jury. Consequently, we conclude that they should be admitted. I suppose that includes the book from which some leaves have been torn, because it may be necessary to make some comparison to see whether the torn stubs fit the removed pages, but, apart from that, they are the same size and shape and apparently the same paper. They will be admitted in evidence.
Mr. McCarter—Exception.

Senator Case then took about ten minutes of the session to correct clerical errors in the transcripts and mistakes in names appearing in the record.

When love letters written by the clergyman to Mrs. Mills were offered the defense insisted that each letter go in as an entity.

H. A. KOLB TESTIFIES.

Harry A. Kolb, 27 Delavan Street, New Brunswick, now a salesman, but a milkman delivering to the Hall home at the time of the crime, was called. His examination follows:

Direct examination by Senator Simpson:
Q.—Were you milk driver for the Paulus Dairy Company of New Brunswick on Sept. 14, 1922? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—Had you served the Hall house where the Rev. Dr. Hall lived with milk any time before that day? A.—Before what day?
Q.—Sept. 14, 1922? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—How long a period of time? A.—About five months.
Q.—And what time would you get there to deliver milk? A.—Between four and five.
Q.—What time of the morning did you get there on the morning of Friday, Sept. 15, 1922? A.—Between the same hours.
Q.—Are you familiar with the door, the kitchen door of the house, so-called first doorway that you reach entering from Redmond Street? A.—Not familiar with it, no.
Q.—I mean, having been there every morning for five months, you know the door, don't you? A.—No.
Q.—Never saw that door at all in your life? A.—No, I was never there in the daytime.
Q.—What did you do with reference to that doorway on the morning of Sept. 15, between four and five A. M.? Did you drive into the driveway of the Hall home? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—With your horse and wagon? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—From Redmond Street? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—When you came to the rear of the Hall home, did you have to get off your wagon? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—What for? A.—To deliver milk.
Q.—Anything else? A.—To shut the door.
Q.—What door did you shut? A.—Oh, I don't know what door it was.
Q.—Well, was it the first door you came to? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—And was it the door to the first doorway that you meant? A.—Yes.
Q.—How much was it open? A.—It was open that far that I had to run ahead of it and close it or my left front wheel would have struck it.
Q.—When you closed it did you lock it? A.—No, sir.
Q.—How did you keep it closed? A.—I just shut it and went on.
Q.—Had you ever found this condition before? A.—No, sir.
Q.—Did you ever notice it open again after that night? A.—No, sir.

Cross-Examination of Kolb.

Cross-examination by Senator Case:
Q.—How long did you continue delivering milk after that time at the Hall residence? A.—About a week, I guess—a week or more, I am not sure.
Q.—Did you have any particular reason for stopping? A.—Stopping what?
Q.—Delivering milk there. A.—No.
Q.—You got another job, did you, or something? A.—No; I went back to my old position.
Q.—What was that? A.—With Armour & Co. in New Brunswick?
Q.—Was it light when you got there between 4 and 5 o'clock in the morning? A.—No, sir.
Q.—Dark, was it? A.—Yes.
Q.—Where did you leave your milk? A.—Right on the back porch.
Q.—You could not have gotten by without shutting the door? A.—No, not the way I seen it.
Q.—And in order to enable you to get by you closed the door? A.—Yes.
Q.—I suppose you just put your bottles of milk on the top of the steps and went on? A.—Yes.
Q.—And you have no very distinct recollection, I suspect, of what you did that morning? Have you? A.—No, I don't believe I have.
Q.—All right. Now, are you familiar with the back of the Hall house? A.—Not very well.
Q.—Do you know what door it is that is back there where you say you closed the door? A.—No, sir.
Q.—You don't know what it leads to? A.—No.
Q.—Would you be surprised to learn that it goes into a closet there off the porch?
Senator Simpson: I object to that, because there is no proof that the present location of the house is the same as it was on the 14th of September.
Q.—Do you know whether or not—you don't know whether or not the little place into which that door led had any other exit at all except that door, do you? A.—Just the door, that is all.
Q.—Did you ever go in the kitchen? A.—No.
Q.—You don't know what door goes in the kitchen? A.—No.

W. J. GREALIS A WITNESS.

The witness then called was William J. Grealis, 18 years old, of New Brunswick, now a laborer, employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad. Grealis, a fair-haired youth with pink cheeks, proved to be an excellent witness for the State. Senator Case went after the young man with much vigor. Grealis's examination follows:

Direct examination by Senator Simpson:
Q.—On the 14th, 15th and 16th of September, 1922, were you employed anywhere? A.—Yes. Lyons & Parker.
Q.—Where are they? A.—New Brunswick, on Church Street.
Q.—What is their business? A.—Clothing business.
Q.—Did you at the direction of Mr. Lyons take a suit of clothes on any of those days to the Hall home in New Brunswick. A.—Yes.
Q.—What day did you take it? A.—Saturday, Sept. 16.
Q.—About what time? A.—About 8 o'clock in the evening.
Q.—Where did you get the suit from that you took? A.—I got it from the store.
Q.—It was a new suit, wasn't it, you were delivering? A.—Yes.
Q.—When you got there did you see Mr. William Stevens? A.—I did.
Q.—Where did he meet you? A.—I was walking in the driveway in the Hall home and Mr. William Stevens came down and met me about half way.
Q.—Were there people on the front stoop? A.—Yes.
Q.—When he met you half-way what, if anything, happened? A.—He told me to come around to the back with them, as he had a suit to be brought back to the store.

Told of Family Trouble.

Q.—Did he say anything else? A.—Well, he explained himself as the result of bringing me around the back way was because they had trouble in the family—didn't want to bring me to the front door.
Q.—Then what happened? A.—I went around to the back with him and he went inside. He told me to wait a minute. He went inside the door, a few minutes later reappeared with a suit tied with a rope, to be brought back to be cleaned and scoured.
Q.—How was it tied? A.—Just with a rope.
Q.—Was anything said about when he wanted that back? A.—He said he wanted them back—I believe it was the first part of next week he wanted them, Tuesday or Wednesday.
Q.—Did you start to go out with them? A.—Yes.
Q.—How did you start to go? A.—I started to go out the way I came in, that is, the front way.
Q.—What happened? A.—He told me to go out the side driveway, which led to Redmond Street.
Q.—What did you say? A.—I told him I did not want to go out that way and I started going to the front. He insisted that I go out that way.
Q.—What was his manner, quiet or excited, or what? A.—No, it seemed to be very nervous—he wanted me to go out the side way.

They Argued, He Said.

Grealis said that he had noticed nothing about Stevens's speech that was out of the ordinary. He added that he had "argued" with the defendant for several minutes and then went out the side exit. The examination proceeded:

Q.—Will you state what was done, if anything, besides arguing with you in the way of your going out the front of the house instead of out the back way? A.—I started to walk out the front way and he grabbed me by the arm and told me to go out the side way.
Q.—What was his manner when he grabbed you by the arm and insisted you should not go out the front way while you were carrying this bundle of clothes? A.—He seemed nervous.
Q.—Who untied the suit? A.—My brother.
Q.—Where—at the store? A.—At the store.
Q.—What is your brother's name? A.—Austin Grealis.

Saw Spots on Clothes.

Q.—Did you notice anything about the clothes that were to be cleaned—about the front of them? A.—I noticed some spots on them.
Q.—Where were the spots? A.—Down on the front of the vest and around the waist line of the trousers.
Q.—Can't you give the jury any idea as to whether they were white or brown spots or red spots, or what kind of spots they were? A.—I believe they were dark color.
Q.—Did you ever see the suit afterward that you took from him out the back way, that was spotted in the way you say, and which was taken to your place for cleaning—did you ever see it again? A.—I did.
Q.—Where did you see it? A.—In the prosecutor's office in New Brunswick.
Q.—Had it been cleaned at that time? A.—It had not.
Q.—How long after you had taken the suit did you see it at the prosecutor's office in New Brunswick? A.—Maybe two weeks.
Q.—In whose control was it? A.—I believe Detective Totten had it, I think.
Q.—What kind of a suit was it you took to his house that night—the new suit? A.—A dark suit.
Q.—Do you remember how many pieces? A.—A three-piece suit, I think.
Q.—Did you have any conversation with Stevens when you took the suits or at any other time as to how they got spotted this way. A.—No, I did not.
Q.—What time was it Saturday night when you went to the house? A.—About eight o'clock.
Q.—Dark? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—Did you tell Willie Stevens that you wanted to go out the front way, that the back was dark or anything?
Senator Case—Wanted to go out?
Senator Simpson—Why does the junior counsel sob so?
Senator Case—The junior counsel sobs so because this is a murder trial and counsel insists upon putting the answers in the witness's mouth.
Senator Simpson—That is a very unfair remark for such a distinguished man as you. Remember, I am going to meet you Monday night in the Senate. I will withdraw the question, if your Honor please.
The Court—The point of the inquiry evidently is not why he wanted to go out that way, but why William Stevens didn't want him to.
Senator Simpson—Yes.

Grealis Is Cross-Examined.

Senator Case cross-examined Grealis and put in some time developing that the youth at the time he delivered the suits was working overtime. The young man indicated that he rather resented some of the questions put by the defense, particularly those which dealt with Grealis's belief that he should have been ushered in and out the front door, past the guests on the porch, with his bundle of soiled clothing. The cross-examination continued:

Q.—Now, was it unusual for you to get the clothes of William Stevens to be scoured and pressed? A.—Well, as far as I can remember, I believe that was the first time I ever brought them back.
Q.—But did you know that Lyons & Parker regularly did William Stevens' clothes? A.—Oh, yes, I did.
Q.—And it was something that was frequently done, don't you know that? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—Don't you know that he had a way of getting his food on the front of his vest or clothing, and that it had to be frequently cleaned?
Senator Simpson—I object. How can he possibly know? He was not a waiter for William Stevens and he didn't—Senator Case—Of course, you got the joke. You got the laugh, if that is what you are after.
Senator Simpson—Now, your Honor, I don't think the junior counsel should be continuously haranguing me instead of addressing the Court. I object to the question on the ground that this man was in no position to know what Willie Stevens's table manners were. He simply describes spots. I, of course, don't object to his being asked whether they might not have been food spots, but I do object to his being cross-examined as to something that was not touched on in direct examination by me.

Senator Case insisted the question was proper inasmuch as "there must be some sinister purpose in these spots in the mind of the prosecutor."

Court Lets Question Stand.

The Court finally ruled that the question was proper and the witness said he knew that Stevens had a habit of getting food on his clothing.

Q.—Now, then, this occasion when you went on that Saturday evening to the home of Mrs. Hall and William Stevens, in which you say he showed signs of nervousness, was the very night that his brother-in-law had been found—the night of the day on which his brother-in-law had been found murdered, wasn't it? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—Did you think it strange that he should be nervous under those conditions? A.—Well, the way he acted, I did think it was strange.
Q.—You thought it was strange for a man whose brother-in-law had just been found foully murdered to be nervous? A.—Yes.
Q.—You have known William Stevens some time before that? A.—Known him to see.
Q.—Now, did you think it strange that when clothes were being given out to have pressed, scoured and pressed, that they should be given to the boy at the back door instead of the front door? Did you think there was anything strange about that? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—Now, this suit that you took there was a new dark suit appropriate to be used for a funeral, wasn't it? A.—Yes.
Q.—You are sure that this was Saturday night? A.—Yes.
Q.—You are speaking of Redmond Street being dark. There were street lights on Redmond Street, weren't there? A.—I didn't see any.
Q.—Willie's expression to you was that you should go out the back way and your expression to Willie was that you should go out the front way? A.—Yes.
Q.—And you thought that a boy taking soiled clothes out to be pressed should go out the front entrance? A.—Why not.
Q.—You thought so. A.—Sure.
Q.—You thought there was something significant about it, being tied with a rope, did you? A.—Why, certainly.
Q.—What kind of a light did you have there in the store? A.—All lights were lit.
Q.—Now here at night, four years ago, on a dark suit you noticed dark spots. Can you tell us exactly where they were—that so? A.—Yes.
Redirect examination by Senator Simpson:
Q.—You said you knew that William Stevens spotted his clothes with food. How did you know that? A.—I did not say it was food, did I? I probably misunderstood the question. I did not know whether it was food or not.
Q.—You did not know what his table manners were? A.—No.
Q.—You had never dined with him? A.—No.
Q.—Or lunched with him? A.—No.
Q.—Or acted as his waiter? A.—No, sir.

TUMULTY ON STAND.

Peter Tumulty, who was the gardener at the Hall home in 1922 but is now employed as a gardener and as a part-time chauffeur by Henry de la Bruyere Carpender, one of the defendants not now on trial, was the next witness. Tumulty is a man of about 50 years, with a broad, open face, twinkling blue eyes and an Irish brogue. His examination went forward:

Direct examination by Senator Simpson:
Q.—Where did you work before you worked in your present employment? A.—Worked at Mrs. Hall's.
Q.—Mrs. Frances Hall, one of the defendants? A.—Yes.
Q.—When did you go to work for her? A.—About four or five weeks before the murder.
Q.—What was your work? A.—Gardener.
Q.—You did not drive the car? A.—No.
Q.—Did you have anything to do with the automobile? A.—Yes, I washed one.
Q.—Which one did you wash? A.—The Case car.
Q.—How often did you wash it? A.—Once.
Q.—Who washed the Dodge sedan? A.—I never seen it washed; I don't know.
Q.—How long did you work there as gardener? A.—About four or five weeks.
Q.—Then after the murder— A.—Oh, I worked there for pretty near two years, I guess.
Q.—And you never saw the Dodge sedan washed once during the two years? A.—Oh, yes, after that, I said.
Q.—I didn't ask you after it. Did you ever see the Dodge sedan washed? A.—Yes, I washed it later.
Q.—When was the first time you washed it? A.—Oh, I don't know what time it was; it must have been a couple of months after.
Q.—What month was it you first washed it in? A.—I couldn't tell you that.
Q.—Who told you to wash it? A.—I guess Mrs. Hall.
Q.—Did you ever wash the Dodge sedan before the murder? A.—No.
Q.—Did you see the Dodge sedan on the Wednesday preceding the murder? A.—Yes.
Q.—Where was it? A.—I seen it go out.
Q.—Who was driving? A.—Mrs. Hall, I think.
Q.—Was there anybody in the car? A.—Mrs. Hall, I think.
Q.—Did you see the Dodge sedan Thursday? A.—Yes.
Q.—What time did you leave there Thursday? A.—About 5.

Did Not See Car Return.

The witness said he did not know where the Dodge sedan was when he left, that he had only seen it going out in the morning at about 10 o'clock and had not seen it come back, he asserted, by the time he left at 5:30. The examination went on:

Q.—When did you see it on Friday following the murder? A.—I don't know that I seen it at all Friday; I don't remember.
Q.—You did not see it at all? A.—I don't remember that I did.
Q.—What else did you do all day Friday? A.—I picked up the celery.
Q.—Did you pass the garage at all? A.—No, I generally came in the back way.
Q.—That is, all day Friday you never passed the garage, according to you? A.—Well, I might have, I don't know.
Q.—Well, do you know whether the Dodge car was in the garage Friday? A.—I never noticed it.
Q.—Did you do anything at all on Friday? A.—No, sir.
Q.—What time did you come back Friday? A.—Between 6 and 7—half past seven in the morning.
Q.—And you did not see Mrs. Hall drive it out on Friday? A.—No, I don't remember that I did.
Q.—Have you ever driven either of the two cars? A.—I drove the Dodge sedan after that.
Q.—When was it after the murder that you drove the Dodge sedan? A.—Oh, probably a week or two.
Q.—You did not see Mrs. Hall take it out Friday? A.—No, sir.
Q.—And you don't know how long she had it out? A.—No, sir.
Q.—You cannot tell whether there was any car in the garage, whether the Dodge was in or the Case, or not, or any car was in? A.—No, sir.
Q.—What do you say about Thursday, that you do not remember Thursday either? A.—I thought it was on Thursday I washed the big car.
Q.—Was the Dodge in the garage on Thursday? A.—Oh, in and out.
Q.—When you washed the big car? A.—Yes, they were down town.

Did Not Wash the Car.

Q.—You are sure you did not wash the Dodge sedan on Friday? A.—No sir.
Q.—You did not have anything to do with it on Friday? A.—No, sir.
Q.—Or on Saturday? A.—No, sir.
Q.—How long after the murder was the first thing you had to do with the Dodge sedan? A.—It was a week after the murder; I had been down town for grocery and things.
Q.—Was any other man employed there who did wash the Dodge sedan? A.—No, sir.
Q.—Then I understand you to say that you never washed this Dodge sedan or never cleaned it from the time you went there to work until some weeks after the murder, is that right? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—So that you were working there probably two or three months before you ever washed that Dodge sedan? A.—It wouldn't be that long.
Q.—That is what I am trying to find out; how long was it before you washed it? A.—Oh, probably it was two or three weeks after the murder.
Q.—That is the first time you washed it? A.—Yes, sir.

"Can't Remember," He Says.

The witness described in detail the topography of the Hall grounds and then again denied washing the cars. He was then asked whether he had not testified, at the preliminary hearing, that the Dodge car was out on Friday. The defense objected but was overruled and Tumulty replied: "I do not remember that."

Senator Simpson pressed the witness hard at this point, the examination continuing.

Q.—Didn't you testify what I read you under oath—being asked: "When you say it was out, don't you know whether the Dodge sedan was out Friday or not" and your answer is: "Yes, it was out." Did you so testify? A.—I don't remember that.
Q.—You made a statement to the police, too, in this matter, didn't you? A.—Yes.
Q.—Dated Aug. 6, 1926, is that right? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—Did you state as follows under oath. "The last time I saw Dr. Hall alive was on the Thursday that I washed the big Case car." A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—"I think it was around 9:30 in the morning. The doctor was out in the yard and I was in the garden. He came down and asked me if I washed the big car, and I said yes. On the day after I washed the big car, the small Dodge car was standing in front of the Hall home and I did not see any one clean the car or use a vacuum cleaner." Did you make that statement under oath?
Senator Case—That is objected to.
The Court—It will be allowed.
Senator Case—Exception.
Q.—You say you did not see it at all now on Friday. Did you make the statement that you saw it standing in front of the house on Friday? A.—I guess I did.
Q.—Now, you know Mr. Di Martini? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—Did you see him around the place after the murder? A.—Yes.
Q.—Did he talk to you after the murder? A.—Just spoke, that is all.
Q.—Well, what did he say, merry Christmas? or take a statement from you? A.—What?
Q.—Just say "Good morning" or "evening," or something like that. That is all he ever said to you? A.—Yes.
Q.—He never took any statement from you or never asked you any questions about the movement of this Dodge car or the movement of Mrs. Hall on the night of the murder or the day after? A.—No.
Q.—How long was he around there while you worked there? A.—I suppose three or four weeks, I guess.

MRS. STORER'S TESTIMONY.

Mrs. Agnes W. Storer, organist of the rector's parish, the Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, since 1901, was the next witness. She testified that Mrs. Mills joined the choir about a year after Dr. Hall became rector in 1909.

The questioning follows:
Q.—Who was your soloist? A.—Mrs. Jordan.
Q.—When Mrs. Mills was soloist, what voice did she sing? A.—Soprano.
Q.—Did she have anything to do with selecting the hymns? A.—Not that I know of.
Q.—Who would select the hymns? A.—Mr. Hall.
Q.—Was she in regular attendance in the choir—quite regular in her attendance? A.—Very regular.
Q.—Do you remember the Friday night following the murder? A.—I do.
Q.—Was that a choir rehearsal? A.—I think so.
Q.—Where was it held? A.—In the church.
Q.—Did Mrs. Mills and Dr. Hall usually attend rehearsal? A.—Nearly always.
Q.—Did Mrs. Hall attend the rehearsals? A.—No.
Q.—Did you get any message from Mrs. Hall on Friday, the 15th of September, 1922, about the presence or absence of Dr. Hall at the choir rehearsal? A.—I did.
Q.—Where were you when you got the message? A.—In my home.
Q.—How did you get it, by telephone? A.—Telephone.
Q.—What was the message? A.—She said, "Will you take charge of the choir rehearsal tonight, as Mr. Hall will not be there"?
Q.—Did she tell you why? A.—I said, "Is he ill?" She said, "No; he is out of town."
Q.—Then you took charge? A.—I chose the hymns, and so forth, because he was be there?"
Q.—After the murder, did you have any conversation with Mrs. Hall in which you asked her why she told you he was out of town? A.—No.
Q.—So that when she told you Friday he was out of town and would not be at the rehearsal then you found out afterward he was murdered and you never asked Mrs. Hall, "Why did you telephone me Mr. Hall was out of town, when as a matter of fact he had been murdered the day before?" A.—I never did.
Q.—Although you had been to Italy with her? A.—Yes.

Invited to Italy by Mrs. Hall.

On that trip to Italy, the witness said, they were away from July 19 until October. Mrs. Bonner, Mrs. Hall's sister, accompanied them, she testified, Mrs. Hall defraying the expenses. Mrs. Storer was invited by Mrs. Hall to go, she asserted, and went as her guest. When the prosecutor asked again why Mrs. Storer had not asked Mrs. Hall to explain the telephone message that her husband was out of town the defense objected, and in the ensuing clash Senator Case remarked that "it is very kind of Senator Simpson to come down here and take care of Somerset County at large." The prosecutor replied heatedly: "I am trying to do nothing of the kind. I am trying to the best of my little ability to take care of murder. That is what I am trying to do."

The Court ruled that the question might be answered, the defense excepting. When the question was repeated the witness said:

"I did not. It never occurred to me to do so."

On objection by the prosecutor the Court ordered the second sentence of the answer stricken out.

Q.—Did you see Mrs. Hall frequently after the murder and the funeral service? A.—Not very often.
Q.—Did you see her at the funeral service? A.—I did.
Q.—Did you condole with her? A.—I had been there the day before to do that.
Q.—Where? A.—At her house on Sunday.
Q.—You did not see the body of your rector, did you, in the house on Sunday? A.—No.
Q.—Did you see the body of your rector in the church at the funeral services? A.—No.
Q.—Did Mrs. Hall at any time, either on the trip to Italy or at any other time, say to you why she had telephoned you on Friday after the murder that her husband would not be at the organ recital because he was out of town?
Senator Case—I object.
The Court—It may be answered.
A.—She did not.
Q.—Since she came back from Italy have you seen her quite frequently? A.—I have.
Q.—You are still organist of the church? A.—I am.

Gorsline Not in Choir Now.

Q.—Is Mr. Gorsline in the choir? A.—He was.
Q.—Is he now? A.—Not just now, no.
Q.—How long since he has been in the choir? A.—I don't remember exactly; just this Fall, I don't think he has been back at all this Fall.
Q.—How many members were there in the choir? A.—I should say sixteen or eighteen.
Q.—Can you point out on S-35 where Mrs. Mills sat in the choir? A.—Right here, end seat, in the left hand front stall.

Cross-examination by Senator Case:
Q.—Well, I understood counsel to address you as a Mrs. I take it that is a mistake? A.—It is a mistake. I did not notice it.
Senator Simpson—I beg your pardon. They told me it was Mrs.
The Witness—Yes, they always do that. All right, I did not notice it.
Q.—Miss Storer, you were a friend of Mr. Hall? A.—I was.
Q.—And you were a friend of Mrs. Hall? A.—I was—am.
Q.—Notwithstanding these experiences you are still a friend of Mrs. Hall? A.—Indeed, I am more so than ever.
Q.—And you are not ashamed of it? A.—I am very proud of it.
Senator Simpson—I object. This is a character witness. She may love Mrs. Hall dearly. It is not proper cross-examination.
The Court.—Yes; go on.
Q.—And on the evening of the choir rehearsal, I understand you to say that the practice was for Mr. Hall to be there? A.—Yes.
Q.—And superintend it? A.—Yes.
Q.—Giving the hymns that were to be used the following Sunday? A.—Yes.
Q.—And otherwise directing what should be rehearsed? A.—Even directing part of the rehearsal, as my back was to the choir at the organ. He did that to help.
Q.—And on the evening of Friday, the 15th of September, 1922, had you not received some word from Mrs. Hall, as you did, you would have gone to the rehearsal expecting Mr. Hall to be there and awaiting his coming, would you not? A.—I would.
Q.—And his not coming would have caused confusion had you not been prepared for it? A.—It would have delayed and caused a little embarrassment.
Q.—And you received from Mrs. Hall the simple message that Mr. Hall would not be there and asked you to take charge? A.—Yes.
Q.—And until you made an inquiry that was all that she said? A.—It was.
Q.—Then you said to her, "Is he ill?" A.—I did.
Q.—And she said to you, no, that he was not ill, that he was out of town? A.—Yes.
Q.—Now, you have been asked whether or not you made any inquiry subsequently of Mrs. Hall as to why she told you that? A.—I have.
Q.—You understood perfectly why she told you that, didn't you? A.—Absolutely.

Simpson's Objection Fails.

Senator Simpson objected to "what she understood," but the Court allowed the question.

Senator Case then asked:

"You would hardly have expected her under the circumstances to have explained to you over the telephone that Mr. Hall had been missing for twenty-four hours, would you?" The answer was: "I would not."

Simpson Takes Witness Again.

Q.—What did you understand? A.—Simply that he would not be there.
Q.—But what did you understand when she told you he was out of town—that she was telling you a lie or telling you the truth? Did you believe her? A.—I certainly believed her at the time. Afterword—
Q.—I don't care about afterward.

WARDEN MAJOR RECALLED.

James P. Major, Warden of the Somerset County Jail, who had testified last week, was recalled. He was questioned by the prosecutor as follows:
Q.—You attended the preliminary examination before Judge Cleary, didn't you? A.—I did.
Q.—And every day of that examination was the defendant, William Stevens, taken from the courtroom to the jail? A.—He was.
Q.—Was he taken through that door? A.—He was.
Cross-examination by Senator Case:
Q.—Did he ever back out? A.—He did not.
Redirect examination by Senator Simpson:
Q.—Did he ever stand for a moment talking, with his back to the door? Have you seen him here two or three days standing with his back to that door, talking for two or three minutes to some one? A.—Not when I could get him out.
Q.—When you couldn't get him out? A.—Sometimes talked to the lawyers.
Recross-examination by Senator Case:
Q.—Did he ever start here, where Senator Simpson sits, and back out through that door? A.—No, he walked out.
Q.—The conversation with the lawyers was over here at this desk? A.—It was.
By Senator Simpson:
Q.—The conversation was anywhere he wanted to hold it, wasn't it? A.—It was.

Recess for luncheon was taken and when court reconvened Senator Simpson, over the objection of the defense attorneys, read into the record the letters written by the clergyman to Mrs. Mills.

W. F. RANDELL ON STAND.

When this was finished the State summoned William F. Randell to the witness chair. Randell is a rural free delivery letter carrier and lives in Bound Brook.

Randell is about 30 years old. He had a positive air on the stand and under direct examination by Senator Simpson he testified that on the night of the crime he and his wife attended the performance at the State Theatre in New Brunswick. The direct examination continued:

Q.—What time did you come out of the State Theatre? A.—I think it was around 11:30 or quarter to 12.
Q.—Did you have a Ford car? A.—Yes.
Q.—After you came out of the theatre what did you do? A.—Went straight home.
Q.—When you arrived at Easton Avenue near Lyning Road, was your attention attracted to anything? A.—Yes, a parked car.
Q.—Where was it parked? A.—Somewhere between the Parker Home and De Russey Lane.
Q.—What kind of car was it? A.—A Dodge sedan.
Q.—Were the lights on or off? A.—They were off.
Q.—What about the curtains? A.—The curtains were all drawn.
Q.—What about the doors? A.—The door was open on the outside.
Q.—Would that be the side toward the woods? A.—That was the side toward the ditch.
Q.—As you approached it, were your headlights on the car? A.—My headlights?
Q.—Yes, did they shine on the car? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—Through the windshield on the Dodge car? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—What did you observe as to whether there was any one in it or not? A.—There was no one in the car.
Q.—You have had experience with cars, haven't you, you had that night? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—Did you have any doubt at all as to what make of car it was? A.—I had no doubt.
Q.—And about what time do you fix it when you saw this Dodge car with the lights out and the curtains pulled and no one in it standing in the position that you have described, with the door open toward the woods? A.—I think it was around 12 o'clock, or possibly a few minutes of or a few minutes after.
The Court—Which way was your car facing? A.—It was facing toward New Brunswick, on my left coming up.

Cross-examination of Randell.

Senator Case took over cross-examination. Up to that time the witness had been called "Randolph," but in response to the Senator he spelled his correct name. This witness, like several others who have been called, has defective hearing. The defense lawyer indicated that the State Theatre's closing time had been before 11:20 or 11:45 P. M., as the witness testified, but Randell insisted that he had the time right. Randell admitted that it was not unusual to see cars parked along the road at night.

The lawyer sought to get the witness to admit that the headlights of his car were thrown off and beyond the sedan as he approached it. Randell was not certain about that, but he was positive that he had seen a Dodge sedan in the lane. The witness said that he had not noted the license number.

Senator Case, raising his voice, approached the witness stand and in a series of rapid fire questions tried to get the witness to admit that reflection from the windshield of the parked car would have made it impossible to see whether the vehicle was empty or occupied.

"Is it possible," he asked, "for your lights thrown in a direct line against that windshield, with a black interior, for that windshield to have been nothing except a mirror to throw your lights back in your face?"

Senator Simpson objected that the witness was "no windshield expert." The Court sustained the question and the witness replied in the negative. He said he did not know how close his car had been to the parked car when he noticed it was empty. A long discussion of rays, reflections and the power of automobile headlights followed.

He Looked Into the Car.

Then Senator Case questioned as follows:
Q.—Did you look inside the car? A.—I looked in just before we got to it.
Q.—Why? A.—Naturally we want to see what we can see sometimes.
Q.—That is your answer: You wanted to see what you could see? A.—I am glad I didn't see any more.
Q.—Have you any interest in this case? A.—I have not.
Q.—Then will you answer my question? A.—What is the question?
Q.—You wanted to see what you could see? A.—I glanced in the car when I came past.
Q.—Give it any particular attention? A.—No, sir.
Q.—Did you see any cars parked alongside this road on your way home? A.—I may have.
Q.—And they may have had no people in them—may have had their lights out. Is that true—is your nod Yes? A.—Yes, sir.
Q.—But you do not know anything about them? A.—No, sir.

Senator Case then had the witness go over the location of the parked car again. He stressed Randell's admission that he had not thought the circumstances unusual enough to take the license number. The cross-examination ended with a statement from Randell that he had heard no screams or unusual noise of any kind.

Not in De Russey's Lane.

Q.—You were not in De Russey's Lane between 10 and 10:30, when it is specified the shots were fired?
Senator Case—I object to the question.
The Court—You were not in De Russey's Lane between 10 and 10:30?
The Witness—I was not.
Q.—What if anything, attracted your attention to the car that you have not mentioned in your examination by Senator Case? A.—Nothing more than my wife said as I came to the car, "I wonder what is going on here." I think I said that before in the last testimony.

CONKLING NEXT WITNESS.

Bogart T. Conkling, who was Sheriff of Somerset County at the time of the murder, took the stand. Mr. Conkling is a slight man, with a small tuft of bushy dark hair, deep-set eyes and prominent curved nose. His replies were given clearly and with a deliberation that suggested he had not forgotten accusations by investigators two months ago that he had refused to sign a correct transcript of a statement made by him at that time.

The former Sheriff was one of the first to arrive in De Russey's Lane

Organist Defends Mrs. Hall

discovery of the bodies. He was examined as follows:

Q.—When did you go with? A.—County Detective Totten, Dr. William H. Long and Joseph Novatto, Chief of Police of Raritan.

Q.—What did you observe as to the condition of the bodies; whether the clothing was arranged or disarranged; whether the bodies were laid out or whether they were lying as if they had fallen in that way? A.—Their clothing, as far as I observed or did observe, was in careless order, and I was not able to determine whether they had fallen that way or whether they had been killed and laid there.

Q.—Can you describe what the condition of the bodies was that you saw? A.—Their feet were toward the crabapple tree; their heads were toward this little path, which was pretty close to the cedar tree, and the feet were in a southerly or southerly direction.

Q.—Where was Dr. Hall's hand—was it by his side or under the woman's head, or where was it? A.—His left arm and hand was, to the best of my recollection, was on the side of his left limb, and his left arm and hand was to the side of the left arm of Mrs. Mills's left arm and under Dr. Hall's right shoulder.

Illustrates the Postures.

Senator Simpson had Conkling step from the stand and demonstrate the position of the arm of Mrs. Mills. No question was made of testimony of Captain Totten, then Somerset County detective, and others, that Mrs. Mills was lying on Dr. Hall's arm. Mr. Conkling told of the rector's Panama hat resting over his eyes, of the glasses and of the orderly arrangement of the clothing.

"I saw some letters and cards lying to the right of Dr. Hall's knee," he continued. "I should say between the knee and the hip. The bodies lay, to my notion, about three feet apart, and the letters were closer to Dr. Hall's body than to Mrs. Mills's."

He recounted gathering up the letters and cards with Mr. Navatto, but could not recall that Totten had picked up any. He remembered that he himself had picked up a cartridge shell near the head of the rector's head.

Senator Simpson then showed two automobile license cards, a Masonic card and a Y. M. C. A. card. The witness said: "I remember seeing this automobile driver's license card in a metal card case, but I don't recollect of seeing these other cards."

Objects to Court Stamp.

The prosecutor was about to proceed with the examination when the eye of Senator Case fell upon the stamp used by John P. Dengler, Jersey City court reporter, who is reporting the trial. Senator Case asked why the exhibits were stamped "Hudson County Courts."

"That is the stenographer, not me," said Senator Simpson, who agreed that the exhibits should be properly marked. The questioning of the Sheriff proceeded:

Q.—The only thing you remember is this calling card. This one—is that the one? A.—Yes.

Senator Simpson—I would like to have that marked separately.

The Witness—Your Honor, may I see that card?

The Court—Yes, you may.

Q.—Is that the one you saw? A.—To the best of my recollection, that is.

Q.—To the best of your recollection you did not see the Masonic card and you did not see the Young Mens' Christian Association card and you did not see the Motor Vehicle Registration card? A.—Not to my knowledge.

Q.—Are you the person who transported all the objects found at the place to the court house? A.—I did not bring them to the court house, to my best recollection.

Q.—Are you the gentleman who transported them from the scene where the bodies were found? A.—The articles which I have mentioned, I did.

Metal Rod at the Scene.

Q.—Did you to your knowledge carry any of the things that were picked up there? A.—No, sir, I did not.

Q.—Who else carried them besides you? I understood there was a rod or a piece of metal of some kind.

A.—A fishing rod? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Ahead. A.—A piece of rod or pipe.

Q.—Who carried that away? A.—I understand that Mr. Navatto had picked that up.

Q.—Did any one carry anything away from the body, to your knowledge, with the exception of this piece of pipe? A.—Not to my knowledge.

Q.—What did you do with these articles when you brought them to Somerville? A.—After we had left the grounds, Mr. Totten, Dr. Long, Navatto and myself going from the scene near the crabapple tree down the path to Dr Russey's Lane, we met an automobile driven by a man by the name of Lewis Siegel. Mr. Totten, to the best of my recollection, sat on the front seat; Dr. Long was in the seat directly back of me.

Q.—Now, I am not asking you for evidence, I am asking you if you brought these things to Somerville? A.—I did.

Q.—What did you do with them when you got to Somerville? A.—The car stopped in front of the court house and before getting out I handed the package to Mr. Totten.

Saw Florance at Scene.

Conkling said that he and Totten had been separated half an hour between the time they saw the bodies and the time he got the package from Totten, so that the exhibits had not been disturbed in his absence. Senator Simpson next asked who had been present when the bodies were identified. Conkling recalled that Senator Florance, who represented Mrs. Hall immediately following the murder, had been there. He could not recall who else was there but did not remember seeing Willie Florance.

Senator Case opened by eliciting from the witness that he had seen no one anywhere on the scene except under the bodies, and that there were no signs of a struggle.

Conkling went on tosay that he did not know who had called the undertaker, Luthpen, to the scene; that he did not know how many calling cards were strewn about the bodies, but that he had wrapped up those that he found, along with other articles, in a piece of brown paper. He said he had seen no money lying about. Neither had he seen Dr. Hall's gold watch and chain.

Senator Case showed the witness a photograph of the crabapple tree and, referring to the stenographer's stamp, remarked dryly that it bore the name of Senator Simpson's home county instead of Somerset County, where the defense lawyer resides and where the case is being tried.

He then tried to correct the witness's testimony that the body of Dr. Hall rested upon the outstretched arm of Mrs. Mills, rather than vice versa, but he could not shake Conkling, who would only say: "That is my recollection.

Senator Case concluded, and Senator Simpson took up again the subject of blood, but could not get Conkling to say definitely whether there was more about the head of Dr. Hall or Mrs. Mills. Then he sought more detail on the calling cards. The questioning went thus:

Cards of Same Size.

Q.—I show you those cards which seem to be identical with exhibit S-17: Is that the kind of cards you found and saw scattered around there? A.—Well, a card of similar nature: I am not positive. It was about that size.

Q.—Are you just as positive about exhibit S-17 as you are about exhibits S-75 and S-90? A.—Well, I am positive that the cards I saw there were very clean, with the exception of—

Q.—I didn't ask you that. Are you more sure about this than you are about the others, or do they all look the same to you? A.—Well, that card there is of the nature I saw there, or vice versa.

Q.—Didn't you, when you got these cards, wrap them up carefully? Isn't that a fact? Isn't it also a fact that you also saw some letters and cards that were scattered between the bodies, midway between the—

Senator Case—I object to that.—

Q.—The knees and the feet, and also two handkerchiefs, and took them up carefully—

Senator Case—I am objecting to this question.

Q.—And with the assistance of Novatto, rolled them in paper and handed them to Mr. Totten just about the time they were leaving the place? Isn't that what happened?

The Court—There is an objection to that.

Senator Simpson—I withdraw the question.

Q.—Is it a fact that this happened: you were a witness in 1922, weren't you, before the first grand jury? A.—Yes.

Sheriff Can't Recall It.

The prosecutor again put his question about the Sheriff's handling of the letters, cards and handkerchiefs, finally getting it admitted, only to run into another series of objections from the defense. The prosecutor made no attempt to conceal his irritation. Both he and Senator Case talked rapidly and loudly. Senator Simpson referring repeatedly to Senator Case as "the junior counsel," to the evident distaste of the latter.

Conkling said he could not remember having testified as the Grand Jury minutes indicated. "There are a great many errors in that, Senator," he declared, referring to the minutes.

He then told at length of what was wrong and what was right in the minutes. Senator Simpson came back with questions insinuating carelessness with the exhibits on the part of the former Sheriff.

A Byplay of Politics.

Another spat between prosecutor and defense lawyers ensued, bringing in politics. It went thus:

Q.—And you used as much care as you could, didn't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—You were Sheriff of the county then, the chief peace officer, and you wanted to get all the evidence you could, didn't you? A.—I was the Sheriff.

Q.—And you were the Sheriff of the party of which the Senator is boss, the Republican Party? A.—Yes.

Q.—The county of which the Senator is boss?

Senator Case—We do not use those terms in this county.

Q.—You were the Republican Sheriff, weren't you? And trying to be a good Sheriff and to see that the evidence was being preserved—weren't you? A.—I certainly was; and I am proud of it.

Q.—Certainly you were. You did not want murders of this kind committed in your county, did you? A.—I never want murder committed in any county.

Q.—That is all. Thank you, sir.

Recross-examination by Senator Case:

Q.—Sheriff, were you requested by the investigators from the county where bosses are known to go down here to the Police Headquarters and make such a statement in this case?

Senator Simpson—I object to that.

Senator Case—I should think you would.

Senator Simpson—Then why should he ask it?

Senator Case—To show you were not surprised.

Senator Simpson—That would not show surprise if he was asked to go to headquarters where bosses are known, in a heavenly county where bosses are unknown.

The Court—Let us get the evidence.

Senator Simpson—If there are no political bosses I would like to move up here.

The Court—Suppose you frame your question.

Q.—Were you requested by the present prosecutors—meaning these gentlemen who come here from Hudson County—to go down to the headquarters here on Main Street and make a statement? A.—I was.

His Tiff With Investigators.

Defense counsel thue succeeded in bringing in Conkling's affair with the investigators ostensibly to show that Senator Simpson could not have been "surprised" when confronted by Conkling's change of testimony. It also brought before the jury the fact that the former Sheriff alleges that investigators, whether by accident or otherwise, changed the statement he had given during the investigation which preceded indictments.

The examination went on:

Q.—And were you afterward handed a statement from some representative of them and asked to sign it as the statement made by you at that time?

Senator Simpson—I object to that. Of what evidential value is that? The State of New Jersey is not bound by any of these investigators.

Senator Case—I should feel sorry if the State of New Jersey was.

Senator Simpson—Those silly remarks of yours are quite appropriate from a junior counsel. The junior is only supposed to have the senior shine. I object to that. It has nothing to do with this case. Suppose he says, "Yes, I was asked to sign the statement," and then the contents of that statement are gone into. This is my witness. It is the State's witness.

The Court—If the defense can show that he made a statement which came to your witness, and which is substantially identical to what he has now testified on the witness stand, I suppose the defense might fairly claim you were not surprised.

Senator Simpson—Absolutely; but they cannot do this way. They have to show by this man that I saw the statement. They have to connect it up. They cannot begin up in the northeastern part of Morris County and slowly bring themselves down to Somerset County. If their contention is I saw his statement let them prove it by this man—which they cannot do. I have never seen his statement. If they can do that I haven't any objection to it—to him.

The Court—You may go on.

Denies Transcript Was Correct.

Q.—Was that paper that was handed to you a correct transcript of what you have stated in thet office before them, Mr. Conkling? A.—It was not.

Q.—And did you decline to sign it? A.—I did.

Senator Simpeon—I object.

Q.—Did you tell them what had actually come within your knowledge? A.—I did.

Q.—And did you tell them then what you told—

The Court—Does it appear that Mr. Simpson was there—

Senator Case—It is in evidence, your Honor, that the prosecutor was there, Mr. Bergen, the prosecutor, who sits behind Mr. Simpson now; Inspector Underwood, who sits here and hands everything to Mr. Simpson that he uses; Captain Walsh, who sits here right behind, and some others whose names at the moment I do not recall. I think I have brought it as close as we can to the State of New Jersey.

Senator Simpson—I object. It is of no concern unless it shows that it was not surprised when I said I was; of course, I understand they are lugging Hudson County into this for a purpose all the time, and if this jury is going to approve of murder, if it is going to approve of cutting a woman's throat because the evidence has been collected from Hudson County, why, it is time we knew it.

The Court—We do not care to go into this Hudson County question.

Conkling got another chance to talk and he asserted that the statement given to him to sign by the investigators was "very different" from what he had actually said. This gave rise to further objections on the part of Simpson, but they were overruled. Senator Case concluded and the prosecutor took occasion to declare that "they gave the witness the impression that I have been questioning his veracity. I have not questioned your veracity, Sheriff, at all."

Court adjourned till 10 o'clock Monday morning.

MRS. DUKE IN COURT TO HEAR HALL TRIAL

Schoolgirls, College Men and Persons of All Walks in Life Among the Spectators.

Special to The New York Times.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 13.—The trial of Mrs. Hall and her brothers for the murder of Mrs. Eleanor Mills is drawing persons of all ages and stations in life. High school girls, college students from Rutgers and Princeton, taxicab drivers and women of wealth and position seem to find in the court drama a common interest.

Among those who pressed their way into the crowded room todey was Mrs. James Biddle Duke, widow of the wealthy tobacco man who endowed Duke University in North Carolina. Mrs. Duke alighted from a limousine with liveried chauffeur before the Somerset County court house ehortly after court was convened at 10 o'clock. With her was her young daughter, Doris, clad in a tan frock and coat.

Mrs. Duke and daughter live two miles from Somervills at Duke's Park.

The Princeton game and the hunting season apparently detracted from the crowds at the trial this morning and the pair were able to obtain seats with the assistance of County Detective Joseph Hanion. Sitting near the rear of the room they peered at the pit.

A Somerville housewife sitting beside Mrs. Duke pointed out the defendants and their relatives. Mrs. Duke mumbled something and glanced at where Mrs. Sidney Carpender was seated beside the Rev. J. Mervin Petitt, successor of the slain rector. Mrs. Carpender, dressed as usual in black, arose just then, and waved her hand at Mrs. Hall, who had caught her eye from her position on the far side of the pit. She was followed by others of the family, including her husband, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Carpender. They were leaving, as is their custom, for lunch at their New Brunswick homes.

Mrs. Duke left a minute later with her daughter.

The main street of Somerville, which runs past the white marble court house, was jammed this morning with automobiles headed toward Princeton for the Yale game. Passengers on their way and again on their way home tonight stopped off in hundreds to inspect the ecene of the Hall trial. Many Princeton and Yale graduates squeezed into the court room for a few seconds.

WALKER SEEKS CUT IN DEBT SERVICE

Tells Lotos Club Diners He Hopes Survey Body Will Evolve New Finance Plan.

DEFENDS THE BUDGET

Dr. Butler Says Recent Election "Decided Affirmetively "Are Cows Democrete?"

Hope that his survey committee would suggest a plan to put the city's finances on a new basis was expressed last night by Mayor James J. Walker in a speech at a dinner at the Lotos Club, 110 West Fifty-seventh Street, at which he was the guest of honor. The Mayor declared that some way must be found to leasen the debt service item, which amounts to $137,000,000 in next year's budget, and explained that the size of this budget was caused largely by putting in it all items that could be anticipated instead of holding the budget down for political reasons and issuing special revenue bonds later for expenditures which should have been inoluded.

"The budget for 1927 is $474,000,000," the Mayor said. "This seems a tremendous sum and is an apparent increase over this year's budget of $37,000,000. The apparent increase is partly explained by the fact that it is an honest budget. It provides for all the expenses of government that we could foreaee.

"In the past it was customary to omit from the budget important items and, when the time came for paying the bills, to raise the money by the issue of special revenue bonds. This year about $5,000,000 of such bonds were issued and we had to place that item in the new budget because it was excluded from last year's budget.

"For next year we have provided in the budget $7,000,000 for repaving in all boroughs and $5,000,000 for the expenses of the Board of Transportation. Items which, if past custom were followed, would have been financed in great part by the issue of revenus bonds. The frankness and honesty of this budget make it look larger by comparison than former budgets, hut we ascertained the probable expenditures of the city and we made this budget all inclusive. We saved $500,000 in interest on bonds by doing this."

Many Items Mandatory.

Mayor Walker said that more than two-thirds of the budget was mandatory and that there was no way to prevent an increase of ths budget from year to year except by preventing the expansion of the city and curtailing its activities.

"Each year a reasonable increase is to be expected," he continued. "Ths increase for New York City has been less than in most of the other cities of ths State. In the ten years between 1916 and 1926 the New York City budget has increased 114 per cent. There have been corresponding budget increases in the up-State cities. The budget of Buffalo has increased 146 per cent. In these same ten years; of Binghamton 211 per cent., of Syracuse 157 per cent., of Rochester 139 per cent. and of ths city of Cortland 240 per cent."

Dr. Butler Springs a Joke.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of ths club, who was toastmaster, said that there was recently an election.

"Was there?" inquired a diner.

"I am sure of it." Dr. Butler replied, "because there was a great issue and that issue was, 'Are cows Democrats?' It was decided in the affirmative.

Mayor Walker commented on this when he spoke later.

"Dr. Butler declared that the election showed that all the cows were Democrats," he said. "That only evens things up, because all the bulls were on the Republican side."

Other speakers were Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, of the Carnegie Foundation and George Gordon Battle. At the speakers' table in addition were Chester S. Lord, Morgan J. O'Brien, Charles D. Hilles, Darwin P. Kingsley, Charles W. Price, Arthur E. Howe and J. F. Allen. Several hundred persons were present.

DR. C. C. NORTON BURIED.

His Widow Is Critically Ill in White Plains Hospital.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov 13.—The funeral of Dr. Carlton C. Norton, who committed suicide by swallowing lysol in the cellar of his home on Wednesday morning, was held this morning from his late home, 63 Maple Avenue. The Rev. Frank H. Simmonds of Grace Episcopal Church officiated and interment was in the family plot at Kensico Cemetery.

The widow, Mrs. Lillian R. Norton, who suffered burns about the face and hands while trying to wrest the poison bottle from his hands, and who Wednesday night took an overdose of veronal in an effort to induuce sleep, is said to be in a critical condition at the White Plains Hospital. Unconscious since Wednesday night, Mrs. Norton recovered consciousness late this afternoon and was reported to be resting more comfortably.

Mineola Firemen Hurt in Fall.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Nov. 13.—In a fire which damaged badly the residence of Dr. Frederick F. Schirok, tonight at Franklin and Harriman Streets, Fireman Harry Taylor, 24 years old, of the Mineola Fire Department, suffered a broken leg. Damage to the building was estimated at $10,000. Taylor, now in Nassau Hospital, was injured in a fall from the third floor. The fire began in the chimney, which had been cracked recently when the building was jacked up preparatory to moving it.

Aske Court to Permit Bernum Film.

Benjamin P. DeWitt, as attorney for the R. C. Pictures Corporation, began an action in the Federal Court yesterday to restrain the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey's Combined Shows from interfering with the distribution and exhibition of the picture play, "Bigger than Barnum." The complaint says the defendant instituted an action in Minnesota to prevent the showing of the play on the ground that it used the names Barnum and "Ranglin," the latter meaning "Ringling." The plaintiffs say the defendants have no property right to the name "Ranglin," and "Barnum" was the name of a national character, now dead, so that his name is free for use.

WILL SPEED UP ACTION ON GRADE CROSSINGS

Godley, at Meeting Wednesday of Mayor's Committee, Will Insist on No Delay.

Transit Commissioner Leon G. Godley announced yesterday that he had called a meeting of city and railroad engineers for next Wednesday morning to prepare plans for the elimination of the Long Island Railroad grade crossings in Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn. Mr. Godley is Chairman of the committee organized last week by Mayor Walker to coordinate the grade-crossing elimination project with any plans the city may have for other improvements in connection with the elimination.

The committee, which will meet at the offices of the Transit Commission, 270 Madison Avenue, will consist of representatives from the offices of James J. Byrns, Borough President of Brooklyn; Maurice E. Connolly, Borough President of Queens; the Board of Transportation, the Controller, the Board of Estimate and the Long Island Railroad. Mr. Godley said he would insist that the committee proceed immediately with plans for elimination of the crossings, at one of which five persons were killed recently.

Following the committee meeting, the commission will hold a public hearing to discuss the immediate installation of additional safety devices at the crossings, pending their elimination, and to consider the suggestion of District Attorney Charles G. Dodd of Brooklyn that automatic electric signals be used to supplement the present system.

Daughters of Jacob Dinner Dec. 14.

The annual dinner and entertainment of the Home of the Daughters of Jacob will be held at the Astor on Dec. 14. Mayor Walker and other city and State officials are expected to attend. Two thousand persons will pay $50 for tickets to the affair, and this money will swell the fund which provides for 500 aged inmates. The organization is in need of $100,000 for improvements and additional facilities at the home, and it is believed that this amount will be subscribed through the efforts of a special committee, headed by Mrs. Peter J. Schweitzer.

COL. REEVES CLAIMS PADLOCKING RECORD

New Jersey Dry Administrator Finds Court Reports Show 53 Decrees in His District.

Colonel Ira L. Reeves, who was appointed last Tuesday as Federal Prohibition Administrator for the State of New Jersey, a newly created district, outlined last night several of the different ways in which he was attacking illicit trade in alcohol. He said that the Federal court reports for the State showed that a total of fifty-three padlock decrees had been entered against places raided by forces attached to his office and under the direction of Colonel Earl McMannus, Chief Enforcement Agent. This, he believes, is a record for the United States.

Outlining his methods of enforcing the liquor laws, Colonel Reeves said that any aliens charged with violations of the liquor laws would be turned over to the immigration authorities in an effort to have them deported.

All cases, he said, in which it was found that labels on bottles had been counterfeited would be turned over to the Internal Revenue Department for prosecution for counterfeiting. He also intends to confiscate all real estate upon which any stills are found in operation.

GRIDIRON STARS ON STAGE.

Princeton Men to Begin Annual Tour in Trenton Dec. 15.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, Nov. 13.—Jacob Slagle, Dan Caulkins and Joseph Prendergast left the football field this afternoon for the footlights. Their football uniforms will be replaced by costumes of the Princeton Triangle Club chorus. The Triangle Club annually produces a musical comedy, written and acted by Princeton undergraduates. The scene this year is in Venice. The club will carry its prodnction throughout the country during ths Christmas recess.

The opening performance will be held in Trenton on Dec. 15. The itinerary is as follows:

Dec. 15, 16 17, Trenton; Dec. 18, Washington; Dec. 20, Baltimore; Dec. 21, Jan. 4, New York; Dec. 22 Pittsburgh; Dec. 23, Cincinnati; Dec. 24, Nashville; Dec. 25, Birmingham; Dec. 27, Memphis; Dec. 28, Little Rock; Dec. 29, St. Louis; Dec. 30, Chicago; Dec. 31, Indianapolis; Jan. 1, Cleveland; Jan. 3, Syracuse; Feb. 2, 5, 26, Philadelphia.

ORCH, TOMBS HERO, IS SHIFTED BY WALLIS

Keeper Who Defied Gunmen in Break Is Transferred to Welfare Island.

Louis Lorch, the hero of the attempted jailbreak in the Tombs, was summarily transferred yesterday by order of Commissioner of Correction Wallis to the penitentiary on Welfare Island.

Lorch was the gatekeeper at the main entrance to the Tombs when the three armed prisoners rushed at him and ordered him to open the gate. Lorch replied with profanity, defied the three pistols that were aimed at him, took the key out of the lock and ran toward the desperados, who began firing in all directions but failed to hit him. His courage baffled the attempted jailbreak.

The order to remove Lorch was unexplained. It was brought out, however, by the investigation of Assistant District Attorney Pecora that persons who should have been excluded at the door had been admitted to the cells and that the would-be jailbreakers had received visits in violation of the rules.

Mayor Walker said yesterday that he had deferred until Monday the publication of the report made by Comptroller of Accounts Joseph A. Warren into conditions in the Tombs, which is rumored to reflect severely on Commissioner of Correction Wallis. On Monday Mayor Walker will ask Commissioner Wallis to discuss this report with him.

HUNTER KILLS HIS FRIEND.

Schenectady Man Mistakes Companion for Deer in the Adirondacks.

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Foster N. Brunaghen, a young Schenectady man; was shot and almost instantly killed today by Miles Murray, another resident of Schenectady, while hunting deer at Military Pond, about fifteen miles from here.

Murray, who was a former resident of this section, invited Brunaghen to accompany him on a hunting expedition in the Adirondacks. They arrived last night and had been out this morning only a few hours when Murray, who had become separated from his companion, saw the bushes rustle a short distance from him, and raised his rifle and fired.

With the report of the rifle Murray heard an exclamation, and running to the bushes, found Brunaghen with a bullet wound through his body. He died in a few moments.

BRITISH STEAMER RAIDED.

Dry Agents Seize Liquor at Galveston Under Treaty of 1924.

GALVESTON, Nov. 13 (AP).—Customs inspectors raided the British steamer Asuncion de Larrinaga in dock here today and seized 389 bottles of liquor under what they describe as a hitherto neglected cause in the treaty of 1924 between the United States and Great Britain.

Officials said that the treaty stipulated that when a British ship cleare for her home port direct from the United States, all liquor on board except that called for in the medical certificate was liable to seizure.

MRS. SOPER ON TRIAL AS HUSBAND'S SLAYER

Essex County Prosecutor Says State Will Try to Show She Sought His Property.

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 13 (AP).—The taking of testimony in the second trial of Mrs. Fannie Soper of Bouquet for murder in the first degree began here today. The woman is accused of shooting her husband, Deputy Sheriff Henry Soper on May 23, 1925.

District Attorney O. B. Brewster of Essex County opened the trial with a preliminary statement of what the prosecution aimed to prove.

As to the possible motive for Mrs. Soper's alleged act, Mr. Brewster said the prosecution would attempt to show that Mrs. Soper sought her husband's property, believing that a will she knew had been made left it to her. A second will was found later.

Patrick J. Tierney, counsel for Mrs. Soper, declared that not only was there doubt as to Mrs. Soper having fired the fatal shot, but that the defense would present evidence directly contrary to such a contention.

The first witness for the prosecution was George H. James, civil engineer and surveyor, of Elizabethtown. He identified maps and plans he said he had prepared of the road passing the Soper home, the location of the house, and the surroundings.

Mr. Brewster then placed Clarence Underwood, photographer, of Elizabethtown, on the stand. He identified photographs he had taken of the exterior and interior of the Soper house, showing the position of the door, windows and the couch.

After the taking of Underwood's testimony the court adjourned until Monday.

FORD ADJUSTING PAY TO FIVE-DAY WEEK

All Workers in Blast Furnaces and Coke Ovens Now Receive Six-Day Rate.

92,466 INCREASES MADE

Process Expected to Be Completed by Spring—C. E. Sorenson Tells How the Plan Works.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Nov. 13.—In the first move toward the restoration of the wage scale of the Ford Motor Company employes which prevailed before the company's work week was reduced to five eight-hour working days per week, the company today announced that it had granted 92,466 raises in pay to its workers, and as rapidly as other adjustments can be made this policy will be extended to other departments Workers in blast furnaces and coke ovens are now on a five-day per week scale with increased pay, it was announced.

The exact number of employes now receiving as high a wage for five days as they did for six is not known. Edsel Ford, discussing informally the recent changes, said:

"Abont one-third of the men are working five days and receiving the same pay equivalent as under the former six-day system. One-third more are in process nf adjustment. With that done the remaining third will be cared for. The whole process is and must be gradual."

Charles E. Sorenson, an executive, was asked if he could name any specific tims when all the workers would be getting as much money as they were when the five-day plan was instituted. He said it was not possible to fix any exact date.

"It may be possible to complete it by Spring" he said.

The total of 92,466 represents in many cases several raises received by the same men. The increases range from 40 cents to $2.40 a day. Total raises at the Fordson plant so far this month total 5,429. Since May 1 the increases have numbered 46,426.

At the Rouge 1,267 increases went through Nov. 2, 1,158 Nov. 3, 746 on Nov. 4, 342 on Nov. 5. Up to Oct. 27 22,000 increases of 40 cents a day had been given, 5,700 of 80 cents a day, 481 of $1.20 a day, two of $2 a day and one of $2.40.

Ford officials, however, are one in contradicting the impression that the new week system means six days' pay for five days' work.

What it means is six days' pay when it is proved that the six days' work can be done in five.

The Ford Motor Company has not been publishing its production. This gave the trade an excuse to say the company had been so hard hit by competition that it considered it unwise to shout its losses in print. There also has been gossip nf large lay-offs of men.

"Our peak employment this year at Highland Park and the Rouge," said Mr. Sorenson, "has been around 100,000. We have 52,047 at the Fordson plant at present and 37,066 at Highland Park, a total of 89,113, or about 11,000 off the peak.

"Our peak production was 8,500 cars a day. We have been averaging 6,500 cars a day this year on a five-day basis.

"From a standpoint of manufacture, moreover, the past nine months have been the most ideal we've ever had. We haven't been compelled to put men on and lay them off because of an erratic production which would climb in one month and slump the next. For nine months we've held virtually to a steady line."

Mr. Sorenson was asked how much extra pressure would be required of the individual workman as a result of the five-day week.

"Very little," he said, "except that it will mean the elimination of those who don't want to work. There is no such thing as slave-driving. No company compels men to work for it. Men work for some concern of their own free will, and if they don't like conditions they get nut and find another job where they like the conditions better.

"Do you know what the Ford Company's daily turnover is for 99,000 men? Twenty-five at Highland Park and fifty Fordson. Where can that he equaled?

"Frequently some one gets up and announces that he knows Ford workmen are driven to physical exhaustion because he saw some one on his way home asleep in the street car. I've seen many men on their way to the office in the morning taking a little nap. We do not compel any one to work for us. That's beyond our power. I judge that men work for us because they wish to and because they are satisfactorily paid for doing so."

Worker's Use of His Leisure.

Henry Ford himself comments on the five-day week as follows nn his page in The Dearborn Independent this week:

"The five-day week has been considered heretofore largely in the cold light of business. It is good business, but it is just as sound from the spiritual standpoint. The Church will be one of its chief beneficiaries. But the Church has definite duties to perform as well as definite benefits to reap. There is a sharp line between idleness and leisure. Leisure to be effective must be properly directed. The church will receive rewards from this new leisure commensurate with the force it exerts in directing the intelligent use of it.

"The five-day week provides the opportunity for physical recreation on the sixth day and leaves the seventh free for moral and religious observation. It helps restore the Sabbath to its former high place. It means larger attendance at church.

"A great philosopher has said that religion is the conservation of values. It is more than that. It is the bulwark of the people. No one should be more jealous in his insistence upon the preservation of Sunday than the workingman. It has been in the past his one opportunity for moral and physical recreation.

"In recent years camonflaged interests at work nnder the name of 'liberalism' have been stealthily taking the day from him. For thousands Sunday the day of rest has been changed into Sunday a day of labor. The more the people take their pleasure on Sunday the more the people are compelled to work. Some of this Sunday labor is necessary, most of it is not. The five-day week by giving people the sixth day for physical recreation and the seventh for religious observance will go far toward bringing Christianity nearer to the people.

"It will open the door to great opportunities for service and the church will benefit to the extent it tekes advantage of these opportunities."

WOMEN DETECTIVES CAPTURE TWO MEN

One Gives Chase Down Broadway, Overtaking Man, Who Is Held for Shoplifting.

The sight of an attractive young woman chasing a man down Broadway in the vicinity of Thirty-third Street yesterday afternoon with cries of "Stop thief!" caused hundreds of shoppers to join in the chase. At Thirty-first Street the man was overtaken. The young woman explained that she was Miss Marie Rosanna, a store detective for Saks & Co., and that the man, who said he was Peter Lucas of 685 Sixth Avenue, had stolen a pair of fur-lined kid gloves valued at $5.95.

While the explanation was heing given, the prisoner made another breuk for liberty, but before he had gone more than fifty yards two men bowled him over. Then, with more than fifty others at their heels, they assisted Miss Rosanna in taking her prisoner to the West Thirtieth Street Police Station.

Lucas was araigned last night before Magistrate Maurice Gottlieb in Night Court. At the same time, another young woman, also a store detective for Saks & Co., arraigned another prisoner. He was Walter Lewis, who said he lived at the Mills Hotel, Thirty-sixth Street and Seventh Avenue. Ths detective, Miss Harriet Granville, exhibited a badly swollen right hand bound with adhesive tape, and when the Magistrate inquired the reason for the bandages, she explained that she had caught Lewis in the act of stealing two pairs of fur-lined gloves, and had been forced to knock him down before he would submit to arrest.

Miss Rosanna told the Magistrate that Lucas had eight previous convictions for shoplifting, but Miss Granville pointed to nine for Lewis. The two men were held without bail for the Court of Special Sessions.

EX-VILLA AIDE LEADS BAND INTO MEXICO

Armed With Machine Guns and Rifles—Rising of Dead Bandit's Followers Feared.

LOS ANGELES Cal., Nov. 13 (AP).—The Los Angele. Times's El Paso correspondent says General Nicolas Fernandez, former chief of staff of the late Pancho Villa, famous Mexican revolntionist and former outlaw, has crossed the border into Mexico near Bosque Bonito, accompanied by fifty other former Villa followers and carrying machine guns and a quantity of ammunition and rifles.

Despite the small size of his force, Mexican leaders were said to fear that it might grow to large proportions since thousands of former Villa followers are known to be working on ranches in the vicinity.

PLANS SERVANTS' UNION.

Boston Butler Expects to Enlist 5,000 Bay State "Help."

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—George W. Palmer of this city, whose experiences as hutler have enabled him to see society at close range in many Back Bay homes, is organizing a housemaids' union. Before he has finished he expects to include domestic help generally. A meeting of "help" has been called for Thursday night and Palmer expects to launch the "Massachusetts Domestic Information Bureau Club."

The cluh, if the Committee on By-Laws decides to let "George do it" as he sees fit, will strive for a five-day week for help, and its first step in this direction will be to seek an amendment to the forty-eight-hour week and the nine-hour day as it applies to women at present.

When asked how he expected to interest the politicians, Palmer said that 5,000 "help" are behind him and that 5,000 votes are interesting in any election.

The cluh plans to make itself a clearing house for domestic help, thus doing away with employment hureaus.

56 YEARS WITH THE ERIE.

Charles Lord, Port Jervis Conductor, Has No Intention of Retiring.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Charles Lord, a passenger train conductor who is one of the nldest employes of the Erie Railroad, has just rounded out fifty-six years of service railroad officials revealed today. He is said in that time to have traveled more than 2,000,000 miles.

Mr. Lord started as a brakeman in 1870 and a few years later became a conductor. For years he has run between Honesdale and Port Jervis and is known to thonsands of persons who travel on the railroad.

In spite of his long railroading career and his advanced age, he is very active. He told friends today he wonld rather be on active duty than have a pension and has no idea of retiring.

IDAHOAN RODEO CHAMPION.

Hugh Strickland Gets Award for All-Around Riding.

Hugh Strickland, a cowboy of Bruneau Valley, Idaho, was hailed as the all-round champion cowboy of the world at the close of the Rodeo at Madison Square Garden. The Rodeo, which closed last night, was put on for the benefit of the Broad Street Hospital end was successful in every respect.

The championship awarded to the best all-round cowgirl went to Tad Lucas, with Ruth Roach and Bea Kirnan in second and third places respectively. Miss Lucas, whose home is at Douglas Wyo., also won the cowgirl's bronco riding competition.

The individual prizes were awarded after the final events last night. Many valuable trophies and considerable money went to the winners.

CLOSES A SECOND BANK.

Missouri Takes Charge of Terminal Trust of Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 13 (AP).—With a cash reserve of $30,000 on deposit in the Federal Trust Company, which closed here yesterday, and warned by the State Banking Department to make good $44,000 in questionable paper, the Terminal Trust Company, a neighborhood bank, failed to open its doors today.

A posted notice announced that the Board of Directors had ordered the institution closed end placed in the hands of the State Finance Department.

The Terminal Trust Company had total assets of $617,739.33. Ths State statement of July 5 last showed it had deposits of $540,783.64.

RECALL MEMORIES OF CITY COLLEGE

WALKER PLEDGES AID

Alumni Prsise Him for Approving Appropriations—First Mayor to Attend in 25 Years.

Mayor Walker addressed the annual dinner of the Associate Alumni of the College of the City of New York at the Hotel Commodore last night, but reached the hotel from the Lotus Club so late that all of the diners had already left the ballroom and were in the corridors and check rooms. The Mayor arrived after 11:30 with Surrogate James A. Foley, a City College graduate, who had been sent to get him. The crowd, however, put back its hats and coats and trooped again into the ballroom, cheering the Mayor.

Judging from the prolonged laughter the alumni felt repaid when the Meyor read a few of the letters he has received lately at the City Hall. One suggested that inasmuch as he had been receiving bathing beanties, movie actresses and ship captains, he should agree to publicly receive "my fighting kangaroo from Australia." Another writer admitted he was without employment in Boston and wanted the Meyor to get him a job in the chorus of some show, as he had a beautiful voice. A third correspondent explained at length that he had to act as an usher at a weedding shortly and of necessity must wear a black derby hat. He wrote:

"Will you lend me one of yours just for the day, as it would be an extravagance to buy one."

The Mayor was credited with having made easy the way of City College by agreeing to the liberal appropriations the Board of Estimate gave the college this year. On this point the Mayor said:

"I wish that ths finances of the city would permit us to do for the City College all of the things it requires. If you will be a little patient we will make the grads for all of them in time. And if the Administration can only live up to the reputation that City College has given the City of New York, everything will be all right."

In concinding his speech the Mayor praised Nelson Stanley Spencer, President of the alumni association and the toastmaster, as one of the men he would call on to help make this a "better and happier city."

There were nearly a thousand at the dinner and it was the first in more than twenty-five years to be eddressed by the Mayor of the city. When Mr. Spencer told Mayor Walker this, the latter replied:

"I did not know that you had such e discriminating alumni."

The speakers of the evening devoted their talks largely to college affairs snd memories of the old days. It was the fiftieth anniversary dinner of the Class of '76 which originally numbering 210, had been redneed to 44 at graduation time end nf which only e dozen or so are now alive. That class was represented last night hy the Rev. Charles Knapp Clearwater. Other speakers were Bide Dudley, Albert Loewinthan, Class of '01, and principal of Puhlic School 30, Manhattan, and Frederick B. Rohinson, acting President of the college.

SEA GATE HOME RAIDED.

Police Seize Faks Liquor Labels and Plates.

Police Inspector James Fitzpatrick, of the Coney Island district with twelve men invaded Sea Gate last night, raided a private dwelling and arrested three men. The police seized $50,000 worth nf fraudulent internal revenue stamps, fake liquor labels and some etched copper plates. The prisoners said they were Wylie Joyce, 17 years old, of 4,107 Highland Avenue, Sea Gate; Thomas Perelson, 26, of 2,175 West Seventh Street, Brooklyn, and Frank Grabinsky, 23, Manhattan and Laurel Avenues, Sea Gate. They were locked up charged with having the frandulent stamps and with conspiring to defraud the Government.

The house raided was at 4,107 Highland Avenue. There was apparently no attempt at resistance. The police would not discuss the case because, they said, it was one belonging to the Federal Government. The prisoners will be arraigned in the Federal Court in Brooklyn tomorrow.

50 BILLION IN BANKS ASSURES GAY HOLIDAYS

Savings Deposits Are Put at $24,000,000,000—The Interest Earned in Year $800,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP).—A merry Christmas for the United States is assured by the heavily laden tills of America's banks, which are now estimated hy the Treasury to be holding shout $50,000,000,000.

Savings deposits in all banks totalled $24,200,000,000 on June 30, the latest date on which figures are available, and this is believed to have been increased by a billion dollars through additional Christmas accounts. The June 30 figure was higher hy $3,200,000,000 than a year ago.

The American public during the year has drawn down about $800,000,000 in interest on savings deposits, another new record.

ADVICE TO PEW OWNERS.

Rabbi Wants No Frowns to Greet Strangers in Synagogues.

Pew owners in synagogues should welcome strangers whom they find in their seats to help prevent houses of worship from becoming like theatres and shops, said the Rev. Dr. Simon Cohen, Assistant Rabbi of Temple Beth-el yesterday in his morning sermon.

"Let a stranger, venturing within its walls, dare to sit in the pew of a member and be found there by the owner, and what usually happens," asked the rabbi. "Is it the smile and word of welcome, or the scowl nf anger? Does it seem like the house of God when the visitor thet comes within its walls is completely ignored by the congregation, or when the congregation scarcely know one another? Ought society extend its sway to the houss nf God? Ought wealth be pre-eminent in the home of the Lord? When this takes place ws have no sacred place, but rather an npera house, where members have boxes which they may use or not as they see fit; or a theatre, where strangers throng to witness a performance; or a great emporium where goods are bought and sold, and can only be obtained by those who have the necessary price."

DANCER SUES FOR $100,000.

Ziegfeld Follies Girl Seeks Damages for Fall in Theatre.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13 (AP).—Alleging that a defective stairway had caused her to fall and receive what she feared are permanent injuries, Ruth Grace of New Orleans, a member of the Ziegfeld Follies company, who appeared here in October, filed suit today against the Nixon-Nirdlinger New Forrest Company, Inc., owners of the Forrest Theatre, for $100,000.

The dancer's statement set forth that she had tripped on a defective step while descending from her dressing room on the third floor to the second floor and suffered severe injuries to her back and leg, which may destroy the grace essential to a professional dancer.

Miss Grace has been confined to a hotel here since the accident, according to her attorneys.

TIRE MAKERS TO MEET CUT.

Akron Companies Are Prepared to Reduce Prices 15 Per Cent.

AKRON, Ohio, Nov. 13 (AP).—Akron tire companies are generally prepered to meet the price of an approximately 15 per cent. cut, effective next Monday, announced in San Francisco last night by H. S. Firestone, President of the Firestons Tire and Rubber Company. Few official statements were made but the understanding was that "all manufacturers will make the same cuts."

The tire market is steady and the only apparent reason for a reduction at this time is the desire of the menufacturers to reduce their surplus stocks by heavy Spring dating business which starts on Dec. I.

Malls nn Franconia Delayed.

The Cunarder Franconia is taking the place of the Aquitania, which has been laid off until January, and because of the difference in the speed of the two ships the British mails nf Nov. 6 will not be delivered in New York until next Tuesday morning. The Aquitanie's mails under normal conditions wonld have been sent out early yesterday afternoon. After one more trip to New York the Mauretania will be taken off and the Berengaria will continue in the service between New York and the Channel ports until the Aquitania leaves Sonthampton on Jan. 5.

RABBI LOSES ACTION FOR DRY INJUNCTION

Judge Winslow Refuses to Prevent Removal of Religious Wine From a Store.

CHARGE LIST WAS PADDED

Federal Attorney's Affidsvits Say Less Than 150 Out of 400 Named Were Entitled to Wine.

Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow declined yesterday to enjoin David H. Blair, Commissioner of Internel Revenue, and Major Chester P. Mills, Prohibition Administrator, from compelling Rabbi Jacob Weters, of the Congregation B'nai Lipner Ahawath Israel, to remove the sacramental wine for his congregation from a wine store at 124 East 107th Street. The injunction action had been brought by Rahhi Waters as a test case.

Assistant United States Attorney U. S. Grant presented to Judge Winslow affidavits setting forth that Rabbi Waters's list of heads of families in his congregation had been padded in order to obtain more wine than he was entitled to withdraw. The congregation worships at 212-214 Second Street. The list contained names of 400 heads of families allegedly entitled to sacramental wine. The Federal agents who made the affidavits said they had interviewed those whose names appeared on the list and had discovered that less than 150 were bona fide members.

One affidavit said that the Kozienitz Aid Society had never had more thay 120 members, whereas the rabbi's list credited it with 300 members. The affidavit set forth further that it was a fraternal and not a religious organization, that Rabbi Waters had no religious functions to perform in connection with the society and that Samuel Levine, former President and now financial secretary nf the organization, did not sign the paper which bore his name and purported to authorize Rabbi Waters to distribute wine among the members of the society. An affidavit by Mr. Levine corroborated the agent in stating that his name had been improperly used.

On Sept. 15 last Rahhi Waters obtained from Federal Judge Thomas D. Thacher an order to show cause containing a temporary restraining order against the Government authorities named in the action. The plaintiff then sought the temporary injunction which Judge Winslow yesterday refuse. to grant.

Major Mills submitted an affidavit saying that he had no intention of seizing the rahhi's wine provided he would remove it to a proper place. The affidavit alleged that it had been the experience of prohibition agents that sacramental wine stores were being used in many instances as a means of diverting the wine into illegal channels, due to the fact that almost every sacramental wine stors then in the city was not under the direct supervision nf the rahhi who had received authority to distribute the wine, hut was in charge of persons who were not authorized to distribute it.

General Andrews, in a letter to Major Mills, said it was his purpose to eliminete the sacramental wine store and to require that the distribution of all sacramental wines be under ths direct supervision of rahhis.

D. L. MILLER SEEKS DIVORCE.

Port Chester Y. M. C. A. Secretary Names Physicsl Director.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Papers in an action for divorce brought by Donald L. Miller, General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. here, were served last Thursday on Mrs. Irma Bohm Miller at 261 West Twenty-first Street, Manhattan, it was learned here today. Benjamin Newall, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., was named as corespondent.

The Millers were married in Mansfield, Ohio, five years ago. Mr. Miller has been Secretary of the local "Y" for more than a year. While in this city Mrs. Miller was prominent in social work in the Summerfield Methodist Church. Newall, who has been physical director in several Y. M. C. A.s in New York State came here from Yonkers about Sept. 1.

Two Hold Up Grocery Store.

Two young men, apparently unarmed, stole $213 from an Atlantic and Pacific store at 4,020 Avenue U Brookiyn, last night after driving the clerk, John Hummelman of 785 Eighth Street, Brookiyn, into a back room. Hummelman gave the police good descriptions of both men.

SAYS COAL WILL COME FROM ARCTIC BY AIR

Commander Byrd Plans to Explore Supposed Coal Fields There and Claim Territory.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13 (AP).—Before forty years have passed, the United States will be hauling coal from Arctic regions in airplanes, Lieutenant Commander Byrd, first aviator to fly over the North Pole, predicted here today

He based his prediction upon the premise that advances in the airplane industry undoubtedly would soon produce flying machines of almost ebsoluts safety and suitability for heavy commercial use.

Commander Byrd expects in the near future, probably next Summer, he said, to fly again to the Arctic regions and claim for the United States some million acres of uncharted land north of Siberia and Alaska, where, it is thought, there are many rich coal fields.

He also plans a trip to the Southern Polar regions for the purpose, he said, of "popularizing" transarctic airplane travel.

FIREMAN HURT IN CRASH.

Joseph Gerrity Thrown From Engine in Collision With City Bus.

Fireman Joseph Gerrity of Engine Company 30 suffered a fractured leg last night when the engine collided with a Department of Plant and Structure. bus at Varick and West Houston Streets. The engine, commanded by Captain Louis Grave and driven by Fireman John Ewing, was going north on Varick Street, responding to an alarm from Christopher Street and Seventh Avenue. As the machine came to the intersection nf West Houston and Varick Streets, the hus operated by Adolph Reiner of 245 Third Street, started to cross, going west on West Houston Street, despite the fact that the engine had its siren going and the traffic signal light gave it the right of way.

The engine crashed into the hus, swung it round and struck a scaffolding on the northwest corner of the streets. Gerrity was thrown from the engine and other firemen were cut and hruised when they were thrown or jumped. Reiner received a summons for reckless driving.

FINDS LABORER GRACEFUL.

Max Kalish, Sculptor, Says American Equals the Greek Gods.

In the American workingman the modern artist has a subject as graceful as any of the ancient Greek gods, in the opinion of Max Kalish, the sculptor, who has just returned to New York after a year abroad. The future of great art lies in America and it will deal more and more with industrial subjects, he said yesterday, showing some of his work which will be exhibited for two weeks at the Ferargil Gallery, 37 East Fifty-seventh Street, beginning Nov. 22.

"Not religion or beauty but engineering and industry are moving the world," he said, "and the true artist must express himself in terms of his own age. I have been developing the labor subject, the man who toils. And I find him as fine a subject, as graceful a pose, as anything possessed by the Greeks, the Gothics or any of the other academic schools nf the past."

In his first New York showing the American sculptor will have thirty-five marhles and bronzes, most of them from fifteen to eighteen inches high.

STILL DISCUSS COOLIDGE.

British Press Regretful and Ironic nn Kansas City Speech.

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP).—The British press continues to comment on President Coolidge's Kansas City speech. The Sunday observer realizes regretfully that there is no present hope nf American participation in the World Court, but et the same time sees thet real guarantees for stability in the world will continue to exist, as Premier Bruce of Australia had declared in his Waltsr Hines Page lecture, though not in documentary form.

The Sunday Times, in a somewhat ironical editorial, makes allusion to Mr. Coolidge's "tone of moral superiority," and declares:

"Eventually America must learn by the stern logic of events that her problems and Europe's cannot be separated."

FIGHT FALL-SINCLAIR MOVE.

Government Opposes Supreme Court Review of Appsals Decision.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP).—Opposition tp the appeal of Harry F. Sinclair and Albert B. Fall in the conspiracy case involving the Teapot Dome oil leases was filed by the Government today in the Supreme Court.

Fall and Sinclair asked for a review of the District of Colnmbia Court of Appeals decision, which dismissed a plea for quashing the indictment. The Appeals Court acted under a law depriving it of jurisdiction and Fall and Sinclair appealed the ruling on constitutional grounds. The Government argued that the appeal was based nn "irrelevant propositions of law."

Fall and Edward L. Doheny are to face trial here Nov. 22 in another case growing out of the nil leases.

DENTISTS TO HONOR DARBY.

U. of P. Alumnl Plan a Chair of Operative Dentistry.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—With the purpose of endowing a chair of operative dentistry to be one of the first in the world, the Philadelphia alumni of the University of Pennsylvania's School of Dentistry will begin a campaign for $200,000 on Monday.

The chair will bear the name of Edwin Tyler Darby, Emeritus Professor of Operative Dentistry in the university.

Dr. Darby, a pioneer in dental education, is still actively working for the School of Dentistry at the age nf 81.

Graduates of the School of Dentistry in all parts of the world will be asked to participate.

CITY BREVITIES.

The formal opening of the Shield of David Home for Orphan Girls, 718 Bryant Avenue, near Hunt's Point Avenue, the Bronx, will take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Justice James C. Cropsey will be the guest of honor at a luncheon to be given by the Alumni Association of the New York University Law School at the Lawyers' Club, 115 Broadway, next Tuesday.

Hiscock, and the retiring Presiding Justice of the Appellate Division of the First Department, John Proctor Clarke; the speakers, Chief Judge-elect Benjamin N. Cardozo, Justice Victor J. Dowling and Martin W. Littleton. Judge Seabury will preside.

A special program of speakers who have distinguished themselves in the field of letters will eddress the Authors' Night Meeting of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, 32 Court Street, Brooklyn, on Thursday night. Among the speakers will be Cosmo Hamilton, Herbert Adams Gibbons, Joseph Auslander, Harry A. Franck, Fulton Oursler, Faith Baldwin, Sol Rothchild, Genevieve Taggard and Gordon Macreagh.

TRIES TO DIE, EATS BUTTONS

Orange Prisoner Also Swallows a Package of Matches.

ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 13.—Harold Goodwin, 24 years old, attempted suicide tonight in his cell at Police Headquarters by ewallowing his collar buttons, cuff links, such clothes buttons as he could quickly detach and a package of cardboard matches, according to the police. His alleged reason was that his bride of four months had involved him in matrimonial and legal troubles.

Goodwin and his wife, Louise, 22 years old, came here about four months ago from Nashna, N. H., to be married. The couple lived with Mrs. Joseph Tucker at 134 Park Street, Orange.

On Oct. 22 Goodwin is reported to have told his wife that the sea was calling him and asked her to join him in seeking work on a coastwise barge. She refnsed and he ranesacked the Tucker home, took $46 in cash and some small articles and left, the police allege. Goodwin returned on Nov. 3 and there was a reconciliation, hut on Nov. 11 he again left home, this time taking $10 belonging to Mrs. Tucker, according to the police.

Goodwin came home again last night, but this time his wife notified the police and he was locked np. This morning Goodwin was held in $1,000 bail by Police Judge John I. Burke for the Grand Jury on two charges of breaking and entering.

After being found semi-conscious in the cell Goodwin was taken to the Orange Memorial Hospital, attended there and removed to the Essex County Jail at Newark.

NORTHPORT CASHIER DIES.

A. F. Laughlin Slashed Throat in Brooklyn a Week Ago.

Special to The New York Times.

NORTHPORT, L. I., Nov. 13.—News of the death of Anthony F. Laughlin, cashier of the First National Bank of Northport, in Kings County Hospital, today was received here this afternoon. Mr. Laughlin attempted suicide a week ago by slashing his throat with a razor while in the Sylvan Electric Baths at 120 Schermerhorn Street, Brooklyn, where he had been receiving treatment for a nervous disease.

Mr. Laughlin was born in Maine fifty years ago and came to Northport at the age of 25. He began wprk here as a bookkeeper for the Edward Thompson Company and remained with them for about ten years. Later he worked for the Northport Lighting Company. He entered the employ of the bank as a teller and nine years ago was appointed cashier. He leaves a wife and two young daughters.

YUGOSLAV AGITATION AGAINST ITALY GROWS

Large Demonstrations Are Held Against the Fascisti and for the French.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BELGRADE, Nov. 13.—The Italian agitation caused by the reported Fascist arrest of the minority Deputy Wilfan grows, with the chances of Parliament ratifying the Nettuno accords diminishing accordingly. The movement is especially strong in Slovenia—the Slav minority in Italy being composed of Slovenians—and large demonstrations against the Fascisti and for the French are reported today in Ljubljana, the capital of this province.

The Government is having difficulty in preventing its hand being forced by the Opposition, which has proposed a Parliamentary resolution protesting against Italian treatment of the minority. Foreign Minister Nincitch is following a conciliatory policy, but it is doubtful if he can secure ratification of the conventions—which he insists is overdue—unless Rome consents to modify the most criticised clauses, such as those allowing Italians to buy property in Dalmatia.

The Opposition charges that Italy is trying tn isolate Yugoslavia and hinder her in reaching an outside ally. Bulgaria. The Croatian leader, Stephan Raditch, whose party sequence is feeding the anti-Fascist agitation, is to have an audience with the King, who, it is believed, will try to calm him.

NEW POST FOR GEN. NOLAN.

Named to Command 5th Corps Area With Headqusrters in Ohio.

Major Gen. Dennis E. Nolan, commanding the First Division with headquarters at Fort Hamilton, Brooklyn, has been named to command the Fifth Corps Area, one of the largest of the nine geographical districts into which the United States is divided.

An announcement from Governors Island yesterday said General Nolan, who is temporarily in Europe visiting the Disarmament Conference in Geneva, will depart for his new headquarters at Fort Hayes, near Columbus, Ohio, immediately upon his return here next month. A brother of both the D. S. M. and D. S. C. won, General Nolan had a praiseworthy record in France as chief of the A. E. F.'s intelligence force.

and broke up their parade temporarily. The radicals re-formed their ranks, improvised supports for their bedraggled banners nad continued to the station.

They took up a position on the sidewalk where the Queen's party must pass, a block from the station. As Queen Marie's car came abreast they set up a jeering, which for the moment drowned out the cneers of others in the crowd lining the royal party's path. The jeers drew attention of members of the party to a huge sign the Communists held, reading: "Down with oppression, murder and torture."

Another sign stretching across the sidewalk, said: "Queen Marie, remember Cotzfanesti." Cotzfanesti is the nsme of a town in Rumania alleged in the communist press here to have been the scene of débauches participated in by members of royalty.

"Down with Queen Marie, oppressor of Bukovina and Bessarabia," read a placard. "Twenty-five hundred political prisoners rot in Rumanian jails," read another. Still another said: "Rumanian workers and peesants are paupers, while Queen Marie spends thousands in a useless trip."

Qneen Seems Undisturbed.

After the royel procession had passed the radicals fell in behind and marched rapidly to the City Hall. The Queen, the Prince and the Princess and their entourage had entered and gone up to the Mayor's office for the city's official welcome by the time the parsders arrived. They went to one of the rear doors and forced their way in, while a troop of policemen ran up to intercept them. The police forced them out, errested e handful whom they took to be leaders, and ihs rest dispersed.

The Queen seemed undismayed by the jeering on the street and was serene when she entered the Drake Hotel for a private dinner given by the Chicago welcoming committee. Later at the same hotel, she was guest of honor at a public reception.

Queen Resents en Advertisement.

Queen Marie was indignant today when the advertisement of a New York millinery house, bearing a photograph of the Queen and reproducing a letter from Mme. Simone Lahovary, one of her ladies-in-waiting, thanking the firm for two hats it had presented to the Queen, was brought to her attention. The letter, reproduced in facsimile, was written to Mesdames Oct. 23. The Queen let it be understood that she deeply resented the publication of this letter in an advertisement as an effort to exploit her name for commercial purposes.

It was made known by friends of the Queen that she had rejected offers totalling more than $200,000 from various commercial institutions wishing to use the Queen's prestige in the indorsement of their products.

It was stated on behalf of the Queen that the letter written by Mme. Lahovary to the New York millinery house was a routine matter of courtesy and that the Queen, unfamiliar with the enterprising methods of American advertisers, and Mme. Lahovary, similarly uninformed of such methods, had no idea that commercial use would be made of the letter. Several such letters have been sent out from the Queen's suite in acknowledgment of many gifts nf all kinds, which have poured in on the Queen, but the millinery advertisement is the first example of commercialism of such letters to be brought to the Queen's attention.

On behalf of the Queen it was stated that hereafter no written replies will be made to the donors of gifts, and if acknowledgment is sought it will be verbal, and will be obtained only by calling on one of the Queen's ladies-in-waiting.

Qneen Will Visit Florida.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 13 (AP).—Queen Marie will make a trip to Florida before she leaves the country, it was announced on her train today. Previously it was planned for Marie to sail for home on Dec. 24, but there are indications that she will depart at least two weeks earlier and be able to spend Christmas at home.

Dates of her passage through Virginia, the Carolinas and Georgia will be contingent upon the possible change in her sailing date. Details of the Florida trip have not yet been worked out with officials of the Atlantic Coast Line, over which the party will travel most of the way. Negotiations still are pending also with the Southern Railway, which nas refused to transport the special train at nominal cost. Tentative plans call for a motor trip from Columbia, S. C., to Asheville, N. C., on the return trip.

Queen Marie will go to Atlantic City from Washington while Prince Nicholas and Princess Ileana are at the football game in Chicago. They will unite at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., on Nov. 23, and it is probable that the Southern trip will begin from that point.

Queen Marie stopped here nearly two hours today to place a wreath on the tomh of Abraham Lincoln. Rain, falling steadily eli morning, stopped just before the royal party reached Springfield, and clear skies greeted the visitors.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Nov. 13 (AP).—The Florida East Coast Railway, in conjunction with its connections north of Jacksonville, today extended an invitation to Queen Marie to visit the East Coast of Florida on the same transportation basis as in other parts of her American tour.

ROBBER IN QUEEN'S HOTEL.

St. Louis Detective Says Prisoner, Escaped Convict, Planned Hold-Up.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 13 (AP).—Maurice O'Flaherty, aged 17, who was arrested here today, planned to stage a hold-up in the apartment of Queen Marie at the Coronado Hotel, according to Chief Detective Kaiser. A loaded gun was found in his room at the hotel.

O'Flaherty admitted he escaped from the Mansfield, Ohio, Reformatory after being convicted of robbery in Cleveland. He denied eny intention of robbing the royal entourage.

"This young O'Flaherty is a 'publicity hound'," said Detective Kaiser, "and in my opinion, he came here specifically to stage a hold-up in the hotel rooms where the Rumanian Queen and her party were making their headquarters."

Queen Marie was in St. Louis on Friday.

MARIE ASKED TO SEE HEN.

Pride of Blue Grass County Is Named After Queen.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 13 (AP).—The Blue Grass country is resting its hope on a cackling hen to help persuade Queen Marie of Rumania to visit this region. The hen, a namesake of the Queen, has laid 299 eggs since Dec. 1, 1925, and her backers believe she will pass the 300 mark and set a world's record.

E. T. Foster, of Lexington, interested in getting her to visit the Blue Grass wrote to Queen Marie about the hen, which is at the experiment station of the University of Kentucky.

HUNDREDS VISIT NEW ARTISTS' SHOW

Attend Private View and Tea of Society's Eighth Annual Exhibition.

PAINTINGS OF MANY LANDS

Works Combining Tendencies of Almost Every School Are on View.

Several hundred members of New York society and art circles thronged the Grand Central Galleries yesterday afternoon for a private viewing of the works of the New Society of Artists. The affair marked the "varnishing day" of a three-week exhibition at which nearly forty of the leading artists of the East are represented by works combining tendencies from almost every school of painting. All of the paintings are shown this year for the first time.

The exhibition is the New Society's eighth annual showing, and the five rooms of etchings, pastels, water colors and oils, assembled from members' artists who have spent the last year painting in nearly every part of the world, were characterized by critics as the most satisfying presented since the society's formation.

Long lines of visitors were attracted by a memorial collection of etchings, lithographs and pastels of the late Joseph Pennell, a member of the society, who died last year. His soft-toned pastels, including "Vanishing Venice," "Purple Afternoon" and "Evening Glow" were the subject of wide comment. The etchings covered industrial and nature subjects of two continents.

The space and attention paid to drawings in water colors and pastels is unique in the society's history. "In all of our exhibitions heretofore everything except oils has been relegated to a small corner, almost disregarded altogether," Gari Melchers, Chairman of the society, said. "This year we determined to give them a square deal."

So prominent a place do they hold that of the five rooms devoted to the exhibition, only two are given over to oil paintings. Mr. Melchers denied, however, that the drawings and water colors are "played up" because these mediums have enjoyed a sudden gain in popularity over oils. "It is just an experiment," he said, "and may not be repeated. We wanted this exhibition to be something new, unlike anything we have ever presented before."

When the society was organized, Mr. Melchers explained, its members were chosen from leaders who represented the best in all tendencies of art. No outstanding school is represented in the present showing of 250 pieces. The fashionable throng of guests at the "vernissage" saw no emphatic examples of impressionism or other modern movements, but they saw numerous evidences of modernism combined with most conservative tendencies.

Although 90 per cent. of them live in New York, contributors to the exhibition have painted their subjects on four continents. Jonas Lee, noted as a painter of nature and marine scenes, is now working in Oslo, and has two Norwegian water colors which attract attention. Paul Dougherty, who has been painting in Africa and Europe this year, is showing eight oils, water colors and pastels. From Ireland, where he has bought a home, Robert Lent has sent three child studies, his favorite subjects, in oils.

A half dozen of the artists have done much of their work of the last year in Paris. Four colorful works of Guy Pene du Bois, who represents more modernistic tendencies, created much discussion at the viewing. Three of them, "Cafe Madrid, Spain," and two restaurant scenes were lent by Chester Dale, and the fourth, "The Open Box," by Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

Frederick C. Frieseke, whose figure studies of women, usually in striped gowns, have made him widely known, has three such oils and two water colors in the present exhibition. Many viewed his "Girl Dressing Her Hair," a large painting in which the subject's black and white striped gown was a prominent characteristic.

The one entry of Albert Sterner, society portrait painter, drew favorable comment from many critics. It was his representation, "Mary Hall as Lady Macbeth." John Sloan has an entry list in oils ranging from "Little Beach, Santa Cruz, N. M.," to "Grand Central Station." Reynolds Beal's admirers had an opportunity to view a series of ten water colors and oils, most of them dealing with yacht racing, his favorite topic on canvas. "Yacht Race, Annisquam," a water color, was especially admired.

Randall Davey, specialist in portraits of the "hill people" and in animal water colors, is well represented with "Captain Dan Stevens," "Spring" and others. Mr. Melchers, the society's Chairman, has a variety of entries, in his big oil, "The White Church," a christening scene in a Gothic edifice. Hands out for the casual spectator. Jerome Myers is one of the biggest exhibitors, with a list ranging from "Street Carousal," a pastel, to an oil, "In Lower New York." Ernest Lawson's "Young Trees," W. Elmer Schofield's "Morning Tide" and others received comment. Mrs. Gertrude V. Whitney has a portrait head in marble.

Others among the New Society's forty-two members exhibiting are: Chester Beach, with "The Surf" and half a dozen additional works; Gifford Beal, A. Stirling Calder, Robert Chanler, Glenn O. Coleman, Andrew Dasburg, Samuel Halpert, Leon Kroll, Sidney Lever, Dodge Macknight, Elie Nadelman, Charles Prendergast, Van Deering Perrine, Edmond Quinn, Boardman Robinson, F. C. R. Roth, Maurice Sterne, Abbott Tarbell, Mahonri Young.

More than seventy-five persons prominent in society and business in this city and elsewhere were on the Varnishing Day Committee and most of them as well as a big list of invited guests attended the reception and tea, at which Mrs. Clarence Woolley poured. On the committee were:

PART OF LAKE DROP ASCRIBED TO CANADA

Its Withdrawals for Power, in Addition to Chicago Canal, Lower Level, Engineer Says.

HUGHES LIMITS NEW YORK

He Bars From Diversion Hearing in Washington Testimony on State Claims to St. Lawrence Power.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP).—Attacking testimony of the six plaintiff States described as the nub of the lake level controversy, counsel for the Sanitary District of Chicago today adduced evidence at the Supreme Court chancery hearing before Special Master Charles E. Hughes that discontinuance of its drainage diversion alone would not restore Lake Michigan to the level recorded prior to the opening of its canal in 1900.

On cross-examination, Lieut. Col. George P. Pillsbury, Superintendent of the Federal Government's Lake Survey office at Detroit, testified that other Great Lakes withdrawals, particularly through the Welland Canal for Canadian power development, contributed to the lower levels at issue, and that so long as such artificial channels were maintained the natural water level could not be restored.

Deputy Attorney General Randall J. Le Boeut Jr., counsel for New York State, in redidect examination of Colonel Pillsbury emphasized, however, that the Welland withdrawals from Lake Erie, fixed at about 3,000 cubic feet a second, were returned eventually to the natural watershed, whereas Chicago's withdrawals from Lake Michigan, estimated at about 8,500 cubic feet a second, were permanently diverted from the natural flow to the St. Lawrence to the Mississippi system.

Reduction Put at 13-100 of Foot.

Colonel Pillsbury testified that the Welland withdrawals, for both navigation and power projects, reduced the lake levels 13-100 of a foot. Previously he had testified that the Chicago diversion reduced the level of Lake Michigan about 6 inches.

Opponents of Caicago launched an attack from a new formation today by presenting testimony bearing on the influence of supsurface drainage on crop yields and land values. The defense was unprepared for such testimony.

S. A. Norling, a Minneapolis consulting engineer, testified the six-inch fall in laks levels, charged to Chicago diversion, lowered the level of subsurface water available to crops by the same amount on land adjacent to the lakes and their tributaries.

In answer to a hypothetica' question, he estimated a six-inch drop in the subsoil water level would reduce land values 25 to 35 per cent.

Testimony in support of New York State's claims to water power potentialities in the St. Lawrence River will be excluded from the present hearing, according to a rul...g by Mr. Hughes, which confines the Empire State's case to issues presented in Wisconsin's original proceeding against the sanitary district of Chicago. This may lead to furthsr court action centred upon power issues, for it limits New York's presentation of evidence on questions of navigation.

New York's power claims are not prejudiced by ths ruling and counsel are prepared to continue in the present hearing, offering as much evidence as is admissible and reserving power rights for a later action, should ths decision in the Wisconsin case leave the law on the power issues still to be determined by the Supreme Court.

New York was permitted to join Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania in the proceeding because its action against ths Sanitary District was similar to that initiated by ths other States.

Mr. Le Boeuf explained that the principal interest of his State was in the navigation phases of the action, but that the power rights were of sufficient importance to warrant separate action should ths Wisconsin decision leave the situation unclarified as to power rights.

By agreement of counsel the hearing before Mr. Hughes will bs adjourned next Wednesday until Dec. 1. After a two-day session for completion of the complainants' case, adjournment then will he taken until Jan. 10, when the defense will begin its case.

LAKE CASE EVIDENCE COMES IN CABLOADS

The 27-Year-Old Controversy Is Rivaled in Length Only by Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP).—Out of twenty-seven years' litigation over leks water diversions for Chicago's sewage disposal has emerged ths transcendent problem of what to do with ths evidsnce.

Ths case, which already has established new frontiers in the history of American jurisprudence both in number or States involved and diversity and complexity of issues, may achieve immortal distinction through the introduction of rubber-tired motor trucks for ths mobilization of exhibits.

Only the celebrated cass of Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce, preserved for the world in Caries Dickens's "Bleak House," now stands rival for long-sustained legal action in a non-shooting controversy, and even that record may fall under ths bulk of maps, charts and tables now being unloaded daily at the door of Charles E. Hughes, the Surems Court's special master in ths case.

With long-based taxicabs already in use to carry about the evidence, thoss in charge are looking with concern to ths transportation problem of the future.

BOY SHOOTS SISTER AS SHE SETS UP TARGET

Ruth Hufler, 10, Unlikely to Recover—Storekeeper Who Sold Ammunition Sought.

Ruth Hüfler, 10 years old, of 413 Twenty-fourth Street, College Point, Qneens, is in the Flushing Hospital with a bullet wound in her head which may provs fatal. Her thirteen-year-old brother, Edward, is held at the shelter of the Children's Society in Brooklyn pending the outcome of his sister's injuries. He is charged with shooting little Ruth, who, the police say, was setting up tin cans yesterday as targets for Edward and his companion, William Bader, 14, of 401 Twenty-fourth Street, Collegs Point, to shoot at.

Ths boys were using a .22-calibre rifls that was given to Edward just a month ago. Ths Flushing authorities are seeking the storekeepsr that sold the boy ammunition. The Bader boy was not held.

Assistant District Attorney Charles P. Sullivan questioned the boys and was told that the littls girl stspped in front of ths gun as her brother fired at a tin can she had put up. Mrs. Ellen Huifer, the mother, took her daughter to the hospital in a taxicab. Hospital authorities hold littls hope for her recovery.

3 SHOT IN BROADWAY AS GEM THEFT FAILS

a box and commanded both of them to fill it for him. As they were doing so, a knock sounded on the front door. It was Miller, the porter, returning, hut the police believe the thug thought it was one of the two companions who, they are convinced, were aiding him in his crime. Ths armed man hesitated for an instant and then, as Miller rattled the door impatiently, ordered Jacoby to "let that bimbo in but don't go outside."

The clerk walked to the door and unlocked it as the thug stood in the entrance to the rear room and kept him covered with the pistol. Jacoby took his key out of the inside of the lock and placed it in the outside keyhols as if he wers about to lock the door from the outside. Miller stood amazed at this.

Then Jacoby slipped through the half-opened door and ran north, calling loudly for help. As he darted out of the doorway the hold-up man fired and the bullet crashing through the glass of ths door flicked a speck of cloth from the right shoulder of Jacooy's coat and, not having wounded him, gave him added speed.

But if Jacoby was quick the gunman was nearly as rapid. He darted out of the shop a second or two later, smoke still feathering from the pistol in his hand, and pursued ths clerk. Jacoby crossed from ths west side of the street to ths east and tried to run faster, but his shouting had robbed him of a good deal of his breath and he felt that he was scarcely moving.

Tackle Foils Fugitive.

Patrolman Thomas Lorrigan of Traffic A, who lives at Bayside, L. I., was directing traffic at Thirty-ninth Street and Broadway. He ran toward the gunman, but bsfore he reached him the latter had been brought headlong to the pavement by Rudolph Beck, 30 years old, of 824A Quincy Street, Brooklyn, who spilled him with a diving tackle which would havs delighted a football fan's heart.

The gunman, however, fought desperately. A bullet from his pistol wounded Lorrigan in the right side before he could reach the struggling men and use his own pistol. The patrolman dropped to the pavement and Beck exerted all of his etrength in an effort to keep from being shot.

Patrolman Robert Wood of ths West Thirtieth Street Station, who had been on duty not far away, ran up with drawn pistol. He had seen Beck and the gunman come down together, but thought they had collided while both were fleeing from the hold-up. Wood fired. The bullet wounded Beck slightly in the right kneecap and then inflicted a critical wound on the gunman, striking him in the abdomen.

The three wounded were carried into the Casino Theatre lobby, where the gunman gasped out thet hs was Benjamin Grogan, 22 years old, of 303 East Thirty-third Street. Dr. R. D. Griffith of the Hotel Normandie gave the men first aid while an ambulance from New York Hospital was coming to take them to Bellevue. A priest whose identity was not learned administered the last rites to Grogan, who seemed to be dying.

"They tell me that I shot a cop," whispered Grogan. "I didn't mean to do that. All I was thinking abont was catching that jeweler."

The siren which Hoffman had sounded when Grogan, pistol in hand, left the shop had now drawn a wildly excited crowd. They rallied about the theatre, whils reserves under Captain Cornelius Carmody strove to maks them movs along. Then ths wounded men were taken to Bellevus and ths crowd gradually became quiet.

Lorrigan and Beck went homs after their wounds were dressed while Grogan was placed in the prisoner's ward. He is expected to die. He told Inspector Coughlin that hs was alone in attempting ths crime and had bought his pistol in New Jersey. Ths police think he had at least two accomplices as lookouts.

Jacoby went back to work and continued on duty at the shop throughout the day. He didn't evcn pause long enough to havs the rip in his coat, made hy the bandit's bullet, mended. That and the shattered glass in the front door of the shop were the high lights of the day for ths curious passers-hy.

GUNMEN GET $11,000 PAYROLL.

Hold Up Unarmed Messengers of Phone Directory Concern.

Three unidentified men with pistols held up and robbed two employes of the Reuben H. Donnelley Company of 28 West Twenty-third Street, publishers of the Red Book classified telephone directory, yesterday. The robbers escaped with the weekly payroll of $11,000.

James Ford of 2,977 Webster Avenue, the Bronx, and Theodore Maas of 1,901 East Nineteenth Street, Brooklyn, have worked for ths Donnelley concern for yeare. Yestsrday, as was ths usual practice with the firm, they wers sent to the Corn Exchange Bank, Twentieth Street and Fifth Avenue, to draw the weekly payroll for 400 workers. They carried the money in two bags, one of black leather and the other of canvas.

Ford and Maas entered the building at the Twenty-third Street address and started toward the elevator, when the three robbers confronted them with drawn pistols which they flourished menacingly as they ordered the messengers to drop the money bags. The two men obeyed and were herded toward the door of the elevator cage.

At this juncture the car, operated by Philip McKenna, reached the ground floor and ths door was opened. The robbers forced Ford and Maas inside and ordered McKenna to take them to the Donnelley offices on the fifth floor. The car shot upward and the three men and the two money bags disappeared.

Ford and Maas told Frederick Elstrob, the manage., of the robbery and he at once telephoned the West Thirtieth Street Station. There was no trace of the robbere when the police and detectives arrived. The two meeengers were taken to Police Headquarters, where they inspected the rogues' gallery in an endeavor to identify the robbers. Ths police refused to make any statement on the result of their inspection.

In the absence from the city of Police Commissioner McLaughlin, Deputy Commissioner Edward E. Kelly investigated the hold-up. He said Ford and Maas, who were 70 and 51 years old, respectively, were both unarmed and that they went to and from the bank with ths money on foot. The company, he said, had made no request to the police for protection.

MOORE TO ADVOCATE STRICTER CRIME LAWS

Expected to Ask Life Sentence for Bandits Convicted in New Jersey.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 13.—With his recommendations to the Legislature on Monday night for amendment of the crimes statutes to provide more drastic penalties and to curtail delay in the disposition of cases, Governor Moore will present, it is understood, at least three bills embodying his suggestions. The provisions of the measures have not been disclosed, but it is expected that one will call for a life sentence for convicted handits and habitual criminals. The Governor expressed himself eevcral weeks ago as favoring such a penalty.

There is a disposition in the Republican majority in the Legislature to defer action on the crime situation until the regular session in January, hut it is believed that any definite action toward thet end would draw a sharp message from the Executive.

Another matter of interest for Monday is ths Governor's choice of a successor to Mrs. H. Otto Wittpenn on the State Board of Control of the Institutions Department. The report tonight is that he will send ths name of Mrs. George S. Silzer, wife of the former Governor, to the Senate.

FOUR SLAYERS FOUND SANE

Prisoners, Including Ex-Policeman Brennan, Await Execution.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, Nov. 13.—Four Brooklyn slayers, including former Policeman John J. Brennan, who killed a citizen in the Clymer Street Police Station in Brooklyn, were examined as to their sanity today by alieniste of ths State Lunacy Commission. It was reported that all the slayers, who will be executed soon, were adjudged rational. Dr. Raymond Kleb and Dr. George Smith examined them.

The condemned men, Brennan, William and Casimir Barszyouck, brothers, and John Maxwell will now have to place their hopes in the hands of Governor Smith.

The Barsyzouck brothers and Maxwell held up and robbed a chain grocery store at 173 Lee Avenue, Brooklyn, and shot down Mrs. Mary Betech, a customer. They are to die Dec. 6, a week after Brennan.

GOT $20 OF $1,300 LOOT.

Another Alleged Gunman Tells Police His Share of $1,942 Was $28.

Crime is not a very lucrative business according to Benjamin Vesch, 23 years old, a chauffeur, of 224 Sullivan Street, who was in the "line-up" at police hcadquarters yesterday morning. Hs is charged with being one of five men who on Oct. 22 invaded the Club Biarritz, 110 West Fifty-fourth Street, lined the employes, performers and customers against ths wall and escaped with jewelry and $1,300 in cash. His share of the loot, Vesch told the police, was only $20.

Vesch was indicted after the crime on identification furnished by the hold-up victims.

According to the police he was arrested charged with robbery in 1923, 1925 and 1926, bnt each time was discharged.

Said to have been one of five men who held up customers in Harry Sobel's Restaurant, 180 Ludlow Street, and escaped with $1,942 on Juns 20, David Schacht, 21, of 206 Scholes Street, Brooklyn, was in the "line-up" yesterday.

Schacht admitted his guilt, the police said, telling Inspector Coughlin he had covered the victims with a revolver while his companions went through their pockets. He told the Inspector he only received $28 as his share. The others also contented themselves with $28, he added. The alleged leader, Hymie Jacobs, according to Schacht, kept the balance. Jacobs is under arrest in Brooklyn.

The Quaintness of New England Homesteads Flavors These

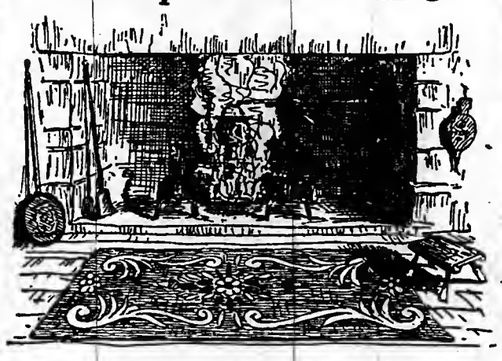
HOOKED RUGS

EACH one of these rugs has covered the rough flooring of a New England home, felt the warmth of a New England hearth. In the Eighteen Hundreds, while the countryside was struggling for its very existence, many of these rugs could probably have been found turned face down in the bleak cold parlor of the homestead, where the shutters were opened only when the most important events took place; or in front of the fire and the simmering pot, in the one bright part of a room of flickering shadows.

A heritage of the past, these hooked rugs are one of the few remaining bonds between the present and that early American period so colorful to us now. Because of the care they received most of the rugs are in perfect condition. All of them are ready to render years of delight and service.

Their quaint beauty of color and design is in complete harmony with modern home decoration; their use in dining room or hall, sleeping room or study is equally effective. And for Christmas gifts, hardly anything more appropriate could be chosen.

The sizes range from scatter rugs to the 9'x12' size $10 and the prices start at



HOOKED RUGS *are the first example of domestic American rug weaving. At the store of W. & J. HACKETT WILL AIDS THEATRE SOCIETIES

WIFE GETS LIFE ESTATE

Several theatrical societies will ultimately benefit a large part of the estate, estimated to be about $1,000,000, of James K. Hackett, the actor who died in Paris on Nov. 8. His will was filed for probate yesterday, leaving his widow, Mrs. Beatrice Beckley Hackett, a life interest in most of the property after providing for a daughter by a former marriage.

Mr. Hackett had inherited the greater part of his fortune, which afterward sustained some losses, through a whim of fate from a niece from whom he had been estranged all his life. She was Mrs. Minnie Hackett Trowbridge, who had made a will leaving her estate to her husband, Francis E. Trowbridge. He died in 1910, and a year later, before she could make another will, Mrs. Trowbridge was legally declared incompetent. The legacy to the husband thus lapsed, and, although mad in mind many times thereafter, she was unable to prevent her residuary estate of $1,179,183 from passing by law to the uncle she disliked. The money was turned over to the actor in 1914, nine months after Mrs. Trowbridge's death.

Mr. Hackett's will provides that on the death of his wife, one-half of the life interest he inherits in his real estate shall be distributed as she may direct in her will. Two-fifths of the other half is given to the Actor's Fund of America, to create the Hackett Endowment Fund, the income of which is to be divided equally "among the guests of the Actors' Home in Staten Island, and be given them at such time as they desire and to be used as they see fit."

A one-fifteenth share is bequeathed to the Players Club, 16 Gramercy Park, to be used for the club library. The club is asked to provide a simple tablet "placed unobtrusively—perhaps in the library itself—to commemorate my memory, this tablet to bear the inscription: James K. Hackett, Chevalier, Legion d'Honneur, born Sept. 6, 1858," and giving the date of his death.

The Lambs and the Actors' Equity Association are to each inherit one-fifteenth shares with the direction that the income be used for their respective charities and the request that similar tablets be placed in the rooms.

Mr. Hackett also inherits two-thirds of the principal of a trust fund created by her husband for his own benefit on March 2, 1915, which is to be held in trust for her and the income is to be paid to her during her lifetime. On her death one-half of her share is to be divided as she directs in her will and the other half is to be distributed as equal shares to funds already created for the Actor's Fund, the Board of Education, the Players Club, the Lambs Club and the Actors' Equity Association. The value of this trust fund is one of the legacies to the societies that will not be learned yesterday.

Request a "Personal Gift."

The will explains, in connection with the bequest, that "I wish this to be given to me if it were with my personal effects to the guests of the home and not to be merged with any other bequests that have been made or may be made to the home." The document specifically directs that this allowance shall not reduce similar allowances that might be paid from other sources. Another two-fifths share is to go to the Board of Education, the income to be used to strike bronze medals as prizes in public schools "for the encouragement and promotion of efficiency in English speech and oratory, verse or prose." The medals are to be known as "The James K. Hackett Medals," and are to bear on the face the inscription: "The Hackett Medal," the name of the winner, school and class and the date when won. The inscription on the reverse side is to be, "Founded by James K. Hackett, Philanthropist and President of Graduating Class of 1886, P. S. 69." The Board of Education is to use its own discretion in designating the schools to which the medals shall be given.

The other one-third share is given to Miss Elsie Mannering Ketcltas Hackett, a daughter by his first marriage, who also inherits among other things a watch given to the testator by his mother, Mrs. Mary Manering Hackett.

Another trust fund, the value of which likewise was not made known, was created at the same time by Mr. Hackett for the benefit of his wife, the principal to revert to his estate on her death. One-half of this is to be disposed of by Mrs. Hackett in her will, and the other half is to be held in trust for the benefit of Mrs. E. M. Ashley, his mother-in-law, who lives in London.

On her death the principal is to be turned over to the National Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon.

Specific bequests include $1,000 to Public High School 16, which formerly was the grammar school of Mr. Hackett; $2,000 to the College of the City of New York, his alma mater; $500 to his secretary, Dorothy Z. Jones of London, and $3,000 to his chauffeur, Herbert Moore of 536 West Seventy-ninth Street.

Referring to his father as "the celebrated actor and polished gentleman, Henry Hackett, professionally known as James H. Hackett, internationally famous as the greatest exponent of Shakespeare's Sir John Falstaff, and as the original Rip Van Winkle," the will directs that his body be removed from the Presbyterian Cemetery in Jamaica, L. I., to the Woodlawn Cemetery, where it is to be reinterred with the testator's ashes and that of other members of the family.

Personal Effects to Wife.

All of Mr. Hackett's personal effects, including books, household furniture, wearing apparel, automobiles, carriages, pictures, paintings, statuary, costumes and theatrical scenery and properties, are given to his wife. He directs, however, that all of the records and papers in cases that came before his late brother, Recorder John K. Hackett, shall be given to the Bar Association of New York.

William F. Muenster, described by Mr. Hackett as a "faithful friend and employee," receives the income from one-twenty-fifth of the remainder of his personal estate "as a slight token of my esteem and appreciation of his loyalty, such as cannot be stated in terms of money." His sister, Miss Charlotte L. Muenster, inherits the income after his death, and the principal is to final revert to Mr. Hackett's residuary estate.

The assets of the estate include two houses, 56 and 58 West Seventy-first Street, an estate on the St. Lawrence River, at Clayton, Jefferson County, New York, known as "Zenda," an estate of thirty-eight acres at Cos Cob, Conn., and another of twenty-nine acres at Algoma, Centre Section, Ontario, Canada.

The will was executed on March 13, 1926, and names the New York Trust Company as trustee.

GENERAL CONSCRIPTION 'MONSTROUS,' SAYS REED

Missouri Senator Declares Plan Advocated by Coolidge Would 'Spell National Paralysis.'

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 13 (AP).—The recommendation of President Coolidge at Kansas City Thursday for "all-inclusive" conscription in time of war was characterized in a formal statement tonight by Senator James A. Reed as "the most astonishing statement which ever fell from the lips of an American President."

"Such a proposal would spell national paralysis and national defeat," the Senator asserted. "Mr. Coolidge declared that in future wars there should be a general conscription of all people and all property, that his conscription 'should be all inclusive.' The phrase he employed was the 'conscription of capital,' but capital embraces every form of property.

"I heard this phrase, the 'conscription of capital,' first employed by that class of pacifists who insisted that the World War was deliberately brought on by capitalists who desired to enrich themselves out of the struggle, and that if capital should be conscripted wicked capitalists would no longer promote wars.

"Of course, the idea that the recent war was the result of a conspiracy of capitalists is an absurdity which reasonable men do not for a moment entertain, bnt I never expected to hear the President of the United States publicly declare an acceptance of this monstrous fallacy and yet more monstrous doctrine of general conscription."

The one result of such a move, Senator Reed said, would be the abrogation of the right to life, liberty and property guaranteed by the Constitution.

"At the mere approach of war every dollar would go into hiding," said Mr. Reed. "Business would be paralyzed; the wheels of industry would cease to move; the entire machinery of trade and commerce would stop.

"No man would dare trade, barter, buy or sell; no one would venture to make an investment. Universal chaos would immediately result. Accordingly, at the very time when the Government would most need to stimulate the activities of the people and to promote the highest commercial activities, everything would suddenly come to a standstill. The result would be worse than the loss of a hundred battles."

Under such a law, Mr. Reed said, a military autocracy would be erected on the ruins of our civilization, the press would be throttled, the right of peaceable assemblage denied, woman would be subject to command by military autocrats and the President could exercise powers greater than ever dreamed of by a Roman dictator or an Oriental despot.

"The astounding thing is that a President should so far forget the principles underlying our civilization and our form of Government. A draft of any kind, particularly for foreign wars, is obnoxious to the spirit of our civilization. But that is a very different thing from the proposal to conscript the women as well as the men, the old as well as the young, property as well as soldiers."

MAY SUE COUNTY FOR LYNCHING OF 3

South Carolina Attorney Likely to Be Named Administrator of Negroes' Estate.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 13 (AP).—A suit against Aiken County for the lynching of Clarence, Demon and Bertha Lowman, negroes, by a masked mob on Oct. 8 was imminent today. Probate Judge George R. Webb issued citations for persons interested to show cause why Thomas L. Hahn, North Augusta attorney, should not be appointed administrator for the estates of Demon and Bertha Lowman, brother and sister victims of the mob. Hahn was counsel for Bertha Lowman when she was on trial for the murder of a constable.

Affidavits stating that he was next of kin to all three victims were obtained from Sam Lowman, father of Bertha and Demon, now serving a two-year prison sentence for a liquor law violation.

In any suit against a county by the estate of persons lynched the minimum amount obtainable is set at $2,000, and a directed verdict for this is customarily given.

PILOT BARRED FROM FLYING.

Widmer Disciplined for Jumping From Failing Passenger Plane.

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Nov. 13 (AP).—Asserting that he left Charles E. Widmer, pilot for the Pacific Air Transport Company, should not have jumped from his falling airmail plane while it contained a passenger, Don Cardiff, inspector of the Bakersfield Airport, announced today that he would ban Widmer from further flights from here.

Donald Rossiter, a passenger, was killed when Widmer's plane crashed after a tailspin near Van Nuys, early yesterday, but Widmer leaped to safety with a parachute.

Convention of Phi Alpha Gamma.

Delegates from fourteen chapters of Phi Alpha Gamma, national homeopathic fraternity, met for an annual business session yesterday at the Army and Navy Club. The convention ended with a dinner last night at which Dr. F. M. Dearborn of New York was toastmaster. Nearly one hundred members of the fraternity attended. Dr. C. Howard of New York is the President.

him, preparatory to kidnapping him in an automobile. Testimony at Mr. Alger's investigation is said to have failed in many respects to bear out Presser's story, but Superintendent Long went on record as declaring he believed it implicitly, and on that ground was willing, as a member of the Parole Board, to vote in favor of the convict's release, which was to have taken effect on May 29 last, the board having met earlier that month and taken action.

The investigation is said to have brought out that up to February of this year Presser was in Class C, composed of convicts who are incorrigible and ineligible for parole. In order to make parole possible for him at that time, 934 days—added to his term for escaping—and 275 days added for various infractions of the prison rules were wiped off his record in some way, it appeared in the course of the investigation. Before his release could be effected the Governor intervened.

School Teachers' Pay.

Prospects of higher pay for school teachers in this city are becoming brighter, friends of the Governor said yesterday, adding that in his annual message to the Legislature he would urge strongly that the lawmakers act along lines suggested by the so-called Friedsam Commission which would involve the appropriation by the State next year of $15,000,000 for increased salaries, of which $14,000,000 would be allotted to this city.

Colonel Michael Friedsam, head of the commission appointed by Governor Smith last year to investigate school finances, will give a dinner at the Waldorf tomorrow evening at which ways and means to induce favorable action by the Legislature will be discussed.

Should the Legislature act in accordance with the prospective recommendations of the Governor, the salary increases for teachers in this city would have to be fixed by the Board of Education and the Board of Estimate before becoming valid; all the State would do would be to supply the necessary funds within the total suggested by the commission. The Republican Legislature this year passed a teachers' salary increase bill, but Governor Smith vetoed it at the request of the New York City authorities after Mayor Walker had pledged that he would appoint a commission to investigate the subject and report a plan. This commission, of which Lincoln Cromwell is head, has been at work several months and is said to be about ready to report its findings.

HITS 'LOCKSTEP' EDUCATION

Dr. Washburn Talks to Westchester Teachers' Conference.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Dr. Carlton Washburn of Winnetka, Ill., originator of a plan of self-instruction for children which is now being used in the schools of Winnetka and other cities, addressed a conference of teachers of Westchester County schools at Washington Irving High School tonight on the necessity of recognizing individual differences in children.

Dr. Washburn attacked the "lockstep system" of education which ignored these differences and compelled children of varying capabilities to study together. The meeting was a feature of National Education Week.

ELIZABETH H. TRAUB WEDS K. M. JONES

General's Daughter Married by Rev. Dr. Norwood in Chapel of St. Bartholomew's.

DOROTHY S. KELLOGG BRIDE

Wed to Walter Raymond Kurtz Jr. in Ardmore, Pa.—Other Marriages.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Hudson Traub, daughter of Major Gen. Peter Edward Traub, U. S. A., and Mrs. Traub, to Karl McMaster Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Jones of Montclair, N. J., took place yesterday afternoon in the chapel of St. Bartholomew's Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Robert Norwood.

The bride, whose father gave her in marriage, wore a medieval gown of white satin brocaded with silver. It was fringed with long, tight sleeves and the court train was of silver tulle. Her veil was of old point Valenciennes lace. She carried a bouquet of ascension lilies.

Miss Katharine Traub was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a gown of orchid colored chiffon and a large hat of the same shade ornamented with silver lace. She carried a bouquet of pale pink chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Clayton Hartsough, another sister, and Mrs. John R. Lawson-Johnston were matrons of honor. They wore gowns of pale green chiffon and hats of the same shade trimmed with silver brocade. They carried bouquets of pale yellow chrysanthemums. There were no other attendants.

Sam Bradley Barr was the best man. The ushers were Marshall T. Jones of Washington, brother of the bridegroom; Bayard D. Browne and Edward Osborne of Montclaire and John R. Lawson-Johnston of this city. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Adams Kissam, 9 East Seventy-sixth Street.

Following a motor trip, Mr. Jones and his bride will live in Montclair.

Cook—McMullen.

Miss Emma Jane McMullen, daughter of Jasper McMullen of 15 Boulevard, Whitestone, Queens, was married yesterday afternoon to John H. Cook of Scarsdale, N. Y., at the Grace Episcopal Church, Eleventh Avenue and Eighteenth Street, Whitestone. The Rev. William Jenkins, the pastor, officiated. The bride was attended by her two sisters, Miss Isobel and Miss Peggy McMullen. Arthur Cook, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. The couple will live in White Plains.

Jefferson—Le Page.

Miss Lois Le Page was married to Horace Jefferson of New Orleans, La., yesterday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Le Page, in Hollis, L. I. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Victor Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson left last night for New Orleans, where they will make their home.

Kurtz—Kellogg.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 13.—The marriage of Miss Dorothy Scott Kellogg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Kellogg, of 306 Riverside Drive, New York, and Walter Raymond Kurtz Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Raymond Kurtz of Germantown, took place at 6 o'clock this evening at the home of Miss Kellogg's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Justi Jr., in Ardmore. The Rev. Wallace E. Conkling officiated.

Mrs. Justi was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant. Gilbert Megargee of Montclair, N. J., attended as best man. A reception followed for the immediate families and a few friends.

WHITE HAS BORGLUM'S HAT.

Sculptor Finds Editor's "a Little Large," but Makes It Do.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 13.—Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, while passing through Kansas City, visited yesterday at the home of John H. Bovard and met William Allen White, who also was a guest. It was their first meeting.

After a brief visit Mr. White left for his home in Emporia, Kan. Early llet night Mr. Borglum received a telegram signed by Mr. White, which read: "If you want yonr hat, come and get it."

Mr. Borglum found he had a fedora hat, similar in color to his. Wearing Mr. White's hat to the union station on his departure for San Antonio, Tex., he remarked: "This is a very good hat, but a little large for me."

LAURETTE TAYLOR APPEALS

Refuses to Withdraw From Cast of "Her Cardboard Lover."

Laurette Taylor's right to appear in the New York production of "Her Cardboard Lover," which ehs recently acted on tour, will be decided early this week by Equity arhitration. The play was produced by A. H. Woods and Gilbert Miller and wae acted in Washington, Baltimore and Atlantic City. Believing that Miss Taylor was not suited to the leading rôle, Messrs. Woods and Miller then requested her to withdraw from the cast, and this she refused to do.

It was said yesterday at the office of Mr. Woods that the point at issue is a technical one covering the so-called "run of the play" contract. Under this contract Miss Taylor claims that she is entitled to appear in the play for its full engagement, while the managers contend they have the privilege of recasting the play after eight weeks have elapsed.

Three arhitrators, one selected by the American Arbitration Society, will decide the case.

Lucas, Whom Prince Discovers, in Demand by Hostesses.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Because the Prince of Wales has heard and likes his singing and playing, after the manner of old Provençal Troubadoure, Nick Lucas, an American, has suddenly become one of the most popular entertainers in London. After hearing Lucas's singing, which he accompanied on bis guitar one nigbt this week, the Prince invited him to sing at ths ball in honor of the Queen of Spain. Accordingly, Lucas is in great demand, not only in theatres and cabarets bnt also at homes of the society hostesses.

CURT TAUCHER, TENOR, IS OPERATED ON Stricken With Mastoiditis After Singing in 'Tannhaeuser'—His Memorable Fall Last Year.

Curt Taucher, the opera tenor, hero of a memorable fall through the stage in view of a great Metropolitan audience two seasons ago, has had a recurrsnce of ill lnck after singing but one performance of his current engagement on Broadway. Following a performance of "Tannhäuser" last Monday, Mr. Taucher became eerlously indisposed with mastoiditis. He underwent an operation for the painful ear trouble yesterday. Drs. Duell and Sarlabous reported him resting comfortably last night at ths Manhattan Eys and Ear Hospital, 210 Eaet Sixty-fourth Street.

It was on March 11, 1925, that Taucher stepped into an open steam trap used to mask many changes of scene in the Wagner "Ring" cycle. He tumbled among eteel girders some twenty-five feet to the solid rock of the opera house basement. Whsn attendants rushed to pick up, as they supposed, a dead body, the singer roee and asked their help to get quickly up to the stage level. He responded to his next one barely a few seconds lats and finished the "Siegfried" performance with body bruises and broken fingers that afterward kept him two weeks at homs in Pslham.

Mr. Taucher's family did not return here from Germany this year. He went to the hoepital from his hotel, having taken temporary lodgings during the remainder of his engagement at the opera. He is an athlete and, on the hospital books, was recorded as 41 years old.

THESPIANS DANCE AT EQUITY'S BALL

The annual Equity ball, seventh of the eerles, was held late last night and early this morning at the Hotel Astor. The attendance, which had run into unwieldy nnmbers in recent years, was restricted to 2,000 persons, with the sixty boxes occupied by celebrated stars of both stage and screen. A prominent box was reserved for Mayor James J. Walker and his party.

The grand march was followed by a pageant, in which "The Spirt of Equity" was impersonated by Laurette Taylor, "Drama" by Pauline Lord and "Musical Comedy" by Blanche Ring. Greek Evans led the singing of the Equity song, "One for All and All for One."

The annual "Midnight Jollies," staged by Hassard Short, was participated in by fifty or more well-known players, with Fred and Dorothy Stone and Clark and McCullough among its stars. Music for the evening was provided by George Olsen's Orchestra.

CONCERT FOR CHILDREN.

Walter Damrosch and New York Symphony Delight Large Audience.

Walter Damrosch and the New York Symphony Orchestra gave the second of the Symphony concerts for children at Carnegie Hall yesterday morning before a large and delighted audience. The allegretto from Beethoven's Eighth Symphony was the movement chosen for Mr. Damrosch's analytical talk. It was very interesting.

Mr. Damrosch asked the children ths natnre of a metronome, and gave a vivid description of its structure and its functions. It was the invention of the versatile Maelzel, a friend of Beethoven, who sent a metronome to the composer as a present. Beethoven was so pleased with the "instrument of torture" that he sent back a theme of thanks, which later he tnrned into the chief theme of the allegretto. Mr. Damrosch had the young people sing the notes to the words, "How do you do, How do you do, my dear Uncle Damrosch?" Mr. Damrosch was so pleased with the way they sang this that he elected the whole audience honorary members of the orchestra on the epot.

The Chopin-Aubert "Night of Magics" gave the conductor an opening for one of his most engaging fairy etories and some Chopin playing on the piano. The dances from Saint-Saëns's "Henry VIII" were made realistically clear hy the preliminary explanations. More than one small hand beat time in exact imitation of Mr. Damrosch in the final and exhilarating "Military March" of Schubert.

PIANIST MAKES DEBUT.

Margaret Hamilton Is Soloist at Philharmonic's Students' Concert.

Willem Mengelberg directed the Philharmonic Orchestra in the third of its students' concerts at Carnegie Hall last evening. Margaret Hamilton, who comes from Youngstown, Ohio, was selected last Spring by the Stadium's Audition Committee and the National Music League to be sololet with the Philharmonic this season and she made her New York début last night. She won a New York recital in the competition held hy the Walter W. Naumhurg Foundatioo.

Miss Hamilton made her appearance in Weber's "Concertstück" for piano and orchestra, a brilliant piece which permitted the pianist to make a full display of her ahuodant techoical resources. Miss Hamilton was repeatedly recalled at the conclusion. The instrumental humhers were those given at the concert on Thursday evening. The three preludes from Pfitzner's opera, "Palestrioa," pialoly showed the unbridgahle gulf between ths music of 1917, the date of "Palestrina's" production, and the composers of the nineteenth century.

The concert ended with Strause's "Don Quichote," in which Cornelius Van Vliet and Leon Barzin Jr. played the 'cello and violin solos respectively.

Elenore Altman, Pianist, Plays.

Elenore Altman, a pianist of the Institute of Musical Art, gave a recital in Aeolian Hall last evening. A player of intelligence and facile technique, she was heard in Schumann's "Fantasie," Beethoven's sonata opus 57 and a half-dozen Chopin etudes.

Boris Lang gave a program with seven young pianists, whose friends filled ths Town Hall last night. Those assisting were Tamara Gorlanova, Jean Dawson, Roee Pelech, Ida Kreshefsky, Florence Danziger, Louise Mayer and Edward Galanin.

Y. W. C. A. to Have Week of Prayer

Ths members of the Y. W. C. A. of this city will join with members throughout the world in observing this week as "A Week of Prayer for World Fellowship." Prayer services will be held at the Central Branch, 610 Lexington Avenue each morning, beginning tomorrow at 9 o'clock. The first such service will he held this evening at 8 o'clock when the leader will be the Rev. Dr. George Stewart, associate pastor of the Madison Aveous Presbyterian Church.

MUSIC

By OLIN DOWNES.

English Singers Again Delight.

The English Singers, in a second concert of the season yesterday afternoon in Town Hall, repeated, if they could not easily intensify, the impression of their earlier appearances. They gave the same distinguished treatment to English text that they gave to tons and to the most musicianly conceptione of rhythm, balance, nnance. Not only le the art of these singers unique, its effect is most fortunately carried out by the grouping on the stage, hy ths unconventional and delightful hoeplitality suggeeted by the eextet eeated about the table, and also by the beautiful costumee of the ladiee. It le more than a relief; it is a very positive and artietic pleasure to see coetumee that are not knee-high, that have line and rhythm of their own, and that in design and loveilness of tint suggest a period unfortunately departed. This is not a negligible featurs of a musical entertainment.

The program of yesterday in part repeated material previously sung, but offered considerahle that was new. One of the most conspicuous successes was the famoue madrigal of Orlando Gibbons. "What is our life? A play of passion." There is unforgetable music to the text of Sir Walter Raleigh, but this music might have euffered irreparahiy in the hands of leseer artists.

Ths folksongs arranged by Gustav Holst and by Vaughan Williams are eignificant in that they ehow a school of modern compoeers who have really imbued themeelves with the atmosphere of a great past, and who, in taking folk melodies and in certain cases texts, glorify, without once mierepreeenting, the eseence of folk music. Holst and Williams, the former in his "I Sowed the Seeds of Love," the latter in "Springtime of the Year" and "Wassail Song," have wrought with a care, a depth of feeling and a craftsmanship that do not eeem puny or affected, even by the elde of the works of the great Elizabethans. In fact, these eettinge of English melody carry on, and carry on right worthily, the old tradition. They retain the ancient harmonic character of the songs, they employ the voices in a counterpoint always expressive, emotional, poetic, and never academic or brain-spun.

If, as William Byrd eaid, the muelc must frame the meaning of the words, these beautiful settings of Holst and Williame worthily frame the old melodiee. While the music remains vocal, the voices often have the color effects of instruments, eo that many exquisite and uncommonly suggestive eounde are heard—strings, a trumpet call, an oboe or clarinet. It is astonishing that so small group of singers achieves such a varied tonal palette—so many tints, so many most delicate shades of intensity. And how did the eong "The Springtime of the Year" affect those who first heard it? Ths old scales have often for us of today a certain grayness of color which is reflectivs if not melancholy. But in olden time a song in what could be compared to a minor key may not have sounded despondent. Today we eeem to hear in Williams's setting of the song which is all of love and Springtime the echo of a strange sadness—a dolor, a qnestion in the softness and fruitfulness of Spring; a remembrance hy nature, even at her most joyous period, of the Autumns, the deaths and resurrections of all things to come.

Notwithstanding which the concert of the English Singers gave again great pleasurg to an audience which packed the hall, which stood when the seats were sold, and left disappointed those who found no room remaining to stand in. Fortunately, these eingers will be heard in another concert in December.

"Meistersinger" at Opera.

Yesterday evening the Metroplitan Opera Company gave Wagner's "Meistersinger" with a cast that differed in important particulars from that of the preceding performance. Miss Rethherg was Eva; Mr. Lauhenthal, Walther; George Cehanovsky, a young Russian, who made his début, Kothner; Kathleen Howard, Magdalena; Paul Bender, Pogner, with the Sachs of Clarence Whitehill, and Mr. Schützendorff's Beckmesser. Mr. Bodanzky conducted a performance which retained the vitality of the opening "Meistersinger" of the season, but had a softness of outline and a certain ease, warmth and spontanelty which the earlier interpretation did nôt invariably enjoy. Whether the change of cast or the fact of a second performance with a emoother running ensemble was reeponsible for this may not be known, but certain it le that the Saturday night audience had the benefit of an occasion that combined rarely the elements of eloquent representation.

Mr. Cehanovsky showed a voice of agreeahle quality and etuck closely and intelligently to the traditions of his part. Miss Rethberg is admirably the type as well as the singer for the rôle of Eva, and Mr. Laubenthal made a personable, occasionally even lyrical Walther. Mr. Schützbendorff's Beckmesser was excellently in character; its comedy was not overdooe. Mr. Whitehill's Sachs was uncommonly well sung. The simplicity and nobility of his delivery and the superh chorus singing were leading characteristics of the final ecenes, hrilliantly staged, and long applauded. The theatre was packed with an audience wbich listened with evident gratification to ths glorious music and the poetic spirit of Wagner's comedy.

GIGLI SPRAINS ANKLE IN 'BOHEME' GAYETIES

Tenor Has Mishap in Pirouette, but Sings Through the Opera—His Son a Merrymaker.

Beniamino Gigli epralned an ankle in the gayeties ending the Café Momus scene in Act 2 of "La Bohéme" at the opera yesterday afternoon. The tenor attempted a pirouette, and as he spun around on one foot he suddenly fell and cried out with sharp pain. He was able to take hie curtain calls as usual, and after handaging the ankle in his dressing room he sang through the opera's later episodes. His young soo, Enzio Gigli, home from school for the Saturday holiday, also took part in the merrymaking crowd on the stage, and it was partly the boy's high epirits that had started the father in those lively paces which caused his mishap.

"La Bohéme" was sung for the first time this season on the eve of today's final drese rehearsal of Puccini's last opera, "Turandot." Tbe composer's youthful work delighted a matinee assembly with its melody and its pictures of bohemian artist-life of Parie in the last century. A familing cast brought back Mmes. Alda and Hunter, Messrs. Gigli, Scotti, Didur, Picco, Malatesta, Altglass and Reecbiglian, and Mr. Bellezza conducted.

Girl Flees Home, Leaving Baby.

A 13-day old baby girl was abaodoned by her mother at the Washington Square Home for Friendless Girls early yesterday morning. The infant and the 20-year-old mother, Mary Finn, formerly of 478 West 165th Street, had been taken to the home on Thursday last. Officials found the child in its mother's room at 2 A. M., hut the girl was gone.

FILM BOARD BARS COPY OF CATHEDRAL STATUE

Portland (Ore.) Censors Order Drapery on Picture for New Theatre Program.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 13 (AP).—The Motion Picture Censorship Board of Portland ruled today that a nude figure, said to be copied from a statue in the Cathedral of Leon, in Spain, will have to be clothed with a slip of paper when a program bearing the picture on the outside cover is used at the opening of a new Pantages theatre here.

The theatre management, when advised of the board's objection to the picture, proposed to cover it with a slip of paper carrying two printed statements. The board permitted one of thess statements to remain:

"An exact duplicate of this program cover was used for the dedication of the new Pantagee Theatre, San Francisco."

The other proposed statsment was ruled off. It would have read:

"By order of the Portland Board of Motion Picture Censors, the beautiful and hietoric statue depicted on this cover page has been condemned."

EARL OF OXFORD'S SON IS A QUEEN IN FILM

Anthony Asquith Substitutes for Phyllis Terry as Boadicea in War Chariot.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The Honorable Anthony Asquith, son of Lord and Lady Oxford, has just made his début as a film actor—as actrees.

In the British film "Boadicea," shown to the trade here this week, much comment was aroused at the fearlese way in which Miss Phyllis Neilson Terry, as warlike Boadicea, Queen of the Britons, drove her chariot over rough ground in an attack on the Roman legions. It is now discovered that Asquith, disguised in a blond wig and a long, pale-blue robe, substituted for Miss Neilson Terry in the roughest parts of the chariot driving. He has apprenticed himself for three years to the Stoll Film Company, to learn the business of prodnction.

SMOKES FIRST CIGAR ON 77TH BIRTHDAY

Ohio War Veteran Puffs on a Ten-Center Received at Gettysburg in the '70s.

GREENVILLE, Ohio, Nov. 13 (AP).—T. J. Burns, who has just exceeded by seven years the allotted threescore and ten, smoked his first cigar on his seventy-seventh birthday.

As he smoked his memory pictured in the fragrar' blue maze a scene in a little crossroads store at Gettysburg on his twenty-fifth birthday, when the proprietor presented him with a "ten-center."

In those daye a "ten-center" was considered quite a cigar. Burns decided to keep it "until after supper." His then decided to save it until he was older and better able to appreciate it.

The longer he saved it the more attached to it he became. He lavished every kindness on it. He wrap,ed it carefully in cotton and moistened it now and then to keep it from cracking.

"I was afraid I might not be here to smoke it next year," he said. "Oh, yes, I have been smokin' all my life, hut this was my first cigar. I just smoked. Right good one, too."

DIES AT FOOTBALL GAME.

A. L. Hughes of Naval Academy Class of '81 Is Stricken in Stands.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 13.—During the football game at the Naval Academy this afternoon between the teams of the Naval Academy and Georgetown A. L. SUIT AGAINST WARD ORDERED CHANGED

General Baking Minority Told to Specify Maryland Laws Broken by Officials.

DAYS FOR AMENDMENT

Ruling by Appellate Division of Supreme Court in Action for $8,547,000.

A committee of minority stockholders of the General Baking Corporation who sued William B. Ward, Chairman of the Ward Baking Company and his associates in a project to consolidate the chief baking concerns of the country, for the return to the General Baking Corporation of $8,547,000 alleged to have been involved in the proposed consolidation plan, was directed by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday to state what laws of Maryland had been violated by the transaction.

It was alleged by the committee, on which are William Deininger, President of the General Baking Corporation; Louis J. Kolb, a Vice President of the Pennsylvania Sugar Company, and John U. Weber, President of the Liberty Trust Company, Newark, that at the request of W. B. Ward, without submitting the matter to the directors, checks of the General Baking Corporation were made payable to the Ward Securities Corporation by the Treasurer and a Vice President of the General Baking Corporation, and that Ward turned over to the General Baking Corporation 120,000 shares of its Class A stock, which he controlled, and on which he profited.

Although the directors of the General Baking Corporation subsequently approved this transaction, the plaintiffs claimed, the transaction was a violation of its Maryland charter.

Because of objections by the Government, the projected consolidation of the companies was afterward dropped by mutual consent.

The Appellate Court gave the plaintiffs twenty days to specify the alleged violations. Its opinion, submitted by Presiding Justice William J. Kelly, said:

"I think the complaint states but one cause of action, that charging misappropriation of corporate funds of the General Baking Corporation by the individual defendants, who are said to have used the money of the corporation for the benefit of Ward and the Ward Securities Corporation without authority and in violation of the law."

The court directed that the allegation, "profited by the aforesaid and other similar stock transaction," be stricken from the complaint on the ground that this charge is indefinite.

LISMAN ANSWERS BANKERS.

Repeats His Offer to Rehabilitate Chicago's Transit Lines.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Frederick J. Lisman of New York, whose proposal for a solution of traction problems here on the basis of a twenty-year franchise with local control is before the Council Committee on Local Transportation, today took issue with bankers here who have contended that an indeterminate franchise and State control are essential to sound financing of the lines.

Mr. Lisman, who started for Springfield, where he is rehabilitating a defunct railroad with the financial support of residents along its right of way, pointed to his own proposal to refute the claim of the local bankers. He said:

"We have offered to solve the city's traction problem on the basis of a twenty-year franchise without any additional legislation, and one of the bankers who appeared before the legislative body admitted that we would be able to obtain the necessary financial backing if the council would grant us an ordinance such as we propose. As to control, we are willing to submit to reasonable control by either a local or a State body."

Mr. Lisman repeated that unless something was done promptly $165,000,000 in bonds which will mature on Feb. 1, 1927, would go to default and that such a default would be the largest single default in principal that ever had occurred in this country.

ENTERTAINS BANK'S STAFF.

G. F. Baker Jr. Takes 200 Employes to Theatre and Dinner.

George F. Baker Jr., Vice Chairman of the First National Bank, was host last evening of more than two hundred employes of the bank at a dinner given at the roof garden of the Waldorf. Mr. Baker entertains the employes every year.

Before the dinner Mr. Baker took the employes to the Lyric Theatre. The dinner was informal and no addresses were made. Mr. Baker sat at a table with other officials of the bank.

SHUN MINISTRY AND FARMS.

Wide Survey Shows Boys and Girls Dislike These Occupations.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13 (AP).—Surprising results have been found regarding high school students' ideas of life in a canvass of 25,000 boys and girls in five States, by Montaville Flowers of Pasadena, Cal., educator, lecturer and author.

Among other things, Mr. Flowers found that high school students had a big laugh for farming or the ministry as their life work. In a survey of high schools in California, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland Mr. Flowers said he had found only seven boys who admitted they contemplated entering the ministry.

The distaste for farming, too, was so prevalent that the educator freely predicted that "tremendous changes in agricultural production will have to take place if the present defections from the farms continue."

Everywhere, Mr. Flowers said, he found a large percentage of the parents of the high school students had come from the country, or still lived in rural sections, and in many cases the high school boys and girls themselves came from farm homes. Yet, he said, no appreciable fraction of the students admitted that they expected to return to the soil for their living. The aspiration for "gentleman's jobs" was almost universal, even in the more remote districts.

DECLARES RUSSIA IS LEAGUE'S ENEMY

Prof. Gilbert Murray Suggests as Remedy Admission of Soviet by Powers.

GERMAN AIMS ANNOUNCED

Dr. Jackh Tells Foreign Policy Association Goal Is to Further Universal Organization.

COOLIDGE SPEECH ATTACKED

James G. McDonald Says It Made "All of Us Feel Ashamed and Somewhat Humiliated."

Two similar approving views of the League of Nations were voiced yesterday at the luncheon at the Hotel Astor of the Foreign Policy Association, one by an Englishman and the other by a German, while in nearly every question that followed fault was found either with the League itself or with some of the powers composing it, particularly with Great Britain.

The suggestion was put forward by the first speaker, Professor Gilbert Murray, Regius Professor of Greek at Oxford University, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the British League of Nations Union, that Russia should be brought into the League as speedily as possible. He saw in Russia the one really great danger to the League itself, and his suggestion was put forward as a remedy. While he was speaking wholly as an individual the suggestion drew attention because of the recent dispatches from Europe concerning the possible formation of an Asiatic League, in which Russia is said to be the prime mover.

Almost as striking as Professor Murray's suggestion was the address of Dr. Ernest Jackh, President of the Deutsche Hochschule für Politik of Berlin and Vice President of the German League of Nations Union. Dr. Jackh began to study English less than a year ago, yet he spoke rapidly and with a choice of words that was amazing as he portrayed the different stages through which Germany has passed in the last ten years, and stressed her value to the League and her need of it.

Hits Coolidge's Speech.

James G. McDonald presided. After he had heard Professor Murray speak in defense of the League and the work it had done, he made a brief statement, in which he said:

"In view of the recent Armistice Day speech which has made all of us feel ashamed and somewhat humiliated, it is a pleasure to have heard what Professor Murray has said."

Mr. McDonald said later that the reference was to the speech made by President Coolidge, in which the President dealt briefly with the possibility of the entrance of this country into the World Court.

Referring to the announced topic, "The Reshaping of the League," Professor Murray said he would not reshape it, as he was satisfied with its present shape, but that as time went on changes would occur. He explained he had always been actively interested in the League, and had been a part of it, and he added:

"As to the actual success of the League I will say that it has utterly surpassed my expectations."

He declared that it had only been disobeyed once, that perhaps it had done some of its work nona too well, but that it had successfully stopped six dangerous breaks in international unity and had settled innumerable disputes, while the World Court has given seventeen opinions or decisions, every one of which has been accepted without the moving of a soldier or the firing of a shot. He regarded it as highly significant that not in one of the "hard-faced" Governments of Europe was there any movement whatever against the League.

In places where, for one reason or another the League had no powers, work toward the preserving of peace was going on steadily, sometimes because of the valiant efforts of individuals, particularly Americans.

Not Partial to Britain.

He spoke briefly, and not wholly with credit to Great Britain, of the Abyssinian matter and the manner in which the bringing of that affair into the light had cleared no misunderstandings. He went on to give credit to his own organization, the British League of Nations Union, for being among the first to urge that Germany be brought into the League and Germany and France reconciled. This had been done, he said, and he added:

"So far as there can be certainty in human affairs, I believe it to be certain that there never again will be a war in the West of Europe between France and Germany."

He regretted the withdrawal of Brazil and Spain from the League at the time Germany entered, and hoped and thought that breach would soon be healed. But he defended the League for its action, saying:

"I do not want to use any harsh words; I will not use the word blackmail. But the League could not allow itself to be bullied."

Professor Murray went at some length into the provisions of the protocol and said he believed progress was being made toward the point at which all nations in the League would pledge themselves not to go to war and would refrain from talking about their national honor. He expressed regret that the weapon of the international boycott had been "broken in our hands" because "certain great nations" were absent from the League gatherings. He did not mention the United States, but the reference brought laughter. He prophesied a network of treaties of mutual defense all over Europe and in the better development of the system of mandates he said he expected the League would get great help from Germany.

Turning to possible dangers to the League, he said it must be held in mind that it is based absolutely on the continuance of parliamentary governments. One danger was the increasing number of dictators and the wider application of the rule of force.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—A party of 410 tourists, including sixty millionaires, sailed today from Southampton on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Scotland on a five-month tour of the world.

The minimum price of accommodation is about $15 a day, while private suites cost $10,000.

The liner will cover 35,907 miles, visiting thirty ports in twenty-two countries.

UNVEIL MONUMENT TO CHAMP CLARK

Senator Reed and Others Laud Ex-Speaker Before 5,000 at Bowling Green, Mo.

MEMORIAL GIVEN TO STATE

Missouri Statesman's Career Is Praised as a Notable Example to the Nation's Youth.

BOWLING GREEN, Mo., Nov. 13 (AP).—More than 5,000 persons assembled here today to honor the memory of Champ Clark of Bowling Green, former Speaker of the National House of Representatives, at the unveiling and dedication of the $25,000 State memorial to the Missouri statesman.

Undeterred by rain, which fell spasmodically throughout the day, the crowd stood for hours outside the Pike County Court House, on the south lawn of which the magnificent life-like statue of Speaker Clark had been erected, to hear national and State eulogies to the noted Missourian.

Senator James A. Reed of Kansas City, who was an old friend and colleague of Clark in Congress, delivered the principal address.

Former State Senator J. D. Hostetter, presented the statue to the State and "Champy" Clark, 3-year-old son of Bennett O. Clark of St. Louis, a son of Speaker Clark, pulled the cord which unveiled the memorial.

Governor Baker of Missouri accepted the monument in behalf of the State and paid tribute to Speaker Clark. He declared Champ Clark was one of Missouri's greatest citizens, that he served the people of the State in times of peace with an ardor and devotion unequaled by the bravery of heroic soldiers in time of war, and that if the people of the nation had known and regarded Clark as the people of his own county knew him, a different story would be on the pages of history about the Democratic National Convention in Baltimore in 1912 when Clark came so near to the Presidential nomination.

Lessons for American Youth.

The Clark Monument, Mr. Hostetter said in presenting it, will impress on future generations that this is a land of equal opportunity.

"The youth," he said, "can learn from it the lesson that one may with the proper effort rise from lowly and obscure environments to higher and nobler things, and, like Champ Clark, may leave his impression on the age in which he lives; he can learn from it that he can leave the heritage of a good name.

"Probably the greatest lesson which this monument will impart is one much needed in this sordid age when so many public servants are faithless—the lesson of common honesty.

"The fierce light of publicity which enveloped Champ Clark for more than three decades failed to disclose a flaw in his personal honor."

Guardian of Liberty, Says Reed.

Mr. Reed in his address referred to Champ Clark as "the champion of democracy in the forum of the nation."

"He knew that authority feeding upon authority, gathering strength by strength, is likely at any time to overleap the barrier of the Constitution and destroy the liberties of the people," said Senator Reed. "He therefore declared that the reins of power should be firmly held in the hands of the common people.

"A personal participant in many fierce campaigns, it was never suggested that his elections were tainted nor his title to office besmirched."

Former Governor Elliott W. Major of Missouri in an address said of Clark:

"His achievements are among the greatest of the nation's statesmen and the impress of his life upon the fortunes of the Republic will live when other centuries shall have passed with their imperishable glories. The history of the Republic cannot be written without recording his conspicuous public service."

GIVE $18,200 TO CHARITY.

Dolly Sisters to Pass On Money Won in Moulin Rouge Suit.

PARIS, Nov. 13 (AP).—French theatrical charities are to be made richer by $18,200 by the Dolly Sisters. Yancsi and Roszika have announced that they will turn over to the charities the 550,000 francs granted them in a Civil Court action yesterday in their suit against the Moulin Rouge.

The theatre wounded their artistic sensibilities in 1924 by featuring Mistinguette and giving her more money and just as much publicity as they received when their contract provided that the sisters should be the big stars of the show.

The Dolly Sisters are turning over the money to the theatrical charities, as they promised to do if they won.

Teacher Acquitted of Assault.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Ross E. Cameron, school principal at Roscoe, Sullivan County, has been acquitted of a charge of assault for whipping 10-year-old George Master, son of Thomas Master. County Judge George H. Smith of Sullivan County has decided that the teacher was within his rights in administering the thrashing which he did with a piece of rubber hose.

SMITH'S PATRONAGE LARGEST ON RECORD

More Offices at His Disposal Than Any Other Democratic Administration Has Had.

PAY SCALE ALSO IS HIGHER

Changes Are Brought About by the Reorganization of the State Departments on Jan. 1.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Nov. 13.—Patronage worth thousands of dollars will be at the disposal of Governor Alfred E. Smith and the other Democrats who were elected with him, after Jan. 1, when the State Government reorganization is to take effect.

The patronage will be of much greater value and in greater volume than any previous Democratic Administration has ever known. Only about seventy-five places will be at the disposal of Attorney General Albert Ottinger, the only Republican on the State ticket who survived the Democratic landslide on Nov. 2.

Many of the offices which Governor Smith has to fill will carry greater compensation than ever before because, under the act of the Legislature of last year, which was drafted by the Hughes non-partisan commission, the compensation of heads of the various departments is increased because of the additional work which they will be called upon to perform.

Governor Smith, Edwin Corning of Albany, Lieutenant Governor, and Morris S. Tremaine of Buffalo will have much to say in regard to who shall be rewarded by the Democrats. Mr. Corning, however, takes office at a time when the patronage list has been curtailed. Up to now the Lieutenant Governor and the State Fair Commission have had charge of the annual fair at Syracuse, and this has provided many good berths for the faithful. Under the reorganization control of the State Fair passes to the State Council of Farms and Markets. Lieutenant Governor Bowman was the last man to have anything to say in the distribution of places connected with the fair.

As Democratic State Chairman, however, Mr. Corning will not be without influence in the matter of appointments. He will name a private secretary, a couple of stenographers and a messenger for his office, adjoining the Senate Chamber.

Offices for Smith to Fill.

Governor Smith will have the most to say regarding the appointments. He has four most important offices that must be filled after Jan. 1. The head of the Executive Department, at a salary of $12,000 a year, is to be named, and it is the belief here that this post will go to George B. Graves, the present secretary to the Governor. Mr. Graves has been in the State service for more than thirty years.

The head of the new Department of State, which takes over the duties performed by Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp and several additional ones, also is to be named by the Governor. The appointment, however, may not be made before the middle of January, and it must be confirmed by the Senate before the appointee can qualify. This means that Mrs. Knapp will continue to perform the duties of the office until such time as her successor is ready to take charge.

Under the reorganization plan, the office of State Treasurer is abolished and its work is transferred to that of the State Controller. The bureau head doubtless will receive $7,500 a year. Mr. Tremaine, the Controller-elect, will name the head of this bureau, but he probably will consult with Governor Smith before doing so.

The office of State Engineer and Surveyor also is changed to a bureau in the Department of Public Works, of which Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene is the head. The appointment will be made by Colonel Greene, who also will consult with Governor Smith first.

Three big appointments are to be made in the Labor Department. The legislative act of this year provides two new places on the State Industrial Board. The appointees will have charge of the workmen's compensation claims. Richard H. Curran's term expires on Jan. 1. He is likely to be reappointed, but the other two places will be filled at the Governor's pleasure.

A Public Service Commissioner in place of Charles Van Voorhis, Republican, of Rochester, will be named soon after Jan. 1. The appointment of a Democrat will give a majority to that party in the commission.

Judges to Be Appointed.

The term of Judge Sanford W. Smith of Columbia on the Court of Claims also expires and the Governor will have the naming of his successor. The place pays $10,000 a year.

Governor Smith will have the appointment of an Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals to succeed Benjamin N. Cardozo, who was elected Chief Judge.

A State Superintendent of Purchase to succeed Frank R. Utter of Friendship is to be selected early in the session of 1927. The term of the present incumbent expires March 17. Governor Smith and Mr. Utter are close personal friends, but this does not say that Mr. Utter, who is a Republican, will be reappointed. The head of the department has to buy about $3,000,000 worth of supplies for the State annually.

The term of John J. Merrill of the State Tax Commission also expires on Jan. 1. Mr. Merrill is one of the veterans of the commission and it is possible that because of his experience he will be reappointed. Governor Smith named him for the short term. The new appointment, however, will be for a six-year term.

The Motor Vehicle Police Bureau is to be abolished after Jan. 1 and the duties and personnel will be transferred to the State Police Department.

French Seer Invites Penniless Gamblers To Prayer Near Monte Carlo to Avert Peril

PARIS, Nov. 13 (AP).—Penniless gamblers have been particularly invited to a forty-day prayer meeting in the mountains just back of Monte Carlo by Jean Buvais, sage of Notre Dame ds Laghet.

Buvais is organizing the meeting in the hopes of saving Europe from a calamity which he thinks is on its way.

The opening of the meeting will coincide with that of the gambling season and Buvais wants penniless gamblers to seek solace in prayer from the ill-directed shots of the little roulette ball.

So strong is the sage of Notre Dame's power over the peasants and shepherds for miles around that success is assured the meeting, even should every gambler prove prosperous and impenitent.

For forty years Buvais has been foretelling the future. His disciples claim for him a 90 per cent. record of truthful predictions. Until now he has confined himself to predicting losses for the roulette adepts and the fall of French Cabinets within three months.

Jean has now branched out in the more sensational field of world disasters and the prayer meeting is called to prevent "the lost continent of Atlantis arising from the ocean and causing the wickedest section of the world to disappear."

Jean does not include the little principality of Monte Carlo among the wicked and he predicts that Monaco is safe from disaster.

PRINCETON INQUIRY BY CHURCH NOV. 22

Committee From Presbyterian General Assembly to Take Up Seminary Case.

DR. MACHEN, STORM CENTRE

Moderator Heads Investigators Who Are to "Make Sympathetic Study of Conditions."

The first meeting of the committee to investigate Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J., will be held at 2 P. M. on Monday, Nov. 22, in Princeton.

This committee was appointed by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in June, in Baltimore, Md., after that body had declined to confirm the appointment of the Rev. Dr. J. Gresham Machen, who for more than twenty years has been Assistant Professor of New Testament Literature and Exegesis, to the professorship of Apologetics and Christian Ethics.

The Chairman of the committee is the Rev. Dr. William O. Thompson, President Emeritus of Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, who is Moderator of the General Assembly. The other ministers on it are the Rev. Dr. Walter L. Whallou of the Roseville Church, Newark, N. J., and the Rev. Dr. George N. Luccock of the Westminister Church, Wooster, Ohio, who, in Baltimore, was Chairman of the Assembly's Standing Committee on Theological Seminaries. The laymen are United States Senator Richard B. Ernest of Covington, Ky., and Judge Thomas B. Bradley of Chicago. Judge Bradley has served on the Assembly's Executive Commission and also on its Permanent Judicial Commission.

The committee was appointed "to make a sympathetic study of conditions affecting the welfare of Princeton Seminary and to cooperate responsively with seminary leaders in striving to adjust and harmonize differences, and to report to the next Assembly."

Directors and professors frankly admit that they are divided into two distinct groups. At the head of one is the Rev. Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, President of the seminary, and at the head of the other is Dr. Machen. It is around Dr. Machen, author of many books on theology, that the controversy wages. His supporters are determined that he shall be promoted, receiving advancement in salary and honor. A residence goes with the full professorship. The opposition charges that he is disqualified temperamentally for a full professorship and that at a meeting of the New Brunswick Presbytery he did not vote in favor of a resolution endorsing the Eighteenth Amendment and pledging support of the Presbytery to the Volstead law.

WOLFERT'S ROOST DESTROYED BY FIRE

Old Home of David B. Hill Was Originally Built by Joseph K. Emmet.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 13 (AP).—Wolfert's Roost Country Club, just within the north city limits, was virtually destroyed by fire today. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

Mrs. R. Fay, wife of the steward, who was ill in bed when the alarm was sounded, was carried to safety. An effort by employes to check the blaze with hose and hand extinguishers failed. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Wolfert's Roost was a three-story frame and brick building with many unusual architectural features. It was built by the late Joseph K. Emmet, "Friend Fritz," the actor, and later became the home of David B. Hill, one-time Governor of the State, and United States Senator, who died there in 1910.

When the Hill estate was closed the Wolfert's Roost Country Club took the property over. The golf links of the club are frequented by Governor Smith and other well-known persons.

SEEK PLAN TO GUIDE BUSINESS TRAFFIC

West Side Women Aim to Divert Much at 72d Street When Speedway Is Built.

TO GUARD RIVERSIDE PARK

Meeting to Discuss the Problem Will Be Held on Nov. 22 at 41 Riverside Drive.

Every effort will be made to divert business traffic from the proposed west side speedway at a point below or at Seventy-second Street, where the elevated motor highway will enter Riverside Park, it was said yesterday by Mrs. John Clapperton Kerr of 300 Park Avenue, President of the Woman's League for the Protection of Riverside Park. The league, she stated, will hold a neighborhood meeting at the home of Mrs. Frederic Humphreys, 41 Riverside Drive, at 4 P. M. Nov. 22, to discuss plans.

Three topics in all will be up for discussion:

Shall there be a switching yard between Seventy-second and Seventy-ninth Streets, covered or uncovered?

Shall commercial trucking be permitted on the proposed speedway through the park?

How shall the park lands, now being filled in, be developed?

District Chairmen of Park Conditions are Myrtle L. Humphreys, Seventy-second-Seventy-ninth Streets, and Louise G. Crabbe, Seventy-ninth-Ninety-sixth Streets.

"The elevated motor highway, which is to run from Canal to Seventy-second Street, following directly the line of Twelfth Avenue, will come out at the westerly side of the little Y. M. C. A. building at Seventy-second Street," said Mrs. Kerr. "So as not to have a dangerous curve, it will probably strike the railroad tracks at Seventy-seventh or Seventy-ninth Street.

"From time to time the question has come up in our organization as to the development of the section between the present park wall and this new speedway.

"Property owners and residents of that section are vitally interested in the question and it will be very fully discussed at the meeting on Nov. 22.

"As to permitting commercial trucking, realizing that the speedway below Seventy-second Street will be used, not only for the usual pleasure motor traffic, but for a certain amount of heavy trucking as well, residents of the park section are naturally disturbed and every pressure will be brought to bear to carry this traffic straight through as a short cut to Fort Lee Ferry.

"All business traffic should be diverted at some point south of Seventy-second Street, as at Seventy-second Street the speedway will enter the park.

"It must not be forgotten that the outlying section now being filled in is just as much park property and under the jurisdiction of the Park Department as the landscaped area lying between Riverside Drive and the New York Central tracks."

The park lands at present being filled in lie between the present railroad right of way and the bulkhead line.

The value of beautiful natural sites, landscaped waterfront area and the like was emphasized by Mrs. Kerr.

"In this rapidly growing city, with its constantly growing population," she said, "this waterfront is vitally necessary. Fortunately it has been preserved for park purposes. There should be no delay in landscaping and improving this area as soon as the filling in is completed."

SEES NO WORLD GRAIN POOL

Alberta Leader, However, Predicts That System Will Rule Centres.

CALGARY, Alberta, Nov. 13 (AP).—There is no hope of a world-wide wheat pool under a central organization, H. W. Wood, President of the United Farmers of Alberta, asserted today on his return from Australia and the Orient. The pool system, however, will be the dominating factor in the separate grain centres of the world, he believed.

Mr. Wood predicted that the Australian pool would ultimately achieve the fullest measure of success.

BROADWAY TO MARK PROGRESS ON NOV. 17

Celebration to Be Part of City's Tercentenary, Opening Then With Battery Park Fete.

PLANES TO DROP FLOWERS

Parade With Floats to Depict the Growth of Street—Paramount Theatre to Be Opened Friday.

The program for the Greater Broadway celebration in connection with the tercentenary of the founding of New York City will open next Wednesday and continue for three days, ending with the opening of the new Paramount Theatre at Seventh Avenue and Forty-third Street, it was announced yesterday by John E. Gratke, Managing Director of the Broadway Association.

The opening day will be devoted to individual expositions by Broadway merchants, many of whom will offer special sales and distribute souvenirs. Electric light standards from Thirty-fourth to Seventy-fifth Streets will be decorated with shields inscribed "Give a thought to Broadway."

There will be a tercentenary program in Battery Park at noon under the joint auspices of the Broadway Association and the Battery Park Association. Colonel George Vidmer of the Second Corps Area will be grand marshal, and there will be a parade of soldiers from Governors Island and sailors from the New York Navy Yard. A salute will be fired and there will be a flag raising.

The speakers will include Lee J. Eastman, President of the Broadway Association; William Hamlin Childs, President of the Battery Park Association; William B. Roulstone, Major Gen. Charles P. Summerall and Mayor Walker.

Following the exercises at Battery Park a luncheon will be given for the officers, directors and guests of the Broadway Association by the American Surety Company at 100 Broadway. The program will be broadcast.

Planes to Drop Flowers.

On Thursday a group of Fairchild airplanes will fly over Times Square and drop a ton of flowers in the vicinity of the new Paramount Building. "Miss Broadway" will distribute roses thrown from the planes. Motion pictures will be taken of the scene and later shown throughout the country.

During the day merchants will continue their "open house" activities and night clubs will hold special carnivals. Ten thousand colored balloons will be released from the top of the Paramount Building.

A parade will be featured on Friday, the third day of the celebration. It will start at 2 o'clock from Seventy-fourth Street and proceed south along Broadway to a point near Thirty-fourth Street. Colonel Vidmer will be grand marshal. Each float will represent some distinctive picture symbolic of a spirit of progress and deal with the tercentenary year in the history of New York City.

The Broadway Association float will illustrate the growth of New York and of Broadway from a winding country lane. It will show Battery Park as it was in the early days with Castle Garden, now the Aquarium, as the first milepost. The scene will continue to Bowling Green and 1 Broadway, the site of the first fort. The present skyline of the city will be incinded, with Father Knickerbocker proclaiming his position on top of the world. The float will be presented to the association by Frank J. Campbell, a director. Many other floats are entered.

Soldiers and Sailors Parade.

Soldiers from Governors Island and sailors from the Navy Yard will be in line, together with a score of bands. Gold and silver cups will be offered as prizes for the best floats, bands, finest decorated cars and the most outstanding street decoration.

The celebration will conclude in the evening with the welcoming of the new Paramount Building to Broadway and the official opening of the Paramount Theatre. Invitations have been sent to 4,500 guests, including Governor Smith, Mayor Walker, Thomas A. Edison and others. President Eastman of the Broadway Association will be master of ceremonies. A bronze tablet will be presented to Adolph Zukor and a tribute will be paid to Mr. Edison as the inventor of the motion picture. Mayor Walker and Frederick A. Wallis are announced as the speakers.

The second half of the performance will be a Famous Players film showing the rise of American independence.

One of the outstanding decorations will be in front of the Hotel Astor in the shape of a reproduction in miniature of Times Square as it appeared 124 years ago. It was designed by Edward G. Unitt, a landscape architect, under the direction of Frederick Muschenheim, proprietor of the Hotel Astor.

WOMEN PROMISE MAIDS NO NAGGING, RADIO, CAR

London Matrons Also Hold Out Lots of Free Time as an Inducement to Service.

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP).—No nagging, ten weeks' vacation, plenty of fresh eggs and bacon, radios and the use of an automobile are all inducements offered by wealthy London women in search of domestic help, so difficult to get these days. Here are a few "want" ads. from London newspapers:

Housemaids—Ten weeks' holiday in the year, with board and wages. Use of car now and then.

House, Parlor Maid—Electric light and central heat throughout, also radio. Outings assisted by car if desired.

Maid—Good outings, also whole day and night every three weeks. Plenty of fresh eggs and bacon.

Cook, General—Good outings and week-end once a month. No nagging.

Cook, General—Help given, good wages and outings. Own bathroom, heat, light and radio.

'Shop Early' Posters Out, Bearing New's Signature

Members of the Retail Dry Goods Association inaugurated their early Christmas shopping campaign yesterday by displaying posters in all stores reading:

"The Government would be grateful if you would shop early, wrap carefully, address plainly and mail promptly."

W. De Saussure Trenholm, Secretary of the association, announced that Postmaster General Harry S. New had authorized the use of his signature. Copies of the posters in miniature also are being mailed to customers of all of the association's stores.

NEW HAVEN SUBMITS FARE INCREASE DATA

Files Fifty Pages of Figures on Expenses With Commuters' Counsel, Who Fight Rise.

REBATES STILL ARE HELD

Slips Given to Passengers at Order of Court Represent $500,000 in Westchester Alone.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Fifty pages of figures, dealing with passenger traffic, wages, running expenses, the "wheelage unit" cost to the railroad, the density of traffic, and the cost per mile to carry a full fare passenger, and a commuting passenger, on its trains have been filed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company with the counsel representing Westchester County commuters of the road. The commuters' fight to reduce a 40 per cent. increase in commutation rates, granted by the Public Service Commission and effective in August, 1925, has been pending since last Spring.

Corporation Counsel Hugh M. Hewson of Mount Vernon, who has retained Dr. John Bauer, expert statistician on rate cases of the office of the Corporation Counsel of the City of New York, Corporation Counsel Charles A. Van Auken of New Rochelle, and his expert, Dr. Milo Malthie of New York City, are studying the figures, and it is expected that fully a month will be required to digest the data needed to prosecute the contention of the commuters that the fare granted was unjust. The figures were ordered submitted by the Public Service Commission last Spring, when that body granted to the commuters a rehearing of the case.

Give Data on Expenses.

Figures are given on all expenses of any kind connected with the operation of a half dozen commuter trains entering New York City between 7:30 and 9 A. M. and a half dozen similar trains leaving New York between 4:30 and 6 o'clock P. M. The data are based on commuter trains, the point of origin taken being New Rochelle, made up of multiple unit cars each week with a seating capacity of seventy-two passengers. They show that there is one trainman to every two or three cars, and that one conductor has charge of the entire train. The expenses paid by the New Haven to the New York Central Road for the use of joint facilities, both in trackage and in Grand Central Terminal, are also shown.

Compared with these expenses are the figures dealing with a dozen full fare trains, six entering New York and six leaving. Each sheet of figures is about two feet wide by fifty inches long.

Mr. Hewson's Stand.

Mr. Hewson sums up his stand as follows:

"The railroad, to substantiate its claim that commutation rates should be increased, has lumped the expenses for operation of all types of trains, the carrying of all kinds of passengers, and divided the fares received by the number of passengers carried, and has taken the resultant figure and has said that this is the amount that a commuter should pay. If this is so the full fare passenger is being overcharged. Our contention is that a commuting passenger, a regular source of income, should not be called upon to pay the carrying charges of an infrequent passenger. The commuter paid a just rate, and we regard the 40 per cent. increase as exorbitant. We do not deny the railroad its just due, nor do we ask that it lose money in carrying commuters, but we want to find out just what the expense for carrying a commuting passenger is, and we don't want that amount to be figured by dividing all receipts by all passengers, and then presenting the amount to us and saying, 'Here it is.' That argument is disposed of by imagining a fruit stand with ten apples selling for ten cents and ten selling for five cents. The labor expended in preparing each for sale is thought by the proprietor to be too high. He adds up the retail cost of each, divides by twenty and sells his five-cent apple for seven and a half cents."

Big Sum in Rebates Held.

When the rate increase became effective application for an injunction to restrain the railroad was made to Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins, who intimated that he would grant the injunction unless the company agreed to issue a rebate slip for the difference between the old and new charges. This was done. Commuters have been holding those slips for more than a year, and it is estimated that in the Westchester communities from Mount Vernon to Port Chester fully half a million dollars' worth of slips is being held.

A conference between Mr. Hewson, Corporation Counsel Nicholson of New York and Assistant Corporation Counsel Devery of Mr. Nicholson's office will be held this week, with a view to starting work on the compiling of the needed information from the railroad company's fifty sheets of figures.

With the conclusion of the Long Island fare hearings it is expected that the New Haven fare rate case will be resumed by the Public Service Commission early in January.

GREECE NEARING END OF NATIONAL UNREST

Recent Elections Viewed as the Definite Beginning of Constitutional Era.

REGIME HELD SECONDARY

Whether Country Will Do Better Under King or President Is for Later Decision.

KONDYLIS TO QUIT SOON

He Is Expected to Hand Over the Government Before Nov. 26, When Parliament Convenes.

By ERNEST MARSHALL.

Copyright, 1926, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, Nov. 13.—Greece has reached the turning point in her political fortunes, in the opinion of many sound observers, who consider that the road to tranquility and stability now lies open before her. During this week, following the elections of last Sunday, I have talked with every leading politician in Athens and every one received THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent with alacrity and expressed his views without hesitation.

There was a practical consensus of opinion on two important points—first, that the era of military dictatorships had ended and a period of constitutional government by democracy begun; second, that the electorate had taken full advantage of the opportunity given to register its demand for a truce during which it could take stock of its immediate necessities, leaving for future decision the question of the régime under which the nation would best be able to work out its destinies.

Elections Taught a Lesson.

It is true that political cleavages still remain wide open and the feuds and animosities which have raged during the past ten years retain their bitterness. But all parties appear to have been seriously impressed by what is regarded as the chief lesson taught by the elections, which showed an overwhelming majority in favor of more moderate-minded leaders in all parties. Some politicians as yet refuse to admit the fact publicly, but even in the entourages of the extremists wise counsels are finding voice.

General Metaxas, leader of the "free opinion" party, is a protagonist of this new tendency in Greek politics. He is a monarchist by conviction but a democratic constitutionalist in practice.

"The country is not yet ready to pronounce a decision as to what régime it prefers. Recent history has been too tromblous to enable it to arrive at sound judgment. "I am a realist in politics," said Metaxas. "We must not sacrifice realities on the altar of the ideal. The time will come when we may be able to realise our ideals."

Metaxas in Good Position.

Metaxas will have a following of about fifty-five members of the National Assembly when the final distribution of seats under the system of proportional representation is worked out. The Republican parties have a majority of the Chamber, but the Metaxas supporters will not be a negligible quantity and may conceivably be in a position to impose their influence at critical moments. Metaxas has been called a renegade apostate by former friends, who are keeping the royalist banner flying. After fighting three wars he resigned from the army in order to devote himself to working for peace. "What we want in our internal affairs is peace," he said. "We cannot gain domestic peace by perpetuating the feuds and hatreds of civil war. Let us look to the future, not keep our eyes on the past. Time is on our side. I am convinced that the majority of my countrymen in their hearts favor a constitutional monarchy, but the first essential is to have peace."

Tsaldaris, leader of the royalists, who sought election on a constitutional issue, holds that memories of the bloodshed which marked the revolutionary régime of Colonel Plastiras, partisan of Venizelos, are too acute for compromise. Tsaldaris maintains that, even under the conditions which obtained, last Sunday's elections did not represent the real opinion of the country. "The refugee votes," he says, "were in great measure the result of misrepresentation and inadequate knowledge on the part of voters. The majorities which the Republicans claim require revision. There must be strict scrutiny of the distribution of seats under the proportional representation plan. General Kondylis issued mendacious statements even before the polls closed."

Tsaldaris's Party Anti-Republican.

Tsaldaris's following fought the election under the name of the Popular Party, for while there was no concealment of their anti-republican principles, they professed not to be seeking the immediate restoration of a monarchy. The republicans derided their professions and pointed out that their newspapers on and before election day displayed royal photographs and emblems on their front pages. Republican leaders, on their side, contend that Sunday's returns fully confirmed the results of the 1924 election and established once and for ever the republican régime in Greece.

Kaphandaris and Michaelacopoulos, who are practically joint leaders of the Union of Republican Parties, point to the total vote cast for their respective candidates by other Republican groups which retain their independence of viewpoint in matters of minor detail, as indicating an absolute victory over the monarchist opposition. Their majority in the Assembly would have been much larger, they contend, if there had been a straight vote instead of proportional representation. Parenthetically it may be mentioned that nearly all party leaders agreed in condemning proportional representation as an unsatisfactory system for a country where issues of first importance require the decision of a substantial majority.

Michaelacopoulos, who is among the youngest party leaders, was formerly a royalist, but embraced republicanism because he believed that reversion to the old régime would intensify domestic differences in the country. He is conservative in his policy and is convinced that Greece only requires a period of tranquility to establish itself in a secure position of economic and political stability.

Transfer of Rule Awaited.

There remains still the question of the transfer of power from the present administration of General Kondylis to a Government constitutionally appointed.

Parliament is due to assemble Nov. 26, and there is little doubt that by that date Kaphandaris and Michaelacopoulos will have been summoned by the President of the republic and have formed a Cabinet into whose hands Kondylis will transfer the government.

This is necessarily only a broad outline of the situation as it presents itself today. The complexities of Greek politics are too great to permit a detailed exposure. Even now there are observers who, looking back over the events of recent years, take a pessimistic view of the future and fear history may merely repeat itself. After weighing all opinions in the balance, the scales may be said to be decidedly in favor of a more hopeful outlook. At the very least, danger of another military coup d'état is universally judged to have been definitely averted.

In a dispatch from Mr. Marshall from Athens on Friday, published in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday morning, he quoted General Kondylis, President of the Council, as expressing the view that the elections demonstrated beyond the possibility of doubt the preference of the people for a republic. The General said he believed also that while the Republicans, as a whole, had a majority in Parliament, the fact that no single Republican faction would have a working majority might necessitate another election before a constitutional government could definitely be assured.

General Kondylis told THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that he was ready to turn over the reins to any government which would insure a proper administration of the country by constitutional methods. In case what he termed "a Cabinet of concentration" could be formed before the National Assembly met, he nevertheless would tender his resignation and, as he put it, "leave to the leaders of the party which constitutes the strongest group in Parliament the task of holding new elections."

NICARAGUAN LIBERALS DO NOT ACCEPT DIAZ

Failure of Peace Conference at Corinto May Endanger the $5,000,000 Coffee Crop.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Nov. 13.—Adolfo Diaz, whose inauguration as President of Nicaragua takes place tomorrow, is not acceptable to the Liberals, according to an interview given the Star Herald by Ignacio Gonsales, wealthy coffee planter, a recent arrival in Panama by way of Nicaragua. He stated that dissatisfaction of the Liberals with Señor Diaz had been caused by the failure of the recent peace conference aboard the U. S. S. Denver at Corinto, "their only insistence," he said, "is that the Chamorro representative of Adolfo Diaz be named to assume the Presidency in case General Chamorro withdrew. To all other clauses the Liberals agreed and state further that they would be satisfied with a conservative President of Liberals choosing or would accept a Liberal President selected by Conservatives. This was the stumbling block which had plunged the country in a state of war, with attendant evils. It is truly unfortunate. As things now stand if hostilities continue but little longer the coffee crop of the country will be ruined, at an approximate loss of $5,000,000." Gonsales expects to remain in Panama until conditions in Nicaragua become more settled.

ADMITS KILLING HUSBAND.

Mrs. Brackett Confesses Shooting Him at His New Hampshire Home.

COLEBROOK, N. H., Nov. 13 (AP).—Mrs. Ella Brackett after several hours of questioning confessed early today to the police that she shot and killed her husband, Samuel, Thursday night. William Perry, who had driven Brackett from the farm where he worked to his home, witnessed the killing, she said, and carried the body from the shed where the shooting occurred to the bedroom where it was found yesterday.

No charges have been lodged against either pending the arrival of Attorney General Jeremy Waidron, who will take charge of the case.

Perry is said to have told the officers that he assisted Mrs. Brackett through fear, and that he started to notify the Sheriff later but lost his courage and said nothing about the tragedy.

RUSSIANS AROUSED OVER CRIME WAVE

Indignant Citizens Demand Quick Death for Hooligans Who Attack Women.

SPEEDY RELIEF CALLED FOR

Soviet Officials and Communist Publicists Discuss Methods of Combating Menace to Nation.

Details of the spread of hooliganism in Russian cities, found in late issues of Moscow and Leningrad newspapers, explain a recent cablegram from Riga reporting that the Council of People's Commissars had approved the restriction of the sale of liquor as part of a campaign against the rowdyism that had become a menace to peaceable citizens of the Soviet Republic.

According to some of these newspaper reports, the situation has become so desperate that at a conference of the Council of People's Commissars on this subject a number of Government officials asserted that the death penalty should be applied by the wholesale if necessary to intimidate the loafers of all ages who were making the streets unsafe for women and girls. Several executions were said to have already taken place.

The Krasnaya Gazeta of Leningrad, as quoted by the Berlin bulletin of the Russian Social Democrats, says that it is receiving scores of letters in which the demand is made for the shooting down of the hooligans on the spot without trial. A group of forty women called for the public execution of such criminals. One woman insists that they be thrown to the wild beasts in the zoo, while hundreds of persons, including forty girl medical students, call for surgical action calculated to discourage certain classes of criminals.

Apache Map of Leningrad.

In its issue of Sept. 12 the Krasnaya Gazeta printed a map showing the quarters of Leningrad especially haunted by bands of apaches. The map was embellished by the sketch of a bandit looking vicious enough to have stepped out of the pages of "The Pirates' Own Book." One of the sections infested by hooligans includes a street named after Karl Liebknecht, the German Communist leader murdered by reactionary army officers early in 1919, while another is bordered by Pushkin Street.

Data published by Trud, central organ of the Russian Trade Unions, put the number of cases of banditry in the first quarter of the year at 15,000 in the territory of the Russian Socialist Federated Soviet Republics (Great Russia). In Leningrad 13,000 cases were recorded in six months. In Rostof-on-Don of 342 apaches held for trial in six months, 142 were classified as workers, some of whom were young men employed in factories. The fact that hooliganism is not confined to the unemployed and to the young persons "graduated" from the ranks of the homeless wandering children of Russia, whose care constitutes one of the hardest problems of the Soviet Government, is being commented upon with surprise in the Russian press at home and abroad.

Numerous raids upon the haunts of the apaches have resulted in many arrests and convictions, about 1,500 criminals having been jailed during a comparatively brief period. According to a report made by Nakhimson, a high Soviet official of Leningrad, 88 per cent. of the crimes are committed by hooligans in a state of intoxication and 95 per cent. of the apaches spend their leisure time in cabarets.

Jail Shortage in Sight.

In connection with the crime wave the director of the Russian prisons recently pointed out that the number of prisoners was increasing so fast that there soon would be no place to accommodate them all and that what made matters worse was the fact that the Government had no money to build new jails.

Writing on the subject of hooliganism in the central organ of the Russian Communist Party, Pravda, Mme. Krupskaya, widow of Lenin, attributes the rapid increase of crime among young people largely to the lack of schools in the villages and the failure of the authorities to provide the rising generation with something useful to do.

Commissar Semashko, head of the Russian health service, recently wrote an article for Krasnaya Gazeta on "The Physicology of Hooliganism," in which, as quoted by La Russie Opprimée of Paris, he said:

"The development of social sentiments and ideas, and in particular of the sense of discipline and of revolutionary order, the respect for the work of others and for the product of this work—this is the road we should follow if we want to exterminate hooliganism. We do not as yet possess a real 'physicology of labor.' We should excite enthusiasm in labor and for labor. We should cultivate the love of work and respect for all objects of personal and social use.

"The traces of the mentality translated by the formula 'steal that which has been stolen' still persists here and there among the peasants, and they find expression in acts of hooliganism in the cities. These traces must be burned out with a hot iron. This is the way to tear out the physicological roots of hooliganism."

Some Young Communists Involved.

In a long treatise on hooliganism printed by Pravda, M. Sosnovky devotes especial attention to the crimes committed against women and girls, saying:

"It has been proved that the crimes mentioned above were committed for the most part by young workingmen. But there were also among them persons of maturer age. Men of 50 participated in these exploits along with boys of 14. Furthermore, they were not all non-party men. There were some members of the Communist Youth Organization among them. We cannot blame everything upon the failure of the militia to watch out. • • •

"It is our fault if we surround brigandage with a cloud of incense. We must win a moral victory over these native customs, for only such a victory will make it possible for the Administration to combat this scourge. The militia can not win the battle alone.

"I have been asked if it is a good thing to make such a noise about brigandage before the eyes of Europe. First of all, it is certain that it is necessary to look after hygiene, not for strangers but for our own health. When this work is done we shall be able to show the results of our efforts to foreigners. It is impossible to dissimulate any longer about this scourge."

In making long quotations from the Soviet press on the subject of hooliganism the papers published abroad by Russian émigrés take especial pains to hold the Communist régime and its propaganda responsible for the crime wave.

FILIPINO LAWMAKERS ATTACK WOOD'S ORDER

Supreme Council and Members of Legislature Denounce Abolition of the Board of Control.

MANILA, Nov. 13 (AP).—Filipino statesmen, agitated over the recent order of Governor General Wood abolishing the Board of Control, the governing body of all Government-owned corporations in the Philippine Islands, met in Manila. Attendance was confined to members of the National Supreme Council and members of the Legislature who reside here, but this group totaled nearly 100.

The consensus was that General Wood should be told that members of the Legislature consider this order arbitrary and unwarranted. The action of the Governor General makes the directors of Government-owned corporations solely responsible to him. The Board of Control was abolished because it invaded the executive powers granted to General Wood by Congress, and because its two Filipino members, the Speaker of the House and President of the Senate, were holding two public offices.

A committee of three was appointed to study various proposals for testing the executive order and to report to the full membership of the Legislature next Wednesday the line of action to be pursued.

Besides ordering a letter drafted to be sent to General Wood giving him the opinion of the meeting today, telegrams were ordered sent to all members of the Legislature to return to Manila and convene there as the Filipino Independence Commission, which consists of all members of the Legislature.

Several Filipino-owned newspapers expressed the hope that General Wood would call a special session of the Legislature to allow that body to pass a law providing for a new board of control with the objectionable features eliminated, but the Governor General has given no intimation that he will do so.

The native press was almost unanimous in denouncing the abolishment order as oppressive and tyrannical, and one which curtails Philippine autonomy.

LEAGUE NEGLECTS THE EAST, HE SAYS

It Is "Purely a European House Party," Asserts Dhan Gopal Mukerji, Indian Writer.

ASIA AS TROUBLE SOURCE

Reported Consolidation of These Powers Manifestation of Possible Outbreak, He Says.

The League of Nations is at present "a purely European house party," according to Dhan Gopal Mukerji, Indian writer and student of politics, who returned yesterday on the United States liner President Harding after two months at Geneva. Mr. Murkerji said the League was the finest thing possible for Western Europe and praised it for having definitely ended the war between France and Germany, but he insisted that it paid little attention to Eastern diplomacy and charged it with neglect of the East.

"The League members pay no attention to Asiatic affairs except those of Japan, and Japan is to all intents virtually a Western nation," he said. "This is unfortunate, for Asia is certainly a possible source of trouble.

"China is already becoming a menace to peace because of the machinations of the Bolsheviki. Turkey and Persia are likely to become trouble centres for the same reasons. The supposed consolidation of six Asiatic powers under the leadership of Soviet Russia about which I read in the morning papers is a manifestation of this. Naturally there will be consolidation on the part of these 'pariah' countries if they are neglected by the League."

Mr. Mukerji said he did not consider his own country, India, a possible trouble centre, as most of her inhabitants believed in the non-violence which was taught them by Ghandi. He said he thought her domestic situation could also be solved if she received home rule within the British Empire within, say, five years.

He said he regretted to learn from President Coolidge's speech that this country would probably not join the World Court.

"The best Europeans feel that America could still become leader of the world if she would only make some grand gestnre of idealism," he said.

PREMIERS' RICH FEASTS MAKE DETECTIVES ILL

Guards Get Indigestion From British Banquets, but King and Bruce Grow Fat.

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP).—Detectives cannot eat as much rich food as diplomats, if the experiences of Scotland Yard operatives assigned to guard the Dominion Prime Ministers at the Imperial Conference are any criterion. The detectives have been suffering from indigestion after attending banquets every night for three weeks.

Premier Mackenzie King of Canada and Stanley M. Bruce of Australia have withstood the royal banqueting even better than any of the other Prime Ministers, and have actually taken on weight.

The detectives, on the other hand, have become pale and worried in appearance, though they are hanging on gamely at the call of duty.

BERLIN WILL WAR ON RATS.

Police Order Three-Day Massacre Regardless of Weapons Used.

BERLIN, Nov. 13 (AP).—A three-day war on rats will begin here a week from today. Poison, popguns, small calibred rifles, fox terriers, rat-traps and any other method for exterminating the pernicious vermin will be in order.

The call to arms is not merely an appeal to the populace. On the contrary it constitutes an emphatic injunction to all house and landowners to slay. Disregard of the order will be punishable by a fine up to 150 marks, regardless of whether rats were ever observed on a premises or not.

During the three days while the battle rages, free access must be granted to all apartments so that landlords may readily place rat poison. When the war of extermination is over, beginning Nov. 22, the police, in conjunction with officers of the municipal board of disinfection, will subject all premises to a sharp control to determine whether the regulations have been properly complied with.

RARE VOLUMES TO BE SOLD.

Shakespeare First Editions to Be Offered at Sotheby's.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Copies of the first edition of Shakespeare's Poeme, printed in 1640, will be sold at the initial book sale of the season at Sotheby's on Monday. Several plays by Shakespeare's contemporaries, to one of which, "Birth of Merlin," Shakespeare is thought to have contributed, will also be offered.

A Kilmarnock edition of Burns is among numerous other rare items to be auctioned.

of which Major John F. Warner, the Governor's son-in-law, is head. The force will be increased by 102 new men. Doubless many of the "Brownies" will be cared for in the new department, although some new faces also may appear.

On July 1 next the term of the present State Superintendent of Insurance, James A. Beha of New York, will expire. The salary of the office after Jan. 1 will be $12,000 a year.

A member of the Black River Regulating District to succeed Harry E. Lewis is to be named by the Governor.

In addition to this the Governor will have the appointment of several honorary posts. The term of W. Averell Harriman of Arden as a member of the Palisades Park Commission will end on Feb. 1, and on March 5 the Governor may name a Commissioner of the Niagara State Reservation, owing to the expiration of the term of Ansley Wilcox of Buffalo. These places pay no salaries.

Trusteeships of various State college and school boards also are to be named by Governor Smith.

Controller-elect Tremaine will appoint several deputies for his office, as well as a secretary. Several hundred clerkships, stenographers and other positions also will be filled by the Democrats.

DECLARES RUSSIA IS LEAGUE'S ENEMY

But even Mussolini, he added, had not, "in his proudest moment" spoken against the League of Nations, but on the contrary had seemed most anxious that the Italian representatives "should be given front seats."

Calls Russia League's Enemy.

"The greatest enemy of the League at present is Soviet Russia," asserted the professor. "It regards the League as its chief enemy inasmuch as the League is based upon the continuance of parliamentary governments and is the great buttress of the existing order which may make the world better and better and prevent the world revolution. What is the remedy? Now that Germany is in, the next thing is to get Russia into the League."

He expressed the hope that the treaty between Russia and Germany might be of aid in bringing about this result, then talked briefly of disarmament, contending that progress toward that end is being made, as there appeared no prospect of competitive armament schedules, and the tendency was downward rather than upward.

Dr. Jackh, who said he spoke in a language that was new to him, but which he used fluently, went over ten years of Germany's history since the League was first proposed and Germany expressed her faith in it, only to be excluded and disillusioned, and, finally, in the last year admitted. Of the admission he said:

"It is historical as an expression of a new Europe, a new age, a new world. Yes, it is growing up—a new Europe, new in regard to body and organization. Germany has felt and tasted heaven and hell, and therefore is converted and convinced."

Dr. Jackh gave credit to the philosopher Kant for working out a system which he had called the League of Nations and read a list of Germans who had prophesied a League. The idea had not been and is not now for the confidence since Thoiry that sign to Germany, he insisted, but he gave President Wilson credit for "having molded a human ideal into practical use." After speaking of the discouragement of the Germans following Versailles, he said:

"Nevertheless some of us were able to discriminate between Versailles and Geneva—Versailles as an expression of war psychosis and Geneva as a beginning of peace possibilities; Versailles as an application of old principles and Geneva as the eve of a new system and even more, Geneva as a remedy against Versailles."

Explains Germany's Position.

Of Germany's position in Europe now he said:

"Your United States is a closed circle, an entirely independent continent. Germany is an entirely interdependent centre, the central point of a circle; the point of weakest resistance against any attack. Germany is the centre of all European problems, not by choice nor by fate, but by geographical fate. This geographical fate is the decisive political fact. The political fact of being the centre of Europe, not an outsider like Spain or an alien like Brazil, shows the inevitable necessity and the very importance of Germany's membership in the League of Nations.

"As a member of the League of Nations there is a goal which Germany is striving for; that is to foster and further the League's development into a democratic and universal organization. Possibly the German treaty with Russia may bring Russia some day into the League, but Germany will not urge Russia or any other nation, though it may serve as a bridge between the East and the West. There are other German aims, disarmament or restriction of armaments, not only for Germany but also for the other powers."

Toward his conclusion Dr. Jackh brought up one point over which there still is controversy. He said:

"The members of the League are on equal terms. Consequently it is a contradiction that Germany, as an honorable member of the League, is dishonored and burdened through occupation by foreign troops. But I do not think the settlement of this question will require intervention by the League. I have the impression from Geneva and the confidence, since Thoiry, that France and Germany will settle this question by direct mutual understanding. All these questions are problems no more, but only matters of technicality, the fundamental principles of French-German cooperation being established by both sides of the Rhine.

"Looking back at my experience as a member of the German delegations from Versailles to Geneva," he concluded, "I may say that America decided the last outcome of the World War; America decided the first revision of the Versailles peace; America decided the first foundation of the League of Nations. America is the architect of a new world. And what will be the new Germany's mission? I hope that history will some day prove the old scriptural saying: 'The stone which the builders rejected, the same has become the cornerstone.'"

Raises Unfairness Issue.

Following Dr. Jackh's speech, which was vigorously applauded, Robert Morss Lovett of The New Republic raised some questions inferring that the great powers in the League were not treating fairly between themselves or with the League. He raised points concerning the British action in relation to Turkey and China, all of which were answered by Professor Murray adequately. In the Turkish matter Professor Murray held that the misunderstanding resulted from Lord Curzon's misinterpretation of the League Covenant. As to Mr. Lovett's condemnation of Great Britain for not expressing regrets over the Chinese affair with the British gunboats, Professor Murray said:

"A nation never repents and never regrets. What it does is to turn the party out of office."

Mr. Lovett also raised the question whether the entrance of the United States into the League might bring about the settlement of the debt questions and make for better relations, or whether it would increase feelings of hostility. Professor Murray answered:

"I think it is almost certain that the question of debt settlements would be excluded at once. That has been done before. But the entrance of the United States into the League would undoubtedly greatly strengthen friendly relations between this country and others."

$500 FOR LOSS OF FOOT IS HELD INADEQUATE

New Jersey Supreme Court Orders New Trial for Lodi Man—Rules in Other Damage Cases.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 13.—In the opinion of the Supreme Court, $500 is wholly inadequate to compensate a man for the loss of his foot through circumstances for which he is not to blame. The Court so held today in ordering a new trial in a suit brought by Joseph Sardo Infirri of Lodi against Charles Stasiak, Passaic auto bus operator, for injuries sustained when a wheel of the vehicle crushed Infirri's left foot.

Infirri, a presser, alleged that he was out of work for more than two years, due to the injury, and that he was unable now to follow his former occupation. He said he had been making $70 a week. "The award of $500 is so ridiculously inadequate that it shocks the sense of justice and stamps the verdict as the result of mistake, partiality, passion or prejudice on the part of the jury," the Court said.

A damage award of $1,250 won by Mildred Lawrence of Denville for injuries received when she tripped and fell over a signal box while crossing the tracks of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, was reversed by the Supreme Court on the ground that the misbap was not due to negligence on the part of the railroad.

George K. Fitzsimons of Summit lost his fight to have set aside a verdict of $2,000 awarded to Miss Margaret S. Campbell of East Orange in a breach of promise suit.

An application by the Town of Kearny asking the Supreme Court to fix a tax assessment on property of the Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., for 1925 was denied.

Charges of negligence against the Dreamland Coaster Company were sustained in an opinion affirming a verdict of $4,500 in favor of Andrew A. Jackson of Perth Amboy for the death of his brother, Robert E. Jackson, who was thrown from a car of a riding device in an amusement park.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Disagreement as to the mentality of a Brighton boy of 8 years, who thought Lord Roberts was Robinson Crusoe, was expressed in the Brighton Court this week by a schoolmaster and a physician.

The boy's father had asked the Court to send the boy to a reformatory because of incorrigibility. The schoolmaster said the lad was up to the average and that his work in school was up to standard. The physician declared him to be mentally defective.

Among the boy's other answers to questions asked by the doctor were the following:

Christmas Day always comes on Saturday and New Year's Day comes on Thursday in December."

Asked how many inches there are in a yard, the boy said "sixty-four minutes."

The boy also declared that he did not know who the King of England was.

POVERTY ON DECLINE, CHARITY BOARD SAYS

Tuberculosis Rate Cut and Wage-Earners Are Better Off, Report Declares.

$1,267,000 NEEDED IN YEAR

Association for Helping the Poor Declares Dollar Goes Further Than Ever Before.

The Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor aided 33,415 persons, of whom 21,720 were children, during the fiscal year which ended on Oct. 1, according to a preliminary report made public yesterday by Cornelius N. Bliss, President of the organization. Mr. Bliss reported a decreased mortality from tuberculosis, which has produced the greatest amount of poverty and dependency.

Some of the other causes for decreasing poverty are, the report says, workmen's compensation, decreased immigration and the ability of the wage-earners to purchase suitable standards of living. Mr. Bliss said that 6,552 families had been assisted and the service of the association included 103,172 visits by nurses and field workers among the sick poor of Manhattan and the Bronx.

"The Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, entering its eighty-fourth year of service, appeals to the public for support in raising its 1926-1927 budget amounting to $1,267,000," said Mr. Bliss.

"Until recently the work consisted almost entirely of giving temporary relief in cases of very dire need. Families in need of care until they could become self-supporting were either broken up and cared for in institutions, or allowed to drift in the community without adequate care until suffering caused them eventually to break up. The sum total of poverty and despondency was being diminished in no appreciable extent. Today, however, there is much to encourage social workers and the public which supports this work. The size of the sickness, dependent and poverty groups in less appalling. That is why it is more possible today to secure a larger measure of permanent, beneficial results. The dollar expended today by the association counts for more, we believe, in permanent benefits and improvement than ever before in the history of the organization."

The officers elected for the ensuing year include Mr. Bliss, President; Percy P. Pyne, R. Fulton Cutting, Dwight W. Morrow and Albert G. Milbank, Vice Presidents; George Blagden, Treasurer; Acosta Nichols, Secretary; George W. Wickersham, counsel, and Bailey B. Burritt, general director.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—From Boris Davis I have the findings of a survey of Japan made by him in the interest of the Institute of Pacific Relations, of which he is General Secretary. By his official status, by relationships established in former visits, by introductions of an exceptional kind, combined with working command of the language of the country, Mr. Davis gained contacts not available to the ordinary or even to the exceptional visitor.

Comparing the conditions of today with those of four years ago, when Japan was riding the wave of post-war prosperity, Mr. Davis was struck with the increased seriousness of the Japanese people. This change he attributes to two circumstances: First, the earthquake that wiped out Japan's greatest commercial city and destroyed five-thirds of her capital. Second, the American Exclusion act of 1924.

The Japanese people took the earthquake as a challenge to their determination and resourcefulness. They were desperately hit by the loss of 75,000 lives and 10,000,000,000 yen, but they came back with a spirit that won the admiration of the world, made enormous loans from the powers, began digging corpses from the ruins and laying out their prostrate city on broader lines. Already a new Tokio is rising from the ashes of the old. It is a Tokio with magnificent asphalted boulevards, sewers and other notable developments, including parks and playgrounds and concrete public buildings. Sore as was the wound, time, hard work and heavy taxation are healing its scars.

But the wound of American exclusion is of another and deeper kind, accepted with outward calm but with inward heart-burning and revolt. "You may think," said a Japanese statesman of high authority to Mr. Davis "that the exclusion question is settled, but it is not and never will be settled until it is settled right."—Settled right, in the Japanese view, means removal of discrimination. Their ambition is to be received on the same basis as other civilized nations of the world and they will not be content until this has been achieved. To be treated upon an equality with China and the nations of the Barred Zone act does not satisfy them. In their view they have qualified by Western standards—by commercial and industrial development, by artistic, scientific and intellectual achievement. They have passed the tests of fraternity with Western powers, and now to be black-balled on the score of social undesirability lets them down with a dull thud.

The Japanese regard it as illogical and unfair to classify them with Asiatics on the basis of color, background and geography. In their own view they line up with the Occidental rather than the Oriental peoples. And until America grasps this point it can not understand the psychology of the Japanese as related to exclusion. Although performing the miracle of history in changing from Eastern to Western standards, the Japanese have failed in making the first practical demonstration of that miracle in the field of inter-racial relationships. It has worked out at each successive point but this—it cannot change the color of their skin, their psychology or their social inhibitions.

Unquestionably the Japanese feel nearer to the West than to the East. In burning the bridges joining them with Asia they have created a wider gap between the Chinese and themselves than between themselves and the Western peoples. Rejected by the white man after seventy years of training with him, they now find a chasm between themselves, and their Asiatic neighbors.

No Pan-Asiatic Movement.

Mr. Davis found no evidence of a Pan-Asiatic movement in Japan. The leadership of Japan is not thinking in these terms. Although Japan has cast in her lot with the West and is too wise to encourage a movement that would nullify what she has achieved, she cannot get away from the fact that she is an Asiatic race. The harmony of her relations has been broken, but a thing that cannot be destroyed is the solidarity of interests between Japan and her neighboring nations.

Thrown back upon themselves, the Japanese are convinced that they can hope for little help from outside, and that they must find a solution for their own problems. The first and perhaps the greatest of these is the peril of over-population, with the consequent need of an emigration outlet. Among them men of practical wisdom believe that this problem may be met for the next two or three generations. They look to an augmentation of the food supply by impounding mountain torrents, by reclaiming areas not periodically inundated, by development of water power, by seed selection, by scientific use of fertilizers, by rotation of crops and by cattle raising on upland pastures. It is estimated that by intensive scientific cultivation the land now in use can be made to double its yield. Government surveys show that in time land equal to the present area under cultivation can be reclaimed. It will be hard, painful, slow work, but it is possible.

"Japan's population has doubled in sixty years, but her food supply also has doubled," the President of a hydroelectric corporation told Mr. Davis. "I am not worried over the matter of feeding our people in the next sixty years while we are learning scientific methods." But not everybody is so hopeful, and many thoughtful men are looking to the acquisition of immigration rights as a solution of the population problem.

"Manchuria, Korea, the Maritime Provinces of Siberia and South America are the areas where Japanese must go," said Mr. Ryuhei, leader of the Black Dragon Society of Tokio, the Fascist organization of Japan. "We have given up the idea of sending our people to Anglo-Saxon territory. We know we are not wanted there and we will not try to go where we are disliked. We are trying to come to a friendly understanding with Russia and with China regarding immigration. The Soviet Government has agreed to Japanese colonization in Siberia, living their own lives as Japanese under the Soviet régime. True, the Japanese do not like to live in cold countries, but they will have to get used to it. We don't like to send our people to countries where they are denaturalized and lost to Japan."

For birth control as a systematized practice Mr. Davis found little enthusiasm, but for automatic checks upon the birth rate from economic pressure and to raise the standard of living much hope was expressed. It is universally acknowledged that neither expansion of industry nor immigration can fully answer the problem of a country of narrow area which has a high birth rate.

Fear of the power of America is definitely fixed in the Japanese mind. At the base of this feeling there are fears on the part of Japanese—first, the sense of their own poverty; second, anticipation of "American imperialism." Japan is supersensitive on this point and places an exaggerated interpretation on any new movement America makes in the line of self-defense and of economic expansion in the Pacific.

Our Actions Arouse Suspicion.

Why, it is asked, does the United States require military training in schools? What is back of the recent immense naval appropriation? Why is such a huge air force needed. For what useful purpose is a fortress being created in the middle of the Pacific? Why was the fleet mobilized in the Pacific and sent to Australia and New Zealand? Why has the transcontinental air service been developed so hurriedly? What is the meaning of American Defense Day?

These and similar questions are repeatedly asked by leaders of public opinion in Japan. They are the questions on which the Japanese press is writing editorials and about which the common people are talking. Mr. Davis quotes the editor of one of the greatest Japanese papers in these phrases: "To meet this changed spirit of America, our military clique, which has lost ground since the great war, is coming back into power. It has successfully gained compulsory military training in our universities, something we have never had before. If American youth are to be trained to fight, Japanese youth cannot be unprepared.

"The demand for a larger army and a stronger navy is again rising. Our country for years has been demobilizing its mind as well as its armed forces, but it is going back to the old point of view, and it is going back because America is forcing us to go back by her new militaristic attitude. Still worse, suspicion and fear are being planted in the hearts of our children by the yellow press and our public school teachers. The children are being told that they cannot trust America; that America offers Christianity, teaching brotherhood of man with one hand and brutally shoves us out of their country with the other. Our children are being taught that America is our bitter enemy and that Japan must gird herself for a life-and-death struggle.

"Why is all this necessary? We were good friends with mutual trust and respect. America has nothing that we want, or could possibly take away from her if we did want it. The Japanese dreams that we could conquer America. You have twice the man power and ten times our financial and economic resources. Besides all this, you have close kinship with England. You are the side that is forcing this game and we frankly ask for what purpose?"

Mr. Davis found deep pessimism regarding Japan's economic situation, with hopelessness of competition with America and the other great powers. "The white races have control over nine-tenths of the earth's surface and eleven-twelfths of its resources," was the plaint of a Japanese statesman. "The paths and the fields of wealth are in their hands. The East awakened too late. We are beaten before we start. A stern chase is a long chase, and we realize that with us it is a hopeless chase."

Japan's hope is mainly in China, and it is a common belief that America is determined to thwart her in what she considers her natural rights in China—access to the raw products and markets upon which her existence as a nation depends.

Dictatorship Dream Vanished.

Japan's old dream of dictatorship of China is gone; what she now seeks is an opportunity to help guide China's destinies and to develop her resources. Japan's prosperity depends to a degree that it is difficult for America to understand upon her Chinese neighbor. Chaos in China means ruin for Japan. The Japanese are convinced that for anybody to seek to thwart her purposes in China or to deny her certain rights due to her proximity to the Asiatic mainland is unfair and unfriendly. Japan will not challenge the right of any nation to refuse admittance to her nationals, but she stands insistently upon her rights as related to China. "I feel sure," says Mr. Davis, "that Japan would fight America, or any combination of powers, if she were convinced of their determination to deny her access to the raw products and markets of Asia. For this would be starvation for Japan, and she would choose death by the sword to death by the famine route.

Mr. Davis was impressed with the confidence in the good-will and justice of the United States, to which many of the Japanese leaders still cling. America was the source of their idealism, and to her they still feel they owe much of their training and culture. America has been for many years a star of hope to Japan. When several of the older leaders resigned from the American-Japan Society of Tokio and others urged retaliation for exclusion by abrogation of the Treaty of Commerce with America, Japan's grand old man, Viscount Shibusawa, in his eighty-fifth year, counseled moderation. "It is," he said, "beneath the dignity of Japanese to act hastily in a matter of this kind; still more, it is unbecoming to impute unfriendliness to the rash act of a lifelong friend. We owe too much to America. We honor and love her too much to strike back in this way. The America that we know has not acted. It is another America, not the real America. We must be patient and give our friend time to reassert her best self and make right in her own time and her own way what seems to us an unjust and unreasonable act."

The Japanese are confused over the many-sidedness of American thought and policies. "We no sooner get acquainted with one America," declared an ex-Minister of Finance, "and are adjusted to her way of doing things, when along comes another America so different in spirit and in practice that we are bewildered. Especially is this true of American militarism, imperialism and the forces that put through the exclusion. These are parts of America with which we Japanese must get acquainted if we are to sit beside her in the international house."

Mr. Davis found the leaders of Japan, both commercial and political, heartily disposed to cooperate in friendly association. They are particularly pleased with the organization of the Institute of Pacific Relations, inaugurated at Honolulu in 1925, and now planning a second meeting in 1927. He quotes as defining his own impression a vivid description of the Japanese by a prominent Japanese official made at Tokio: "I admire the spirit and the capacity of the Japanese people. Though poor, they are making sacrifices to rebuild their ruined city; though weak, they face the world with a brave face and are building on strong foundations. They are like a man who, though starving, pulls his belt a few notches tighter over his empty stomach and invites his neighbors to come in and partake of a feast."

OREGON WANTS U.S. BUILDINGS.

Seven Oregon cities will appeal to Washington for appropriations for Federal buildings. Portland leads with a demand for a modern structure to replace the old postoffice in the centre of the city built more than half a century ago, now inadequate to the enlarged needs of the city. Corvallis asked for a postoffice adapted to the requirements of a community that in recent year has grown from a small trading town to a considerable city. Klamath Falls asks a Federal building for its postoffice; and to this demand there is added an appeal for a Federal district, with the suggestion that a building of sufficient size be provided to serve both uses. Marshfield, in Southwestern Oregon, with a rapidly developing sea trade, presents an urgent plea for a postoffice building. Oregon City, oldest postoffice on the Pacific Coast, and a growing manufacturing centre, makes a similar demand. Astoria finds its old postoffice and Custom House inadequate and pleads for a new and enlarged building.

Upon strictly economical considerations, Federal buildings are not justified. In almost every instance it would be cheaper for the Government to provide itself with house room by renting whatever it may require. But there is another phase of the matter that the Government may well take into consideration. Federal structures bring to the popular mind a sense of the dignity of the Government. They symbolize and localize authorities and powers that to many are vague and remote. It is not too much to say that they yield a stimulus to patriotic sentiment. Perhaps no other expenditure on the part of the Government so directly affects the popular imagination as the substantial and beautiful structures built and sustained for governmental use throughout the country.

Foundation of Irvine Auditorium Laid By U. of P.; Changing Style to Gothic

The Cut Reproduces the Architect's Sketch of Structure Which Is to Be Built With Funds Bequeathed by William B. Irvine.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—With the laying of the foundation for the University of Pennsylvania's new Irvine Auditorium at Thirty-fourth and Spruce Streets, announcement was made today of new plans for the structure which differ in several respects from those originally made.

Prominent among the changes is the elimination of a smaller auditorium which was to have occupied the first floor and to have had a seating capacity of 800. The original massiveness of the exterior has been abandoned in favor of graceful perpendicular lines terminating in a spire, while a third significant alteration occurs in the physical construction and equipment of the stage.

The new building will be octagonal in shape in order not to infringe upon the University Library or Houston Hall which will border upon it. The architecture will be Collegiate Gothic in red brick and Indiana limestone with a granite base, and will conform to the style of all recent university buildings.

The building will be surrounded by a concrete terrace on the Thirty-fourth Street and Spruce Street sides, which will be ascended by broad stairways facing the main entrances at the southeast and southwest corners of the structure.

The auditorium will be situated on the first floor, a balcony will be located on the second floor and a second balcony on the third floor. The total seating capacity will be 2,500, the main floor seating 1,134, the stage 150, the first balcony 770, and the second balcony 446.

The interior construction will be of great height and will terminate in a central tower supported by four intersecting arches. There will be a complete theatre stage, with drop curtain, wings and footlights. The proscenium arch will be 48 feet wide and the stage will have a depth of 33 feet. Complete dressing rooms will be provided.

The plans provide space for the insertion of a pipe organ and a moving picture apparatus and screen will also be installed.

The basement will contain ample provisions for smoking rooms and a room for scene painting.

Funds for the construction of the auditorium were provided by bequests made by the late William B. Irvine, former Treasurer of Philadelphia, and his sister, Mary B. Irvine.

MEDICAL COLLEGE TO SEEK $1,500,000

Philadelphia Institution for Women Plans Facilities for More Students.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—Because of the growing demand for women physicians in this country and in the foreign medical field, the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania, the only college in the United States exclusively for the training of women physicians, is planning to expand its equipment to take care of 200 students, double the number now enrolled, according to an announcement made last night by Mrs. James Starr, President of the college, to friends, alumnae and the Faculty. As a first step $1,500,000 will be sought from alumnae and friends everywhere of medical education for women.

Mrs. Starr said that the present plant, in a congested part of the city, had reached its limits of expansion. The new site, upon which the main college building and a section of the college hospital will be erected as a first step toward a complete medical centre for the education of women physicians, is a 9½-acre tract in North Philadelphia.

The college, when founded seventy-six years ago, faced a storm of outraged public opinion, and the ambitious women who became students were insulted and even mobbed on the streets. Since then more than 1,600 graduates have followed their profession all over the world. The college has drawn a great many students from foreign lands.

WANTS N.Y.U. TALENT AMPLY REWARDED

Dean Brown Emphasizes Need for Maintaining Standard of Productive Scholarship.

REVIEWS PROGRESS IN YEAR

Relations of the Various Schools Better Defined Where Their Work Has Overlapped.

Marshall S. Brown, Dean of the Faculties of New York University, in his annual report to Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown said that productive scholarship would constitute one of the next great steps in the forward movement of the university.

"Improvement in administrative organization and expansion of material resources and equipment should not cause us to forget, and I do not believe we are forgetting, that the enduring reputation of a university is won by its productive scholars," he said. "We have many such on our Faculties, but they do not constitute as large a proportion of the teaching body as we could desire.

"I am convinced that one of the next great steps in the forward movement of New York University must be a material strengthening of the university in the field of productive scholarship of high order. A policy of generous recognition of talent of this type, unhampered by traditions as to seniority or to priority in departmental administrative preferment, is necessary if this desired end is to be attained."

"During the year just concluded," the report goes on, "marked progress has been made in the better definition of the relations of schools of the university to each other in fields where their work overlapped and where at times their interests seemed to conflict. A modus vivendi has been established which has brought about a more enthusiastic cooperation of the several arts Faculties in the support of the work of the Graduate School. While important differences of opinion as to the proper functions and fields of action of coordinate schools of graduate instruction still exist, earnest endeavor, with a genuine desire to reach satisfactory conclusions, has been made with gratifying advance toward the settlement of a very difficult problem."

Dean Brown requests that each school in the university continue to conduct periodic self-surveys.

"This matter was taken up by the senate and referred to the several schools with its approval," the Dean continues. "Much important work has been done in conformity to this recommendation of the senate. The plan proposed suggests 'recurring and periodic surveys,' the reasons for which are now as great as they ever have been. Self-complacency has not been a fault of New York University, but it is an academic evil to which academic bodies are prone and which each school should guard against by frequent investigations as to the comparative and intrinsic merits of its own educational procedure."

The question of revision of tuition fees is commented on by the Dean. Noting the fact that the tuition was raised for the year 1926-27 in the university colleges of Arts and Pure Science and the College of Engineering, he says that further consideration will be given to this subject in the near future, as it affects other institutions.

GIVES MINERALS TO U. OF P.

G. E. Nitzsche Presents the Famous John Hetch Collection.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—The Hatch collection of fossils, petrifications and minerals which formed part of the exhibit of the Mines and Mineralogy section of the Centennial Exposition in 1876, was presented to the University of Pennsylvania today, following its purchase by George E. Nitzsche, Recorder of the university.

The more valuable specimens in the collection, which was compiled by John Hatch of San Francisco, who was Inspector of Mines, and by Professor Montroville W. Dickeson, will be added to the George A. Koenig Memorial Collection of Minerals presented to the university by Mr. Nitzsche last Spring.

The Hatch collection contains several thousand specimens and is especially rich in fossil stones. After the Centennial Expositon it was exhibited for many years in Memorial Hall, Fairmount Park, and after its removal from there changed hands a number of times.

The Rev. John Haynes Holmes, the pastor, will preach this morning on "The World of H. G. Wells."

D. W. Griffith's screen prodnction, "The Sorrows of Satan," will be the subject this evening of the Rev. Lincoln H. Caswell, pastor of the Cornell Memorial Methodist Church, 231 East Seventy-sixth Street.

Dr. Annie S. Besant, President of the International Theosophical Society, will preach this morning in Hampden's Theatre, Broadway and Sixty-second Street, before the congregation of the Liberal Catholic Church. The service will be conducted by the Right Rev. Irving S. Cooper, Regionary Bishop of the Liberal Catholic Church in America.

The cornerstone of a new edifice for Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Eighteenth Avenue and East Eighth Street, Brooklyn, will be laid at 3 o'clock this afternoon by the Rev. Paul H. Scaer, the pastor.

In the Episcopal Cathedral of the Incarnation, Garden City, L. I., this evening the preacher will be a non-Episcopal clergyman, the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, who is a Congregationalist. Dr. Cadman will preach this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock before the Bedford Y. M. C. A., Brooklyn.

Bishop William T. Manning will preach this morning in St. James's Episcopal Church, Madison Avenue and Seventy-first Street at noon. He will dedicate the newly completed tower. This afternoon at 4 o'clock the preacher will be the Very Rev. F. S. M. Bennett, dean of the Chester Cathedral, England.

Dean Bennett will preach this morning in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. At 4 o'clock the Rev. Dr. E. Clowes Chorley, rector of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, Garrison, N. Y., will preach.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of the Episcopal Church of Washington, will preach this morning in the Episcopal Church of the Incarnation, Madison Avenue and Thirty-first Street.

The Right Rev. Philip Mercer Rhinelander, retired Bishop of Pennsylvania, will preach this morning in the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection, Seventy-fourth Street, East of Park Avenue.

Canon Anson Phelps Stokes of the National Cathedral, Washington, will preach this morning in the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany, Lexington Avenue and Thiry-fourth Street.

The celebration of the fifty-fourth anniversary of the McAuley Mission, 316 Water Street, will close this evening with an address by the Rev. L. R. Relyea.

The preacher this morning and each noon this week in Trinity Episcopal Church, Broadway, at the head of Wall Street, will be the Right Rev. William P. Remington, Bishop of the Missionary District of Eastern Oregon. He will preach at 4 o'clock today in the Episcopal Chapel of the Intercession, Trinity Parish, Broadway and 155th Street.

Washington Heights Methodist Church, Amsterdam Avenue and 153d Street, will observe its fifty-ninth anniversary today. This morning the Rev. Dr. Jscoh E. Price, the pastor, will preach.

The Rev. Dr. Samuel Trexler, President of the Lutheran Synod of New York and New England, will speak at 4 o'clock today at an "International Day" meeting in the Greenpoint Branch of the Y. M. C. A., Brooklyn.

"Whom the World Passes By" will he the topic this morning of the Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor of the Madison Avenue Methodist Church, at Sixtieth Street.

"The Confessions of St. Augustine" will he the topic this evening of the Rev. Dr. Malcolm James MacLeod, pastor of the Collegiate Reformed Church of St. Nichoas, Fifth Avenue and Forty-eighth Street. This morning he will preach on "Imagination."

Drive Is Planned by Catholic Near East Welfare Association.

The Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., Vice President of Georgetown University, is in this city to confer on plans for a drive by the recently merged societies comprising the new Catholic Near East Welfare Association for 1,000,0000 members. Father Walsh, who was Director General of the Papal Relief Mission to Russia during the famine, has been designated by the Vatican as President of this group of American Catholic bodies.

Plans for tne extension of the social and educational activities of the association, which has Cardinal Hayes as Cardinal-Protector, are now going forward, according to an announcement yesterday from the headquarters of the association, 480 Lexington Avenue.

The new association, according to Professor Walsh, is the only Catholic organization in America now authorized to appeal to the American people for assistance for Russia and the Near East.

Both at Beirut, where the present disturbances in Syria have rendered many homeless, and at Athens, still crowded with the victims of Smyrna, the Catholic authorities have already established schools as well as kitchens and clinics.

Bishop Dunn Breaks Ground for New Mount St. Mary's Building.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Grouud was broken yesterdsy for a new million-dollar unit of Mount St. Mary's Academy, the home and school of the Dominican Sisters. The right Rev. John J. Dunn, Auxiliary Bishop of New York, turned the first spadeful of earth for a high school, which will carc for 100 resident and 150 day students, at the highest point in the convent grounds.

Bishop Dunn predicted that the school ultimately would become a college for young women. The building will include a convent, private chapel and academy.

LINKS DAUGHERTY AND SPOILS SYSTEM

W. D. Foulke Asserts the Former Attorney General Was Foe of Civil Service.

ALSO NAMES CONGRESSMAN

Writer in Civil Serviee Organ Quotes Williams of Illinois in Discussing Political Patronage.

The current issue of Good Government, the official journal of the National Civil Service Reform League, which has been making inquiries of Congressmen regarding their views of political patronage, contains an article by William Dudley Foulke, in which he attacks the selection of postmasters and rural mail carriers hy political leaders.

Mr. Foulke declares that "all the forces of public plunder which still dishonor our postal system in so many places are based upon the idea which still survives as a remnant of the spoils system, that the offices paid for by public taxation are the perquisites of Congressmen and other politicians, an idea which expands into the notion that other public funds may with equal right be diverted to the uses of the party or the politician."

He quotes Representative T. S. Williams of Illinois as declaring that he does not consider the civil service examination a fair test of the respective qualifications of candidates, on the ground that an examination which involves no inquiry into party affiliations and serviccs cannot possibly be a fair test.

"There are a number of Congressmen, as shown by the investigation of the league," says Mr. Foulke, "who share Mr. Williams's conclusions, and there have been even Cabinet officers whose views are identical. Let us take an instance. An enthusiastic supporter of the theory that the Government service should he manned by full blooded 100 per cent. Republicans is found in the late Attorney Gencral, Harry M. Daugherty, recentiy tried and still under indictment for conspiracy against the Government."

Mr. Foulke quotes Daugherty as saying that he believed civil service to be an interference to some extent, in the discharge of public business, and says that when Daugherty went to Washington he took with him his friend, Jesse W. Smith, who immediately installed himself in an office of the Department of Justice and sent for a list of all employes there, with their political affiliations, so that he could decide which employes to retain and which to discharge or transfer.

"The subsequent events and evidence in the trial of the Attorney General," says Mr. Foulke, "set forth in impressive colors the natural fruits of spoils politics. Jesse Smith, in view of the impending revelation of his guilt, had already committed suicide. Daugherty did not take the stand to demand his participation in the swag. He admittedly destroyed the accounts and checks and deposits in his brother's bank, by which the prosecution believed his guilt would be shown, and which even his counsel could only explain by claiming they showed campaign transactions which he wished to conceal."

WILSON IS PRAISED AS FOOTBALL COACH

Princeton, Yale and Wesleyan Declare the President Made the Modern Game.

WORKED WITH WALTER CAMP

Wesleyan Dean Gives Him Credit for "Saving the Sport From Wreckage" in 1889.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Nov. 13.—The football record of Woodrow Wilson has just been made a special study at Princeton and Wesleyan, where it was made, and at Yale, where it was advised, and it has been brought to light that the late President was a coach, adviser, inventor of plays and pioneer in the early game.

Wilson coached the Princeton eleven of 1889, which defeated Yale and Harvard, and which won the first Big Three championship. He went to Wesleyan two years later, and immediately became deeply interested in the development of the sport and in the team, and was made Faculty member of the football advisory board. Some of the Wesleyan men of his day have compared the original plays which he worked out for their eleven with those which Lorin Deland devised for Harvard.

Wilson, at Wesleyan, cooperated with Walter Camp, at Yale, in purging football of many evils. They worked together in 1889 for the first set of right eligibility rules ever drawn up for college athletics, and they induced Yale and Wesleyan to call a meeting of the Intercollegiate Football Association, to which both belonged to pass the code, which was sorely needed. Although the association at that time refused to take the advice of Camp and Wilson, it soon did so, and football was saved from wreckage and was sent forward to its present place of eminence.

"Minimizing Fraternity Influence."

Frank W. Nicolson, dean at Wesleyan for a quarter of a century, says in regards Woodrow Wilson's most valuable football services at that university to have been his action in "minimizing the fraternity influence in choice of players for teams."

This statement, which Dean Nicolson made to Mr. Camp, shows that the fight which Wilson made against the influence of fraternities at Princeton was preceded a decade earlier by a similar disturbance created by Professor Wilson at Wesleyan, and for the same reason.

Henry (Hank) Hall, one of Wesleyan's most famous players and captains, has told of blackboard demonstrations of football plays by Wilson as Captain Slayback, whose eleven in 1888 defeated the University of Pennsylvania in New York City on Thanksgiving morning, as a preliminary to the Yale-Princeton game.

Wesleyan's early football history, it is asserted, eclipses that of any other small college or university. Its elevens defeated Harvard and have several times scored on Yale. Hall kicked a goal against Yale in 1889. He was later a Connecticut State Senator and manufacturer. He died three years ago.

Did No Field Coaching.

Seward V. Coffin, now of Albany, who was undergraduate football manager at Wesleyan and later referee in many Harvard-Princeton-Yale football games, said recently that while Professor Wilson was interested deeply in Wesleyan athletic activities, particularly in football, he did no field coaching.

Wesleyan does not plan to hold a Woodrow Wilson day, as 15,000 American schools and colleges are now holding a Walter Camp day, but the Wesleyan researches into the football career of the quiet history professor of the '80s are felt to have established his influence in football and athletics generally as firmly as that of such creative pioneers as Camp, Deland, Alexander Moffatt of Princeton, Peyton March of Lafayette and John C. Bell of the University of Pennsylvania.

An official Wesleyan tribute to Woodrow Wilson's football career is paid in a number entirely devoted to the former professor of history which has been issued by The Argus, the university graduate organ, which says:

"Professor Wilson was active in Wesleyan life in more ways than in the classroom and in stimulating undergraduate debating.

"By most of the undergraduates of his day, he is largely remembered for his services as a coach of the football team, and his keen interest in the athletics of the college was one of the greatest factors in warming the undergraduates' hearts. While a student at Princeton, he had taken a prominent part in athletic affairs, and was referee and one of the directors of the Princeton football team in the days when the football championship resided with that institution. It is said that one time he was kept from being on the victorious team only by a prolonged sickness.

Wilson's Work at Wesleyan.

"On his arrival in Middletown, he was made one of three members of the advisory board of the Wesleyan Football Association, the other members being Seward V. Coffin, '89, and Frank Beattys, '85. Throughout the weeks of the Fall practice, Professor Wilson also served as one of the coaches of the eleven, assisting Captain Slayback in devising new plays of gridiron strategy.

"Football tactics underwent a change at that time, and these men mapped out a plan whereby the rush line was contracted so that the men stood side by side, about as today, while the backs were brought nearer to the rush line. Quick line plunges and double crisscross passes were also worked out.

"Football, of course, was in its infancy in those days, and while these plays seem old now, they were considered innovations at that time. And as a result, in 1889, the University of Pennsylvania was defeated, 10-2; Amherst, 39-0; Williams, 20-17; Rutgers, 53-4, and Trinity, 6-4. These victories were interspersed here and there with some defeats, Princeton among them, which, of course, nobody at Wesleyan cares to remember after the lapse of more than a quarter of a century.

"These victories, however, gave Wesleyan the leadership among the minor colleges of New England, and as Lehigh had gained a similar ascendancy among the smaller colleges of her section, great importance was attached in the football world to the Wesleyan-Lehigh game that was played at Hampden Park at Springfield, Mass., of that year. In fact, the Lehigh supporters boasted that in case the laurels of victory came their way they would insist upon demanding Wesleyan's place in the old intercollegiate football association, which included Harvard, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Yale and Wesleyan.

Battle in a Sea of Mud.

"The day of the game brought a hard storm and the day's battle was fought in a sea of mud. The Lehigh team developed an altogether unexpected strength and the game was going their way. Twice Lehigh scored easy touchdowns, and it seemed as though Wesleyan faced certain defeat.

"Then, suddenly, from the Wesleyan bleachers a man walked out in front, clad in heavy rubber boots and a raincoat. He shouted to the Wesleyan contingent, reproaching them for not cheering for their team, and at once began to lead them in the Wesleyan yell, beating time for them with his umbrella. He continued this violently until the Wesleyan cheers heartened Slayback's men in spite of their handicap and the tide of the game turned for two touchdowns as Peck, McDonald, Slayback and Hall crashed into the Brown and White line and tied the score.

"After the game the Lehigh players, inquiring about the magnetic cheer leader, were informed that he was Wesleyan's Professor of History, Dr. Woodrow Wilson.

"'Well,' returned the Lehigh men, 'he is all right, for he saved you.'

"Professor Wilson's loyalty to his own Alma Mater and his enthusiasm as coach of the Wesleyan eleven were put to a severe test on Election Day, 1888, the day on which Benjamin Harrison was elected to the office that this Professor was later destined to fill. On that day Princeton and Wesleyan were matched on the gridiron and Walter Camp was the referee of the game. There was probably no other college than Princeton whom Professor Wilson would have accepted that year to administer a defeat to Wesleyan."

KILLED RESENTING HOLD-UP

A. Swaha of Niagara Falls Is Shot by a Negro.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 13 (AP).—Shot down when he resisted efforts of two negro hold-up men to rob him late last night, Alexander Swaha, 2,255 East Falls Street, died early today in Mount St. Mary's Hospital. A bullet from one of the robbers' guns entered his abdomen, Swaha was returning home from work in the Union Carbide Company's plant when the hold-up and shooting occurred. As he passed by a building the negroes sprang from the shadows and demanded his money. Swaha showed fight and was shot. The negroes fled without obtaining $28 which Swaha carried.

LEAPS TO SPEEDING AUTO.

Massachusetts Trooper Captures Driver and Car Carrying Alcohol.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 13 (AP).—Leaping to the spare tire carrier of a swaying, speeding automobile, whose driver refused to stop at his signal, State Patrolman Wilfred Berry, of the Holden Barracks, broke and crawled through the rear window of the automobile, as the driver tried to escape toward Worcester on the Old Boston turnpike at Shrewsbury, late last night.

A youth giving the name of Wilfred Frank Chaet, 22, of Providence, R. I., who was alone in the car, was overpowered and arrested, charged with the illegal transportation of liquor, and with failing to stop on the signal of an officer.

About 150 gallons of alleged alcohol were seized by Patrolmen Berry and Everett Hall, also of the Holden Barracks, who had joined the chase in a truck owned by the State Police.

Flint's Fine Furniture

You can furnish a small bedroom—furnish it completely and furnish it well at Flint & Horner's. For here are complete groups from which you may choose only the pieces you actually need. Take for example the group illustrated at the right. It comes in richly figured mahogany veneers with the solid parts of sturdy gumwood.

The pieces may be purchased separately—the full width bed, $54; twin bed, $51; bureau, (22" x 48" top) $87; chest of drawers, $63; dressing table, $81; nightstand, $18; chair, $15; bench, $12. The four large pieces with full width bed are $285. Five pieces with twin beds, $333.

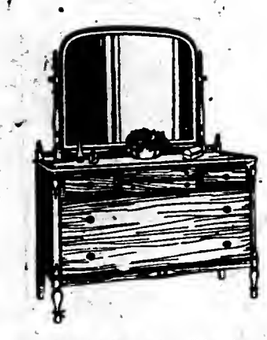
Things for the New York Apartment where space is small and rooms are few

Where space is small and the demand for service great this "Plymouth" dresser solves the problem. It's a very capable piece 36" high with a top 21" x 46" and ample drawer space. In solid mahogany and mahogany veneer—$72.

MANY people are finding the space restrictions of the New York apartments as hard to comply with as the parking laws. And most of these city dwellers are asking us for furniture of the lighter, more graceful type—furniture that economizes space, furniture that performs two good deeds where before only one was expected.

We have furnished thousands of these newer, smaller apartments. We know and carry the pieces that look well and serve well. And here, at Flint & Horner's, you will find any number of odd chairs, buffets, gateleg and other space saving tables from which you can choose any one of a hundred good combinations and for which you will have to pay much less than you would normally expect to.

There is veritably no end to the number of comfortable chairs from which you can choose at Flint & Horner's. For the room that honors the dignity of Spanish design this arm chair in solid walnut deserves attention as an exceptional value. Covered in a choice of three richly designed tapestries, seat and back, the price is only $40.



This Colonial dresser in solid mahogany with mahogany veneer can be depended upon for excellent service. It is 50 inches wide and boasts ample drawer space. $72.50. A dressing table to match with a hanging mirror may be had for $47.50.

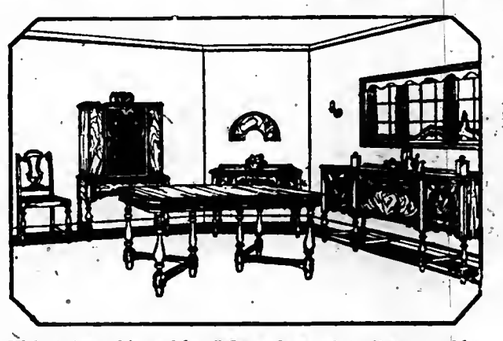
Where the living room and dining room are one

The two-in-one table comes to the rescue. It's the most accommodating thing in the world. It may be a tiny tilt table that stands flat against the wall until needed at tea time. Or a handsome library table that will, when the dinner hour strikes, lengthens out to some six or eight feet to make room for guests. We have all types here and the prices range from $40 to $128.

Gateleg tables range in price from $19.50 to $58. Windsor chairs go well with most of these tables. They are sturdy, with excellent line and their small price—they can be had as low as $8—is another sensible point in their favor. And that same point—their low price—is another good reason for seeing and choosing any one of the many odd chairs, buffets and servers that we can show you.

Most any living room—worthy of the name—must prize its easy chairs as its most important possession. And if yours has been neglected the comfort and ease as well as the rich decorative charm of this chair will give it cause for rejoicing. You may choose it in any one of five beautiful tapestry coverings. And there's no grief in store for your purse either. The price is only $40.

What lends more charm to a bedroom than the simple charm and beauty of Colonial furniture. This quaint four-poster in solid mahogany with mahogany plywood panels harkens back to the days of our forefathers and would make an excellent start for such a bedroom. The twin bed size, 3' 3", is specially priced at $33. The three-quarter bed size, 4', and the full-width size, 4' 6", $36. And once you have made up your mind to choose this piece you will find hundreds of odd bedroom pieces to carry out the Colonial spirit for the rest of the room.



Walnut plywood is used for all flat surfaces and sturdy gumwood for all the solid parts of "The Leyden"—a dining suite that owes its distinctive lines and proportions to the designers of the Dutch Colonial period. Priced separately the pieces cost: 66" buffet, $80; server, $33; china cabinet, $55; extension table, $70; side chairs, $13 each; arm chairs, $22 each. Ten pieces complete $325.

From the Rug Mezzanine

No matter what sort of a rug you are in the market for—a little time and a little or a lot of money—will bring it to you at Flint & Horner's. Some of the treasures of our "Rug Mezzanine" are museum pieces and very, very expensive. But you can get a Persian masterpiece—a nine by twelve Imperial Ottoman for $412. Or a beautiful Chinese floor covering in the same size for $425—in an eight by ten size $325. Domestic makes, of course, are more modest in price. You can choose a seamless Axminster in a rich Persian or Chinese motif, 9' x 12', for as little as $62.

HELEN D. ROBINSON MAKES HER DEBUT

Daughter of Assistant Secretary of the Navy Introduced by Her Parents at Pierre's.

GREAT ARRAY OF SOCIETY

Dinner Is Followed by a Dance—Many of the Guests Are From Washington.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Theodore Douglas Robinson gave a dinner last night at Pierre's followed by dancing, to introduce to their relatives and many friends in this city, their daughter, Miss Helen Douglas Robinson.

The débutante is a granddaughter of Mrs. Douglas Robinson, the former Miss Corinne Roosevelt, one of the sisters of the late Colonel Theodore Roosevelt. On the side of her mother, who was Miss Helen Roosevelt, daughter of James Roosevelt Roosevelt, Miss Robinson is a great-granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Astor. NEEDLEWORK ART BRINGS $214,937

$20,000 FOR ONE TAPESTRY

J. A. Hayden Acquires 18th Century Royal Beauvais Object Depicting a Chinese Prince.

The sale of the de Souhami collection of needlework, tapestries and Gothic furniture at the American Art Galleries closed yesterday with a grand total of $214,937.50.

The highest price of the sale, $20,000, was brought yesterday by the eighteenth century royal Beauvais tapestry, a "Tenture de Chinoise" after a cartoon by Baptiste, Blin de Fontenay and Vernansal, portraying a Chinese Prince, scepter in hand, carried in a palanquin by four servants. In his train are Chinese swordsmen mounted on horses, carrying banners, and before him an attendant scatters flowers, while others prostrate themselves before him. The tapestry is from the Paul Dutasta collection and is 14 feet 4 inches by 10 feet. It was acquired by J. A. Hayden.

Six Louis XIV period needlework panels, 9 feet 8 inches by 3 feet 8, done in Chinese pagodas, dragons and fantastic birds in petit and grospoint, with rocaille motifs and flowers, brought $1,800 each, or $10,800 for the six, and went to Hayden & Co.

Charles of London procured a half dozen Louis XIV period needlepoint fauteuils from the Countess de Gaillard collection, having plain walnut frames and covered with the finest point St. Cyr. On the backs are the Sacrifice of Abraham, Susannah and the Elders, Pomona and Vesta, Flora and Ceres, and important personages in Oriental robes, respectively. The six brought $9,300. The same buyer paid $2,300 for four Louis XV period walnut armchairs covered in petit and gros point.

Alavoine & Co. paid $6,000 for an eighteenth century royal Gobelin tapestry twenty-one feet eight inches by thirteen feet from the Wagner-Besançon collection depicting "La Bataille d'Arabelles" when Alexander, King of Macedonia, defeated Darius. This tapestry is one of a series of the great wars executed by order of Louis XIV for Versailles after the Lebrun picture in the Louvre.

The same bidder procured for $2,800 a fifteenth-century French Gothic oak court cupboard from the Chateau de Courcelles. Its cornice has reticulated Gothic tracery and central and cover pendants. Parts of the panelled doors and the end panels have arched tracery and finely wrought iron hinges and lockplates.

M. J. Kramer bid in for $5,850 a Louis XIV period needlework covered walnut settee, the baptism of Achilles done in St. Cyr on its back, and two walnut needlepoint covered armchairs, all from the collection of the Countess de Gaillard. A. Goetz paid $3,800 for a sixteenth century Brussels "Feuilles de Choux" tapestry from the Chateau de St. Jean des Essartiers. It depicts wild animals and flowers and huge leafage, a fiery horse in the centre, while a tiny monkey perched on a large leaf takes in the fantastic assemblage.

Keller & Funaro bid in for $3,400 four Louis XV period walnut armchairs covered in petit and gros point from the Count de Beaumont collection. Mme. Cattadori bid in six Louis XV period walnut armchairs done in petit and gros point and point St. Cyr for $3,150, and J. J. Hanaur obtained for $3,150 two Louis XV walnut armchairs and a walnut fire screen, with scroll-mounted frames covered with needlework bouquets, the chairs having an orange and blue background. W. W. Seaman, agent, bid in for $2,200 a Louis XIV period petit point screen in fruits and flowers.

BIG BALL FOR ARMY-NAVY.

1,600 Chicago Girls to Dance With Cadets and 'Middies' Before Game.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13 (AP).—Feminine hearts here were beating faster today when it became known that 1,600 of Chicago's wittiest, prettiest and most charming girls would be chosen as dance partners for cadets and midshipmen who attend the Army-Navy game here on Nov. 27.

The dinner dance will be given at the Drake Hotel the evening before the gridiron conflict and will be attended by co-eds, debutantes and stenographers.

There may be a Princess, too, as invitations will be sent to Princess Ileana and Prince Nikolas, who are planning to attend the game while Queen Marie is resting in Washington.

Plans for the social event were announced by Lewis Dickson, chairman of the committee which will distribute the invitations.

Lady Astor to Aid Policewomen.

Lady Nancy Astor has endorsed the campaign of the International Association of Policewomen, with headquarters in Washington, to obtain members among laymen and laywomen who will carry on the work which the organization is attempting, it was said yesterday by Mina C. Van Winkle, President. Lady Astor, the association bulletin announces, has agreed to become International Chairman of the campaign and to head the Committee of Patronesses.

Nelson and Henry Wellington Wack. Supreme Court Justice James C. Cropsey, President of the club, will be toastmaster.

PAINTINGS EXHIBIT TO CLOSE FOR AUCTION

18th and 19th Century Art by Noted Masters to Be Sold Friday Evening.

Eighteenth and nineteenth century paintings of the American, Continental and English schools collected by Scott & Fowles, now being shown at the American Art Galleries, are to be auctioned Friday evening, owing to the removal of these art dealers from 667 Fifth Avenue to smaller temporary quarters at 680 Fifth Avenue.

Scott & Fowles have specialized in seventeenth and eighteenth century examples of the English school. Many such are in the present exhibit. Lely leads the list with no less than seven paintings and Kneller follows closely with five; Allan Ramsay has four, Reynolds three, and Romney, Sandys, Thomas Hudson, Cotes, Cosway and C. F. Daubigny have two each.

Paul Van Somer, Dutch artist, 1576-1632, is seen in a quaint portrait of a "Little Maiden," in stiff skirts touching the floor and huge puffed sleeves. It is from the Walter S. M. Burns collection.

Opie's example is "Mrs. John Card and Her Son," the powdered curls of the mother resting on the head of her fair-haired little boy. Romney has "Mrs. Anne Dashwood" in green taffeta with a lace scarf confining her black coiffure. Frans von Lenbach has a portrait of his daughter, "Marianne," aged 6, with large blue eyes and blue in the background. Harlow's "Mrs. Margaret Carpenter" in black with ermine at the shoulders and white ostrich plumes peeping over her black halo picture hat and masses of curling hair is brilliant. Ramsay has a portrait of "Mrs. Geoffrey Scott and Ladies of the Gage Family," one sister in white, the other in pink.

"The Misses Bannister," one in white, one in brown, with curling chestnut hair and brown eyes, is a Beechey. Cotes has "Mrs. Arnold of Shenley," Lely has a fascinating miniature of "Nell Gwynne," in golden yellow and gray; "H. M. Mary of Modena," "Lady Twisden," also "Sir Roger Twisden" and "Louise, Duchess of Portsmouth."

There are a number of portraits of men. Raeburn is seen in one of the Right Hon. Robert Blair of Avontoun; Maes has a little "Prince of Bavaria"; Copley has "Lord Mansfield"; Lely has "Sir Richard Newdigate, Bart.," the actor Kynaston as a youth—he played Cassio in "Othello" in 1682. Reynolds has a portrait of himself wearing spectacles, one of Anthony Chamier, M. P., F. R. S., and Dr. Thomas Barnard, Bishop of Killaloe and F. R. S. Romney's example is "Robert Raikes, Esq."

Sully is seen in a portrait of Miss Violet Thornton; Cosway in "Mrs. Hussey, nee Jennings," with clouds of long, curling hair, and Cotes has "Miss Summerville."

Thaulow, Van Marcke, Harpignies, Hilder, Inness, Aston Knight, Lachman Lawson, Guillaumin and Marie Diéterle, are seen in landscapes, and Ziem, De Bock, Daubigny, Harry Hall, Clays, Boudin and others are present in seascapes and miscellaneous subjects, there being 112 paintings in all.

WINS SUIT OVER HER TEETH.

Woman Gets $5,000 Verdict Against Dentist—Both Sides Protest.

Miss Kathleen Brennan of 450 Oakland Avenue, West New Brighton, S. I., suing Dr. Adolph Greenberg, a dentist, of 161 Van Duser Street, Stapleton, S. I., for $50,000 damages, because, she complained, he caused her to swallow parts of two teeth through carelessness, was awarded a verdict for $5,000 by a jury in the Richmond County Supreme Court yesterday. Her attorney, Joseph H. Hanlon, asked Justice Reigelmann to set aside the verdict as inadequate. Court attendants said expert witnesses cost as much as the verdict.

Dr. Greenberg, who asserted Miss Brennan probably swallowed the parts of the teeth before she became his patient, asked, through his attorney, Lloyd V. Striker, that the verdict be set aside because it was contrary to the evidence. Justice Reigelmann reserved decision on both requests.

STOOD NEAREST TO TRAIN.

Robert Won New Game, but His Face is Still Bandaged.

MAYFIELD, Ky., Nov. 13 (AP).—They had a new game here—some Mayfield youths—and it was to see who could stand nearest a rapidly passing freight train.

Robert Alexander won. His face still has a few bandages on it, otherwise he is all right.

Jewish Home Ready Dec. 1.

Old-time Thanksgiving Hospitality Suggests

Furniture from Hathaway's

"They are sociable to one another—and courteous and civil to strangers and fare well in their houses. Some go to friends' houses; who handsomely treat them."

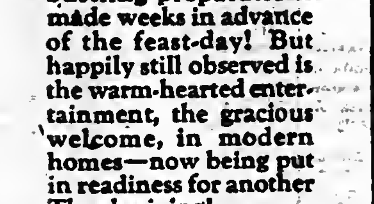
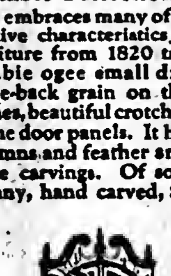
Gone are the great manor houses located on the Broadway, described in "Social New York under the Georges". Gone the bustling preparations made weeks in advance of the feast-day! But happily still observed is the warm-hearted entertainment, the gracious welcome, in modern homes—now being put in readiness for another Thanksgiving!



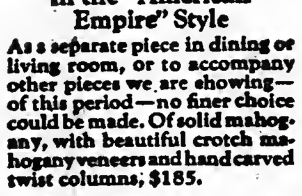
"American Empire" Sideboard from a Notable Collection Here

This embraces many of the distinctive characteristics of the furniture from 1820 to 1830. Double ogee small drawers; fiddle-back grain on the door frames, beautiful crotch veneers on the door panels. It has twist columns and feather and pineapple carvings. Of solid mahogany, hand carved, $285.



A Corner Cupboard—in the "American Empire" Style

As a separate piece in dining or living room, or to accompany other pieces we are showing—of this period—no finer choice could be made. Of solid mahogany, with beautiful crotch mahogany veneers and hand carved twist columns, $185.



This Graceful Love Seat—Custom-made Special at $150

A rare value, as inspection will prove! Its back and arms have a very graceful roll, and the modified cabriole legs enhance its dainty lines. Covered with field cloth, or your own fabric.

"Antique" Oak makes this Handsome English Cupboard

Such a decorative and dignified piece fits in admirably with the vogue for combined living-dining rooms. Beautifully carved—$295. Other Cupboards in maple, from $98.

A Smart "Spanish" Dining-Group—10 pieces—$475

Wouldn't you enjoy leading guests into the dining room if your napery and silver were set off by the rich simplicity of this furniture? Dark, rubbed walnut and maple are its woods, with characteristic iron stretchers on china cabinet. Brocatelle in an appropriate Spanish design is used to upholster the chair seats and backs.

HATHAWAY'S and home beauty are synonymous in the minds of many of New York's leading hostesses. They know that this Store concentrates not only on Furniture, but on good Furniture—influenced by the best of enduring styles.

Now—as Thanksgiving approaches—you are invited to see the special Dining Room groupings Hathaway's is displaying—from many of them separate pieces may be purchased!

After the Thanksgiving Dinner

You will ask your guests into the living room. Is it ready to receive them? Plenty of restful Chairs, sufficient small Tables for smoking trays, Lamps rightly placed for beauty and comfort? Why not see what great charm a few small expenditures here will bring you?

If what you need is not listed below—you'll find it in the Store!

Fine Spanish Dining Group in walnut. Unusual design with beautiful carving. Any piece sold separately, or 10 pieces $2135

Maple Decorated Bedroom Group, very beautiful. 8 pieces, with twin beds, $785. Seven pieces with full size bed $680

Parchment and green enamel Bedroom Group, exquisitely decorated. 8 pieces, with twin beds $375

Charming group for the Dining Room, walnut veneer and gumwood. Open stock, or 10 pieces $325

Apartment Dining Group in chestnut and oak. The chairs are upholstered in "antique" leather, and there are embossed leather panels on the china cabinet. 10 pcs. $340

Dining Group, Spanish influence, interesting design in walnut and walnut veneer, with soft polychrome decorations. The chairs have seat pads of red velvet. Refectory table. 10 pieces .. $375

English influence Dining Group—of walnut veneer and gumwood. Heavy, massive lines, with upholstered chairs. 10 pieces ... $475

Interesting Dining Group—in mahogany veneer and gumwood. The unusual chairs are of solid mahogany. Any piece sold separately, or 10 pieces $535

Bedroom Group—in inlaid mahogany or maple. Choice of panel or "sleigh" bed; very specially priced—8 pieces, with twin beds—$580. Seven pieces, with full size bed. Special $495

Bedroom Group in enamel, with colorful Venetian decorations. Open stock, or 8 pieces with twin beds, $750. 7 pieces, full size bed $650

Custom Made Upholstered Sofa and Armchair—with loose seat cushions, down-filled. Covered with field cloth or your own fabric. 2 pcs. $315 Sofa, alone: $210; Armchair, alone: $105.

Cogswell Chair—custom-made, with extra size cushion and cushion back, both down filled. Covered with field cloth or your own fabric . . . $87 With fine imported coverings: $127.50 to $175.

Two-in-one Table—mahogany veneer and gumwood. For the combination living-dining room. A really handsome piece—top closed: 54x22 inches. Open: 54x36 inches .. $49

A Dining Group—of Sheraton and Early American Influence—$560

The handsome double pedestal table is reminiscent of Duncan Phyfe. The woods so skillfully used are the costliest real American walnut with decorative overlays of East India satinwood. Worthy of note are the beautifully shaped Sideboard, and the Chairs, upholstered with small patterned damask. Any piece sold separately, 10 pieces—$560.

When Teeth are Film Free

Smiles are Charming

The dangerous film on teeth to which science ascribes many tooth and gum disorders. What numbers of authorities suggest doing for it

Send coupon for 10-day free test

BY running your tongue across your teeth, a film will be felt—a slippery sort of coating.

Recent dental research proves that film is chief enemy of healthy teeth and gums—the source of most dull teeth, a chief cause of many gum disturbances.

Because old ways of brushing failed to remove film successfully, a new way in tooth and gum care is being widely suggested by dental authorities. These are embodied in the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent.

Now an effective film combatant

For years dental science sought ways to fight film. Clear teeth and healthy gums come only when film is constantly combated—removed every day from the teeth.

Film was found to cling to teeth; to get into crevices and stay; to hold in contact with teeth food substances which fermented and fostered the acids of decay.

Film was found to be the basis of tartar. Germs by the millions breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea and most gum disorders.

Thus there was a universal call for an effective film-removing method. Ordinary brushing was found ineffective. Now two effective combatants have been found, approved by high dental authority and embodied in a tooth paste called Pepsodent.

Curdles and removes film—Firms the Gums

Pepsodent acts first to curdle the film. Then it thoroughly removes the film in gentle safety to enamel.

At the same time, it acts to firm the gums—Pepsodent provides, for this purpose, the most recent dental findings in gum protection science knows today. Pepsodent also multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. And thus aids in neutralizing mouth acids as they form.

It multiplies the starch digestant of the saliva. Thus combats starch deposits which might otherwise ferment and form acids.

No other method known to present-day science embodies protective agents like those in Pepsodent.

Please accept Pepsodent test.

Send the coupon for a 10-day tube. Brush teeth this way for 10 days. Note how thoroughly film is removed. The teeth gradually lighten as film coats go. Then for 10 nights massage the gums with Pepsodent, using your finger tips; the gums then should start to firm and harden.

At the end of that time, we believe you will agree, that next to regular dental care, Pepsodent, the quality dentifrice, provides the utmost science has discovered for better tooth and gum protection.

THE PRESIDENT AND THE COURT.

There are two theories about the motives of President COOLIDGE in saying what he did about the World Court in his address in Kansas City on Armistice Day. One is that he wished to send a word of timely warning to the Governments that have not yet replied to the Senate reservations. By notifying them that the answers already received are not satisfactory, the President may have thought that he could bring them to a fuller realization of the unyielding position of the United States. The other supposition is that Mr. COOLIDGE sought to forestall criticism by the Senate. He must have heard the mutterings of dissatisfaction among Senators both before and after the November election. There were rumors that an effort would be made to induce the Senate to rescind its former action, and to withdraw outright its provisional acceptance of the World Court. The President may have felt that his positive statement that he would not ask the Senate to modify its position might tend to mollify that august body and keep the question quiet for a time.

If that was his hope, he must already perceive that it has been frustrated. Instead of calming belligerent spirits in the Senate, he has only encouraged and inflamed them. The general impression which he made upon them is well enough expressed by Senator BORAH. Asked what he thought about the President's deliverance on the World Court, he would say only that "it is all right as far as it goes." The plain inference is that he and those who think with him are prepared to go much further. They would favor an early and positive resolution voting this country out of the World Court, unqualifiedly and for all time. Thus it would appear that the President, far from allaying a threatened storm, has only increased the probability that it will rage more violently. If his move was purely one intended to affect domestic politics and the attitude of the Senate, it has signally failed to achieve what bis purpose is said to have been.

Abroad, the reception of his speech has not been happy. It is almost everywhere taken as a sign that he has retreated; that he has lost heart in his effort to secure American adherence to the World Court, and that he is ready to throw that judicial tribunal to the Senatorial wolves. Europeans still point out that the idea of a Permanent Court of International Justice was largely American in origin. The particular form in which it was finally established was due to the ingenious and statesmanlike mind of an American jurist, Mr. ROOT. One American Judge is already sitting in the World Court. American opinion, as widely expressed for years, and as finally embodied in the vote of more than two-thirds of the Senate agreeing to join the World Court under conditions, has been strongly in favor of this agency of peace. But in what seems to have been a hasty or ill-considered utterance of the President he has put all this aside, and expressed the deliberate view that, under the circumstances, there is little prospect of the United States becoming a member of the World Court.

Why could not Mr. COOLIDGE bave waited until the full case was before him? The reasons which might be given for hurrying forward with an advance announcement of his conviction have already turned out not to be good reasons. They have only confirmed certain Senators in tbeir perverse views; they have disappointed and grieved the European friends of this country. Turning back to the reply of the Committee of Fourteen to the American reservations, reported last September, it is full of friendliness and a conciliatory spirit. It does, in fact, recommend acceptance of all the American reservations. To be sure, it raises a query in regard to the fourth reservation, and also to the fifth, but this is only a question of interpretation, and of placing the United States in a position of absolute equality of right and privilege with all other nations. The report distinctly states that it hopes that its conclusion will meet with acceptance by the United States, and that any points left in doubt may be cleared up by friendly conference and adjustment. But to this reasonable and cordial attitude President COOLIDGE has now given a distinct rebuff. Where he might have waited for persuasion and the healing influence of time, be has, in effect, served an ultimatum.

It has been argued, and with a good show of legal authority, that a bold and determined President might have accepted the replies to the Senate reservations as a sufficient agreement in substance. In that case, he would have had the rigbt to proclaim the World Court treaty duly ratified and in effect. Minor matters in it left somewhat uncertain could have been disposed of by an exchange of diplomatic notes. But Mr. COOLIDGE has made a gesture which is everywhere taken to mean that he gives up all hope of the United States joining the World Court. Just as he was once ardently for the League of Nations, but afterward cooled toward it, so his advocacy of the World Court, since he became President and inherited that policy from his predecessor, has suddenly chilled. This is a great disappointment, the more so because his present step was so premature and needless.

He may yet seek to undo the mischief which his words at Kansas City have wrought, but he cannot obliterate the impression that he was of little faith regarding the great project, and had not the heart to fight for it in the face of gathering political opposition. We do not impute sinister partisan mctives of personal ambition, though they are freely talked about by every tongue. It is sufficient to point out that the President has made a great mistake; that he has incontinently abandoned wbat be was supposed to hold dear; and that he has now left it to the friends and champions of an International Court of Justice to keep up the campaign for it under another banner and a different leadership.

CANADA'S MINISTER.

The appointment of Mr. VINCENT MASSEY as Canada's Minister to the United States serves three good ends. In the first place, it proclaims the nationhood of Canada within the British Commonwealth. In the next place, it sends to Washington one who living just across the invisible border understands the American people as thoroughly as his own—their political attitudes, their cross-sectional differences, their idiosyncrasies and their ideals—and so is able to interpret them to the representative of the empire who has welcomed his designation to this post. In the third place, having had some of his training in England and knowing her mind as he knows that of his own Dominion, he is fitted to be an interpreter of the imperial speecb in Canadian dialect, which borrows much from our "American speech," to fellow North Americans. His direct service will naturally be confined strictly to Canadian affairs, but the indirect imperial service can hardly be less important.

Sir ROBERT FALCONER in his lectures last year in England and Scotland spoke of the Dominion as coming to play a new part, that of interpreter in the converse between the British people and the United States. Mr. MASSEY comes now to be the official voice of that "interpreter people," who from being looked upon at one time by the United States as an "obtruding colony" of "factious" disposition is now regarded as a respected and attractive neighbor nation within a world-circling commonwealth. Mr. MASSEY as an interpreter should be helpful in practical ways to all three of peoples that are party to this relationship, but his appointment will have a world significance in its pioneer illustration of a composite diplomacy.

MUZZLING THE PRESS.

Europe's censorship belt now embraces the Polish Republic. Marshal PILSUDSKI's acts have not always run along the lines laid down in the manuals of dictatorship, but even an original and somewhat eccentric autocrat has seemingly found it necessary to subscribe to one of the fundamental rules of the business. When a man constitutes himself the Voice of the nation, it is imperative that no other voices be raised. When an individual declares that he is the State, he invariably goes on to claim a monopoly of public statements. By PILSUDSKI's decree, upon which the Parliament at Warsaw is still to act, the newspapers are removed from the jurisdiction of the courts and placed under the authority of Government officials. Fines or sentences of imprisonment may be imposed by administrative action for printing news likely to lead to a public demonstration, or news or rumors affecting a member of the Government, or "derogatory" matter in general. This is a close approach to conditions in Russia and Italy.

Despotism instinctively wars upon free discussion. Freedom of speech and the press is resented because it is criticism. In the long run censorship always proves futile, and this would be particularly the case in countries like Russia, Italy and Poland with a large illiterate population and a comparatively small newspaper reading public. Where the reading public is normally restricted and compact, information manages to circulate despite the censor by word of mouth, by letter, by smuggled literature. The fashionable drawing room and the popular café become news distributing agencies. Invariably there arises an underground press. Muzzled newspapers in the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany would mean a nation-wide embargo. In the European dictatorship zone they are merely a handicap upon a minority which is usually surmounted. The news gets around in some form. This was true in Czarist Russia, where methods were perfected for saying in the form of a literary review or an essay on classic archaeology what was forbidden to be said in the form of a political articie. Prohibited newspapers were published abroad, smuggled into Russia and circulated from hand to hand. One of the most assiduous readers of ALEXANDER HERZEN'S famous illegal paper "The Bell" was the Czar himself.

Peculiarly lacking in profit would censorship be with respect to foreign opinion. When the lid is clamped down upon the press in Italy or Poland or Russia, the outside world must look for its news to the officially controlled or censored newspapers, and to the Opposition news flashed from somewhere just outside the frontiers. It is not very reliable news about Russia that comes out of Riga or about Italy out of Chiasso, but the foreign reader is apt to credit it with the authority that attaches to a press that at least is free. If Moscow complains about the lies from Riga, or Rome about the lies from the Swiss frontier, they have themselves to blame. All they need to do is to permit free newspapers inside the frontiers. Plain Americans will always find it hard to understand why a Government which professes to meet the innermost needs and desires of its people, as Communism and Fascism regularly do, is afraid to let people speak out.

PAN-PACIFIC FRIENDSHIPS.

The third Pan-Pacific Science Congress has just closed in Tokio. Among its results have been arrangements for scientists on both sides of the Pacific to exchange data on seismology and volcanic activities, in the hope that they will thus be better able to understand the forces which from time to time cause such devastating earthquakes on both borders of the Pacific. In the meantime plans are progressing for the Pan-Pacific Conference on Education, Rehabilitation, Reclamation and Recreation which is to be held in Hawaii in April next. More and more it is becoming apparent to the world that this century is, as the late President ROOSEVELT foretold, "the century of the Pacific."

Two nations have risen to unforeseen strength in the Pacific during the last half century,—the United States and Japan. Two more are rapidly growing in power and importance—Australia and Canada. All are keenly interested in the fate of the fifth, which, potentially, is the most important of them all—China. Their relations are not only political. Commercially they are coming ever closer. But they also have many other interests in common, and it is these which such conferences as the one just ended in Tokio, and that which will open in Hawaii in April, belp to clarify. In commerce and politics there are undoubted rivalries. But they do not enter the realms of science and education and recreation. Chinese and Japanese are as keenly interested as Americans in the development of medical knowledge and the spread of health service. The Japanese in particular are interested in geology, and have done admirable work in it. In matters of education we and they have conducted experiments of greatest significance. The value of recreation and sports is only beginning to be appreciated.

One of the most important services performed by international congresses such as these is an interchange of publicity. We in America, for example, have been repeatedly told that 95 per cent. of the people of China are illiterate. We have heard but little, however, of the "mass-education" movement, which in a few years has reached several million Chinese and taught them the rudiments of reading and writing the infinitely complex Chinese characters. We have been told that the Japanese are devotees of baseball and tennis. But we have not realized that this conception of the sporting spirit, essentially alien to the Oriental mind, has perhaps done more than anything else to help Americans and Japanese to understand each otber.

Fortunately, an important step has recently been taken to facilitate closer relations between the nations on the two sides of the Pacific. The Japanese Government has consented to a material reduction in the radio press tolls, which will make it easier to transmit news across the ocean. The rate is still somewhat higher than had been hoped, but there is reason to believe that Japan may consent to a still further reduction. The great need is for a better understanding among tbe different Pacific peoples. This can be achieved only by a slow educational process.

A MUSICAL CHAPTER.

Historians are gradually rising to the level aimed at by MACAULAY in describing the things that really matter in the life of a nation. Perhaps none of them has got to such a point as GEORGE MACAULAY TREVELYAN in his newly published "History of England." There used to be a sort of illiteracy which kept historians in ignorance of most tbings outside the circle of kings, wars, lawmakers and executions. TREVELYAN'S famous great-uncle defended himself from the charge of "descending below tbe dignity of history" by including in his book an account of "the progress of useful and ornamental arts" and so forth, "the revolutions which have taken placc in dress, furniture, repasts and public amusements." JOHN RICHARD GREEN, in his "Short History of the English People," states that he preferred to pass lightly and briefly over wars and diplomacies and tbe other stuff of "drum and trumpet history," to dwell on "the incidents of that constitutional, intellectual and social advance in which we read the history of the nation itself."

Both of these historians fought valiantly for more flesh and blood upon the dry bones of the story of the English people. But Mr. TREVELYAN has gone beyond them. He feels no call to apologize or even mention what he has done. A part of this has been to show that one of the glories of England was her pioneering and her pre-eminence in music. The writers of musical history, until lately, have been chiefly Germans, who formulated a convention that Great Britain always has been an unmusical country, whose contributions to the art have been negligible. So when a German scholar, some years ago, burst out with a book declaring that Great Britain was the fount and origin of music in the Dark Ages and in the succeeding medieval period, he was torn limb from limb by his enraged compatriots. Like most pioneers, he went too far and too fast. But great achievements of England in music were a reality, are a part of her history; and now at last have found in Mr. TREVELYAN a chronicler educated and enlightened enough to know it and to see that they are set down.

MACAULAY has something to say of the "painters and statuaries" of the period covered by his history; and of course more about the poets and prose writers. Of the composers he has nothing. GREEN is eloquent about the revival of English letters, the "great poetic burst" of ELIZABETH'S time, but he is oblivious of the great burst of song that accompanied it. He never heard, apparently, what TREVELYAN sets forth, that "Europe recognized Elizabethan "England as the country of music par "excellence." TREVELYAN knows, moreover, the "genius of BYRD" and of "whole troops of able composers in that great age of the madrigal." He suggests the influence of HANDEL and the extraordinary story of "The Beggar's Opera," producing a line of English popular operas lasting into the nineteenth century—operas which, ending with GILBERT and SULLIVAN, were "truly "national works in a period of strong "foreign influence." And he reads, finally, in the life of JOHN MILTON, "how the three chief elements in the "English culture of that day—music, "the classics and the Bible—combined "to inspire the God-gifted organ voice "of England." How much this implies of what the illiterate historians of former days have overlooked or ignored! It is well that their better educated successors are taking a more comprehensive view of things. History is looking up.

MODERN ICELAND.

The first Iceland Year-Book is out, edited by SNAEBJORN JONSSON, clerk and translator to the Ministry of Industries and Commerce, and published at Reykjavik. Tourists are turning to Iceland in greater numbers. They are learning that in Summer it does not deserve its name. Hitherto lack of information about the wonders of the country and the mildness and salubrity of the climate has kept down the tide of travel. The Year-Book comes out more than a hundred years after the Rev. EBENEZER HENDERSON, Scotch missionary and linguist, published his "Iceland, or the Journal of a Residence on That Island." The book is still worth reading. No doubt Lord DUFFERIN, Sir RICHARD BURTON, Lord BRYCE and Professor WILLARD FISKE consulted it before visiting Iceland. Life was primitive when Lord DUFFERIN landed from the Foam at Reykjavik in 1856. There were no roads. Travel was by rugged ponies on bridle paths. Of the capital the lively Irishman wrote:

> Tbe town consists of a collection of wooden sheds, one story high, rising here and there into a gable end of greater pretensions, built along the lava beach, and flanked at either end by a subnrb of turf huts. On every side of it extends a desolate plain of lava that once must have boiled up red-hot from some distant gateway of hell and fallen hissing into the sea.

Even the Year-Book says that Reykjavik is "of recent growth" and admits that "from an architectural point "of view it naturally falls behind other "European capitals." Nevertheless, it has become a metropolis of 21,000 people and boasts a national library of 100,000 volumes, a sightly Parliament House, a compact but beautiful cathedral, many other substantial buildings and modern streets. The Altbing or Parliament is the oldest of legislative assemblies, "dating back to the days when the "Witenagemot was still making the laws "of England." The thousandth anniversary of the establishment of the Althing will be celebrated in 1930. "It is already known with certainty," says a note in the Year-Book, "that thou"sands of people from all parts of the "world contemplate attending the mil"lennial festivities." Many of them will be lured away from the Parliament House to be spell-bound by the scenery of Iceland. This is the testimony of Professor WILLARD FISKE:

> There is no country traveled by man which combines as Iceland does the antagonistic marvels of frost and steam, of ice and fire, of gloom and color, of darkness and light. It is, on the whole, unequaled in all Europe for its gushing fountains of seething water, for its stupendous streams of lava, for its vast volume of milk-white torrents plunging over grim and swarthy rocks, for the varied, weird and fantastic forms of its mountains, for the intense green of its meads and lowlands, and often of its climbing slopes, for tbe luminous tints of its peaks, for the splendor of its heavens, and for the gray, overawing desolation poured out by its volcanoes.

The Year-Book cannot beat this, but it says of the Northern Lights in Iceland that "when the entire vault of the "sky is an ocean of undulating flames, "displaying all tbe colors of the rain"bow, it is surely one of the noblest "sights mortal eyes have ever looked "on." But one has to stay until late in August to behold these splendors in Iceland's crystal air.

Sir RICHARD BURTON found July and August "delightfully mild." He was impressed by the most picturesque of contrasts, "Summer basking below and "Winter raging above, peace brooding "upon the vale and elemental war doing "fierce battle upon the eternal snows "and ice of the upper world." The Gulf Stream softens the climate and keeps the polar ice away. At Reykjavik temperatures of more than 70 degrees are recorded in Summer; the average for July is 52.16. On 865 kilometers of roads the automobile has replaced the pony. The capital has all the modern blessings, including radio and "movies." A very precious thing is the Art Gallery containing all the works of EINAR JONSSON. The National Museum would be a credit to a larger kingdom than Iceland. There has been a vast improvement in hotel accommodations since Lord BRYCE'S visit. Three lines of steamships now run to Iceland. The Government allows the salc of wine in Reykjavik, but "spirits can be had only when prescribed by a qualified doctor." English is spoken by the younger gencration. The open season for tourists is from mid-June to the end of August. Visitors are not cramped for space in an island 298 by 194 miles. With good luck they may see a polar bear on the northern coast, which is touched by the Arctic Circle.

SOME AUTOGRAPHS.

Autograph-hunting is a virtue or disease that some of us have never acquired. Even an A. L. S. of a Signer is too precious for the poor; and a facsimile is just as good for the unilluminate. Moreover, this is a time of economy, and few of us can afford to pay $260,000 for three documents, though one of them is the "only official certified copy of the Declaration of Independence extant." So the Rosenbach Company of Philadelphia, in its "Catalogue of Autograph Letters "and Documents Relating to the Dec"laration of Independence and the Revo"lutionary War," a collection so rich in historical value that one regrets it cannot be kept whole in some historical society or at Washington. Not the big bowwow letters, the "monumental" specimens, destined presumably to the address of plutocrats and so finally to the public, most invite readers.

A little touch of character and expression in our heroes is worth more—to some—than a thousand A. L. S.'s. BUTTON GWINNETT of Georgia is hardest of all the Signers to come by in the autograph. There is no signature of his here, but something incomparably better, the statement of GEORGE WELLS telling of the duel in which GWINNETT lost his life:

> Late on the Evening of Thursday the 15th May inst. [1777] a written challenge was brought to Gen. MCINTOSH, sign'd BUTTON GWINNETT, wherein the Said Mr. GWINNETT charg'd the General with calling him a Scoundrel in Public Convention & desir'd he wou'd give satisfaction for it as a Gentleman before Sunrise next morning in Sr. JAMES WRIGHTS Pasture. * * * To which the General humorously sent an answer to Mr. GWINNETT, that the hour was rather earlier than his usual, but wou'd assuredly meet him precisely at the place & time appointed with a pair of Pistols only. * * * Early the next morning Mr. GWINNETT & his second found the General & his second waiting on the Ground & after politely saluting each other, the General drew his Pistols, to show he was loaded only with single Balls. * * * Immediately each took his stand & agreed to fire as they cou'd, both Pistols went off nearly at the same time, when Mr. GWINNETT fell.

The signature of THOMAS LYNCH JR., a South Carolina Signer, is nearly as rare as GWINNETT'S. Here is one on the title page of Volume I of "The Tragedies of Sophocles," London, 1759. So LYNCH was a Grecian. Ought larceny of such a book to be excused as the result of an uncontrollable impulse for "association copies" in the grand style? "Pray," writes JOHN ADAMS to his boy THOMAS, "when you write me a letter, "let me know how many Calves are "raising, how many Ducks and Geese, "and how the Garden looks." JOHN HANCOCK, sweating Madeira, adjures ROBERT MORRIS: "For God's Sake, hurry the Waggons along." Dr. FRANKLIN, that philandering jovial socialibist, tells Lord LE DESPENCER from Philadelphia in 1775:

> We have here a little Musical Club at wbich Catches are sometimes sung and heard with great pleasure. But the performers have only a few old ones. May I take the Liberty of requesting your Lordp. to send me half a dozen of those you think best among the modern? It would add to the Happiness of a set of very honest Fellows.

If non-Signers may be admitted, here is "probably the only extant love poem by NATHAN HALE." One is hardly sorry after reading the specimen of it given; yet, written to the sweetheart of his Yale days, ALICIA RIPLEY, in her widowhood, it gives one a new sense of that brave young life. There is a characteristic whine from handsome humbug GATES, "Shuffled out of Service," "my Home, my Family and my Fortune," "the heavy hand of Power to Crush." You might be hearing him on the radio. In 1830 JAMES MADISON says, in the best Madisonian and Allisonian manner, that "the question of re-eligibility in the case "of a Presidt. of the U. S. admits of "rival views, and is the more delicate, "because it cannot be decided with equal "lights from actual experiment." Our choice is a dinner invitation > in which MARAT promises to show "le Docteur FRANKLIN" some new, interesting and curious experiments. On tbe reverse in JARED SPARKS'S hand: "The Monster, as he afterwards proved."

Good old JARED! And what a singular pair JEAN PAUL and the Doctor must have made!

From an Italian Diary.

8:30 A. M. Uneventful day so far. No bomb or pistol incidents. No American interviewers. Have just finished mastering intricacies of Ministry of Agriculture and Fine Arts which I took over at 6 o'clock this morning. Former incumbent still in bed. Must draft decree establishing 6:45 as rising hour in all towns of 5,000 population and over.

8:45-8:48. Breakfast.

9:15. Took leave of first American visitor—woman librarian from Kansas City. Told me she is immensely impressed by improvement of conditione on Italian railways as compared with five years ago. Asked her what were her experiences in 1921 and learned thie is her first visit to Italy, but she had been told by friends. Asked me what message I had for America and offered me her notebook. I dashed off just four worde—Unity, Discipline, Courage, Work.

9:55. Finished draft of new regulations for reorganization of Ministry of Agriculture and Fine Arts, to be promulgated by noon and results reported to me in person by 4 P. M. Took up situation in Department of Aviation and Ballistics.

10:15. Have taken personal charge of Portfolio of Aviation and Ballistics. Issued statement to newspapers that Italy snaps its fingers at foreign Governments. Mailed letter to M. Briand apologizing for attack on French consulates. Requested visitor from Los Angeles in anteroom to kindly wait ten minutes while I studied project for new civil and criminal code.

10:40. American visitor was banker by occupation. Asked whether Italian people will consent to turn in their national bonds for new Government certificates on 1 per cent. basis. Told him, won't they, though! He was visibly impressed and asked what message I had for American people. He offered me back of a cablegram blank and I dasbed off Discipline, Unity, Work, Courage.

11:10-11:20. Animated interview with Minister of Public Health. Preliminary to taking over Portfolio of Public Health have issued decree prohibiting indiscriminate operations for adenolds on all children under 6.

12 Noon. Slight touch of fatigue. Have assumed personal charge of three more portfolios and received four more American visitors. It may yet become a question of either cutting down the number of Cabinet positions or number of American callers. Two of the four apparently too impressed to ask for message to people of United Statee. Other two more thoughtful. I wrote for one, Courage, Unity, Work, Discipline, and for the other, Work, Discipline, Courage, Unity.

1 P. M. Delivered brief speech from balcony to frenzied audience defying British Empire, Greece, Poland, Norway and Sweden, Spain incinding the Balearic Islands and the Canaries, and all of Asia lying south of 24 degrees 30 minutes.

2 P. M. An hour of personal correspondence. Addressed letters of warm greeting to Austen Chamberlain, Kondylis, Pilsudski, Primo de Rivera, &c. Interrupted by necessity of taking personal charge of Departments of War, Navy, Commerce, University of Bologna, Cadet Corps, Milan Opera, Academy of Ancient Inscriptions and Chairmanship of Boy Scouts.

2:15. American visitor entered without being announced. Said he must catch train for Florence in ten minutes and was he right in assuming that my greetings to American people could be summed up in four words, Work, Unity, Courage, Discipline? I thanked him in the name of my people and of all Western civilization and expressed hope he would not miss his train.

Wicked Old Men.

To those advocates of international goodwill who feel convinced that in popular control of foreign affairs and the abolition of secret diplomacy lies the cure for war may be commended the following letter from the President of Harvard to the President of Princeton:

> You can imagine how humiliated we feel here by tha action of The Lampoon. The policy of not censoring undergraduate publications is, I believe, in the long run right, but it is subject occasionally to breaches of propriety.

If, now, we chance to read of black and orange airplanes dropping shells on the Widener Library, and if a Crimson mob from West Forty-fourth Street charges down Fifth Avenue and wrecks the clubhouse on East Thirty-ninth Street, we might pause long enough to wonder how things might have gone if Mr. Lowell and Mr. Hibben had been allowed to go off in a room by themselves and practice a bit of secret diplomacy.

In a Nutshell.

The tax refund proposition as brought forward by the President and amended by nearly everybody else in Washington is, as a matter of fact, quite simple. It is a question whether the taxpayer shall receive a rebate of 12 per cent. on his 1925 taxes payable in 1926 and equivalent to a refund of 48 per cent on the last quarterly instalment still due; or whether the 12 per cent. rebate on hts 1925 taxes payable in 1926 shall be credited to him on the first instalment of his 1926 taxes payable in March, 1927; or whether the rate on his 1926 taxes payable in 1927 shall be so adjusted as to be equivalent to a rebate of 12 per cent. on his 1925 taxes payable in 1926; or whether the taxpayer, feeling that his first duty to his family is to keep himself from going insane, would prefer to let the United Statee Treasury keep the money.

The Week.

Car unloadings established a new record during the last fortnight, with the progress of Queen Marie's special train through the Northwest. . . . Sir Thomas Beecham intends to settle in the United States, where he finds musical intelligence on a far higher plane than in Great Britain. . . . Mr. Osbert Sitwell intends to produce his new play in the United States, where the drama stands on a far higher plane than in England. . . . European finance ministers are devoting much thought to America, where the gold reserve stands on a far higher plane than on the Continent. . . . Readers are complaining that the Hall-Mills case is more than a crime; it is a bore. . . . Harvard and Princeton being both open to new engagements, it is rumored that an offer may come from Mr. C. C. Pyle. . . . If, in the case of feminine visitors to the United States, Red be accepted as synonymous with blonde, then it may be stated that Secretary Kellogg does not prefer them. . . . Heavy rains in New York State have completed the discomfiture of the Anti-Saloon League by filling up the Ashokan Reservoir.

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

His Insistence on Precise Form of Amendments Likened to Wilson's.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When President Wilson came home from Europe with the Versailles Peace Treaty he stated that it should be ratified without change—prohibiting even the omission of a "t" or the dotting of an "i." To his insistence upon this point was largely attributed the opposition to the treaty terms which culminated in its rejection by the Senate.

The recent Geneva conference of the League of Nations practically adopted the Senate amendments required for its adherence to the World Court. The President stated in his Kansas City address that he will not resubmit the matter to the Senate if its precise form of amendment is not met by the other nations. Is not this another insistence upon the crossing of "t's" and the dotting of "i's"?

The President says this nation did not profit from the war. Is this not rather specious pleading? Does not the prosperity of the war and did not the two and one-half years period prior to our participation surfeit us with war profits to such an extent that we were enabled (perhaps compelled by the exigencies of tax provisions) to so quickly extend our productive facilities that we have largely increased our export trade to the consequent hurt of some of our allies?

The President is reported to have stated that under no other flag are those who have served their country held in such high appreciation, Comparing the extraordinary material prosperity of the United States with the condition of its war time allies, is such a statement quite true to Canada, to France and to Great Britain?

The eternal vaunting of our superior idealism, wisdom and prosperity is hardly conducive to that "understanding, goodwill, and friendly relations between ourselves and all other people" for which the President so strongly appeals.

THE RAVAGES OF SMALLPOX.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just received a letter from H. Anderson, Secretary of the Citizens' Medical Reference Bureau, dated Nov. 8, 1926, and published Nov. 6.

I beg leave to counter with the following statement which I take from the "Statistics of Notifiable Diseases" for 1925 gathered in 114 countries by the Health Organization of the League of Nations.

I find the number of cases of smallpox in the United States for the seven years from 1919 to 1925 given as 408,630, the number of deaths not being stated. Even granting that the percentage of deaths was very small, there were at least 350,000 even more cases in which the victims were made repulsive for life by the pitting of their faces and handicapped in both business and social relations. In addition to this a very considerable number of cases have been blinded for life.

When vaccination is so simple and safe, for many millions have been vaccinated without a death, why not prevent this horrible disfigurement and disability that weighs on the minds of these persons as much as upon their bodies?

Chile, Cuba, British Guiana, the Panama Canal Zone, Peru, Porto Rico, Uraguay, in 1925, reported a total of only two cases in all of these eight countries. The only deaths reported were in Peru.

Some of these countries we deem much less civilized than ourselves, but the record shows that in the matter of the protection of public health they are much more civilized than we. W. W. KEEN.

CREATING A JOB.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Some years ago during a business depression, I passed by two workingmen who were discussing the economic situation and I heard one of them say that there no jobs are to be had a man must create a job. We often hear truth as we go along the street, and I think that that workingman uttered a truth of some magnitude.

The unskilled worker has the advantage of being able to perform work which is most in demand, for most of the world's work consists of manual and mechanical tasks which an able-bodied man of ordinary intelligence can perform with special training beyond a few simple instructions, and a little practice. On the other hand, the unskilled worker is at a disadvantage when compared with skilled workers in that he has more competition to face.

To secure a job the unskilled worker should apply to the foreman bright and early in the morning before the whistle blows. In large industrial plants where are always leaving or being discharged and the man who is persistent is likely to get a job before long. If he cannot get a job this way, then let him create a job. Let him think up something. There is always work of some kind for a determined, willing, courageous and capable man.

ANOTHER LINCOLN VOTER.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We have here in our election district a man, Arthur Van Benschoten, who cast his first vote for Lincoln, and since then has never missed a vote. We, his neighbors, are very proud of this record and consider it worthy of note.

FROM THESE FOUR WALLS.

You will go out from these four silent walls
Unto another place. You will go out
And tread a long wayfaring way alone
With no more burden than a pilgrim's cloak,
And no more guerdon than a shepherd's crook.
You will go out from these four silent walls
Unto a distant hill where other dawns
Will veil the nights with silver. Other noons
Will garment you with blessing.
If that day
Shall be a thousand thousand years away
These four walls will remember.
Should they be
Dust unto dust, the unencumbered space
Will not forget you. And above the place
New stars will listen, saying in their hearts,
"One has passed here with singing, long ago."
Your tears and laughter and your very breath,
The very heating of your spirit's wings
Shall be a blessing on the silence here.
When you have been a thousand years away.

BISHOP M. J. HOBAN, MINERS' FRIEND, DIES

Was Head of the Scranton Catholic Diocese for Last Thirty Years.

COMMENDED ON WAR WORK

Helped the Anthracite Workers on Several Occasions to Reach Agreements With Operators.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 13 (AP).—The Right Rev. Michael J. Hoban, Bishop of the Scranton Catholic Diocese for the last thirty years, died of pneumonia tonight at the age of 73. Earlier in the night more than a score of priests and nuns had gathered at his bedside and offered prayer when physicians said he could not recover. Besides them, three sisters and two brothers were at the bedside when death came. The Bishop was stricken last Sunday while at church.

Work for the Miners.

Bishop Hoban gained wide prominence because of his activities in behalf of the anthracite miners. He frequently was called upon by them for advice in their disputes with the operators, being credited with bringing about agreements several times, most of them favorable to the miners. The Bishop also was an active worker with citizens of the anthracite region in Scranton and other places of the mine-cave menace.

During the World War Bishop Hoban appealed to the people of his diocese to give all possible assistance to the Government. He encouraged his priests to aid the men in service. As a result of his appeals, the Scranton diocese was the first in the United States to contribute its quota of Catholic chaplains for war service. For this he was commended by the War and Navy Departments.

His Advance in Priesthood.

Bishop Hoban was born in Waterloo, N. Y., on June 6, 1853, the son of Patrick and Bridget Hannigan Hoban. When he was a boy his parents moved to Wayne County, Pa. At the age of 18 he was sent to St. Francis Xavier College, New York, and a year later to Holy Cross College, where he studied for three years. After finishing his college course at Fordham he studied at St. Charles's Seminary, Philadelphia, and then was sent to the American College in Rome, where he completed his theological course in 1880. He was ordained to the priesthood on May 22 of that year by Cardinal Monaco la Valetta.

Returning to America, he served various churches in Pennsylvania for sixteen years. In March, 1896, he was consecrated by Cardinal Satolli as titular Bishop of Alalis and appointed coadjutor Bishop of Scranton, with right of succession. He became head of the diocese on the death of Bishop O'Hara in 1899.

Bishop Hoban was a trustee of several hospitals and other institutions and a member of the executive committee of the Red Cross. He was a personal friend of President Roosevelt.

Other obituary notices are printed on Page 28, Section One.

FRANK—Minnie Leah. In memory of our dearly beloved mother, who passed away Nov. 13, 1925.
Today recalls the memory
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And those who think of her today
Are the ones who loved her best.
She will never be forgotten,
Though on earth she is no more,
But in memory will be with us
As she always was before.
HER LOVING SONS AND DAUGHTERS.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Generally End Lower, After Irregularity—Sterling and Francs Hold Firm.

None of the markets ended the week in any particularly impressive way. Prices on the Stock Exchange, after a brief period of irregularity, in which efforts were made to occasion sudden advances in some scattered shares, drifted slowly downward. The day ended with a pretty general but unimportant decline. Cotton declined a fraction, notwithstanding a highly favorable monthly "consumption statement." Sterling and the franc, both of which were watched closely for week-end developments, hardly moved.

Sterling, however, closed in the neighborhood of $4.84¾, holding nearly all of its very substantial recovery from the $4.84 price of only ten days ago, which was virtually London's gold export point. It now looks as if the higher level would be retained, although possibly the efforts of various kinds, made to sustain the rate during the trying period of early Autumn, may prevent a rise of the usual proportions after the turn of the year. The franc ended about at the rate of the preceding Saturday, but far above any other week-end price since early Summer.

It is growing continually more difficult to foreshadow its probable movement. The buying of francs which began with the retreat of speculators from their ill-judged "bear position" was last week greatly extended, first by the selling of sterling and dollars previously hoarded by French individuals and next by purchase of remittances to bring home expatriated French capital. For the scope of the last-named movement there are wide possibilities; yet at some point the Treasury and the Bank of France are likely to act aggressively for the restraint of a rise which is already confusing French trade calculations. Something may depend on the "stabilization point" which the French Ministry has in mind. This was lately thought to be 150 francs to the pound sterling; but the Paris market's rate on Friday was 145½, and a still lower stabilization rate is possible.

The day's declines on the Stock Exchange were most noteworthy in shares which had advanced rapidly during the week. This indicated the character of the week's trading, which was mostly professional. But the stock market as a whole has in reality been drifting since it found that political results had no bearing on financial sentiment, and the increasing ease in money has been an effect of reduced speculative activity rather than a cause for speculative revival.

The report on last month's takings from our cotton crop by home and foreign spinners, published yesterday, was highly interesting. Purchases for home consumption, although slightly less than in September, were the largest ever made in the month of October. Exports during the month were not quite up to those of the same month in 1925, but that was because the buying of our cotton for other countries reached a year ago almost unprecedented magnitude. In actual fact, the 1,369,820 bales shipped out last month had been exceeded in the cotton trade's past history only by the 1,421,482 of the preceding October, by the 1,372,205 of January, 1915, and the 1,501,701 in February of the same year.

It will not be overlooked that those enormous foreign takings of 1915 came in immediate sequence to the fall of cotton's price to 7¼ cents a pound in the "war panic," when exports seemed to be blockaded and the largest American crop ever harvested up to that time was coming to market. The orders were placed at the moment when the South believed itself to be ruined. A few months later, and the 1915 home consumption of cotton had increased at a similar rate over all preceding years. There is little doubt that the coming season's experience will be similar. Even in the three completed months of the "cotton year," the sum of home takings and exports has footed up 239,000 bales more than in the corresponding period a year ago, when Europe was actively replenishing stocks almost exhausted in the period of short cotton crops.

GOLD MONEY BASIS FOR MORE NATIONS

Movements of Exchange Rates Viewed as Indications of Currency Restoration.

EFFECTS ON WORLD TRADE

Charges Against Commerce Reduced and Stabilized and Dumping of Goods Regulated.

Movements in the foreign exchange market last week indicated to many financial authorities that important additions soon are to be made to the imposing list of nations now operating under the gold standard. Denmark already has announced her intention of resuming gold payments on Jan. 1 and Norway is expected to take similar action. Japan's currency now is less than ⅝ of a cent below par, having advanced almost 8 cents in the last year. Discussion is widespread as to the likelihood of France and Italy following the course of Belgium, which stabilized her currency last month with the assistance of a $100,000,000 international loan and a private banking credit.

The greatest impetus toward the gold standard was contained in Great Britain's resumption in April, 1925, with the help of $300,000,000 of American credits, although this was antedated by about six months by the inauguration of the Dawes plan and the reorganization of German finances.

In addition to Great Britain and her Dominions and Germany, the countries now functioning under a gold or gold-exchange basis include Holland, Sweden, Austria, Hungary and several of the South American nations.

Exchange as an Indicator.

While resumption of gold payments is primarily a question of the balancing of national budgets, currency reform and industrial readjustments, such a movement usually is reflected clearly in the foreign exchange market. The movement of rates in the past has forecast Government policies correctly.

Norwegian currency has furnished one of the strongest recent movements. At the close of the market yesterday the krone was quoted at 25.03 cents, its par value being 26.80 cents. This quotation compares with 20.20 cents at this time last year. Denmark's big rise came last year, but its rate has held at the high levels this year also. The Danish unit at the close of the week was quoted at 26.64 cents, as against a parity of 26.80 cents. The Japanese yen, which a year ago in its progress toward recovery from the earthquake was quoted at less than 42 cents, closed last week at 49¼ cents. The par of the yen is 49.80 cents. At the close of the week the French franc ruled at a trifle more than 3.30 cents and the Italian lira at 4.15 cents, while the Belgian franc was steady at its new stabilized value of 2.78 cents.

Interesting discussions have arisen over the question as to the course of business after all the great countries of the world have returned to the gold standard. The first great advantage of such a condition would be a more orderly basis of trade and a saving in charges. At present, exporters, importers, manufacturers, farmers and others concerned with world trade are forced in many cases to set aside special reserves for exchange contingencies in arranging international business deals. It is estimated that if world-wide stable currencies could be achieved a present charge of from 3 to 5 per cent. against international trade would be effected. Such a condition would encourage future commitments and enable a business man to figure more intelligently on his course over a period of months.

Cheap Money and Dumping.

Much has been said regarding the ability of a country with a depreciated currency to "dump" its export products in world markets by undercutting prices and the readjustments that would be necessary if general stabilization were to be effected. It is a fact that in many cases domestic business interests have protested vigorously when a country's exchange has advanced too rapidly, and Governments have taken precautions against trade disorganization due to sudden appreciations in currencies.

It is generally believed, however, that these factors have been exaggerated somewhat. A foreign exchange authority said yesterday that the advantages in export trade of a depreciated currency were for the most part temporary. If a country's currency depreciated to a sufficient degree to get export business on a price basis alone, this condition usually was reflected in an offsetting rise in domestic wages and prices and all the evils of inflation. It was pointed out that when the reorganization of Germany was undertaken, one of the first requirements was to restore exports, which had fallen away despite the collapse of the old German mark, simply because Germany was not in a position to trade with the rest of the world.

Last week's strength in sterling exchange was considered one of the most important world endorsements of the gold standard. The sterling rate rose above the British gold export point, and many believe it will not be necessary to ship gold from London to New York this year, despite the extraordinary drain that has resulted from the coal strike, coming on top of the usual Autumn pressure on sterling. The manner in which the Bank of England has been able to maintain its gold holdings despite the great handicape has increased confidence in gold countries throughout the world.

NEW DOMESTIC SECURITIES.

Total of $13,642,252 in Municipal and State Bonds This Week.

A slight decline is noted in the total of State and municipal financing scheduled for this week, the aggregate offerings of fifty-two communities being $13,642,252, as against a total of $15,566,483 for last week. Among the leading issues to be offered this week are $2,400,000 for San Francisco, Cal.; $1,164,000 for Passaic, N. J., and $1,000,000 for the State of Alabama.

The following table, compiled by The Bond Buyer, shows the more important items scheduled for the week:

GOOD AND BAD POINTS IN AUSTRIAN SITUATION

European Bank Finds Financial Situation Favorable, but With Many Economic Handicaps.

The Swiss Bank Corporation of Zurich, reviewing in its monthly bulletin the economic position of Austria, points out that "Austria now has a sound currency, and for nearly four years the exchange has been steady, while the position of the National Bank has been consolidated to such an extent as to enable it to exercise independently the necessary control over the currency and exchange. The stability of the currency providing a sound basis for public finance, the ordinary budget has been made to balance, and a portion at least of the necessary capital expenditure on public works can now be met out of ordinary revenue. The service of the reconstruction loan is covered several times over by pledged receipts, and Government finance is subject to a system of strict supervision."

On the other hand, "the high level of taxation is a serious drag on economic progress, while the control of rents and their maintenance upon a basis of pre-war standards robs owners of city property of the greater part of their return from their investment and makes the restoration of a market in city mortgages impossible. The exaggerated size, in comparison with the area of the whole country, of Vienna—the main centre of industrial activity—still presents a serious difficulty, for the old Austrian monarchy found its best market at home, and was in a large degree self-supporting. Under the new conditions Austria must look for markets abroad, and the Succession States felt obliged to erect tariff walls, which soon rose to a prohibitive level.

"Thus, while the restoration of the Austrian national finances may now be considered complete, the economic reconstruction of the country is still only in its initial stages. The results hitherto achieved, however, notably such favorable factors as the re-establishment of sound currency and the reinstatement of a properlyequipped national bank, should greatly facilitate the restoration of economic conditions in general."

CZECH BANK LOOKS FOR INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY

Helped by British Coal Strike—Continued Improvement in Country's Trade Predicted.

Reviewing Autumn conditions in the Czechslovakian market, the Anglo-Czechoslovakian Bank of Prague states in its monthly report that "business on the Prague Stock Exchange revived somewhat after the holiday season, though the fluctuations on the Berlin, Vienna and Budapest bourses were not without influence on the quotations. The most noteworthy feature was a sustained rise in coal shares, due to the large increase in exports of coal during the month, the output in August being about 30 per cent. higher than in July. This improvement is not only due to a larger home demand, but chiefly to the long duration of the coal strike in England.

"Iron shares also profited from the movement, as the majority of the 'ig works have their own coal mines. Although great interest was shown in the formation of the Inter-Continental Iron Cartel, this was not sufficient to send up iron stocks, because the form of Czechoslovakia's ultimate participation remains largely a matter of conjecture.

"The official returns of foreign trade for August, 1926, give the total value of exports as 1,362,813,562 crowns and of imports as 920,101,450 crowns, leaving a favorable trade balance of 442,712,112 crowns. In the corresponding month last year the favorable trade balance was only 8,000,000 crowns. The large difference is attributable to an increase in exports and a simultaneous decline of imports, which is partly due to the prevalent depression in certain branches of industry, notably in textiles.

"For the first eight months of 1926 there is a favorable trade balance of 1,009,847,561 crowns, compared with 1,412,763,362 crowns for the corresponding period of 1925. With an average development of trade in the Autumn months it may be expected that the returns for the year will not lag far behind those of 1925."

DUTCH MARKET DOUBTS EUROPEAN POSITION

Uncertain Over Financial Reconstruction—Strike's After-Effects Will Be Bad.

The financial review of the Amsterdamsche Bank of Amsterdam calls attention to the reaction of unfavorable conditions elsewhere in Europe on the Dutch market. It says that "Germany's keen efforts to make her exports amply pay for her imports is a case in point. The effect of the wall of tariffs formed in order to achieve this end, with the ensuing handicap to Holland's trade with the neighbor on her eastern border, evinces itself in the Dutch foreign trade returns. Though French and Belgian currencies manifested a certain degree of stability practically throughout the third quarter of 1926, it would be premature to state that a firm foundation underlies the financial reconstructions of these countries; consequently the possibility of intense competition looms upon us.

"Though some sections of the community in Holland may be experiencing advantage from the British coal strike—mainly the colliery and shipping companies—a conflict such as is now being waged in England cannot fail to bring unfavorable consequences in its train.

"Despite the retarding factors at work, there has been a certain amount of amelioration in the general position in Holland. Although various branches of industry are still booking orders at prices which yield little or no margin of profit and which are being accepted solely to keep the organization intact, the number of such unremunerative engagements appears to be on the decline. The unemploymnt returns too, are a clear indication of an improvement in the state of affairs met with last year and more especially some years ago."

Collateral Bankers' Loans.

Collateral Bankers, Inc., announce total loans of $679,644 in October, against $363,969 in October, 1925, and $173,681 in October, 1924. Operating profits, after expenses, reserves and cost of credit insurance, were $53,840 in October, against $21,368 in October, 1925, and $13,999 in October, 1924.

COOLIDGE GETS PLEA ON FOREIGN CEMENT

International Co. Head Gives Figures on Growing Use of Product Made Abroad.

SEES PROSPERITY HURT

10,000,000 Barrels Imported Since 1920, With Loss of $29,000,000 to Industry Here, Statement Says.

The growing use of foreign-made cement and other bulk commodities, produced abroad by low-priced labor, threatens to become a serious deterrent to American prosperity, according to a statement sent to President Coolidge yesterday by H. Struckmann, President of the International Cement Corporation. Mr. Struckmann pointed out that since 1920 this country has consumed 10,000,000 barrels of foreign-made cement, with a resultant loss to American industry of $29,000,000.

Of this loss the cement industry suffered to the extent of $16,315,600, the largest single item of which is wages and salaries. The coal industry lost $1,462,500; power companies, $1,700,000; and the railroads, $7,182,400.

"Approximately 50 per cent. of the total quantity of imported cement comes from Belgium," Mr. Struckmann's statement read in part.

"Cement mill labor in Belgium gets the equivalent of 90 cents, gold, a day. American cement is made by men receiving five times as much, that is, $4.50 a day. Cheap labor, together with low cost fuel, the principal items in the cost of cement manufacture, has resulted in the production of large quantities of foreign-made cement for export. A great deal more cement is produced in Europe than is required for local consumption, and low canal tolls from inland points in Belgium, France and Germany, together with cheap ocean freights to this country, enable the foreign manufacturer to undersell the American producers.

"The statement is sometimes made that by purchasing the foreign-made product we are indirectly helping Europe get back on her feet. It is important for Americans to understand, however, that we cannot help Europe by hurting American business. The net result of that attitude would ultimately mean just one thing, reducing our living standards to the level of theirs. That, in effect, is what is being done when we send $29,000,000 worth of American prosperity abroad in exchange for 10,000,000 barrels of foreign cement."

In speaking of the losses to the various branches of industry, Mr. Struckman declared:

"All this definitely affects prosperity. It may not have been noticed while things were zooming along at record-breaking levels, particularly in the construction industries. But it will mean better business for American industry as a whole if the cement-consuming industries remember that in reality it is their own customers who are hit every time they buy foreign-made cement. Since 1920 those who have purchased foreign-made cement made a 'saving' of from 15 cents to 30 cents a barrel; but that 'saving' actually cost America $29,000,000 worth of prosperity. The same conditions apply to other heavy commodities, such as pig iron, iron and steel products, brick, glass and the like, which are being imported in large quantities. If the present trend continues it will mean a veritable flood of these products and a real menace to our prosperity. We Americans must learn in time the paramount importance of keeping our money working at home."

JAPAN AGAIN SHIPPING $2,000,000 GOLD HERE

Part of Movement to Restore Yen to Par and Return Currency to Gold Basis.

Gold valued at $2,000,000 was shipped from Japan for the United States on the steamship Korea Maru yesterday, the Japanese Financial Commission here was informed by cable. The shipment is part of a movement that was started on Oct. 15 with the transfer of $2,000,000 of gold and is in line with the Japanese Government's activities in support of its exchange rates in foreign markets.

The yen has been supported strongly recently and yesterday was quoted at 49⅝ cents, which was less than ⅜ of a cent below par. Speculation in the yen has been active on the theory that the rate this year would cross par. This would be one of the important preliminaries to Japan's return to the gold standard, and it is expected that the question of gold resumption will be brought up when the Japanese Parliament convenes next month. The principal political parties in Japan are committed to a return to gold, the only issue being the choice of a suitable time for the operation. The yen now is almost 8 cents above the level that prevailed at this time last year.

PARIS STOCK MARKETS.

State Bonds Lower—Advance in Sterling and Dollar.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Prices were steady on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 5 centimes lower, at 49 francs 95 centimes; 5 per cent. war loan, 80 centimes lower, at 58 francs 50 centimes.

Exchange on London, 2 francs higher, at 147 francs 50 centimes. The American dollar was quoted at 30 francs 39 centimes, against 29 francs 76 centimes yesterday.

Banham to Study Bank Act.

W. J. Banham, President of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, yesterday named Samuel S. Conover, President of the Fidelity Trust Company, as Chairman of a committee to study the McFadden National Bank act with a view to report to Congress on the measure. The committee is to report to the trade body on Dec. 8. This action follows a speech by Representative McFadden, Chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency, before the Board of Trade.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Movement of prices on the Stock Exchange yesterday reflected a feeling of nervousness which Wall Street found it difficult to explain. A number of representative stocks displayed pronounced strength and the undertone of the market was described as favorable, but there were periods of selling which tended to unsettle the list. The close was weak. Heavy selling of General Motors tended to depress other sections of the market, particularly in the industrial group. United States Steel common was also under pressure, showing a net loss of ⅞ point.

A Retreat of "Shorts."

A savage campaign against the "shorts" in the motor shares lent interest to the first hour of trading on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday. Hudson Motors, in which a "bear group" has been especially active of late, seemed to be the focal point for the drive. This stock was run up from 44 to 47, closing at 45⅝ for a net gain of 1⅝ points. William C. Durant, whose name always impresses the speculative fraternity, was reported to be liquidating his holdings in Baldwin Locomotive and switching to Hudson.

Why Sterling Has Recovered.

The advance in sterling from the $4.84 of Nov. 4 to $4.84¾ last week created particular interest, first because it followed predictions that sterling would be forced down further through the making of postponed payments for England's purchases from America, and second because it coincided with the most unfavorable monthly foreign trade report made by Great Britain at this time of the year since 1920. The exchange market was disposed to ascribe the rise to the expected settlement of the coal strike. But to that theory it was objected that, since sterling had at no time been visibly depressed because of the strike, it was hardly reasonable to expect strong reflection even on the strike's termination. The belief gained ground toward the close of the week that the normal end-of-the-year recovery in sterling was being witnessed. Last year sterling touched its low price of $4.83⅝ on Oct. 1, but recovered to $4.84¼ at the end of November, to $4.84⅝ at the year-end and to $4.86⅛ in January. Even in 1924, before the resumption of gold payments, the rate advanced from the low point of $4.41⅞ on Sept. 8 to $4.60½ in the middle of November, $4.73½ at the end of the year and $4.80 in January.

Discounting a du Pont Extra.

The advance in the du Pont shares yesterday, while not sustained, was sufficently impressive at times to convince Wall Street that the company's share in the recent extra disbursement by General Motors will be passed along to its own stockholders tomorrow. The du Pont holdings in General Motors amount to about 25 per cent. and, calculated on this basis, its portion of the Motors "melon" would warrant the payment of an extra of about $3 a share. This, it seemed to be generally understood, will be the distribution ordered on Monday.

Competition for New Securities.

The extraordinarily good demand for investment securities of all sorts, coupled with the ease of the money market and the bareness of dealers' shelves, has led to what has been described in Wall Street as a veritable scramble for the best of the new security business in sight. In one case this week, where there was competitive bidding, no less than six groups submitted proposals and the swing between the highest bid and the lowest was very narrow. In other words, many bankers prefer to do business on a narrow margin of profit if they can be assured of securities which will fit in with their needs and which will serve to keep their staffs intact. Incidentally, very elaborate plans are being made for end of the year inquiry for first-class securities.

In the Hands of the Gods.

The request of the 89,000 conductors and trainmen for a twenty per cent. increase in wages, which would involve an advance of $38,000,000 annually in the payroll of the Eastern carriers, has been argued by both sides and now rests with the Board of Arbitration for decision. According to the agreement to arbitrate, decision must be rendered within forty-five days from the beginning of the hearings on Oct. 28. This makes the final date December 12.

Probable Cotton "Carry-over."

Along with the recovery of half a cent a pound in cotton prices from the recent low price, there was a good deal of figuring last week on the probable carry-over of cotton at the end of the present cotton year, next July. The Hester estimate of the carry-over last July was 5,362,000 bales, which was the highest since 1922. If the crop were to be as large as the last estimate and consumption no greater, then the carry-over at the end of the current fiscal year would be 7,100,000. Nobody in the cotton trade believed this to be probable, however, in view of the large increase that has already occurred in consumption on the basis of present low prices. From the crop picked in 1920, which encountered the "deflation movement," there were carried over at the end of the next July 9,364,000 bales; yet at the end of the next cotton year the carry-over was a normal 4,904,000 and in July of 1923 it was 2,573,000. The carry-over from the huge crop picked in 1914, the cotton panic season, was 5,629,000 bales, but consumption increased so rapidly that, although fairly large crops were picked in the next two years, the carry-over was reduced to 3,735,000 in July, 1916, and to 2,765,000 at the same date in 1917.

Future of Railway Traffic.

The reaching of a high record for loadings of railway freight in the last week of October, that being the latest date at which the year's maximum has ever been attained, drew general attention to the question, how long the forward movement will continue. General expectation was that November and December will show the progressive decrease usual in those months, but that increase over 1925 will still be shown, with next year possibly also showing such increase. Attention was called to the official figures of total annual tonnage carried on the railways in past years as showing that the two years of unbroken increase which have occurred are a short period for increase in prosperous times. The reports showed that in the trade revival after 1898, the total annual freight movement increased continuously during nearly ten years. After the decrease in 1908, the year following the great panic, an unbroken increase occurred in the next five years and on each of these occasions all previous records were surpassed early in the forward movement. Since the war there has been a decrease in annual tonnage during 1919, an increase in 1920, a decrease in 1921, an increase in the two years 1922 and 1923, a decrease in 1924 and an increase after that.

Last Week's Movements of Gold.

Imports of gold last week, as reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, were $86,000, and exports were $132,000. The exports went chiefly to Mexico and Germany.

TARIFF MANIFESTO AND U. S. TRADE

French Commercial Attache Holds Bankers' Principles True for America.

NO NATION SELF-SUFFICIENT

Natural Conditions Will Prevail, He Argues—Thinks International Cooperation Best.

The manifesto regarding European tariffs recently endorsed by bankers throughout the world is as true in its application to the United States as it is for Europe, when the economic laws upon which it is based are considered, says Barthélemi Lachelier, Acting French Commercial Attaché to the United States. This can be understood readily, he asserts, if the trade relationship between France and the United States be taken as an example.

"France depends upon the United States for the supply of raw materials essential to her industry, mainly cereals, lard, oil, copper, and also machinery of all kinds," M. Lachelier argues. "The total of this trade in 1925 represented more than 6,000,000,000 francs and continues to grow steadily. The United States is the greatest source of supply for France and stands far ahead of Great Britain and Belgium.

"On the other hand, France exports to this country manufactured goods of all kinds, especially de luxe articles well known and appreciated by the American people. In 1924 the value of French exports to this country exceeded 3,000,000,000 francs, thus making the United States the fourth largest market for French goods. Textiles, chemical products, leather goods, perfumes and novelties are the chief imports here from France.

Natural Conditions to Prevail.

"There have been great efforts made in Europe and this country to denationalize production. By this is meant to render the nations more self-sufficient toward each other, but it is quite evident that natural conditions will prevail and that each country always will be in a better condition than the other to produce certain goods or products of better quality and cheaper prices.

"There is no doubt that in Europe the tariff barriers raised by every country are very serious obstacles and hindrances to their trade. The recent agreement signed by the metallurgists of Germany, France, Belgium and Luxemburg proves the importance of complementary relations and the interest of international cooperation, which, in most cases, brings better results than competition.

"It does not seem to me that the economic principles which are considered as a sound policy for Europe by the international bankers should not also be good for the United States.

"It is true that this country, by its natural resources, its area and its population, has a very outstanding position in world trade and in many ways is self-sufficient. It is also true that the standard of living of the American people is much higher than that of Europeans. This is due to the abundance of wealth, the intensity of American work, the enterprising spirit apparent here and the excellent organization or system of production. However, it is evident that the United States depends upon foreign markets—first, for the supply of raw materials essential to its economic life, these being mainly rubber, coffee, fertilizers, shellac, iodine and the like; second, for the export of her raw materials, such as cotton, oil, cereals, ores of various kinds, and, third, for the export of automobiles, cash registers, agricultural machines and typewriters.

Change Made by World War.

"The United States, which fundamentally was a country exporting raw material, has been influenced greatly by the situation created by the World War and now transforms more and more of these raw materials into manufactured articles for export. It is, of course, difficult to calculate the point of saturation of this market, whose consumption increases steadily but whose production, however, seems to increase faster, thus requiring American industry to dispose of a surplus abroad.

"In France, industry and trade have been helped somewhat by the depreciation of the currency, which has acted as a stimulant to foreign trade, but we return steadily to normal conditions, and in order to prevent an economical crisis we shall have to depend more on our exports. If we need the cotton, cereals and machinery of the United States, the American people will need also those articles and goods in the manufacturing and production of which France always has excelled. These exchanges of goods will help to our restoration, and they will increase the power of consumption of the country, consequently increasing French purchases from the United States."

CHAIN STORE SALES ATTAIN HIGH RECORD

$454,638,240 Is Gross for Ten Leading Systems in Ten Months of This Year.

12.9% INCREASE OVER 1925

October Gross Sales of $60,081,701 Are Rise of 9.48%—Penney Leads in Dollar Gain.

Indicating the general prosperity throughout the country, the sales of ten leading chain store systems increased in the aggregate 9.48 per cent. in October over October, 1925, and 12.9 per cent. in the January-October period over 1925. Rainy weather adversely affected chain store sales during September, according to executives, but more favorable weather set in with the opening of October, and business consequently increased.

The ten leading systems of the country had aggregate sales in October of $60,081,701, as compared with $54,875,850 in October, 1925. The ten months' figure for these systems, $454,638,240, was a new high record for any ten-month period in history. The sales were $402,401,634 in the similar period of 1925.

The J. C. Penney Company led all other systems in point of dollar gain during the ten months, with an increase of $17,756,687. The largest percentage gain for this period was shown by Neisner Brothers, one of the smaller chains, with an increase of 61.3 per cent. In October F. W. Woolworth had the largest dollar gain, the increase being $1,825,097, while Neisner Brothers again scored the highest percentage gain with 68.5 per cent.

The following table shows the sales and percentage increase for October this year over the same month last year:

October Sales.	1926	Per Cent. Increase.
F. W. Woolworth	$24,800,934	7.9

I. C. C. SOON TO CLOSE INQUIRY INTO ST. PAUL

Recommendation Expected That Railroads in Trouble Ask Commissioners' Advice.

The prolonged investigation by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the affairs leading to the receivership of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway will end on Dec. 10 in Washington, when oral argument will be heard by the commission. P. W. Dynes, General Solicitor of the St. Paul, will make the plea in behalf of the road. Actual taking of testimony in the case will end in Chicago this week.

The most recent hearing was in Seattle, but only one witness testified. Railroad men generally are agreed that no flagrant misuse of power by the St. Paul's officials or directors has been revealed. They expect that the major point in the commission's report will be a recommendation that in future railroads in financial distress keep in close touch with the commission and ask for its aid before voluntarily going under direction of the court.

It would also not surprise Wall Street if the commission, as a result of the investigation, recommended that railroad directors, instead of maintaining a detached attitude from the property, actually sought to direct it and concern themselves regarding its welfare. The current practice is for them to select a President and then leave matters entirely in his hands. The testimony of certain directors of the St. Paul indicated that they knew little about the road.

After the St. Paul is sold at auction on Nov. 22 confirmation of the successful bid for the property will come before the Federal Court in Chicago on Dec. 13. After the court has acted the new company will find it necessary to apply to the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue the new securities provided in its reorganization plan. When the commission hands down a decision, lifting of the receivership will be imminent and the St. Paul will be well on its way toward private operation.

URGES DESTROYING CANCELED CHECKS

Bundles Tossed Away Intact Can Be Bought by Forgers Here, Says Credit Monthly.

NO MECHANICAL SAFEGUARD

$100,000,000 Is Lost Annually, It Estimates, by Manipulation of Such Business Paper.

More than $100,000,000 is lost annually to American business through manipulated checks, according to the current issue of Credit Monthly, official publication of the National Association of Credit Men. The article says that particularly large losses result through failure to destroy canceled checks.

"One general and most dangerous practice is that of saving canceled checks and vouchers for a period of years and then throwing them away intact," says the review. "Today one may purchase such checks for a few cents a pound from New York dealers in waste paper. These are manna from the sky to the criminal. They give him the signature of the person who signs the checks, the banks drawn upon, names of firms and individuals to which the checks are made out and, in brief, every essential detail.

"Against forgery, which is more rare than generally is supposed, there is of course no mechanical means of protection. One may insure against losses through forgery, but one cannot prevent the tracing or copying of one's signature. Care, however, may be exercised in signing receipts, letters and other papers. Many business men have adopted the method of using one form of signature for these purposes and another for signing checks.

"A check may apparently be certified and be in reality worthless paper. False certification stamps may be bought or made for a few cents. When checks are for deposit they should be marked 'for deposit only,' with signature as endorsement. The organization that delivers payrolls in armored cars and sends unprotected checks throughout the country is anachronistic."

8% AND SAFETY

We offer 8% First Mortgage Real Estate Bonds, secured by first mortgages on improved, well-located properties. We make no loans for over 50% of a conservative appraisal of the property, and we confine our operations to St. Petersburg and Pinellas County, Florida.

Our appraisals are made by a committee consisting of T. A. Chancellor, C. W. Springstead and R. H. Thomas, President, Vice President and Director, respectively, of the First National Bank of St. Petersburg, and Paul F. Skinner, President of the St. Petersburg Bond and Mortgage Company, a majority of whom have been making real estate loans in St. Petersburg for over twenty years. We guarantee the payment of principal and interest, and can do this because of the conservative manner in which our business is conducted.

Write us today, and when your inquiry reaches us no salesman will be sent to visit you, as we have none. We desire to cooperate with you directly. Because we employ no salesmen, have a small overhead and make only conservative loans on the best located properties, you can secure the high interest rate of 8% with safety by placing your money to work through us.

TRADERS AWAITING COAL STRIKE'S END

Cotton and Wheat Markets to Be Affected by Release of Ocean Tonnage.

EFFECTS WILL BE DELAYED

Grain in Position to Suffer From Arrival of Products From Southern Hemisphere.

The close of last week found wheat and cotton traders directing their attention to the imminent settlement of the British coal strike. This industrial conflict, by creating an abnormal demand for ocean tonnage, has caused effects in the American wheat and cotton trades almost as important as those which have resulted in the American coal trade. Moreover, the effects on trading in the two agricultural commodities appear to have been paradoxically opposite.

Coal, wheat and cotton have been the commodities most affected by the British strike. While at one time it was thought that lack of coal would make it necessary for British steel producers to relinquish some of their export markets to American interests, apparently this development has failed to materialize. If the British have had to withdraw from some markets, it would seem that Continental producers have taken their place.

Judged by recent market developments, settlement of the British coal strike may have opposite effects on the cotton and wheat markets. In the former market news of an approaching settlement has served to strengthen prices, whereas, last week the wheat market declined on the news. In explanation it was pointed out that the receipt of adequate coal supplies by British cotton spinners would enable them to go on full time and increase cotton consumption and that relief in the ocean tonnage shortage would aid in moving the large supplies of cotton now stored here.

Wheat's Situation Different.

The situation in wheat, however, is said to be different. It is argued that buying of American wheat by Europeans has been held to a minimum as a result of high freight rates and that the prospect of rate relief will cause Europeans further to curtail immediate purchases here.

The situation hinges on the fact that within a few months crops in the Argentine and Australia will be coming on the market. As a result, it is said that knowing American wheat will soon be available at lower freight rates Europeans will hold off purchases until the outcome of the Southern Hemisphere's harvests becomes known.

In other words, settlement of the British coal strike appears to be due at the time when Europeans are turning their eyes toward the southern hemisphere for grain supplies. High rates have ruled in the period when they should have been buying North American grain and they are expected to decline at about the time when southern hemisphere grain is entering world markets.

There is no shortage of cotton in England now. Lack of coal has forced mills to close down, and the supplies in that country are considered sufficient to last some time after the mills resume full production. Foreign buying of the present crop has been large, but it has been mostly for future delivery. However, the volume of orders has been such as to cause an accumulation of cotton at ports and a cry for more tonnage from southern shippers. Settlement of the strike would stimulate demand for cotton in England at the same time that it would act to relieve the situation in ocean freight rates.

Future of Ocean Freights.

It is generally agreed that two months must elapse after settlement of the strike before there will be any substantial effect on ocean freight rates. Bullish wheat traders even go so far as to say that, having at last put rates where they want them, steamship interests will do all in their power to keep them there. However, one large coal exporter said the possibility of a settlement of the strike already had resulted in lower quotations for future shipments.

While the requirements of contracts and the time it would require the British coal industry to attempt to catch up with domestic demand will act to maintain the movement of American coal eastward for at least two months after the settlement of the strike. It is inevitable that from that point onward the boom in the American coal industry will wane. British coal producers will begin to regain lost export coal markets where recent increases in American miners' wages make it difficult for American interests to retain a foothold.

Meanwhile, however, American coal producers are prosperous. The situation of last year, when British coal came here in response to strike difficulties in the United States has been reversed.

Railroads that have shown favorable reports of earnings from carrying American coal to the seaboards will face a diminution in revenue when the British strike is settled.

What the effect of strike settlement will be on American and foreign shipping is another interesting question. Since the coal strike began, ocean rates on cotton have advanced from fifty cents to $1 per 100 pounds and rates on wheat have advanced from around nine cents a bushel to from twenty-five to thirty cents a bushel. In other words, the shipping industry has had its first taste of prosperity since the war. On its ability to maintain rates somewhat commensurate with present levels will largely depend its future prosperity.

THE WEEK AT COPPER MINES

Active Work at North Butte and Anaconda to Be Resumed.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—According to advices received from the management of the North Butte Mining Company active work on its east side property will commence before the end of November. After pump columns and underground machinery are installed it is planned to tap, on the 2,200-foot level, the ore bodies encountered east of the Continental fault on the 2,000-foot level.

Due to the breaking of the main shaft of the hoisting engine at the Leonard Mine of the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, hoisting at that shaft will be discontinued until necessary repairs have been made.

Vice President J. R. Hobbins announced that the Anaconda Mine proper, which has been undergoing extensive repairs, will be reopened immediately and most of the crew of the Leonard will be employed at the Anaconda property. The regular production of the company will be maintained, according to Mr. Hobbins.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

List Rules Steady in Quiet Session—Chinese Currencies Up With Silver.

No very wide changes occurred in yesterday's dealings in the foreign exchanges, quotations as a rule holding firmly around Friday's levels in a quiet session. Sterling at its best improved ⅛ cent to $4.84 11/16, but later lost that fraction at a close at $4.84 9/16, unchanged. French francs lost half a point, at 3.30¼ cents, while the lira sagged 3 points to 4.12¼ cents.

Scandinavians, Swiss, German, Holland and Spanish were uniformly steady. The Chinese currencies continued strong, in keeping with the rise in silver which has gone on here and in London over the last week. In the South Americans, the Brazilian milreis established a new low at 13 cents, but in the other documents rates were all maintained.

ADVANCE CONTINUED BY UNLISTED STOCKS

Various Factors in Business and Financial Worlds Seen as Cause.

BUOYANCY IN BANK SHARES

Industrial and Public Utility Groups Also Influenced—Saturday's Gains.

Several constructive factors occurring in the business and financial world last week resulted in the maintenance of a strong and optimistic trend on the over-the-counter market throughout the week. Among these factors were an unexpected favorable turn to the tax outlook, a further report of record car loadings, a higher average of wholesale commodity prices, and some improvement in the outlook for the building industry.

The increase in dividends by Standard Bank and Chelsea Exchange, together with rumors of extra payments by Public National and National Bank of Commerce, served to keep the bank stocks group decidedly buoyant.

In the industrial section persistent inquiries resulted in gradually advancing prices in several issues, including United States Finishing, Industrial Finance, Poole Engineering, Scoville Manufacturing, Elliott Fisher, National Fuel Gas and Singer Manufacturing. Sentiment everywhere was favorable toward public utility stocks, and there was an improved demand, although little progress in price improvement.

A feature of yesterday's short session was a 3-point advance by United States Trucking preferred to a new high point on the movement. United States Finishing and Industrial continued the upward trend of the week, rising to new high ground on the current upturn. Bank shares maintained a firm tone, several issues demonstrating moderate price improvement. In the realty and surety group, Realty Associates moved up several points.

LESS FLAXSEED REPORTED.

Government Estimate Places Crop at 18,779,000 Bushels.

Prospect of an increase in paint prices has resulted from the issuance yesterday of the Department of Agriculture's report of the flaxseed crop of this year. This estimated the crop at 18,779,000 bushels, or about 3,250,000 bushels less than that of last year.

Dockage has been relatively high, and early frosts and poor weather have made the average quality of the crop the lowest in fifteen years. The Canadian report, also released yesterday, displayed the same tendency, pointing a crop half a million bushels smaller than that of last year.

Gains in Freshman's Sales.

The Charles Freshman Company, Inc., reports net sales for October of $1,482,913, an increase of 15 per cent. over sales of $1,290,174 in October, 1925. Net sales from June 1 to Oct. 31 increased 38 per cent. from the same period last year.

RAILROADS SEEKING MORE PASSENGERS

Officials Believe Automobile Is Losing Attractiveness for Travelers.

NEW COMFORT PROPOSED

Lower Fares and Excursion Rates Considered but Not Found to Be Profitable.

One of the principal problems of the railways continues to be that of making passenger service more attractive. Passenger traffic officials agree that the novelty of cross-country trips in automobiles, which for a time seriously detracted from railroad patronage, is wearing off and that if the railroads will add comforts and conveniences not obtainable in the automobile they will do a larger passenger business.

It is conceded generally also that the railroads should cooperate with the "Save to Travel" movement. Thirty-six railroads are now members of the "Save to Travel Association" and others are willing to cooperate with banks in a movement to popularize the slogan "Open a vacation travel account in your bank."

Reduction in fares has been suggested as a means to stimulate short-haul traffic, but a difference of opinion due to officials' different experience with week-end excursions has prevented its general adoption. Some officials report that these excursions are unprofitable. The statement has been made that reduction in the fare on round trip tickets causes a decrease in one-way sales, while at the same time there is a decrease in revenue.

"Compared with the whole," says L. A. Batterman, general passenger agent of the Wabash, "it is seldom that the Wabash finds justification for the operation of special trains, and as the most attractive centres on the road for excursions are places like Chicago, Detroit and St. Louis, we avail ourselves of regular service with additional equipment. Of course, this sometimes necessitates additional sections. From experience extending over a period of years, a constant scrutiny is necessary in connection with these excursions.

"The Wabash operated 349 excursions in 1926, which is an increase of 38.5 per cent. over 1925. The road's revenue increased 8.6 per cent., while our total passenger revenue shows an increase of only 0.11 per cent., or approximately the same as last year. In 1926 we operated a total special train mileage of 13,009 miles, which is 7.8 per cent. of the total mileage used in handling special excursion business."

There is doubt as to whether the use of the rail motor cars will regain the lost traffic which now uses buses and private automobiles. It is agreed, however, that these cars justify their use by cutting down the cost of operation per mile.

Experience of some roads shows that innovations in equipment attract attention. Both the Baltimore & Ohio and the Louisville & Nashville report satisfactory results from the use of cars of other than standard design. Advertising to induce rail travel has been discussed and it has been shown that $13,644,355, or 1.3 per cent., of the total passenger revenue of all railroads was spent in 1925 for that purpose. Joint advertising by two or more roads of the same rate to the same point has been advocated.

CURB MARKET STEADY DESPITE PROFIT-TAKING

Reaction Follows Early Period of Activity, but New High Points Are Reached.

After an early period of strength, prices of stocks on the Curb Market became easier yesterday, due to profit-taking for over the week-end, but in the main the list closed steady with good price gains in many representative securities.

Standard Oil of Indiana continued as an outstanding strong feature. The stock sold up to 66 for a gain of a sizable fraction, the best price reached since early in the year. There were reports of developments beneficial to stockholders, but these were not confirmed officially. Movements in other Standard Oil shares were steady and trading was fairly active. South American oils again turned in the largest sale totals in the independent oil section, and Cities Service common continued to lead the domestic stocks by again entering new high ground for the year. The 6 per cent. bonds of the company also sold at top figures for the year.

Industrials became irregular after the first-hour steadiness. The ratio of fluctuations, however, was within the point area for the majority of stocks with a few high-priced issues spreading their range several points, mostly on the decline.

Bond dealings tapered off and there was a mixture of quotations. Youngstown Steel and Tube 6s sold for the first time at 104. The most active obligation in the foreign section was Berlin Elevated 6½s, which ran up to 95½.

Rearranges Life Insurance.

The George A. Fuller Company has re-arranged its group life insurance program which was adopted in November, 1920, in order to increase its employes' protection. More than 145 members of the company's office personnel are now covered for approximately $450,000.

WARNS BRITISH MINERS OF PERMANENT LOSSES

Argentine Railway Chairman Declares Trade Disputes Drive Fuel-Consumers to Oil.

At the recent general meeting of the Argentine Great Western Railway Company in London, the Chairman, the Rt. Hon. Viscount St. Davids discussed with great frankness the aftereffects of the British coal strike as judged by railroads which have been large consumers of British coal. He said to the shareholders:

"Perhaps you will allow me to wind up with just a word on the subject of fuel. On the 'Pacific' line we are at the present time using coal; we are using coal, not only on the 'Pacific,' but also on the Argentine Great Western, naturally, as our system is included in the 'Pacific.' At the meeting of the 'Pacific' the other day, I warned people in England that the management of the 'Pacific' would very shortly have to consider the question of changing permanently from coal to oil, because of the coal troubles in England, and because of oil developments in Argentine. The two things go hand in hand—development on one side and continuous troubles on the other.

"Since then, I may say that I have had another warning on that subject. The manager of a railway in Venezuela, with which I am connected, has written home and pointed out to the board that the oil industry is developing rapidly in Venezuela and that they can rely upon getting oil; he says that the troubles and difficulties—the almost continuous troubles and difficulties—in the English coal trade make it almost impossible for them to continue to use coal fuel any longer. That has come from an Englishman abroad—the manager of a property—who would like to use British products if he could.

"If the people in the coal trade on both sides here who spend their time in wrangling cannot learn the lesson in this it is a great misfortune to the country. Some of this coal trade has gone for good, and more of it is going also. That is the position."

Delco-Light Sales Increase.

Sales of electric light and power plants and water systems by the Delco-Light Company, a subsidiary of General Motors, in October were 12 per cent. greater than those of October, 1925, E. G. Biechler, President and General Manager, reports. More water systems were shipped in the first ten months of 1926, he said, than in the entire year of 1925, which was the best year in the company's history.

ELECTRICAL TRADE SURVEY.

Heavy Equipment in Less Demand, but More Calls for Appliances.

Although sales of heavy equipment in the electrical industry have fallen off in the last week the demand for appliances has increased. The Electrical World reports. The utility demand for medium-sized transformers, meters and pole-line materials continues steady in most sections. Industrial purchases of equipment are spotty.

"Many electric specialties are gaining in attention in the New England district," the periodical states. "High-tension sub-station switching equipment is active in the Southeast. Utility purchases are fairly active in the Middle West with the new construction also absorbing supplies at a healthy rate. Good-sized shipments of ranges have been made to southwest Missouri, where favorable concessions have been made on rates for energy used in cooking. Diversified industrial buying featured operations on the Pacific Coast."

Individual Debits Account Shows Gain Over the Five Days of Election Day Week

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Debits to individual accounts, as reported to the Federal Reserve Board by banks in leading cities for the week ending Nov. 10 aggregated $12,120,000,000, or 5.1 per cent. above the total of $11,530,000,000 reported for the preceding week, which included only five business days in most of the reporting centres.

Total debits for the week under review are $451,000,000, or 3.6 per cent. below those for the week ending Nov. 11, 1925, likewise a five-day week in many reporting centres.

New York City reports a reduction of $1,003,000,000; Boston, $44,000,000; Detroit, $22,000,000, and Buffalo, $21,000,000.

The largest increases reported were: Chicago, $200,000,000; Los Angeles, $53,000,000; Philadelphia, $41,000,000; San Francisco, $32,000,000, and St. Louis, $26,000,000.

Aggregate debits for 141 centres for which figures have been published weekly since January, 1919, amounted to $11,338,616,000, as compared with $10,788,964,000 for the preceding week and $11,878,534,000 for the week ending Nov. 11, 1925.
